Pelham grants license

by Bert Seaman

After three tries, Pelham lounge owner Jim Ryan finally succeeded in getting the Pelham Council to approve a retail liquor license.

The action on the license was taken during a brief meeting Monday at which the council's first woman member was sworn in.

Beverly Hall voted in favor of the license along with Councilmen Ray Hamilton and Ken Maynard. Bob Cleveland and Willard Payne were opposed.

Although he has had reservations about the lounge since Ryan first approached the council for a license, Maynard made the motion for approval.

It was Ryan's persistence as much as anything else that prompted him to make the motion, Maynard noted. The letters of recommendation submitted by Ryan, along with his willingness to discuss his plans for improving the business, also influenced his decision, Maynard said.

Ryan was denied the license at a previous council meeting when Hamilton moved that the license be granted.

Saying he was for the free enterprise system, Hamilton pointed out the lounge could be closed if the business was not conducted properly.

But the lounge owner didn't give up his efforts to win the council's confidence.

He continued to insist Monday that he would have a nice place and that the objectionable activities that took place when the lounge was the Coo Coo's Nest would not continue.

He also repeated his intentions of enlarging the interior of the building as well as the parking area.

Questioned by Maynard about a nearby drainage ditch, Ryan said he plans to fill it in as soon as the other work is completed. He estimated it would be about six months before he got to it.

After swearing in the new council member, City Clerk Willie Mae Dennis noted that Hall is the 30th person she has sworn into office.

"Hooray for women!" Dennis exclaimed as she placed the new name plate on the council table in front of the first woman member.

Hall will serve until October 1984, when the term expires. She was appointed to replace John Tanner after his election to the state legislature.

Suit may challenge annexation

Angry citizens of the 1982 annexed area of Alabaster are taking their complaints to court.

John Sarris, one of the disgruntled citizens, is leading a move to prove the recent annexation was illegal.

According to his attorney, Carl Johnston, the suit challenges an act under which the annexation election was held.

The basis for the challlenge is that the bill did not comply with Section 106 of the Alabama Constitution That law states that when a piece of local legislation is introduced for consideration by the legislature, a notice must be published in the local newspaper -- which it was.

The terms of this notice cannot be changed or the bill becomes defective.

However, Sarris contends that because the geographic description of the city of Alabaster substantially differs from that initially enacted, the bill is invalid.

Johnston said they hope to submit the lawsuit as soon as they get "needed materials assembled.

Criminals do time

As the old year ended, law enforcement authorities still had no clues on the disappearance of two people suspected of being victims of foul play.

Guy Kirby of Alabaster dropped from sight in 1975 and Ann Cadle of Montevallo has been missing since 1981.

However, police and the courts have succeeded in putting a number of perpetrators of violent crimes in jail.

•Otis Chapman was sentenced to life without parole last month for robbing a Columbiana woman. A co-defendant, Philip Mixon, was sentenced to 10 years.

•Michael Skinner was sentenced to life for first degree escape. He had previously received two 20 year sentences for robbery and kidnapping.

•In a related case, Joseph Skinner received sentences of 10 years for each of two charges.

•After being convicted of attempted murder in a beating case, Billy Joe Nabors was sentenced to 25 years.

•Eugene Cross was sentenced to five years for attempted murder in a shotgun shooting case.

•Ricky Melvin Dates was sentenced to 10 years for robbery, three years for criminal mischief and one year for escape.

•Larry Ray pled guilty to manslaughter in the shooting death of his brother. He served four months of a two year suspended sentence and was put on probation for five years.

•Billy Glen Edmond pled guilty to three counts of sexual abuse and received a three year sentence.

•Robert Manley pled guilty to violation of the Alabama uniform controlled substances act by possessing 250 pounds of marijuana. His sentence was three years.

Cases still pending include:

•Ester Cutts, charged with manslaughter in the death of her newborn infant

•Steverson R. Clayton, charged with the rape and robbery of an Inverness woman

•Gerald Lawley, charged with the murder of Malcolm McRae

•Michael Jerome Steele, charged with the kidnapping, rape, and robbery of a Birmingham school teacher.

1983: Year in review

The county commission and chairman Tommy Snowden consider locations in Pelham and Alabaster for the long-proposed license branch office to the courthouse. The commission approves Myra Davis as administrative assistant after Mildred Ray leaves her post as the last commission clerk.

Snowden and commissioners John Ames and Archer take the county's dire financial straits to Shelby Medical Center where they ask for and get $450,000 in the form of a 'contract' for health related services. Such temporary financial relief is sought again before the year ends, sparking a lawsuit.

MARCH

True to form, the month roars in, with most of the roaring coming from Calera and educatio circles.

"...We are to far ahead for him to caught up. We are works to fast for him..." Thus goes a note to a parent from a Thompson Elementary teacher which is published in the Reporter. Principal Leslie Harrison responds that the teacher wrote the note too quickly to have it proofed for errors before being sent home. Judging from letters to the editor, many readers are incensed by both note and response, while others are bothered by a lack of appreciation for teachers.

Led by Columbiana resident Wayne Sikes, charges against SCHS principal Don Bulger and three school employees are filed with the State Ethics Commission. The charges against Pat Bulger -- which she calls 'ridiculous' -- are dismissed by the end of the month.

Charges against Juanita Lightsey end up being dismissed and bus driver Edwina Jones later resigns. Bulger is eventually cited for using a school pickup, but by the time the issue is resolved in May, other charges against him have been reduced to a list of recommendations from the county board of education.

The Calera council and mayor Carl Prichard come to odds over control of the park board. A freeze is put on capital expenses. When the volunteer rescue squad is denied requested money for a used vehicle on March 8, its members stage a walkout. Councilman Roy Hadaway resigns.

Three days later the unit's demand is met, but added demands for better housing and the right to answer calls outside the city cause further repercussions.

Two weeks later, as money for the truck is approved and the spending freeze is lifted, councilman Doug Lesueur resigns. A suggestion that the rescue unit shares the firehall fires up volunteer firemen. The uproar continues into April.

Meanwhile, the county commission votes 'to study' a proposal to invest some $7,500 in setting up a high-tech research park off US 280, and Westinghouse in Montevallo announces its closing after 30 years. Jefferson County eventually lands the proposed high-tech park, and an outside firm buys Westinghouse.

Jack van Pelt, along with the rest of the state's hospital planning board, is fired by Gov. George Wallace, who stacks the deck his way and puts up in the air the still lingering question of who'll get to build a hospital on US 280.

Adding to March's roar, 70 mph winds down power lines, the annual horse racing bill is advertised in the newspaper, and the first of two zoning elections is called for US 280's Beat 13.

Police harassment ends in Helena, and the county finally chooses Pelham over Alabaster for its branch office.

APRIL

Weather continues to make the news as farmers and economists worry about the spring being too wet and too cold.

Arthur Davis and Mark Jones are now on the Calera council, and by the month's end a plan to renovate the old rescue unit's facility irons out some problems. However, the touchy question of answering fire and rescue calls outside the city is still simmering.

The circuit court orders Hall to move his trucking firm, and even after UM builds a baffle around its wood chip burner, Cardinal Crest residents are still angry about the noise.

Wilsonville and Calera High jump out to an early lead in the Reporter's Great Computer Giveaway Contest. Calera Elementary makes a strong showing for second, but Wilsonville's 109% participation in subscription sales wins it the computer.

Standing in a flooded Attention Home, director Brenda Lee says it's time to find a new facility.

Columbiana councilwoman Jessie Jones says it is time for a sewer and applies for a grant. A Reporter investigation of Columbiana's water personnel and system points out problems both real and potential.

The county wants to crack down on city issued industrial bonds, and establish commercial building permits and inspections. A proposed airport authority is put on hold, and Snowden introduces the idea of the county going to its fourth new computer system in a dozen years.

MAY

The county agrees to take bids on a new computer system, but does not act on a grant that's apparently available for airport expansion after Harold Davenport asks how one builds a runway in a swamp.

The proposed airport authority draws anti-aircraft flak from a 300-name petition presented by Bill Knowles. Problems also arise in complete bids for the computer because of the July 1 deadline established to accommodate the new branch office.

As it works out, the county has twice the machine anyone even realized in its present Burroughs system. Snowden puts Archer and Davenport on the job of trying to get the county's money's worth out of the Burroughs.

Alabaster's annexation -- passed the year before by a 505-245 vote -- gets Justice Department approval, but zoning in Beat 13 falls to a 35-56 vote.

Rescue workers and volunteers find a 100-year old Wilton woman lost in the woods, and Oak Mountain Estate residents find they have bad sewage problems. Pelham eventually turns down the residents' request for sewer expansion into the subdivision. Dog racing dies again.

Principal Mary Roach retires from Thompson Middle after 40 years in education.

Speculation stirs about who will run for the court ordered elections, when they will be held, and just where the heck all the new district lines are.

No sewer means animal deaths

by Bert Seaman

Every day workers at the Shelby County Humane Society look out the window of their cramped quarters at their new building -- but they can't move in.

The building is finished, except for a few minor details and one major detail -- there is no sewer.

"It's so frustrating," declares Humane Society Director Anne Speakman.

She points out that the delay in opening the new shelter means that animals have to be put to sleep needlessly because there isn't enough space to keep them in the present facility.

"There's room for 100 animals next door," Speakman reported, "but we can only keep 30 here."

The new building was to have been occupied this spring after the county had put in a sewer line.

Since the highway department was not able to get to the project, Harbert Construction volunteered to do the work.

However, a change in work schedules also forced the firm to withdraw from the project. Now the county is tied up again replacing washed out bridges.

The cold weather added to the frustration of Humane Society employees when the pipes in the old building burst.

Besides having to haul water, Speakman said workers had to crawl under the building to remove spilled sewage.

Although 325 animals were adopted during the year and 83 pets returned to 'lost' owners, 2,549 homeless animals still had to be put to sleep.

The percentage of animals adopted -- 10.98% -- is slightly better than the national average of 10% despite the fact most societies count even the animals not considered adoptable, Speakman explained.

Besides the usual dogs and cats that are picked up and brought in, the shelter this year has also housed a virtual zoo -- opossums, ducks, pigs, raccoons, deer, rabbits, bats, a snake, goat, burro, pony and a 50 lb. turtle.

According to the director, $2,300 worth of pipe for the sewer line is ready to be installed along with $1,100 worth of manholes, $500 worth of rings and covers and the necessary gravel.

Now that the county can't move on installing the sewer line, Speakman said the shelter is back to square one.

"We may have to go to a septic tank in order to get into the building," she said.

The sewer line was supposed to have been done this month.

New baby

Eric Luvell Silas of Montevallo was the first baby born at Shelby Medical Center this year. He arrived at 2:03 a.m. Jan. 1. However, Eric wasn't up to having his picture taken Tuesday, so 3 year old Haley Hogan filled in. Haley got her own baby Tuesday after her brother Cameron arrived.

Westover FD strives to solve daytime calls

by Carolyn Smiley

Westover Volunteer Fire chief Pete Patmalnee is starting the new year by looking for a solution to manpower shortages for daytime fires.

Patmalnee said the Westover department has been having a "bad problem" handling calls during the day because it has no one to rely on to answer these calls.

Since the volunteers are employed elsewhere -- many of them outside the immediate area -- difficulties have risen in contacting them in an emergency.

When emergencies have arisen, the Chelsea Volunteer Fire Department has stepped in to assist. Chelsea chief Vern Craig said that although the CVFD's first obligation is to their own area, it is willing to help as much as it can, whenever it can.

Craig described Westover's difficulties as a "tough situation".

In an effort to solve the problem, Patmalnee said, the Westover group is trying to reorganize so it can fill its daytime response void.

"Ideally, we would be able to pay someone to work during the day, but we just don't have the funding," he said, adding appreciation to Chelsea for the "world of help" it has given.

Palmalnee said that Westover was available for mutual aid to any neighboring department if the need arose.

He said he sees promise for the future in plans for two completely equipped trucks and work to be done on the building.

"We've had some very good support from the community," he said.

911 number leads to confusion

the 911 service, emergency business is given on a rotating basis to Hank's and to other services located there.

Since Shelby County has said it does not want the service, does not pay for the service, and provides no input, there is no rotation.

Upon billing Shelby County $5,704 on March 24, 1980, Randle said his office received a reply, "Shelby County does not participate in the 911 program. -- Mildred Ray, commission clerk."

John House of the Birmingham Regional Emergency Medical Service System (BREMSS) echoed Randle. It is possible that the 911 dispatchers don't know what services are available in Shelby County if they have not been notified, he said.

"I've been in service for ten and a half years and I don't have to notify anybody," was the reply from Billy Price of Central Shelby Ambulance Service to the question of notification.

"He (Hank) is the one who came here and caused all the problems. Before he moved down here 911 called me," He said. "I notify 911 that I am in service, but I don't notify Hank Tyler about anything."

Price added that the new north Shelby ambulance provided him by SMC has been in operation since November 1983 and has made 73 emergency calls.

What about Jimmy Gill of Harpersville? Did he notify Hank's?

"No I never made a first call...," Gill said." He (Hank's) definitely knew we had an ambulance in Columbiana and Harpersville. I've dealt with him before and I saw him at the hospital meetings."

So do you call 911 for local ambulance service or not?

"I would never say don't call 911," said Randle of the Birmingham Civil Defense. "It works here in Jefferson County and it could work down there just as easy. The solution is to support the program."

House of BREMSS offers another answer.

"I would suggest that to prevent a lot of unnecessary ambulance bills that people call the local providers first."

Local providers include paid and volunteer fire department paramedics and rescue squads. "Each area has that first up unit that knows what's needed," House said.

He stressed that these professionals should be called first and that they be allowed to make the final decision.

Still, Tyler of Hank's Ambulance Service sees it this way.

"If a 911 request is given to Hank's dispatcher and we know a closer service, we will give that request to that service because our first concern is patient care."

Trade restraints

amounts to a restraint of trade, because Hank's has been left to struggle on its own and it has not received equal support.

SMC administrator Roland Bradford sees things differently.

"We consulted with our attorney and the State of Alabama to see what was legal. Our board sifted through both proposals (Hank's versus Central Shelby/Harpersville Ambulance Serive) and sifted through them to be sure we couldn't be accused of restraint of trade."

Bradford said that he did not want to leave anyone out, but the SMC board of directors made the decision as to which proposal was best.

"I feel that the decision was fair, forthright and above board," Bradford added.

Editorial comment

Be prepared

There is an obvious problem with communications in an critical area -- ambulance service. Call 911? Call the sheriff? Call the Boy Scouts?

In light of the confusion that has surfaced, we think it's time the county government made it the life or death priority it is, and provide the citizenry with a 24-hour, central emergency operator. There's no point in having ambulances trip over each other, and no point in someone suffering for lack of service.

Either establish a system strictly for the county, join in the 911 effort and have all county emergency services listed, or fund the sheriff's office and help it push for an apparently needed frequency. (The sheriff could temporarily add Hank's to his dispatch list until the matter is resolved.)

In the meantime -- like the Boy Scouts -- we suggest that you be prepared. Know the phone number of your nearest rescue unit and call it first. Know the sheriff's number, and fire numbers. Know them all -- before it's too late.

1983: The year in review

JUNE

School lets out, but work by principal Elizabeth Smith and construction crews is going full speed to have Inverness Elementary completed by fall.

Reporter research shows that 59% of the county's grads are seeking college entrance, as compared to 37% statewide. Also, CAT exams results show county students scoring higher than both the state and national averages.

After being charged with contempt of court, Hall moves his trucks.

A local bill establishing commercial building permits and inspections sails through the senate with backing by Spencer Bachus. It draws strong opposition at a public hearing and is eventually blocked by realtor and representative Don Murphy. Bill backer John Ames charges that Murphy has a conflict of interest.

After estimates for a new computer are placed at $600,000, compared to $457,000 over five years with the old Burroughs, the county decides against replacement. The county also turns down SMC's request for co-sponsorship of two ambulances to improve emergency services, but finally names members to the proposed airport authority.

Pelham came under attack for the controversial rezoning of 26 acres on Helena Road owned by Steve Russo. The rezoning took place in a 'public meeting' in one room, while area residents waited in the council chambers to protest. A strong public outcry led to the setting of a new meeting.

The Albert L. Scott Library opens in Alabaster, plans for the massive Riverchase Galleria are announced, and armadillos begin crawling into Shelby County.

JULY

New school superintendent Ellie Glasscox says in a Reporter interview that he'll tackle morale and be accessible to the public. The board names Randy McDonald as new TMS principal, prompting a law suit by a first accepted, then rejected Charlotte Lusco.

Graduates add a slight upswing to unemployment figures which had been falling since January. Housing starts for the month jump from 34 in 1982, to 97 for the corresponding month in '83.

George Dailey sets in motion a proposal to divide Montevallo into districts to help ensure black representation on the council.

Pelham axes Oak Mountain Estate's request for sewer service, and in Pelham Plaza, the county opens its long awaited branch office but limits it to the providing hunting, fishing, marriage, and drivers licenses.

After getting an opinion from the attorney general, Calera expands fire and rescue services to 1.5 miles outside the city limits, on a fee basis.

Murphy is cleared by the Ethics Commission of Ames' charges of conflict of interest. Ames challenges Snowden's right to choose a bank to desposit funds from the new branch office.

AUGUST

In a widely criticized move, the State Democratic Executive Committee announces it will not hold primaries before the general elections in an effort to save money.

Inverness Elementary holds registration after school boundaries have been set, NSCFD residents get a drop in fire insurance ratings, and mayor Prichard resigns from the Calera Water Board to protest a 10% rate hike.

Twelve-year old Bo Hall of Wilton saves his mother's and sister's lives after their car plunges into Mahan Creek, and a thrifty Harpersville council plunks down cash for an 8.3-acre park.

The proposed 400-acre Southlake development on Valleydale Road draws a concerned crowd of 250 residents to a county planning and zoning commission meeting. The project is tabled until September it when sails through the commission.

As school nears starting day, the state announces that seven new kindergarten classes will be available here, sending schools and teachers scurrying to ready for 140 new students.

Montevallo residents respond favorably to the task force's survey. Half the respondents favor a sales tax. The city gets a $295,000 grant for housing needs and Columbiana lands its sewer grant for $240,000.

Meanwhile, a statewide drought and 106 degree temperatures are cooking the county's farms.

SEPTEMBER

The heat wave continues into September, causing concern for students in unairconditioned schools. Parents at Shelby Elementary protest the split of a class of 13 second graders, caused when enrollment figures cause the school to lose one teacher.

Wilsonville successfully annexes Sunrise but voters turn down Columbiana's efforts to take in a 20 square mile area.

With at least one illegal vote cast, zoning was again rejected in Beat 13 -- this time by a 61-60 margin.

Montevallo orders a district voting map for the town. By the end of November city elections will never be quite the same again as the council approves the district map.

The county begins hashing out its budget for the year which will end up being $8 million -- one million more than 1982-83. The county again turns an eye to SMC's tax take. The attorney general tells Snowden he can pick the bank he wants for branch office deposits.

The fair comes to the county, lost and chilled hikers are rescued at Oak Mountain, and one and two at a time candidates begin signing up for the legislative races.

OCTOBER Deviner asks the Helena council for districting so that blacks there can be elected to the council. The argument is made that the town is too small to divide. The request goes nowhere.

One stop car tag buying goes into effect in the courthouse, causing much confusion on both sides of the counter on opening day. Commissioner Archer says not enough time was given to training, and the employees will have to be retrained as the county upgrades its computer.

The SDEC handpicks Frank 'Butch' Ellis, Sonny Moore, and John Tanner, who will run against Republicans Don Murphy, Jim Entrekin, and Al Knight, respectively. After not receiving the Democratic appointment, Ed Gentry announces he's running as an Independent.

The Attention Homes gropes for funding as crowds grope for a place in line at the food giveaways. The county agrees to give the home $10,000 on the condition that it gets the local municipalities to chip in. Russo sues Pelham over his zoning denial.

The elections draw some attention from citizens, and $8,330 worth of overpayments to the board of registrars draws attention from state auditors. The audit charges former registrars Doris Turner and S.M. Mahan, plus registrar J.T. Spates. The audit also names Snowden as improperly paying the disputed sums. Collecting the overpayments is left to district attorney Billy Hill.

NOVEMBER

The county appears to hedge on asking SMC for money, and the board of education pushes for an additional five mill property tax to raise $1.5 million for education. The tax hike will be voted on in 1984.

In extensive interviews, the Reporter makes a point of asking all candidates if they would support a legislative pay raise. Some say yes, some no, some maybe.

On November 8 county voters turn out in only a slightly higher percentage than statewide to show strong support for Ellis. Moore gets heavy competition from unsuccessful newcomer Entrekin, and Knight actually polls more votes than Tanner in Shelby County. However, Tanner's votes from district sharing Bibb County give him the election, completing a Democratic sweep.

All county legislators say they did not support the pay raise which is passed in their first day in Montgomery, and they later support bills that might help control such raises.

SMC buys two ambulances for the county without help from the commission. One is stationed in north Shelby, the other in Columbiana.

Dr. Frank Abernathy, who is later arrested on heroin charges, announces plans for Camellia Manor -- a facility for the terminally ill.

Almost miraculously, none of the 35 Haitians aboard a bus which flips over on I-65, are seriously injured.

DECEMBER

With the economy loosening, Christmas shoppers do the same with their pursestrings, and area merchants announce fast sales.

Pelham High thanks J.E. 'Ned' Bearden for the land and support he has given the school, and Vincent officials thank Clarence Gorman for land he donates for a park.

Montevallo divides into districts, zoning in Beat 12 is challenged by a law suit (again), and a private sewer system on US 280 snags on a right of way. County students exceed the average on the first statewide graduation exams.

Weather again draws big headlines as flooding and tornado type winds cause over $2 million in property damage in Shelby County.

Finally the county approves the airport authority; Vincent's city council elects Nolan Clinkscale to replace a resigned Mayor Don Greene, and Pat Roper to replace Clinkscale on the council; and the county finally approves the airport authority.

The Shelby County Tax Watch Group files suit to prevent the county from tapping further into SMC's designated tax take, also asking for an accounting and a giveback of what has already been taken; Calera goes back nearly to square one with the opening of more sewer bids; and once again the freezing cold, ice and rains came.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Things I'll do again in 1984: Write a column for the Shelby County Reporter, sponsored by the First National Bank, about the folks I live with and have lived with for almost 80 years... Pick up pecans with Herman Strong, little pecans as sweet as honey... Go bird hunting with George and Earl Foster and Irvin Davis and Bub Gordon... even if the briars and honeysuckle get neck deep to a guy on a horse...

Pick out my bananas as best I can and hope at least two out of five are fit to eat two days later... Look at the steak in the meat counter for a second or two and pretend I didn't even do that... Gather sweet potatoes in the fields in Chilton County... those just right for baking that the big folks leave in the field...

Pick peaches off the trees at Culp's Farm down Jemison way, all the way from the first of June to the middle of August... and peel 'em and slice 'em so Amy can put 'em in the freezer... Go to see Wales and Sis Wallace every Friday... because they are sort 'o special... and Lawrence and June Elliott... and Frank and Irene Johnston... and a lot of others like Hap and Dot Hatchett and Frank and Teenie Ellis every other Friday... since they are special too...

Keep visiting the ladies at Mountain View and take 'em goodies and the Upper Room... the goodies every other week and the Upper Room every other month... Fish in any lake where the water is over two inches deep and in any slough that has at least one treetop...

Go to the high school football games until the weather gets close to freezing... and then forget it until next fall when the leaves are making the world beautiful... Wear my toboggan when the wind is whistling out 'o Chelsea... and my long handles if I'm gonna be out as long as fifty-eight seconds...

Split my firewood in July and August and stack it in the shed and let the elements frolic as they please... Go on a Greyhound Tour with other folks our age and marvel at the way He made things in the mountains... Collect money for the Christmas Fund again... since it's the fun thing to do... and because it means so much to so many folks...

Somewhere, at some time this year, I'll visit another friend as nice and as lovely as Elvena Higgins who had a day Friday all her own at the First National Bank where she has worked for years.

Scrambled Eggs

You know, there's not much left that you can count on these days -- certainly not the weather!

I mean -- can you imagine thinking of 20 degree temperature as a heat wave?

But that's the way it seemed after temperatures hovered near zero not too long ago.

I kind of hated to leave the Southern climate as I jetted northward to spend Christmas with relatives.

Much to my amazement however, the weather at my destination almost duplicated what I had left.

Before I had time to pull my hat down over my ears and wrap my scarf around my neck however, the weather did a quick change.

I thought I was at the north pole as temperatures plummeted downward and snow started swirling.

When I saw scenes from back home on tv however, I decided the folks I'd left behind were getting the worst of it.

Even though there was snow on the ground where I was, I could go where I wanted to.

That wasn't the case with the family I left behind however.

"We're stuck," my son told me when I called home.

I could see what he meant as I watched tv and the frozen highways which brought traffic to a standstill.

The first order of business when we got up every day was to check the thermometer.

If it was under 10 degrees, we'd add another layer of clothing. If the thermometer registered 20 degrees, we almost went out without our coats -- almost.

But talking about not getting what you expect weatherwise, my granddaughter expected to get her fill of ice and snow in Germany.

After all, you'd expect to find snow in the Alps.

It wasn't there though.

She was all set to slide down the slopes with a new ski jacket and pants. And she even had a toboggan hat with Birmingham Ski Club written on it.

The only family member who got what they expected was my youngest daughter.

All the missing snow seemed to have ended up where she and her husband were visiting in the mid-west. And during their stay, the white stuff continued to fall and accumulate.

Before I concluded my visit, a steady rain washed away the light cover of snow, and temperatures began a slow by steady upward climb.

In fact, when I got off the plane, I had to rub my eyes before I believed I was back home.

Instead of shedding my coat, I pulled my hat over my ears and wrapped my scarf tighter around my neck.

What do I want for Christams next year -- would you believe some weather I can depend on?

The Alabama Scene

Gov. George Wallace gave the Alabama taxpayers a belated Christmas present a few days ago when he announced there would not be a special session of the Legislature in January.

Due in part to the 50 percent pay hike the lawmakers gave themselves in November, the cost of a special session has soared. The legislative payroll alone is now close to $100,000 a week, and that does not include the small army of clerical aides nor the day-to-day operational expenses.

Wallace had been under pressure to call yet another session to find ways of generating more money for the Highway Department. Higher education forces also hoped to be included in the call. They are seeking $15 million for research and development projects.

The governor's office gave no reason for the decision not to call the session. The 1984 Regular Session begins Feb. 7.

If you have wondered where the $316,000 is that Atty. Gen. Charles Graddick has paid to the U.S. District Court in fines, we will tell you --- it's on deposit with First Alabama Bank of Montgomery and drawing very substantial interest.

Graddick was fined a whopping $7,000-a-day by U.S. District Judge Robert Varner in the prison case. Judge Varner imposed the fine -- $1 a day for each prison inmate who is in a crowded cell -- because he felt Graddick was hindering efforts to reduce the prison population. Last week Varner ordered Prison Commissioner Fred Smith to begin paying half the fine.

Where will this fine money eventually go? Nobody knows, and Judge Varner isn't saying. If the state wins the court case, it would revert back to the state. If not, it conceivably could be shared by the prison inmates whose rights have been violated, or the court might order that the money be used to finance projects intended to relieve the overcrowding.

Odds and Ends --- Early speculation is that U.S. Sen. John Glenn and the Rev. Jesse Jackson loom as the favorites in the Democratic presidential preference primary slated in Alabama on March 13.

Glenn, viewed by many as the more moderate of the democratic contenders, has an active, visible organization working for him. Jackson is expected to poll a solid bloc vote from the blacks even though the Alabama Democratic Conference endorsed Walter Mondale...

The rumor persists that the name of former President Jimmy Carter is on the list of those being considered for the presidency of Auburn University. Sources who ought to know admit they have heard the talk but insist it will never happen.

"He just asked me if that was all," Jill said. There was no mention of identification.

The foreign friend who was along for the ride said he wasn't surprised at their illegal purchases.

The drinking age in his country is only 16. But, he said matter of factly, "Fifteen year olds buy it."

Editor's Note: The preceding undercover survey was undertaken to focus attention on a problem of public interest affecting the health and welfare of people in Shelby County. It was discussed with Shelby County District Attorney Billy Hill prior to its undertaking.

Selling to minors carries stiff penalties

Selling alcohol to minors is a crime. But apparently there are few complaints, and few offenders get caught.

At least that's the impression one gets from the infrequency with which the offense appears in muncipal courts in Shelby County.

In Montevallo where an undercover newspaper survey pointed up that such sales do take place, Police Chief Allen Needham said complaints were very few and he could recall no arrests during the past year.

However, Needham said, "If we catch them, we arrest them..."

"This is the type of thing you really need to have some undercover officer go in on," Needham added. "It is not a real easy thing to enforce."

According to District Court Judge Patti Smith in Columbiana, State Code §28-3A-25 provides some pretty heavy penalties for selling alcoholic beverages to minors.

Smith summarized the code as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any licensee to sell, furnish or give away alcoholic beverages to any minor or permit any minor to drink or consume any alcoholic beverage on the licensee's premises."

The penalties are from $100 to $1,000 and at the discretion of the judge may include imprisonment in the county jail at hard labor for not more than six months on the first conviction, to up to one year for three convictions.

According to Smith, after a person is found guilty and punished, the ABC Board can have his or her license revoked.

The District Judge also pointed out another provision in the state code, §16-1-10, which provides that the sale of alcoholic beverages to school children, or possessing alcoholic beverages at any public, secondary, or grade school is a felony punishable by one to three year's imprisonment.

Another action that can be school is a felony punisable by one to three years imprisonment.

Another action that can be taken against persons selling alcohol to minors, according to Smith, is a civil suit which can be brought by the parent or guardian of any minor to whom an alcoholic beverage is sold.

The civil action comes under State Code §6-5-70.

Lady Falcons reach top 20 national ranking

"I am excited," said Lessie Gaddis who prepped at Montevallo High School.

"It's great," said Ruth Perkins, another Montevallo HS product.

Those were two reactions from Lady Golden Falcons basketball players after they learned their team was ranked 19th in the nation.

The occasion marked the first time in UM history that the Lady Falcons have reached the top twenty. The team had only one prior winning season, and that came in its first year.

"This gives us national credibility," said coach Bud Childers. "Now when we go into a high school or junior college to recruit, the coaches know that we are serious about building our program into one of the best in the country."

Coach Childers turned a program that was 7-38 over the past two years into one that is capable of playing with any team in the nation, as witnessed by the 82-72 win Montevallo posted over number four ranked Alabama-Huntsville.

Montevallo lost its first two games of the season on the road to teams ranked in the top but then won its last five games to put its record at 5-2. Next up for the Golden Falcons is number ten Central Arkansas and number 20 Arkansas-Monticello.

"I feel this early season ranking is the benefit of a tough early season schedule," said Childers.

"I think that the fans that are coming out to see us are surprised," added Childers. "We fast break every chance we have and play an aggressive man-to-man defense. Unless people have seen top quality women's basketball played they don't know how exciting it really can be."

* * * * * * * * * *

When the UM Falcons basketball team (8-3) hosts the Athens State Bears (9-5) at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, January 11 it will be a big night for the Falcons and the city of Montevallo.

Local civic leaders will be on hand and will be recognized at half time of the game on Montevallo Appreciation night and free tickets will be available from Montevallo merchants.

Effective parenting taught

According to popular belief, today's parents have an increasing interest in finding more effective ways of relating to their children.

In an effort to help parents in Shelby County deal with this situation, the Shelby Teaching and Learning Center is offering a program called Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP).

The program will be offered at Valley School, beginning January 12, and continuing every Thursday evenings for nine weeks.

Registration will begin January 9 and fees will be determined on an individual basis.

Dr. Carolyn Horton and Dr. Clay Sheffield, educational psychologists for the center, describe STEP as a realistic and sensible approach to parent-child relationships.

The training sessions will emphasize better understanding of the child by the parent, helping the child build feeelings of confidence and self-worth, building better communication between the parent and child, and a method of discipline that develops responsibility.

Besides teaching programs such as STEP, Horton and Sheffield offer psychological testing, counseling, and tutoring.

They work with school children who are referred from the Alabama State Board of Education or from private referal by the Shelby and Jefferson school systems.

Speech Therapy is also offered by the Center's therapist Holly Krueger.

For more information on STEP or the Center contact Horton at 251-6357 or Valley School.

Drugs, alcohol film shown

The Pelham Public Library will sponsor the film 'Epidemic -- Kids, Drugs, and Alcohol.' It will be shown at the Crosscreek Baptist, Pelham, January 11 at 7 p.m.

Admission is free and parents are urged to attend with their children, according to librarian Mary Carver.

For further information, call the library at 663-3901.

Vincent wins Xmas tourney

The Vincent High School Yellow Jackets closed 1983 out in style when it came to basketball.

The 'Jackets both hosted and took the championship crown of the D.B. Smith Memorial Christmas Tournament played in Vincent near the end of December.

The tournament is named for the late VHS principal and town mayor.

Montevallo opened the action by losing to B.B. Comer 54-49. Vincent on the other hand whipped Chelsea like a wet noodle 76-34.

That set Chelsea up for another loss in the consolation round to the Bulldogs of Montevallo, 58-43. The win gave Montevallo third place honors.

In championship action, however, it was Vincent, this time victorious over B.B. Comer, 67-59.

Not only did the Christmas event help the Yellow Jackets up their season record to 8-2, but it allowed Bruce Hamilton to win additional honors as the tournament's most valuable player.

Other All tournament players included:

Kevin Welch and Steve Shelton of Chelsea; Terry Rutledge and Taylor Blackwell of Montevallo; Chris Spear, Anson Moon and Parish Slighe of B. B. Comer; Eric Posey and Tony Hamilton of Vincent.

TINY MISS CHRISTMAS CAROL JULIE ELLISON AND KATRINA KIRBY

MELYNDA FARRIS AND JUNIOR MISS CHRISTMAS CAROL PAIGE HORTON

Calera crowns Christmas beauties

Approximately 49 contestants entered the annual 'Little Miss Christmas Carol Pageant' at Calera High on Dec. 8.

The queens selected for each of the three categories were Julie Ellison, who was chosen as Tiny Miss Christmas Carol; Angie Godwin, this year's Little Miss Christmas Carol; and Paige Horton, the winner of the Junior Miss Christmas Carol title.

Parents of the top honor winners are Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Godwin, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Horton, respectively.

First alternate honors were given to Katrina Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kirby;

Kimberly Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Minor; and

The event is sponsored each year by the Calera varsity cheerleaders and Calera Community Education.

Melynda Farris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Farris.

Editorial comment

Be prepared

There is an obvious problem with communications in an critical area -- ambulance service. Call 911? Call the sheriff? Call the Boy Scouts?

In light of the confusion that has surfaced, we think it's time the county government made it the life or death priority it is, and provide the citizenry with a 24-hour, central emergency operator. There's no point in having ambulances trip over each other, and no point in someone suffering for lack of service.

Either establish a system strictly for the county, join in the 911 effort and have all county emergency services listed, or fund the sheriff's office and help it push for an apparently needed frequency. (The sheriff could temporarily add Hank's to his dispatch list until the matter is resolved.)

In the meantime -- like the Boy Scouts -- we suggest that you be prepared. Know the phone number of your nearest rescue unit and call it first. Know the sheriff's number, and fire numbers. Know them all -- before it's too late.

JUNE

School lets out, but work by principal Elizabeth Smith and construction crews is going full speed to have Inverness Elementary completed by fall.

Reporter research shows that 59% of the county's grads are seeking college entrance, as compared to 37% statewide. Also, CAT exams results show county students scoring higher than both the state and national averages.

After being charged with contempt of court, Hall moves his trucks.

A local bill establishing commercial building permits and inspections sails through the senate with backing by Spencer Bachus. It draws strong opposition at a public hearing and is eventually blocked by realtor and representative Don Murphy. Bill backer John Ames charges that Murphy has a conflict of interest.

After estimates for a new computer are placed at $600,000, compared to $457,000 over five years with the old Burroughs, the county decides against replacement. The county also turns down SMC's request for co-sponsorship of two ambulances to improve emergency services, but finally names members to the proposed airport authority.

Pelham came under attack for the controversial rezoning of 26 acres on Helena Road owned by Steve Russo. The rezoning took place in a 'public meeting' in one room, while area residents waited in the council chambers to protest. A strong public outcry led to the setting of a new meeting.

The Albert L. Scott Library opens in Alabaster, plans for the massive Riverchase Galleria are announced, and armadillos begin crawling into Shelby County.

JULY

New school superintendent Ellie Glasscox says in a Reporter interview that he'll tackle morale and be accessible to the public. The board names Randy McDonald as new TMS principal, prompting a law suit by a first accepted, then rejected Charlotte Lusco.

Graduates add a slight upswing to unemployment figures which had been falling since January. Housing starts for the month jump from 34 in 1982, to 97 for the corresponding month in '83.

George Dailey sets in motion a proposal to divide Montevallo into districts to help ensure black representation on the council.

Pelham axes Oak Mountain Estate's request for sewer service, and in Pelham Plaza, the county opens its long awaited branch office but limits it to the providing hunting, fishing, marriage, and drivers licenses.

After getting an opinion from the attorney general, Calera expands fire and rescue services to 1.5 miles outside the city limits, on a fee basis.

Murphy is cleared by the Ethics Commission of Ames' charges of conflict of interest. Ames challenges Snowden's right to choose a bank to desposit funds from the new branch office.

AUGUST

In a widely criticized move, the State Democratic Executive Committee announces it will not hold primaries before the general elections in an effort to save money.

Inverness Elementary holds registration after school boundaries have been set, NSCFD residents get a drop in fire insurance ratings, and mayor Prichard resigns from the Calera Water Board to protest a 10% rate hike.

Twelve-year old Bo Hall of Wilton saves his mother's and sister's lives after their car plunges into Mahan Creek, and a thrifty Harpersville council plunks down cash for an 8.3-acre park.

The proposed 400-acre Southlake development on Valleydale Road draws a concerned crowd of 250 residents to a county planning and zoning commission meeting. The project is tabled until September it when sails through the commission.

As school nears starting day, the state announces that seven new kindergarten classes will be available here, sending schools and teachers scurrying to ready for 140 new students.

Montevallo residents respond favorably to the task force's survey. Half the respondents favor a sales tax. The city gets a $295,000 grant for housing needs and Columbiana lands its sewer grant for $240,000.

Meanwhile, a statewide drought and 106 degree temperatures are cooking the county's farms.

SEPTEMBER

The heat wave continues into September, causing concern for students in unairconditioned schools. Parents at Shelby Elementary protest the split of a class of 13 second graders, caused when enrollment figures cause the school to lose one teacher.

Wilsonville successfully annexes Sunrise but voters turn down Columbiana's efforts to take in a 20 square mile area.

With at least one illegal vote cast, zoning was again rejected in Beat 13 -- this time by a 61-60 margin.

Montevallo orders a district voting map for the town. By the end of November city elections will never be quite the same again as the council approves the district map.

The county begins hashing out its budget for the year which will end up being $8 million -- one million more than 1982-83. The county again turns an eye to SMC's tax take. The attorney general tells Snowden he can pick the bank he wants for branch office deposits.

The fair comes to the county, lost and chilled hikers are rescued at Oak Mountain, and one and two at a time candidates begin signing up for the legislative races.

OCTOBER Deviner asks the Helena council for districting so that blacks there can be elected to the council. The argument is made that the town is too small to divide. The request goes nowhere.

One stop car tag buying goes into effect in the courthouse, causing much confusion on both sides of the counter on opening day. Commissioner Archer says not enough time was given to training, and the employees will have to be retrained as the county upgrades its computer.

The SDEC handpicks Frank 'Butch' Ellis, Sonny Moore, and John Tanner, who will run against Republicans Don Murphy, Jim Entrekin, and Al Knight, respectively. After not receiving the Democratic appointment, Ed Gentry announces he's running as an Independent.

The Attention Homes gropes for funding as crowds grope for a place in line at the food giveaways. The county agrees to give the home $10,000 on the condition that it gets the local municipalities to chip in. Russo sues Pelham over his zoning denial.

The elections draw some attention from citizens, and $8,330 worth of overpayments to the board of registrars draws attention from state auditors. The audit charges former registrars Doris Turner and S.M. Mahan, plus registrar J.T. Spates. The audit also names Snowden as improperly paying the disputed sums. Collecting the overpayments is left to district attorney Billy Hill.

NOVEMBER

The county appears to hedge on asking SMC for money, and the board of education pushes for an additional five mill property tax to raise $1.5 million for education. The tax hike will be voted on in 1984.

In extensive interviews, the Reporter makes a point of asking all candidates if they would support a legislative pay raise. Some say yes, some no, some maybe.

On November 8 county voters turn out in only a slightly higher percentage than statewide to show strong support for Ellis. Moore gets heavy competition from unsuccessful newcomer Entrekin, and Knight actually polls more votes than Tanner in Shelby County. However, Tanner's votes from district sharing Bibb County give him the election, completing a Democratic sweep.

All county legislators say they did not support the pay raise which is passed in their first day in Montgomery, and they later support bills that might help control such raises.

SMC buys two ambulances for the county without help from the commission. One is stationed in north Shelby, the other in Columbiana.

Dr. Frank Abernathy, who is later arrested on heroin charges, announces plans for Camellia Manor -- a facility for the terminally ill.

Almost miraculously, none of the 35 Haitians aboard a bus which flips over on I-65, are seriously injured.

DECEMBER

With the economy loosening, Christmas shoppers do the same with their pursestrings, and area merchants announce fast sales.

Pelham High thanks J.E. 'Ned' Bearden for the land and support he has given the school, and Vincent officials thank Clarence Gorman for land he donates for a park.

Montevallo divides into districts, zoning in Beat 12 is challenged by a law suit (again), and a private sewer system on US 280 snags on a right of way. County students exceed the average on the first statewide graduation exams.

Weather again draws big headlines as flooding and tornado type winds cause over $2 million in property damage in Shelby County.

Finally the county approves the airport authority; Vincent's city council elects Nolan Clinkscale to replace a resigned Mayor Don Greene, and Pat Roper to replace Clinkscale on the council; and the county finally approves the airport authority.

The Shelby County Tax Watch Group files suit to prevent the county from tapping further into SMC's designated tax take, also asking for an accounting and a giveback of what has already been taken; Calera goes back nearly to square one with the opening of more sewer bids; and once again the freezing cold, ice and rains came.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Things I'll do again in 1984: Write a column for the Shelby County Reporter, sponsored by the First National Bank, about the folks I live with and have lived with for almost 80 years... Pick up pecans with Herman Strong, little pecans as sweet as honey... Go bird hunting with George and Earl Foster and Irvin Davis and Bub Gordon... even if the briars and honeysuckle get neck deep to a guy on a horse...

Pick out my bananas as best I can and hope at least two out of five are fit to eat two days later... Look at the steak in the meat counter for a second or two and pretend I didn't even do that... Gather sweet potatoes in the fields in Chilton County... those just right for baking that the big folks leave in the field...

Pick peaches off the trees at Culp's Farm down Jemison way, all the way from the first of June to the middle of August... and peel 'em and slice 'em so Amy can put 'em in the freezer... Go to see Wales and Sis Wallace every Friday... because they are sort 'o special... and Lawrence and June Elliott... and Frank and Irene Johnston... and a lot of others like Hap and Dot Hatchett and Frank and Teenie Ellis every other Friday... since they are special too...

Keep visiting the ladies at Mountain View and take 'em goodies and the Upper Room... the goodies every other week and the Upper Room every other month... Fish in any lake where the water is over two inches deep and in any slough that has at least one treetop...

Go to the high school football games until the weather gets close to freezing... and then forget it until next fall when the leaves are making the world beautiful... Wear my toboggan when the wind is whistling out 'o Chelsea... and my long handles if I'm gonna be out as long as fifty-eight seconds...

Split my firewood in July and August and stack it in the shed and let the elements frolic as they please... Go on a Greyhound Tour with other folks our age and marvel at the way He made things in the mountains... Collect money for the Christmas Fund again... since it's the fun thing to do... and because it means so much to so many folks...

Somewhere, at some time this year, I'll visit another friend as nice and as lovely as Elvena Higgins who had a day Friday all her own at the First National Bank where she has worked for years.

Those were two reactions from Lady Golden Falcons basketball players after they learned their team was ranked 19th in the nation.

The occasion marked the first time in UM history that the Lady Falcons have reached the top twenty. The team had only one prior winning season, and that came in its first year.

"This gives us national credibility," said coach Bud Childers. "Now when we go into a high school or junior college to recruit, the coaches know that we are serious about building our program into one of the best in the country."

Coach Childers turned a program that was 7-38 over the past two years into one that is capable of playing with any team in the nation, as witnessed by the 82-72 win Montevallo posted over number four ranked Alabama-Huntsville.

Montevallo lost its first two games of the season on the road to teams ranked in the top but then won its last five games to put its record at 5-2. Next up for the Golden Falcons is number ten Central Arkansas and number 20 Arkansas-Monticello.

"I feel this early season ranking is the benefit of a tough early season schedule," said Childers.

"I think that the fans that are coming out to see us are surprised," added Childers. "We fast break every chance we have and play an aggressive man-to-man defense. Unless people have seen top quality women's basketball played they don't know how exciting it really can be."

* * * * * * * * * *

When the UM Falcons basketball team (8-3) hosts the Athens State Bears (9-5) at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, January 11 it will be a big night for the Falcons and the city of Montevallo.

Local civic leaders will be on hand and will be recognized at half time of the game on Montevallo Appreciation night and free tickets will be available from Montevallo merchants.

Selling to minors carries stiff penalties

Selling alcohol to minors is a crime. But apparently there are few complaints, and few offenders get caught.

At least that's the impression one gets from the infrequency with which the offense appears in muncipal courts in Shelby County.

In Montevallo where an undercover newspaper survey pointed up that such sales do take place, Police Chief Allen Needham said complaints were very few and he could recall no arrests during the past year.

However, Needham said, "If we catch them, we arrest them..."

"This is the type of thing you really need to have some undercover officer go in on," Needham added. "It is not a real easy thing to enforce."

According to District Court Judge Patti Smith in Columbiana, State Code §28-3A-25 provides some pretty heavy penalties for selling alcoholic beverages to minors.

Smith summarized the code as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any licensee to sell, furnish or give away alcoholic beverages to any minor or permit any minor to drink or consume any alcoholic beverage on the licensee's premises."

The penalties are from $100 to $1,000 and at the discretion of the judge may include imprisonment in the county jail at hard labor for not more than six months on the first conviction, to up to one year for three convictions.

According to Smith, after a person is found guilty and punished, the ABC Board can have his or her license revoked.

The District Judge also pointed out another provision in the state code, §16-1-10, which provides that the sale of alcoholic beverages to school children, or possessing alcoholic beverages at any public, secondary, or grade school is a felony punishable by one to three year's imprisonment.

Another action that can be school is a felony punisable by one to three years imprisonment.

Another action that can be taken against persons selling alcohol to minors, according to Smith, is a civil suit which can be brought by the parent or guardian of any minor to whom an alcoholic beverage is sold.

The civil action comes under State Code §6-5-70.

Effective parenting taught

According to popular belief, today's parents have an increasing interest in finding more effective ways of relating to their children.

In an effort to help parents in Shelby County deal with this situation, the Shelby Teaching and Learning Center is offering a program called Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP).

The program will be offered at Valley School, beginning January 12, and continuing every Thursday evenings for nine weeks.

Registration will begin January 9 and fees will be determined on an individual basis.

Dr. Carolyn Horton and Dr. Clay Sheffield, educational psychologists for the center, describe STEP as a realistic and sensible approach to parent-child relationships.

The training sessions will emphasize better understanding of the child by the parent, helping the child build feeelings of confidence and self-worth, building better communication between the parent and child, and a method of discipline that develops responsibility.

Besides teaching programs such as STEP, Horton and Sheffield offer psychological testing, counseling, and tutoring.

They work with school children who are referred from the Alabama State Board of Education or from private referal by the Shelby and Jefferson school systems.

Speech Therapy is also offered by the Center's therapist Holly Krueger.

For more information on STEP or the Center contact Horton at 251-6357 or Valley School.

Drugs, alcohol film shown

The Pelham Public Library will sponsor the film 'Epidemic -- Kids, Drugs, and Alcohol.' It will be shown at the Crosscreek Baptist, Pelham, January 11 at 7 p.m.

Admission is free and parents are urged to attend with their children, according to librarian Mary Carver.

For further information, call the library at 663-3901.

Vincent wins Xmas tourney

The Vincent High School Yellow Jackets closed 1983 out in style when it came to basketball.

The 'Jackets both hosted and took the championship crown of the D.B. Smith Memorial Christmas Tournament played in Vincent near the end of December.

The tournament is named for the late VHS principal and town mayor.

Montevallo opened the action by losing to B.B. Comer 54-49. Vincent on the other hand whipped Chelsea like a wet noodle 76-34.

That set Chelsea up for another loss in the consolation round to the Bulldogs of Montevallo, 58-43. The win gave Montevallo third place honors.

In championship action, however, it was Vincent, this time victorious over B.B. Comer, 67-59.

Not only did the Christmas event help the Yellow Jackets up their season record to 8-2, but it allowed Bruce Hamilton to win additional honors as the tournament's most valuable player.

Other All tournament players included:

Kevin Welch and Steve Shelton of Chelsea; Terry Rutledge and Taylor Blackwell of Montevallo; Chris Spear, Anson Moon and Parish Slighe of B. B. Comer; Eric Posey and Tony Hamilton of Vincent.

TINY MISS CHRISTMAS CAROL JULIE ELLISON AND KATRINA KIRBY

MELYNDA FARRIS AND JUNIOR MISS CHRISTMAS CAROL PAIGE HORTON

Calera crowns Christmas beauties

Approximately 49 contestants entered the annual 'Little Miss Christmas Carol Pageant' at Calera High on Dec. 8.

The queens selected for each of the three categories were Julie Ellison, who was chosen as Tiny Miss Christmas Carol; Angie Godwin, this year's Little Miss Christmas Carol; and Paige Horton, the winner of the Junior Miss Christmas Carol title.

Parents of the top honor winners are Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Godwin, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Horton, respectively.

First alternate honors were given to Katrina Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kirby;

Kimberly Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Minor; and

The event is sponsored each year by the Calera varsity cheerleaders and Calera Community Education.

Melynda Farris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Farris.

LEGAL NOTICE
Ordinance No. 169
An Ordinance Amending Section 5-20 (4) and Section 5-23 (c), (d) and (e) of the Code of Ordinances, City of Alabaster, AL.

Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council of The City of Alabaster, Alabama, as follows:

1. That sub-section (4) of Section 5-20 of the Code of Ordinances, City of Alabaster, Alabama, shall be amended by deleting said subsection (4) in its entirety and substituting the following therefor:

"(4) Upon every person engaged or continuing within the city in the business of selling at retail any automotive vehicle or truck trailer, semi-trailer, or house trailer, an amount equal to one-eighth (1/8) of one (1) per cent of the gross proceeds of sale of said automotive vehicle or truck trailer, semi-trailer, or house trailer; provided, where a person subject to the tax provided for in this subsection withdraws from such person's stock in trade any automotive vehicle or truck trailer, semi-trailer, or house trailer for use by such person or by such person's employee or agent in the operation of such business, there shall be paid, in lieu of the tax levied herein, a fee of eighty-three cents ($0.83) per year or part thereof during which such automotive vehicle, truck trailer, semi-trailer or house trailer shall remain the property of such person. Each such year or part thereof shall begin with the day or anniversary date, as the case may be, of such withdrawal and shall run for the twelve (12) succeeding months or part thereof during which such automotive vehicle, truck trailer, semi-trailer or house trailer shall remain the property of such person.

Where any used automotive vehicle or truck trailer, semi-trailer or house trailer is taken in trade or in a series of trades, as a credit or part payment on the sale of a new or used vehicle, the tax levied herein shall be paid on the net difference, that is, the price of the new or used vehicle sold less the credit for the used vehicle taken in trade."

2. That sub-section (c) of Section 5-23 of the Code of Ordinances, City of Alabaster, Alabama, shall be amended by deleting said subsection (c) in its entirety and substituting the following therefor:

"(c) An excise tax is hereby imposed on the storage, use or other consumption in the city of any automotive vehicle or truck trailer, semi-trailer, or house trailer, purchased at retail for storage, use or other consumption in the city at the rate of one-eighth (1/8) of one (1) percent of the sales price of such automotive vehicle, truck trailer, semi-trailer or house trailer within the corporate limits of the city. Where any used automotive vehicle, truck trailer, semi-trailer or house trailer is taken in trade, or in a series of trades, as credit or part payment on the sale of a new or used vehicle, the tax levied herein shall be paid on the net difference, that is, the price of the new or used vehicle sold less the credit for the used vehicle taken in trade."

3. That sub-section (d) of Section 5-23 of the Code of Ordinances, City of Alabaster, Alabama, shall be amended by deleting said subsection (d) in its entirety and substituting the following therefor:

"(d) An excise tax is hereby levied and imposed on the storage, use or other consumption in the city of any machine, machinery, or equipment which is used in planting, cultivating and harvesting farm products, or used in connection with the production of agricultural produce or products, livestock or poultry on farms and the parts of such machines, machinery or equipment, attachments, and replacements therefor which are made or manufactured for use on or in the operation of such machine, machinery, or equipment and which are necessary to and customarily used in the operation of such machine, machinery, or equipment which is purchased at retail for the storage, use or other consumption in the city at the rate of one-eighth (1/8) of one (1) per cent of the sales price of such property within the corporate limits of the city regardless of whether the retailer is or is not engaged in the business of the city. Provided, however, the one-eighth (1/8) of one (1) per cent rate herein prescribed with respect to parts, attachments and replacements shall not apply to any automotive vehicle or trailer designated primarily for public highway use, except farm trailers used primarily in the production and harvesting of agricultural commodities. Where any used machine, machinery or equipment which is used in planting, cultivating and harvesting farm products or used in connection with the production of agricultural produce or products, livestock and poultry on farms is taken in trade or in a series of grades as a credit or part payment on a sale of a new or used machine, machinery or equipment, the tax levied herein shall be paid on the net difference, that is, the price of the new or used machine, machinery, or equipment sold, less the credit for the used machine, machinery or equipment taken in trade.

4. That sub-section (e) of Section 5-23 of the Code of Ordinances, City of Alabaster, Alabama, shall be amended by deleting said subsection (e) in its entirety and substituting the following therefor:

"(e) Upon every person engaged or continuing within the city in the business of selling at retail any machine, machinery or equipment which is used in planting, cultivating and harvesting farm products, or used in connection with the production or agricultural produce or products, livestock or poultry on farms, and the parts of such machines, machinery or equipment, attachments and replacements therefor which are made or manufactured for use on or in the operation of such machine, machinery or equipment and which are necessary to and customarily used in the operation of such machine, machinery or equipment, an amount equal to one-eighth (1/8) of one (1) per cent of the gross proceeds of the sale thereof. Provided, however, the one-eighth (1/8) of one (1) per cent rate herein prescribed with respect to parts, attachments, replacements shall not apply to any automotive vehicle or trailer designed primarily for public highway use, except farm trailers used primarily in the production and harvesting of agricultural commodities.

Where any used machine, machinery or equipment which is used in planting, cultivating and harvesting farm products, or used in connection with the production or products, livestock or poultry on farms is taken in trade or in a series of trades as a credit or part payment on a sale of a new or used machine, machinery or equipment, the tax levied herein shall be paid on the net difference, that is, the price of the new or used machine, machinery, or equipment sold less the credit for the used machine, machinery or equipment taken in trade."

5. This Ordinance shall become effective upon its passage and adoption by the City Council of the City of Alabaster, Alabama.

Adopted and Approved, this the 19th day of December, 1983.

LEGAL NOTICE
State of Alabama
In the Matter of
Charlotte Ann Woods
In the Juvenile Court
Shelby County, Alabama
Case No. JU-83-542
ORDER

It being made known to the Court that Ann R. Shirley, has filed with said Court in the above styled matter, a Petition to terminate all parental rights in, for, and to the child: Charlotte Ann Woods and to vest full custody of said child in State of Alabama, Department of Pensions & Security for permanent placement or adoption;

Said Petition being, in words, substantially as follows: On or about 11/30/83, in Shelby County, Alabama, said child is dependant in that said child was born out of wedlock and paternity has not been legally established. Said child has been in foster care of petitioner's agency since April 14, 1983, by order of this Court due to the failure of the mother to provide a suitable home environment. Petitioner avers that the mother an putative fathers are not at the present time nor will in the foreseeable future be able to provide a fit and suitable home for said child and to provide for her support, maintenance and education and petitioner has not been able to locate suitable relative resources interested in caring for said child. Petitioner prays that this Court will cause service to be effected upon the mother and putative fathers by service of summons as provided by law and upon a hearing of the matter, the Court will enter an order terminating all parental rights of the mother and putative fathers in and to said child to the Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent placement or adoption, pursuant to Section 12-15-30, Code of Alabama, 1975.

Dated: 12-15-83

Sworn Signature: Ann R. Shirley

It also being made known tothe Court that after a due and diligent search the whereabouts of the putative father of said child and the whereabouts of any other person or individual claiming a parental right in, for, or to said child, are to the Petitioner, unknown;

And the Court having considered all of the foregoing, be it now Ordered, Adjudged, and Decreed that a hearing on said Petition be held on the 24 day of January, 1984 at 8:30 o'clock in the a.m., in the Shelby County Courtnouse at Columbiana, Alabama;

And it is further Ordered, Adjudged, and Decreed, that the said putative father and any other person or individual claiming a parental right in, for, or to said child be hereby given due notice and service of summons to attend said hearing; and that a copy of this Order be published in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper of general publication in Shelby County, Alabama for four (4) consecutive weeks so as to give due notice and service of summons for said hearing to the said putative father and any other person or individual claiming a parental right in, for, or to the said child.

Done and ordered on this the 15th day of December, 1983.

Patricia M Smith
Juvenile Court Judge

Tater Hill

Jimmy Howard, Billy Holmes, Randy Howard and Gary Alexander find that the bridge over the train tracks in Sterrett makes for a good vantage point. Behind them, jutting some 700 feet into an overcast sky, looms the ever present Tater Mountain. (photo by David F. Moore)

Tater Hill stands as monument to Sterrett's past and future

by Jim Zales

Tater Hill, about 700 feet high and a favorite climbing spot for the young, is the major landmark of Sterrett. The town -- as such -- is located at the junction of State 25 and County 55, between Calcis and Vandiver in east Shelby County.

Sterrett is truly a piece of the heart of Alabama, and America. Like many other small, unincorporated towns across our nation, it might seem insignificant on the surface. But it is rich in local history, nostalgia, and, apparently, the strength and endurability of its people.

Bordered on the east by the rugged Penitentiary Mountains, Sterrett is a quiet community composed of past and present. The homes are large and small, rich and poor. There are two stores, the post office, five churches, two creeks, a number of ponds, and small ranches.

The Central of Georgia Railroad has a double track running through the center of 'town.' It also has a snake farm and nudist colony nearby.

As you move about the town -- nearly always within the shadow of Tater Hill -- there are a number of vintage, Nineteenth Century structures.

The most prominent structure is Cosper's Commissary, located in the center of town just across the railroad bridge on County 55. It was constructed in the 1830's.

Across the highway, in the plantation architectural style of the Old South, sits the Cosper House.

Sterrett got its name from a railroad worker -- named Sterrett -- who believed the community should have an identity. It dates from about the same time Shelby County was organized in 1817 as a part of the Alabama Territory.

Mrs. Geraldine White, whose family goes back a long way back in Sterrett, runs one of the stores there. According to her the old town had a jug factory which made pottery items, a blacksmith shop which one of her ancestors operated, and Dyke's Mill on Kelly Creek where residents brought grain to be ground into meal.

A number of sawmills were located in and around Sterrett, she says. They made railroad ties, small barrels to hold the railroad spikes, and lumber -- much of which was sold to a growing Birmingham.

Tater Hill is part of the Penitentiary Mountains, where some of Mrs. White's ancestors are buried. These mountains are so rugged that no roads were built through them and logging was delayed until the late 1950's when Belcher Lumber purchased the land and cut roads.

Another long-time resident of this town of 700, is Shirley Spradley, age 90.

Spradley said there were only about 75 people in Sterrett when he was born there in 1893. Spradley and his wife, 86, have been married 62 years. He believes Sterrett is an ideal place to live, and has worked in around there all his life.

His only criticism of the place is the "mischievousness" of some of the young boys. But "It ain't any worse than what I did as a boy," he admitted, when asked what they did that was so bad.

Spradley farmed and raised cattle until World War I when he went into the Army. When he returned, he and his brother started a sawmill with 50 dollars each. He has worked in and around Sterrett all his life.

Alabama State Representative Sonny Moore has been a resident of Sterrett since 1947.

Moore, 59, lives on the side of Tater Hill, and has served four terms in the legislature since 1975.

Instrumental in the structure of the town and surrounding area, Moore helped develop the Sterrett-Vandiver water system between 1968 and 1971.

Sterrett Cemetery lodges many deceased members of the town's families -- Goodwins, Johnsons, Churchwells, Spradleys, Strachners and others.

A smaller, unnamed cemetery atop a hill outside of town on County 45, has only nine graves. Although all these graves are marked with stones, only one has an inscription. (A few feet away someone has taken the liberty of creating a living garbage dump.)

The Sterrett Cemetery offers at least one example that the town is,

Over 120 members in first year

Woodworkers carve great beginning

by Shelba Nivens

Many groups come and go each year. Some start with a big bang but fizzle out before the year is over.

However, one Shelby County based group organized in early 1983 is still going strong as it completes its first year -- with over 140 members.

The Alabama Woodworkers Guild was organized in Pelham last February. By early spring, attendance at one meeting reached over 120 persons. According to president Spruce McRee the group got off to such a great start because of an article in the Reporter telling about the organization. Informative and interesting programs helped to maintain interest and good attendance.

Demonstrations, some of them hands-on, have included wood carving and design, jointery techniques, lathe and table saw operation, violin making and use of hand planes. Speakers were brought in from as far away as Georgia and North Carolina.

Program demonstrations are now being video taped for a tape library which Guild members can use for future reference, McRee said. Newsletters are also sent out to members to keep them informed of Guild activities and to offer helpful information on woodworking.

One of the Guild's major projects during the year was doing the woodwork last summer on a major library remodeling project at Pelham High School.

The group's first woodwork show was held last summer at Vestavia Civic Center. The second show was tentatively scheduled for this month, but according to McRee, is being postponed until early spring. It is to be held at Sloss Furnace in Birmingham.

At this point, he said, plans call for a show to display their woodwork, but not not to sell it. However, if someone wishes to purchase woodwork items, arrangements can be worked out with individual craftsmen.

Prizes will be awarded woodworkers in four categories: professional, advanced, intermediate and novice, with a separate award for wood turning. Judges will consider design, jointery and finish.

The show is for Guild members only, but persons interested in membership and show participation may contact Spruce McRee at 663-9453.

Meetings are held on the second Thursday of each month, usually at Pelham High, although special demonstrations were held last year at Acton Moulding Company in Helena and at Birmingham Saw Works.

Interested persons are invited to attend the next meeting of the Alabama Woodworkers Guild on January 12 at Pelham High School.

indeed, an integral part of the country -- even if not too many people have heard of a young man buried there by the name of William E. Strachner.

Strachner died a long way from his Sterrett home on January 11, 1971 -- about one month before his twenty-second birthday. He was a Lance Corporal in Viet Nam.

The saga of Sterrett continues: the deaths and the births; the hardships and the good times; the hopes of the younger citizens and the pride of an older South.

Spending a day in Sterrett, one gets the notion that perhaps nature has given the town its own monument -- Tater Hill. Both evoke the feeling that they've been there a long time; that perhpas they'll be there forever.

Editor's note -- Jim Zales is a free-lance writer living in Westover.

indeed, an integral part of the country -- even if not too many people have heard of a young man buried there by the name of William E. Strachner.

Strachner died a long way from his Sterrett home on January 11, 1971 -- about one month before his twenty-second birthday. He was a Lance Corporal in Viet Nam.

The saga of Sterrett continues: the deaths and the births; the hardships and the good times; the hopes of the younger citizens and the pride of an older South.

Spending a day in Sterrett, one gets the notion that perhaps nature has given the town its own monument -- Tater Hill. Both evoke the feeling that they've been there a long time; that perhpas they'll be there forever.

Editor's note -- Jim Zales is a free-lance writer living in Westover.

:hool tax vote set r Valentine Day

by Fred Guarino

To most people Valentine's Day means candy, flowers or cute cards from secret admirers.

But the day now means something much bigger to Shelby County's School System. A special election will be held then which could add three mills of tax to the school system coffer.

The Shelby County Commission officially granted the election Monday. It has been requested by a petition of over 1,000 persons.

The action comes the wake of action taken last Wednesday by the Shelby County Board of Education.

Education Board members unanimously called for the special Valentine vote, despite the fact that a presidential preference primary will be held March 13. A special election will cost the county over $7,000.

According to school officials, the new tax, if passed, would expire in 2003. It will allow the borrowing of $6 million toward $13 million needed for construction in existing or new schools.

Included in the proposed use of the tax are new inside activity buildings for elementary schools and additional special education classrooms.

Susan Coyne, chairman of the referendum committee of the Parent Teacher Council, added that a new Thompson High School is being discussed.

Appearing before the county commission Monday were Coyne, education board chairman Barbara Whitman, administrative assistants Wylodine Hill, deputy school superintendent Verne Davis and business coordinator Jim Davis.

When Civil Defense director Bill Tucker -- who handles voting machines in elections -- asked if the vote could be held four weeks later so that it could be decided in a regular election, school officials were quick to shoot him down.

Davis said an issue of such importance should not be biased with the personalities involved in the primary. He noted too that school would be out for AEA during the March 13 election.

"People don't take the time to vote absentee ballots," Whitman told the Reporter.

Commission chairman Tommy Snowden also pointed out in light of Tucker's request that the county could grant or deny election requests for a petitioned date, such as this one.

Resolutions to hold the elections on February 14 in schools districts one and two were introduced separately by commissioner Jake Morris and passed unanimously.

In an election related matter, Tucker reminded commissioners that a building is needed in which to get the machines set up. He said that a minimum of 50 machines will be needed, as well as a minimum of 200 poll workers.

Tucker also reminded commissioners that Bill Strickland's building in Columbiana is normally used for voting machine setups.

Snowden said the county would contact Strickland about using the building through the

New cemetery draws flak

by David F. Moore

A crowd of Pelham residents turned out Monday to protest plans for a cemetery off Bearden Road. Wednesday, after press deadlines, the residents and their neighbors -- who live in Oak Mountain Estates and Brookfield subdivision -- expected to know how they fared in round one of what opponents fear may be a long battle over development of the proposed 35-acre burial grounds.

According to Oakwood, Inc. co-owner John Shugrue no change in the present agricultural zoning is necessary for development of his proposed North Shelby Memorial Gardens. Shugrue said, however, that he and his partners need approval of their plans because some 600 feet of the acreage they have an option on, fronts city right-of-way on Bearden Road (State 105).

About 20 of the acres under consideration are in an island of unincorporated land where there is no zoning in effect.

Some 1,000 feet of the land, however, backs up to eleven lots along David Drive and Adams Street.

According to Beverly Brackett, Colvin Wheelis and other residents in the area, development of the planned 30,000 lot cemetery will not only devalue their property, but will cause traffic problems.

"We're trying to inform people so they can make their opinions known to city hall," Brackett told the Reporter Tuesday. She said some opponents fear the developers might even take the city to court if they don't get their desired approval.

The recommendation planners made at the 7 p.m. Wednesday meeting, will be passed on to the city council for final action, probably next month.

Shugrue said appraisals elsewhere showed that perpetual care cemeteries such as this one do not lower property values. He said, too, that a church or subdivision additions in the proposed site would generate more traffic.

He conceded that it's "human nature for people to have eerie feelings about living next to a cemetery."

"It's not in our plans," he told the Reporter "to do anything else with the land without the frontage approval by the city."

Gunman eludes law in woods

by Bert Seaman

An elusive robber gave lawmen the slip Monday in north Shelby after holding up a U Tote M employee.

Bill Higgins, a field supervisor with the convenience store chain, was going from store to store picking up receipts when he was flagged down on Caldwell Mill Road (County 29).

The holdup man, thought to be in his early 30's, ordered Higgins out of the car at gunpoint, then drove off with an undisclosed amount of money.

However, the car quit on him a few minutes later, forcing him to flee into the woods on foot.

Sheriff's deputies and members of several police departments searched the area until dark without finding the gunman.

Higgins told investigators the robber was wearing an orange vest and had an orange flag similar to those used by road crews.

He was ordered to slide over on the seat, Higgins said, but when he didn't move fast enough, the gunman ordered him out of the car.

The holdup occurred a half mile off Cahaba Valley Road (State 119) at 10:30 a.m., just minutes after the supervisor had picked up receipts from the store at Quail Run.

After the robber drove off, a car occuppied by three people stopped to pick up Higgins, who asked to be taken to the U Tote M on Caldwell Mill Road.

Before going far, Higgins spotted his 1983 Citation pulled off the road and the robber going through the trunk.

When Higgins yelled at him, the robber pointed the gun in his direction, forcing the car to continue moving.

The robber was described as being a tall, heavy set white man with a beard. Higgins said he was wearing blue jeans and had a toboggan.

One homeowner on Indian Crest reported seeing the robber run through her yard.

As the Sheriff's department plane searched the area by air, lawmen on the ground looked in the woods along Valleydale Road (County 17) from County 29 to I-65.

Assisting in the search were police from Pelham, Alabaster, Helena and security personnel from Oak Mt. State Park.

Investigators from the Sheriff's department are continuing to check out leads.

Zoning pros, cons aired at Horizon 280 meet

by David F. Moore

Zoning support and zoning opposition got scrambled together Tuesday at the Horizon 280 Association's monthly breakfast meeting.

Before the hour long discussion subsided, it had transcended the general topic of zoning to touch on issues ranging from apparent public relations failures on the part of Horizon 280, to legal challenges of the zoning bill itself.

The discussion was aired in front of 37 people, including Shelby County Senator Frank 'Butch' Ellis, Represenatives Sonny Moore and John Tanner, county commissioner John Ames, and temporary chairman of the planning and zoning commission, Al Knight.

As the meeting's main speaker, Knight said one key difference between the county's zoning board and similar groups, lies in the word 'authority.' For instance, municipal zoning boards merely recommend actions, while the county zoning board has the authority to act on its own.

Knight said the zoning law is modeled after guidelines set up by a national group of county commissioners.

In Beat 12, the only area of the county affected by the zoning law, the bill establishing it is currently being challenged by a lawsuit.

Knight defended the zoning commission setup, but said he'd like to see it "made more workable in the county" by shortening the time lapse between requests and final actions.

He noted several points in the zoning setup that sometimes draw public fire, such as:

•Six zoning board members are appointed by elected officals. One member is appointed by the county bar association.

•As appointed officials, the members operate as an extension of the county commission, but they aren't directly answerable to it.

•The zoning board has no control over mining.

"I wouldn't call them (these points) controversial, but they do lead to complaints," Knight said.

"If you say you have 'authority,' (people) are automatically against you," said Motel for Pets owner David Carlton during the discussion. He said by being appointed instead of elected, the zoning board removes itself one step from answering to the people.

"We have to throw out Leon before we can throw you (Knight) out," Carlton said, referring to county commissioner Leon Archer at the guest table. Although he has no objections to present composition of the zonning board, he said it "may have a Hitler on it down the road."

One Horizon member responded that appointed zoning board members are removed from political pressures developers could apply in seeking zoning changes.

A contention raised by Joe Scotch is that the commission doesn't zone enough land for industrial and commercial development.

Horizon president Leo Karpeles, member John Brewer and others insisted that zoning is mandatory for keeping property values at a premium for both corporate and individual landowners. Furthermore, without zoning assurances, national corporations hedge on sinking millions into new, tax paying developments.

Without zoning in Beat 13 -- which borders US 280 on the north and saw zoning defeated twice in elections last year -- they said 'junkyards', steel mills, car lots, or anything could be built in the area.

"As we see it," Brewer said, "the longer it takes to get these beats to vote for zoning, the more problems we're going to have." Non-desirable businesses established prior to zoning would be grandfathered in should zoning pass, he said.

"I'm one of the 'junkyards' he's referring to," commented visitor Johnny Davis who operates an auto salvage dealership on US 280. "Beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder. I don't see a junkyard. I see a good business."

Knight -- and others readily agreed -- told Davis "there's a big difference in the business you operate and some of the others."

Davis, who was born in the area, said most "locals" view zoning as a sweetheart deal for large landowners and developers, and something they have to turn out every 30 days to vote against.

"You've ruffled the wrong feathers too soon," Davis said of zoning defeats in Beat 13.

"We've done a poor job with our public relations," Karpeles commented.

Represenative Sonny Moore said that before he introduces an advertised bill to limit zoning elections to once a year, a public hearing on the issue will be held.

Moore and Representative John Tanner both indicated to the group that they would work in Montgomery to see that 280's development was tasteful and fair.

Archer, a former zoning board member, said that for zoning matters to revert to the county commission, it would have to become a full time body. The job, he said, was a tough one.

Phillip Morris of Southern Living magazine, who helped initiate Horizon 280 and its goal of controlled growth along the 280 corridor, said the crux of the entire issue is not so much the actual use of land, but rather how it is used.

Morris urged both proponents and opponents of zoning strive for quality "community appearance."

Senator Frank 'Butch' Ellis said he had been watching zoning discussions in Shelby County for 20 years. The underlying problem in zoning, he said, was a lack of communications.

"But I think there's a solution," Ellis said.

Following the monthly breakfast meeting at Lloyd's Restaurant, Karpeles indicated that the stirring discussion was generally positive in that both sides of the issue were aired in front of the legislative delegation, and besides, no one threw any biscuits.

Columbiana council doubles its pay rate

by Bert Seaman

After some hesitation, members of the Columbiana City Council voted a raise in salary for the city's next administration.

The council's present salary of $100 monthly is being doubled to $200 a month. The mayor will receive a monthly increase of $100, bringing his salary to $400 per month.

When Mayor Buck Falkner asked for discussion on the subject, Councilman Frank Owen first suggested a $500 monthly figure for the Mayor.

But some felt that figure was a little high since the position is only parttime.

"Do what's best for the city," responded Falkner, "I may not be here."

Councilman Lewis Walker said he thought the salaries should be increased if there was unanimous approval.

Councilman Harold McCord also expressed agreement providing the budget would stand it. He noted that "a whole lot of aggrevation" goes along with serving on the city's governing body.

The raises will go into effect when the next administration takes office in the fall. According to law, salaries must be set by January 10 prior to a new administration taking office, and cannot be changed during the term.

Because members of two churches on State 25 had registered so many complaints about a business near them, the council decided last year to vote on the annual business license renewal for Sub Tierra Rentals and Liquidators.

Although Councilman Harold McCord noted that the appearance of the salvage business owned by Benny Davis was "worse than ever," the council nevertheless renewed the license.

Church members had objected to the looks of the business and to the smoke and odor from burning refuse.

The business license fee for Davis is $100.

Before taking any action on a request from the DAY foundation (Developing Alabama Youth), the council decided to do some investigating.

The foundation -- which provides counseling and schooling for delinquent youth -- had asked the city for $624.

A letter from foundation president Ken Williams explained the figure was based on the number of young people from Columbiana referred to the program.

Williams reported that seven students from Columbiana Middle School are enrolled in the DAY program, which is based in Alabaster.

Municipalities are being asked for funds to pay a bus driver to transport students to the center each day.

When Jones asked why the Board of Education isn't responsible for paying a driver, the council decided to delay taking action until that information is obtained.

Two bids were accepted at the meeting: one on gasoline and diesel fuel for city vehicles, the other on a house to be removed from city property.

W.H. Thomas Oil Co. of Clanton was the low bidder on fuel; Monroe Shield bid $112.50 for the old Stinson home adjacent to city hall.

In other action, the council voted to appoint McCord to the vacancy on the gas board created by the death of Jimmy Curtis.

McCord, however, reported that he will only be able to fill the position temporarily because he is planning to move outside the city limits.

The term expires in 1987.

Dropped ceiling

Water from broken pipes on the University of Montevallo campus wreaked havoc in the student-services department housed in Reynolds Hall. Ceiling tiles collapsed causing water damage to carpet and paper products.

UM pipes freeze but harm contained

It could have been worse -- a whole lot worse, University of Montevallo Maintenance Supervisor Holland Floyd said about broken pipes caused by the December freeze.

The campus buildings where the most serious damage occurred were Reynolds and Main, Floyd reported. Those are the buildings with sprinkler systems.

In his opinion, Floyd said, the campus was fortunate to get off with only about $2,000 worth of damage.

That figure could be higher, he said, depending on how much carpet was ruined.

He also noted that the $2,000 figure doesn't take into account the overtime of the half dozen employees who worked around the clock during the freeze.

Although the wood chip boiler was shut down during the Christmas holidays, Floyd reported that the coal heating system was in operation.

However, employees who tried to work in their offices the week following Chirstmas reported it was too cold to stay.

Floyd pointed out the difficulty of keeping pipes from freezing in old buildings the size of those on the UM campus.

"Water even froze in pipes going to the boiler," the maintenance supervisor related.

The problem, he explained, was the temperature staying near the zero degree mark several days in a row.

In Reynolds, water from broken pipes caused ceiling tiles to fall and the carpet was soaked. The worst place hit was the student services department where paper supplies and a copying machine were damaged.

Two dormitory rooms were reportedly flooded in Main and Floyd said the Bloch Hall art gallery was "flooded pretty good."

However, he noted there were no paintings in the gallery at the time.

There are also reports that leaking pipes caused the ceiling tiles to fall a second time in the speech department after being replaced.

One maintenance worker said that he believed it would take a year to paint and repair all the damage caused by the broken pipes.

Classes at UM won't resume until next week, but Floyd said they could start this week if they needed to.

In fact, he said, it would make it a whole lot easier to keep up with where the broken pipes are if the buildings were occupied.

The wood chip boiler, he reported was turned on Monday in preparation for the students' return.

Doctor, ex-lawman indicted

A drug investigation begun in November has resulted in indictments against two Shelby County men -- a 49-year old physician and a 77-year old former police chief.

Dr. Frank Abernathy of Maylene and Charles "Chuck" Harris of Siluria have been indicted by a federal grand jury on heroin charges.

Harris' sister, 65-year old Beulah Hill of Sulligent, was also named in the grand jury indictment handed down last week.

In addition to the federal drug charges, Abernathy is charged with possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

US Attorney Frank Donaldson announced this week that the indictment against the Maylene physician included ten counts: conspiracy to import heroin, eight counts of importing heroin, and possession of heroin with the intent to distribute it.

Harris and Hill were both charged with conspiring to import heroin and two counts of importation.

According to Donaldson, the investigation of the case was begun by the police department in Bangkok, Thailand this past November.

Through the cooperative efforts of investigative agencies in Alabama, the case was completed last month.

Harris was arrested December 19 at Abernathy's home and the shotgun was found during a search of the premises. The doctor surrendered the following day.

If convicted of the drug charges, Abernathy faces a total of 150 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

The firearms charge carries an additional 10 year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

Harris and Hill both face a maximum of 45 years in prison and a $75,000 fine if convicted.

The investigation of the case in Alabama was conducted by the Drug Enforcement Administration, postal inspectors, FBI, ABI, Shelby County Sheriff's department and the Sulligent police department.

Arraignments for the three are set for January 19 in federal court before Magistrate R. Macey Taylor.

Donaldson said the case would be set on US District Judge James H. Hancock's trial docket beginning in March.

Rescue units advise calling closest squad

by Marcia M. Sears

The fastest way to get emergency help in Shelby County is to call the emergency rescue unit where you live. That unit will respond to the call and summon an ambulance if one is needed.

The probelm in Shelby County is that many people do not seem to know the name of the rescue unit nearest them, much less its telephone number. There are now 14 rescue services in the county.

If you panic, dial the county sheriff's office at 669-4181.

That was the recommendation of the Shelby County Emergency Medical Service, Inc., at the meeting of the Advisory Council Tuesday afternoon. The officers who endorsed the recommendation were chairman Danny Endress of Pelham, Lacey Lowery of Montevallo, and Mike Ellis of Alabaster.

William Price, who represented the Central Shelby and Harpersvillle ambulance services at the meeting, agreed. There was no representative of Hank's Ambulance Service present.

Those present agreed that Shelby County residents should not dial the 911 emergency telephone number because that service applies mostly to Jefferson County, and would not be as fast.

"As medics, our main conern is the patient," Endress commented. He indicated that medics did not want to get involved in conflicts between ambulance services, and medics would call whichever ambulance service was located nearest the scene of an emergency.

The Advisory Council is composed of one representative from each ambulance and rescue service in the county. Paramedics who are not associated with a rescue service are welcome to attend the meetings which are held the second Tuesday of each month at 4:30 at Shelby Medical Center.

Where do I get local phone service?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But as part of a holding company called BellSouth, we're still your phone company. And divestiture will have little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is.

South Central Bell still provides local telephone service for your home and your business. Call on us to order new phone service, to transfer existing service, to add new lines, or to order new sets and equipment.

How to get special services.

South Central Bell still offers convenient services such as Touch-Tone® dialing, Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Speed Calling and Three-Way Calling (available in some areas).

And new services (available in some areas) such as Prestige℠ Service that gives expanded calling capabilities to business and residence customers with more than one line. And ESSX Service that uses advanced electronic switching service technology to give businesses PBX features.

Options let you keep costs down.

One change you've probably heard about is that local rates will go up. Competition and deregulation in the telecommunications industry mean an end to local service subsidies from long distance and other competitive services. That means local phone rates must increase to reflect more of the true costs of providing local service.

Local Measured Service options (available to homes and businesses in many areas) can help keep local service charges down. Local Measured Service is especially attractive to people who don't use the phone a lot to make local calls and for people who can't, or don't wish to, pay for Premium Flat Rate Service.

Coping with change.

We're doing everything we can to see that the changes brought about by divestiture and increased competition are as easy for you as possible. And nothing will affect the high quality of service you've come to expect from us.

If you have questions or want more information, return the coupon below. Or call on us at the Bell Answer Center, toll free, 1 800 555-5000, 8 a.m. till 8 p.m. CST, Monday through Friday.

We're still your phone company.

Calera meet goes sour

by Fred Guarino

Old time movie and radio star Happy Hal Burns played his guitar, sang songs and told jokes... And although some Calera city business was handled smoothly at Monday night's council meeting, the pleasant beginning belied the mood the meeting would take.

A revenue sharing budget, an appeal to have more members appointed to the city's adjustment board, and reappointments to the city's industrial development and planning and zoining boards were all approved.

However...

•There were verbal battles over a plan by Mark Jones to construct two new ball fields on 46 acres of land at Oliver Park.

That plan -- which was delayed until the Park and Recreation could meeting on January 12 -- would have used $24,489 in revenue sharing funds already earmarked for the park and carried over from 1982-83 money.

•There were verbal battles over a proposal by Mayor Carl Prichard to move a metal building from the old Calera landfill to the city shop.

That delayed action would have used an unappropriated $4,502 from current revenue sharing funds.

•There was a verbal battle over a proposal by Prichard to allow city shop mechanic James Coggins to take a city vehicle home with him to Alabaster.

The denied action was intended to give the mechanic compensation for extra duties as assistant shop superintendent -- a position he assumed without extra pay.

"Happy" Hal Burns, a old time star of Western movies and the Grand Old Opry, appeared with company representative Rodney Long to promote Energy Centers of Birmingham.

The company will be performing energy audits for residents of Calera by telephone appointment, to help them conserve energy. It will also attempt to sell solar products.

Long notified the council of his operations in Calera and he told the body of his plans to push for solar equipment easement laws.

"Even though small, y'all seem to see further into the future than other cities," Long said.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rose wanted to replace a temporary single-wide trailer home located on property not zoned for that purpose with a double-wide.

After being turned down for a variance by the Calera zoning board, they took an appeal to the adjustment board.

Because board member Horace Bright owns property adjoining that of the Roses, he removed himself from the appeal hearing which left only councilman Jones to hear the case. In turn Jones suggested the couple take its appeal to court for relief.

However, with the help of Budget Home Center's Dave Smith, the Roses said such action would deny them the right of local appeal.

They asked Mayor Prichard to grant them the right of local appeal by appointing additional members to the adjustment board. Prichard agreed.

Smith argued that all mobile homes should not be lumped into one group because prices range from $7,900 to $59,000. He also suggested that cases of site built homes versus plant built homes should never become court issues.

Photos were also given to council members to prove a double-wide trailer would be an improvement to the area in question.

"I would like to see some people appointed (to the board) with no prejudices against mobile homes," Smith told the mayor.

* * * *

Councilman Jones introduced a plan to build two new ball fields on 46 acres of park land. The fields would allow for a 100-foot buffer zone for Farris Subdivision.

The plan was attacked immediately by councilman W.B. Watts and Prichard. Watts argued that 100 feet is larger than most building lots and would be a waste of valuable property.

Prichard argued that land to be left for an access road would lead to excessive expenses due to geographic conditions.

Jones asked Watts and Prichard to put themselves in the place of Farris Subdivision residents. He argued that a smaller buffer zone would disrupt life there.

"I've stated my position. It's up to the council," Jones said firmly. But that was not the end of the argument.

Prichard said a previously drawn master plan called for an access road to the park in an area that would mean less construction expense.

Councilman Jeff Pilgreen also argued that people might want to use the land for something other than ball, and that Jones' plan called for two other fields at a later date.

Prichard jumped on the opportunity to point out that the original master plan was good. But Jones challenged the value of the original plan which did not include a topographical map.

He said it actually placed ball fields over a creek.

"The plan was not drawn with a park consultant," Jones said over an opposing point of view by Prichard.

"That property cost this city a lot of money and we will be paying for it for several years," Prichard said. "I feel strongly that we should take great care to be sure every citizen of town benefits..."

The mayor again proposed that the original plan be used.

"You can't put a field in a creek," Jones replied, adding that only two ball fields were planned and that possible additional fields could be located elsewhere in the park.

Councilman Arthur Davis brought arguments to a close when he suggested that Jones present his plan to the Park and Recreation Board prior to council action.

"I don't want them to have any idea we will approve this," Prichard said firing one last shot before the issue was passed by.

Mayor Prichard found the going rough when he proposed that a metal building be moved from the old landfill to the city shop for storage space.

That would have been done with an unappropriated $4,502 from current revenue sharing funds.

Watts suggested that a new building might be constructed for the same amount or little more. He also argued that the Calera Water Board had requests before the council which have not been granted.

Too, Watts pointed out that the building is being utilized in reference to fire department smoke training exercises.

Prichard said the city was responsible for storing its equipment and preventing accidents which could happen if children were able to get to the equipment

He added that current conditions at the city shop make inventory control almost impossible.

The mayor opposed granting funding for the Water Board which he called a "self generating income department."

Davis again brought arguments to a close by moving that the revenue sharing budget be approved without an allocation for the unused $4,502.

Jones seconded the motion which was passed over Pilgreen's and Prichard's opposition.

Pilgreen argued that the metal building is being shot up at the landfill and he did not think a new $5,000 building could be built for moving costs.

* * * *

Revenue sharing uses which were approved Monday night include:

Flood Control, $2,674; equipment lease, $7,022; ordinance codification $4,000; fire breathing compressor, $2,000; police communication equipment, $5,538; rescue communication equipment, $3,300; 17th Avenue sewer extenstion $22,000; recreation building repairs, $1,651.

An amount of $24,489 was carried over from last year for park use, though no plan was approved.

* * * *

Prichard and Jones were both defeated on efforts to give shop mechanic James Coggins compensation for extra duties.

Prichard wanted Coggins to be given the right to take a city vehicle home with him. Jones wanted Coggins to be paid the state's gas mileage rate.

Pilgreen pointed out that citizens already complain about city employees taking vehicles home and other councilmen argued that no gas mileage is paid for other employees.

* * * *

In final actions, Bill Schroeder was reappointed to the city's industrial development board and W.M. Davis was reappointed to the city's planning and zoning board.

Library addition

Parnell Library spiffed up

With interior work on Montevallo's Parnell Memorial Library completed, efforts have turned to improving the outward appearance of the former South Central Bell building.

An entrance is being constructed to make the library more accessible to the handicapped and to improve the aesthetic appearance of the building.

Library Board Chairman Dr. Elizabeth Rodgers told the Reporter that the addition will also make the building more energy efficient.

She said that a dedication of the building and open house will be held when the work is finished -- probably in the spring.

The second phase of the library renovation project is being financed by a 60-40 matching federal funds grant.

Funding secured under the Federal Jobs Bill amounts to $21,000. That had to be matched with $14,000 in local money.

A steering committee appointed by the library board has raised $24,086 towards the entire renovation project which includes a contractor's fee of $70,000 for the interior work.

A new library was made possible initially by a donation of more than $40,000 from the estate of the late Dr. Josephine Eddy, and the donation of the building by Dr. L.C. Parnell Jr.

When the new facility is dedicated, the names of individuals making contributions of $100 or more will be listed on wall plaques.

Other contributors will be listed in a book to be on permanent display in the library.

Anyone who would like to make a contribution should make their check payable to Parnell Memorial Library and address it to 160 Valley St., Montevallo, 35115.

Columbiana council doubles its pay rate

by Bert Seaman

After some hesitation, members of the Columbiana City Council voted a raise in salary for the city's next administration.

The council's present salary of $100 monthly is being doubled to $200 a month. The mayor will receive a monthly increase of $100, bringing his salary to $400 per month.

When Mayor Buck Falkner asked for discussion on the subject, Councilman Frank Owen first suggested a $500 monthly figure for the Mayor.

But some felt that figure was a little high since the position is only parttime.

"Do what's best for the city," responded Falkner, "I may not be here."

Councilman Lewis Walker said he thought the salaries should be increased if there was unanimous approval.

Councilman Harold McCord also expressed agreement providing the budget would stand it. He noted that "a whole lot of aggrevation" goes along with serving on the city's governing body.

The raises will go into effect when the next administration takes office in the fall. According to law, salaries must be set by January 10 prior to a new administration taking office, and cannot be changed during the term.

Because members of two churches on State 25 had registered so many complaints about a business near them, the council decided last year to vote on the annual business license renewal for Sub Tierra Rentals and Liquidators.

Although Councilman Harold McCord noted that the appearance of the salvage business owned by Benny Davis was "worse than ever," the council nevertheless renewed the license.

Church members had objected to the looks of the business and to the smoke and odor from burning refuse.

The business license fee for Davis is $100.

Before taking any action on a request from the DAY foundation (Developing Alabama Youth), the council decided to do some investigating.

The foundation -- which provides counseling and schooling for delinquent youth -- had asked the city for $624.

A letter from foundation president Ken Williams explained the figure was based on the number of young people from Columbiana referred to the program.

Williams reported that seven students from Columbiana Middle School are enrolled in the DAY program, which is based in Alabaster.

Municipalities are being asked for funds to pay a bus driver to transport students to the center each day.

When Jones asked why the Board of Education isn't responsible for paying a driver, the council decided to delay taking action until that information is obtained.

Two bids were accepted at the meeting: one on gasoline and diesel fuel for city vehicles, the other on a house to be removed from city property.

W.H. Thomas Oil Co. of Clanton was the low bidder on fuel; Monroe Shield bid $112.50 for the old Stinson home adjacent to city hall.

In other action, the council voted to appoint McCord to the vacancy on the gas board created by the death of Jimmy Curtis.

McCord, however, reported that he will only be able to fill the position temporarily because he is planning to move outside the city limits.

The term expires in 1987.

Dropped ceiling

Water from broken pipes on the University of Montevallo campus wreaked havoc in the student-services department housed in Reynolds Hall. Ceiling tiles collapsed causing water damage to carpet and paper products.

UM pipes freeze but harm contained

It could have been worse -- a whole lot worse, University of Montevallo Maintenance Supervisor Holland Floyd said about broken pipes caused by the December freeze.

The campus buildings where the most serious damage occurred were Reynolds and Main, Floyd reported. Those are the buildings with sprinkler systems.

In his opinion, Floyd said, the campus was fortunate to get off with only about $2,000 worth of damage.

That figure could be higher, he said, depending on how much carpet was ruined.

He also noted that the $2,000 figure doesn't take into account the overtime of the half dozen employees who worked around the clock during the freeze.

Although the wood chip boiler was shut down during the Christmas holidays, Floyd reported that the coal heating system was in operation.

However, employees who tried to work in their offices the week following Chirstmas reported it was too cold to stay.

Floyd pointed out the difficulty of keeping pipes from freezing in old buildings the size of those on the UM campus.

"Water even froze in pipes going to the boiler," the maintenance supervisor related.

The problem, he explained, was the temperature staying near the zero degree mark several days in a row.

In Reynolds, water from broken pipes caused ceiling tiles to fall and the carpet was soaked. The worst place hit was the student services department where paper supplies and a copying machine were damaged.

Two dormitory rooms were reportedly flooded in Main and Floyd said the Bloch Hall art gallery was "flooded pretty good."

However, he noted there were no paintings in the gallery at the time.

There are also reports that leaking pipes caused the ceiling tiles to fall a second time in the speech department after being replaced.

One maintenance worker said that he believed it would take a year to paint and repair all the damage caused by the broken pipes.

Classes at UM won't resume until next week, but Floyd said they could start this week if they needed to.

In fact, he said, it would make it a whole lot easier to keep up with where the broken pipes are if the buildings were occupied.

The wood chip boiler, he reported was turned on Monday in preparation for the students' return.

Doctor, ex-lawman indicted

A drug investigation begun in November has resulted in indictments against two Shelby County men -- a 49-year old physician and a 77-year old former police chief.

Dr. Frank Abernathy of Maylene and Charles "Chuck" Harris of Siluria have been indicted by a federal grand jury on heroin charges.

Harris' sister, 65-year old Beulah Hill of Sulligent, was also named in the grand jury indictment handed down last week.

In addition to the federal drug charges, Abernathy is charged with possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

US Attorney Frank Donaldson announced this week that the indictment against the Maylene physician included ten counts: conspiracy to import heroin, eight counts of importing heroin, and possession of heroin with the intent to distribute it.

Harris and Hill were both charged with conspiring to import heroin and two counts of importation.

According to Donaldson, the investigation of the case was begun by the police department in Bangkok, Thailand this past November.

Through the cooperative efforts of investigative agencies in Alabama, the case was completed last month.

Harris was arrested December 19 at Abernathy's home and the shotgun was found during a search of the premises. The doctor surrendered the following day.

If convicted of the drug charges, Abernathy faces a total of 150 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

The firearms charge carries an additional 10 year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

Harris and Hill both face a maximum of 45 years in prison and a $75,000 fine if convicted.

The investigation of the case in Alabama was conducted by the Drug Enforcement Administration, postal inspectors, FBI, ABI, Shelby County Sheriff's department and the Sulligent police department.

Arraignments for the three are set for January 19 in federal court before Magistrate R. Macey Taylor.

Donaldson said the case would be set on US District Judge James H. Hancock's trial docket beginning in March.

Rescue units advise calling closest squad

by Marcia M. Sears

The fastest way to get emergency help in Shelby County is to call the emergency rescue unit where you live. That unit will respond to the call and summon an ambulance if one is needed.

The probelm in Shelby County is that many people do not seem to know the name of the rescue unit nearest them, much less its telephone number. There are now 14 rescue services in the county.

If you panic, dial the county sheriff's office at 669-4181.

That was the recommendation of the Shelby County Emergency Medical Service, Inc., at the meeting of the Advisory Council Tuesday afternoon. The officers who endorsed the recommendation were chairman Danny Endress of Pelham, Lacey Lowery of Montevallo, and Mike Ellis of Alabaster.

William Price, who represented the Central Shelby and Harpersvillle ambulance services at the meeting, agreed. There was no representative of Hank's Ambulance Service present.

Those present agreed that Shelby County residents should not dial the 911 emergency telephone number because that service applies mostly to Jefferson County, and would not be as fast.

"As medics, our main conern is the patient," Endress commented. He indicated that medics did not want to get involved in conflicts between ambulance services, and medics would call whichever ambulance service was located nearest the scene of an emergency.

The Advisory Council is composed of one representative from each ambulance and rescue service in the county. Paramedics who are not associated with a rescue service are welcome to attend the meetings which are held the second Tuesday of each month at 4:30 at Shelby Medical Center.

Part of a series of messages from South Central Bell.

Where do I get local phone service?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But as part of a holding company called BellSouth, we're still your phone company. And divestiture will have little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is.

South Central Bell still provides local telephone service for your home and your business. Call on us to order new phone service, to transfer existing service, to add new lines, or to order new sets and equipment.

How to get special services.

South Central Bell still offers convenient services such as Touch-Tone® dialing, Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Speed Calling and Three-Way Calling (available in some areas).

And new services (available in some areas) such as Prestige℠ Service that gives expanded calling capabilities to business and residence customers with more than one line. And ESSX Service that uses advanced electronic switching service technology to give businesses PBX features.

Options let you keep costs down.

One change you've probably heard about is that local rates will go up. Competition and deregulation in the telecommunications industry mean an end to local service subsidies from long distance and other competitive services. That means local phone rates must increase to reflect more of the true costs of providing local service.

Local Measured Service options (available to homes and businesses in many areas) can help keep local service charges down. Local Measured Service is especially attractive to people who don't use the phone a lot to make local calls and for people who can't, or don't wish to, pay for Premium Flat Rate Service.

Coping with change.

We're doing everything we can to see that the changes brought about by divestiture and increased competition are as easy for you as possible. And nothing will affect the high quality of service you've come to expect from us.

If you have questions or want more information, return the coupon below. Or call on us at the Bell Answer Center, toll free, 1 800 555-5000, 8 a.m. till 8 p.m. CST, Monday through Friday.

We're still your phone company.

Calera meet goes sour

by Fred Guarino

Old time movie and radio star Happy Hal Burns played his guitar, sang songs and told jokes... And although some Calera city business was handled smoothly at Monday night's council meeting, the pleasant beginning belied the mood the meeting would take.

A revenue sharing budget, an appeal to have more members appointed to the city's adjustment board, and reappointments to the city's industrial development and planning and zoining boards were all approved.

However...

•There were verbal battles over a plan by Mark Jones to construct two new ball fields on 46 acres of land at Oliver Park.

That plan -- which was delayed until the Park and Recreation could meeting on January 12 -- would have used $24,489 in revenue sharing funds already earmarked for the park and carried over from 1982-83 money.

•There were verbal battles over a proposal by Mayor Carl Prichard to move a metal building from the old Calera landfill to the city shop.

That delayed action would have used an unappropriated $4,502 from current revenue sharing funds.

•There was a verbal battle over a proposal by Prichard to allow city shop mechanic James Coggins to take a city vehicle home with him to Alabaster.

The denied action was intended to give the mechanic compensation for extra duties as assistant shop superintendent -- a position he assumed without extra pay.

"Happy" Hal Burns, a old time star of Western movies and the Grand Old Opry, appeared with company representative Rodney Long to promote Energy Centers of Birmingham.

The company will be performing energy audits for residents of Calera by telephone appointment, to help them conserve energy. It will also attempt to sell solar products.

Long notified the council of his operations in Calera and he told the body of his plans to push for solar equipment easement laws.

"Even though small, y'all seem to see further into the future than other cities," Long said.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rose wanted to replace a temporary single-wide trailer home located on property not zoned for that purpose with a double-wide.

After being turned down for a variance by the Calera zoning board, they took an appeal to the adjustment board.

Because board member Horace Bright owns property adjoining that of the Roses, he removed himself from the appeal hearing which left only councilman Jones to hear the case. In turn Jones suggested the couple take its appeal to court for relief.

However, with the help of Budget Home Center's Dave Smith, the Roses said such action would deny them the right of local appeal.

They asked Mayor Prichard to grant them the right of local appeal by appointing additional members to the adjustment board. Prichard agreed.

Smith argued that all mobile homes should not be lumped into one group because prices range from $7,900 to $59,000. He also suggested that cases of site built homes should never become court issues.

Photos were also given to council members to prove a double-wide trailer would be an improvement to the area in question.

"I would like to see some people appointed (to the board) with no prejudices against mobile homes," Smith told the mayor.

* * * *

Councilman Jones introduced a plan to build two new ball fields on 46 acres of park land. The fields would allow for a 100-foot buffer zone for Farris Subdivision.

The plan was attacked immediately by councilman W.B. Watts and Prichard. Watts argued that 100 feet is larger than most building lots and would be a waste of valuable property.

Prichard argued that land to be left for an access road would lead to excessive expenses due to geographic conditions.

Jones asked Watts and Prichard to put themselves in the place of Farris Subdivision residents. He argued that a smaller buffer zone would disrupt life there.

"I've stated my position. It's up to the council," Jones said firmly. But that was not the end of the argument.

Prichard said a previously drawn master plan called for an access road to the park in an area that would mean less construction expense.

Councilman Jeff Pilgreen also argued that people might want to use the land for something other than ball, and that Jones' plan called for two other fields at a later date.

Prichard jumped on the opportunity to point out that the original master plan was good. But Jones challenged the value of the original plan which did not include a topographical map.

He said it actually placed ball fields over a creek.

"The plan was not drawn with a park consultant," Jones said over an opposing point of view by Prichard.

"That property cost this city a lot of money and we will be paying for it for several years," Prichard said. "I feel strongly that we should take great care to be sure every citizen of town benefits..."

The mayor again proposed that the original plan be used.

"You can't put a field in a creek," Jones replied, adding that only two ball fields were planned and that possible additional fields could be located elsewhere in the park.

Councilman Arthur Davis brought arguments to a close when he suggested that Jones present his plan to the Park and Recreation Board prior to council action.

"I don't want them to have any idea we will approve this," Prichard said firing one last shot before the issue was passed by.

Mayor Prichard found the going rough when he proposed that a metal building be moved from the old landfill to the city shop for storage space.

That would have been done with an unappropriated $4,502 from current revenue sharing funds.

Watts suggested that a new building might be constructed for the same amount or little more. He also argued that the Calera Water Board had requests before the council which have not been granted.

Too, Watts pointed out that the building is being utilized in reference to fire department smoke training exercises.

Prichard said the city was responsible for storing its equipment and preventing accidents which could happen if children were able to get to the equipment

He added that current conditions at the city shop make inventory control almost impossible.

The mayor opposed granting funding for the Water Board which he called a "self generating income department."

Davis again brought arguments to a close by moving that the revenue sharing budget be approved without an allocation for the unused $4,502.

Jones seconded the motion which was passed over Pilgreen's and Prichard's opposition.

Pilgreen argued that the metal building is being shot up at the landfill and he did not think a new $5,000 building could be built for moving costs.

* * * *

Revenue sharing uses which were approved Monday night include:

Flood Control, $2,674; equipment lease, $7,022; ordinance codification $4,000; fire breathing compressor, $2,000; police communication equipment, $5,538; rescue communication equipment, $3,300; 17th Avenue sewer extenstion $22,000; recreation building repairs, $1,651.

An amount of $24,489 was carried over from last year for park use, though no plan was approved.

* * * *

Prichard and Jones were both defeated on efforts to give shop mechanic James Coggins compensation for extra duties.

Prichard wanted Coggins to be given the right to take a city vehicle home with him. Jones wanted Coggins to be paid the state's gas mileage rate.

Pilgreen pointed out that citizens already complain about city employees taking vehicles home and other councilmen argued that no gas mileage is paid for other employees.

* * * *

In final actions, Bill Schroeder was reappointed to the city's industrial development board and W.M. Davis was reappointed to the city's planning and zoning board.

Library addition

Parnell Library spiffed up

With interior work on Montevallo's Parnell Memorial Library completed, efforts have turned to improving the outward appearance of the former South Central Bell building.

An entrance is being constructed to make the library more accessible to the handicapped and to improve the aesthetic appearance of the building.

Library Board Chairman Dr. Elizabeth Rodgers told the Reporter that the addition will also make the building more energy efficient.

She said that a dedication of the building and open house will be held when the work is finished -- probably in the spring.

The second phase of the library renovation project is being financed by a 60-40 matching federal funds grant.

Funding secured under the Federal Jobs Bill amounts to $21,000. That had to be matched with $14,000 in local money.

A steering committee appointed by the library board has raised $24,086 towards the entire renovation project which includes a contractor's fee of $70,000 for the interior work.

A new library was made possible initially by a donation of more than $40,000 from the estate of the late Dr. Josephine Eddy, and the donation of the building by Dr. L.C. Parnell Jr.

When the new facility is dedicated, the names of individuals making contributions of $100 or more will be listed on wall plaques.

Other contributors will be listed in a book to be on permanent display in the library.

Anyone who would like to make a contribution should make their check payable to Parnell Memorial Library and address it to 160 Valley St., Montevallo, 35115.

If the contribution is given in memory or in honor or an individual, their name should be attached to the check.

ID's must be checked

It may not always be easy working as clerk in an ABC or convenience store. But it's not so tough a job that one can't find the time or means to ask a young customer toting a six-pack to show an ID.

It's such a simple thing to do. A simple thing that could save a teenager from a lot of trouble. It could also save someone's life in the event the teen does his drinking on the road.

Unfortunately, as simple as an ID check is, this newspaper's 'Jack and Jill' undercover survey revealed that alcohol is more than available to Shelby County teens. And apparently, the problem of underaged alcohol purchases and drinking spreads wider than our county.

"It's one of the biggest problems in the state," said ABC head Henry Gray, who called last Thursday inquiring about particulars in that week's article on the survey.

Gray and most callers voiced support for tighter reins on teenage drinking. At least one ABC employee, who didn't appreciate the story, pointed out that enforcement of the drinking age laws is lax. Like those that sell to minors, this problem can also be solved.

Finally, as to those store clerks who refused to sell to a minor, and who asked to see Jack and Jill's ID's -- well, we toast you.

Tax vote date mystifies reader

Letter to the Editor:

I am at a complete loss to understand the actions of the Board of Education and the County Commission regarding the special election for a school tax.

As I understand, the Board of Education desires to hold this election on the 14th of February rather than wait four weeks and have it in conjunction with the Presidential Preference Primary. This despite the fact that it will cost the county in excess of $7,000.00 plus many hours of work by county employees to hold this special election when the cost and extra work would be nothing if held in conjunction with the scheduled election on March 13th.

I was told the reason for the early date was because AEA was during the week of March 13th and many people would be out of the county. I can't believe that education personnel would not know about and use the absentee voting procedure if they would not be here to vote.

Also, if they are to be gone and do not use the absentee ballot, would that indicate that to them a presidential election is not worth the trouble to vote?

Since the 3 mills tax, if passed, would not be collected until the end of the year, it shouldn't make any difference if the vote was March 13th or February 14th. When the education people are so ready to spend so much money needlessly, it makes me wonder if they really need more funding.

It is equally hard to understand why our County Commission agreed to this request, considering the economic situation of Shelby County.

Yours truly,
Laura A. Tucker

Rescue 88 says call us 'free'

Letter to the Editor:

We, the members of Rescue 88, were concerned and dismayed by the article by Fred Guarino in the December 29th edition of the Reporter entitled "Calling Wrong Number Can Mean Delayed Help."

The story, as told in the article, relayed the account of an accident victim waiting for twenty minutes for an ambulance and the medical help it could provide. The accident was in Columbiana, the ambulance in Pelham.

Had Rescue 88 been called, help would have been only moments away, the victim would have received medical attention and the "distraught wife" would have been relieved of her immediate worry.

As the only organized Medical Emergency Rescue Unit for the Southeast Shelby County area, we are both able and ready to provide FREE assistance in any medical emergency occurring within our coverage area, which includes Columbiana, Wilsonville, Shelby and surrounding areas.

Our membership includes one (1) Paramedic, two (2) RN's and numerous First Level Emergency Medical Technicians and First Responders. Our only goal is to provide needed emergency medical service to the people in our area.

Rescue 88 is dispatched by voice pagers from the Sheriff's office in Columbiana. If assistance is needed, simply call the Sheriff's office at 669-4181 and ask for Rescue 88.

Port South residents thankful for decorations

Letter to the Editor:

Someone decorated our Port South development during Christmas, with lovely pine boughs and ribbons. The entrance and every street sign was tastefully done. Just as magically as they were decorated, the decorations were taken down this past week end.

Since I do not know who to properly "thank", would you mention it in your paper?

As residents of that area, we certainly appreciated and enjoyed the beauty of it.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Georgia Krahn

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

A look back at an old year: We supposed it had been there forever. A little frame church, not much bigger than three loaves of bread, that had been on the same spot on highway 47 between Columbiana and Chelsea all our lives. But that was yesteryear. Today it is still there, a pretty white church big enough for anybody, where folks come once every month and sing the prettiest songs you'll hear anywhere.

We got to the lake early, Amy and I, almost before the sun got there. We wanted to fish a long time. And I guess we would have except a big bass stole Amy's line before we really got started, and I hadn't brought a spare line along. The next week, at Sears, we bought a new tackle box and filled it with lines and floats and hooks and sinkers. Enough to last three summers no matter what the big bass did.

Ed Benson didn't have but one dog -- a little mutt bigger than a maypop but smaller than a wheelbarrow. A nosey, cantankerous mutt that frolicked with the deer outside my garden, and made a little trail from Ed's house to our house by way of my corn patch. When August came my corn was knee high and already tasseling. All except one stalk. A stalk on the edge of my patch where Ed's dog passed every day on his way to frolic. One stalk that must have been eight feet tall with three big ears between the ground and the tassel.

They're special kids, every one of 'em, from the last house in Wilsonville and Four Mile to the last house in Shelby, and all the other places in between. They go to Shelby County High School and once every year, at Christmas time, they give me a big check for the Columbiana Christmas fund. I guess that's why they're so special in my book.

Mosaic

by Marcia M. Sears

A mosaic is hundreds of little pieces fitted together to make a whole.

Every week, putting together the Shelby County Reporter is like putting together a mosaic. We start with empty sheets of paper, then fill them in with the news, the features, and the advertisements of the week.

Choosing the most important news and features is no easy task.

Our own reader surveys show that Reporter readers like 'hard' news best.

New nationwide polls show that readers now want more international news than they used to want, and are not as interested in entertainment and lifestyle features as they were a few years ago.

So, what should I do about writing this column, this week? With the above considerations in mind, let me try to put together little pieces of both hard and international news and see if it turns out to be of any interest or relevance to our favorite people -- the readers of the Shelby County Reporter.

These are bits of information gathered on two newspaper tours in 1983, while interviewing people of five governments of Southeast Asia, and six governments of Europe:

They talk about the 'successor generation' and they mean the people who were born after World War II and don't remember the post-war era. This generation does not know about American contributions during that war, nor about how the Marshall Plan rebuilt the world. This means their perception of the United States is gained through television, and the Vietnam war experience, and the total effect is not flattering to the US.

It makes it easier for the young people to believe soviet propaganda. They will be the leaders of their countries in a few more years.

* * * *

European nations are contributing about 75% of the cost of their own defense even though Americans seem to believe that the US is doing most of it.

* * * *

Southeast Asians do not want Japan to build up its military power again. Heads of governments remember the Japanese occupation, and do not want it repeated.

They want the United States to remain militarily strong to deter both Russia and China from making advances into their countries. They feel a strong US guarantees their own freedom.

* * * *

Watch Singapore and Malaysia for future economic growth. They have hard working people and governments that encourage industry.

* * * *

There is a vast oversupply of food in the world. In the Common Market countries of Europe they talk about 'mountains of butter' and 'lakes of milk and wine'. As in the United States, subsidies of these items are creating severe storage problems.

Elsewhere the problem is oversupply of olive oil, palm oil, or coconut oil, not to mention soybean oil. And still thousands of people are starving in remote pockets of the world.

* * * *

But no matter what their arguments are about the United States, there is one thing which leaders of the free world nations seem to want:

Recovery of the United States economy.

They want US interest rates to drop, and US business and industry to get moving once again. They see that American prosperity is directly tied to their prosperity. They want to be able to sell their goods to Americans again, like they used to when the dollar was weak against other currencies.

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Has the cost of running for the State Legislature gotten out of hand? It would seem so. Not too many years ago the rule of thumb was that for $5,000 you could run a creditable race for the House, and for $10,000 you could make a strong campaign for a State Senate seat.

Financial disclosure records in the office of the Secretary of State on the special legislative election in November clearly indicate what has happened to campaign costs. You hear a lot about the "high cost of living" but that can be amended to read "the high cost of running."

Candidates for the State Senate in the November election spent an average of $27,316. While this was down slightly from the record high average of $31,048 set in the 1982 election, it should be remembered that only about half of the legislative seats were contested in November, and in many of those the eventual winners had no more than token opposition.

Far and away the biggest spender last November was incumbent Sen. Jim Smith of Huntsville. His opponent was an independent who scarcely got out of his own neighborhood during the campaign, but Smith nonetheless spent an incredible $96,230 in the race. This was an extreme example of the old political maxim of "running scared."

There may have been more to Smith's spending than meets the eye. He has dropped all sorts of hints that come 1984 or 1986 he may run for Congress, and all the TV exposure he got in his legislative race may have been the opening shots of the congressional campaign.

While Smith was leading the way in campaign spending, the Alabama Education Association through its political action committee, A-VOTE, was, predictably, leading the way in campaign contributions. A-VOTE dumped a whopping $219,361 into the legislative races. This came only a few weeks after AEA head man Dr. Paul Hubbert had said their PAC was broke.

Runner-up in the list of contributors was the newly-created Progress-PAC, a pro-business organization. It gave $199,399 to candidates considered favorable to business.

Odds and Ends --- Death has claimed Probate Judge Wiley Hickman of Gadsden. Hickman had held that office since 1952 and only twice ever had opposition. He was also a long-time member of the State Democratic Executive Committee...

Friends of former Gov. John Patterson are holding a dinner in his honor on January 19, which is the 25th anniversary of his inauguration as governor. Hosting the event are three of his Cabinet members --- Charles Meriwether, who masterminded the Patterson campaign in 1958 and served as Finance Director; Alvin Prestwood, former Pensions and Security Commissioner; and Ted Rinehart, who served as Insurance Superintendent. Gov. George Wallace is expected to attend to pay his respects to the only man ever to beat him in a governor's race.

For sewer expansion

Montevallo ponders additional one cent tax

by Bert Seaman

The Montevallo City Council has decided to continue their practice of serving without pay and to keep the mayor's total compensation at $3,000. Even so, the city needs more money than the budget provides for.

The reason is the city's sewer system.

At Monday's meeting, Mayor Ralph Sears reported the need for expanding the system, noting that an additional one cent sales tax might be used to finance the project.

He asked the finance committee to meet with the water board this week to assess the situation.

Sears told the council that the 20-year old sewer plant needs to be expanded in order to meet population growth.

The present capacity of the system is 500,000 gallons per day, but city administrator Don Hughes said that is sometimes exceeded.

Hughes noted that the state has issued the city a permit to operate the sewerage plant while working to upgrade the system.

If the council decides to add one cent to the penny already collected from the six cents charged on every dollar, it would bring in an estimated additional $100,000 a year.

Hughes estimated that expanding the sewerage plant would cost anywhere from $250,000 to $1 million, depending on the extent of the project.

The chamber of commerce and the parent-teacher group have both endorsed the additional one cent sales tax. Their reasons for wanting the tax, however, are for educational improvements and to attract business to the city.

One group pleased with the city's efforts on its behalf, expressed its appreciation at the meeting through black community leader George Dailey.

After reading a letter commending the council for redistricting the city, Dailey distributed a copy to each council member.

Noting that the council acted without being influenced by outside forces, the letter went on to say that it was "courageous and humanistic."

Sears thanked Dailey, telling him the council took the action because, "We thought it was the right thing to do."

The redistricting plan divides the city into five voting districts, with one composed of a majority of black voters.

It should ensure black representation on the council beginning this year when voters go to the polls in July to elect a new council.

No action was taken on a request from an agency that works with troubled youth, because the request arrived so late in the budget year.

The request for $1,242 came from DAY (Developing Alabama Youth). It was based on the number of Montevallo students who are enrolled in the program of combined counseling and schooling.

Other business taken up at Monday's meeting included:

•A vote to renew the contract with Central Shelby Ambulance Service at a monthly charge of $320

•Giving approval for the mayor to sign the Housing Authority's application for funds to upgrade housing in Crowe and Scott Village •Hearing that a $25,000 suit has been filed against the city by a homeowner whose property (a house) was damaged by a fallen tree.

First aid offered

First aid classes will be held Jan. 23 and Jan. 30 at the Red Cross office in Alabaster.

Emily Rabren, director of the Red Cross chapter in Shelby County, said the classes are to help mothers cope with injuries in the home.

The class sessions, lasting from 8:30-4, will be conducted by first aid instructor Sherry Wilson, a health educator with the Shelby County Health Department.

Persons interested in enrolling for the instruction should call 663-4290 between the hours of 9:30 and 3:30 Monday through Friday.

"Knowing correct first aid procedures," Rabren pointed out, "can make a difference in saving precious moments before the arrival of a rescue squad or ambulance."

Cattlemen hear editor

Members of the Shelby County Cattlemen's Association don't 'pig out' at their annual meetings. But they certainly do eat a lot steak.

That's only part of what the group will be doing Friday, January 20, when it meets at 7 p.m. in the dining hall at the University of Montevallo.

According to association spokesman James Bearden, also on the agenda for the evening is guest speaker Charlie Scruggs, vice president and editor of Progressive Farmer magazine.

Bearden said the dinner meeting is open to any prospective member of the association. For more information, call Bearden during the day at 668-0173.

Bloodmobile arrives

The American Red Cross Blood Services bus will roll into Shelby County this Friday.

The bloodmobile will be parked at the Pelham K mart from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m., and Red Cross hopes to see more than 50 blood donors.

Shelby County blood donors are urged to help Red Cross continue to meet hospital patients blood needs, especially in January when available blood supplies are low due to high demands in December.

Keep in mind that donors must be healthy adults between 18 and 66 and weigh at least 110 pounds. With parental permission, 17 year olds can also give blood.

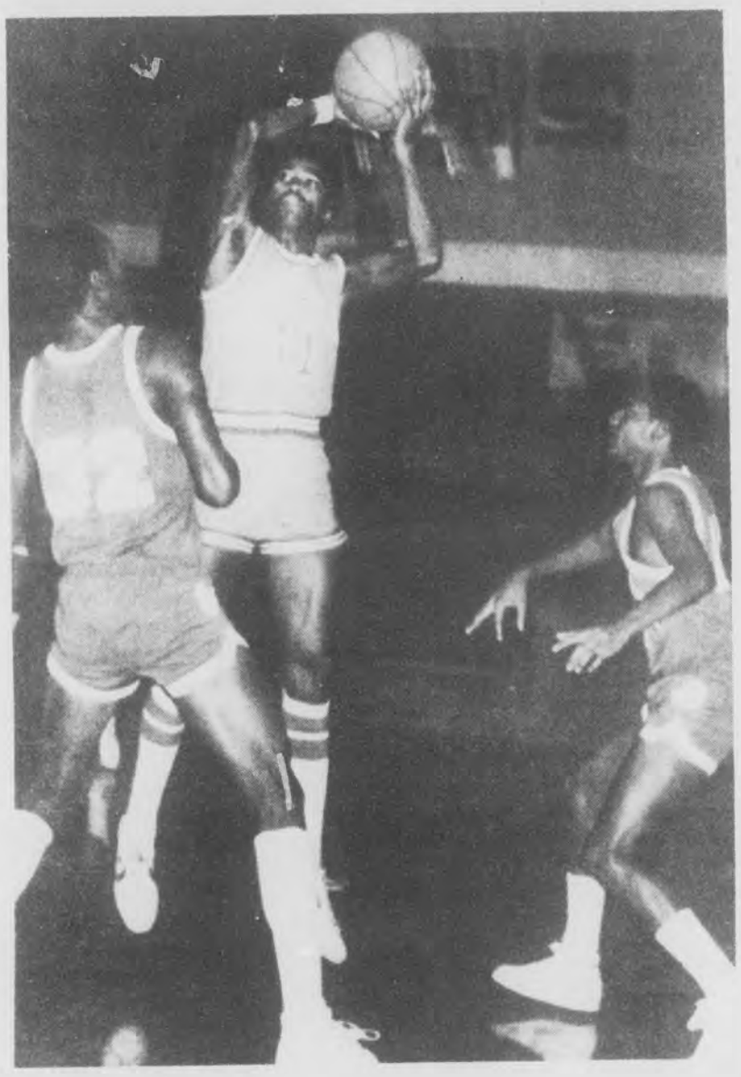
New uniforms shine but luck runs out on 'Dogs

by Fred Guarino

In basketball, when things go right for a team, they go very right. But when things go wrong, it seems there is no end to disaster.

The Montevallo Bulldogs found that out in a hard fought but losing 56-46 effort against Bibb County, last Friday night.



Putting it up

Terry Rutledge puts a shot up against Bibb County in a contest played on the Montevallo home court, last Friday night. But even with new uniforms as an incentive, the 'Dogs could not pull this one out. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

For the first time this season, the 'Dogs unveiled new bright orange uniforms with bold blue letters. The spotless trappings were so new in fact that scorekeepers had to list new numbers for almost the entire team.

To go along with the new uniforms, a near capacity crowd cheered wildly for almost one full half while the 'Dogs played tough defense and Taylor Blackwell consistently got open to hit long shots from the side court.

Bibb County, 7-4 on the season, got off to a 6-0 lead but Tyrone Bell popped a basket with 2:19 remaining in the first period and things started going right for Montevallo.

By the first period buzzer, 5-2 Montevallo pulled within a bucket of the visitors to make it a 11-9 contest.

The score was tied at 13-13, 15-15, 17-17 before Bell hit to make the score 21-20 and to give the 'Dogs their first lead of the night.

The Bulldogs stayed tough and between the court play of Bell and Blackwell, Montevallo managed to stay on top 25-23 with 39 seconds left in the half.

But things suddenly took a turn for the worse. Blackwell, who had been playing on a taped and injured ankle, reinjured himself. The visitors tied the score again at 25-all at the half.

When the 'Dogs came back in the third period, the services of Blackwell were noticeably absent. Although Montevallo managed to take a lead of 27-25 in the early going, Bibb County regained control and jumped out to a 33-29 lead.

Coach Kurt Pnazek later sent Blackwell back into the game but the tide had turned and the 'Dogs began to get into foul trouble.

Even with a tough Bulldog man-to-man defense, Bibb County managed to lead by three points 36-33 going into the final period.

Things continued to go wrong for Pnazek's squad and Bulldog Terry Rutledge fouled out.

With 1:50 left in the contest, Pnazek called time out to try to regroup his squad. But it was too little to late.

The 'Dogs committed five fouls to one for the visitors in the last moments of play and when the horn sounded, it was a ten point victory for Bibb County.

"We didn't execute like in the first half," was all a dejected Bell could say after the game. He was the team's leading scorer with 14 points.

However Montevallo Coach Pnazek listed more reasons for the loss.

"Terry's (Rutledge) getting into foul trouble hurt us," he said. "But we made too many mistakes and Taylor Blackwell reinjured his ankle. We had inexperienced players coming off the bench and we lost our offense."

Blackwell wound up as the team's leading rebounder with eight boards, injured ankle and all.

But the final blow which dropped Montevallo to 5-3 on the year was the fact that the 'Dogs could hit only 50 percent of their shots from the charity line.

Cool move leads to UM win over Georgia Southwestern

"It was one of the coolest performances under pressure I have seen in my 17 years of college coaching," said UM basketball coach Bill Elder.

What Elder was describing was a last second shot by senior guard Anthony Glaude to give the Falcons a come from behind 70-69 win over Georgia Southwestern last week.

"It was a big win for us especially after trailing by six with 14:52 left to play," Elder said. "The kids never gave up and everyone contributed as 11 players scored. I think the difference in the game was our bench. Everyone that went in the game played well."

In the Falcons' other game last week they lost to a strong Livingston team 66-63 in Livingston. Even though the Falcons lost, the play of 6' 6" 218-pound center Clarence Rowe was a bright spot along with the steady play of Anthony Glaude.

Rowe hit a season high 21 points and pulled down nine rebounds. The junior college transfer had his best shooting night of the year hitting 8 of 14. His performance came in just 21 minutes of playing time.

"I was extremely pleased with Clarence's performance. "When we recruited Clarence we thought he would be the answer to our inside game and tonight he showed what he can do," Elder said.

Montevallo's 6' 3" 180-pound senior guard Anthony Glaude continued to show why he is an All-American candidate. He pumped in 18 points on 9 of 15 shooting and picked off four rebounds. The game marked the 13th straight contest in which he has scored in double figures.

"Every expression that one would use to describe an excellent offensive ball player should be used to describe Anthony," said elder. "Even though the other team is going to double-team him when he gets the ball he's still going to score 18 to 22 points a night."

Montevallo will play three straight home games starting with Cumberland College this Saturday (Jan. 14) followed by conference opponents UAH Monday (Jan. 16) and rival Birmingham-Southern next Thursday (Jan. 19) All games tip-off at 7:30 p.m.

County chess players show their stuff

Where are the best chess players in the Shelby County School System?

According to the results of a tournmanet held at Columbiana, Monday, Montevallo and Riverchase students seem to have the edge.

Among seven grades competing at the county board of education building Riverchase Middle School students won the sixth grade and the eighth grade competition.

Montevallo Middle School won the seventh grade action and Montevallo High School won the ninth grade action.

Shelby County High School took first place in tenth grade competition, Pelham High School won the eleventh grade action and Thompson High School won the senior high division.

Greg Mitchell took sixth grade honors for Riverchase while Montevallo Middle's Mark Fanning took second.

Ky MacPherson claimed seventh grade glory for Montevallo Middle while John Gilliam took second place for Calera.

In eighth grade action, Buffy Jones was the winner for Riverchase while Johnny McNeel took second for Montevallo Middle.

Montevallo High School's John Turner won the ninth grade division while Shelby County High School's John Slaughter claimed second.

Shelby County's James Hatcher won the tenth grade division and Pelham High's Steve Dearment took second.

Steve McDonough took first place in eleventh grade action for Pelham while Montevallo High School's Jim Turner took second.

Chris Ridley won the senior high division for Thompson while Ricky Hayes took second for Pelham.

The competition was sponsored by the Shelby County School System and was under the direction of Lusia Macpherson, superintendent of the county school system's enrichment program.

Auburn, Nebraska join forces on health

If you thought Auburn University and the University of Nebraska could never be on the same side about anything... think again.

The schools will combine their efforts Saturday, February 25, to examine athletic training philosophies and their scientific underpinnnings in a live-by-satellite teleconference/clinic on principles of training better, healthier athletes.

Coaches and trainers from around the country will gather at some 30 universities, including Auburn, and Alabama, for the all-day clinic titled "Strength & Conditioning for Athletes: Procedures, Philosophy & Concepts."

High School and college coaches, professionals and others interested in physical fitness and good training practices will see tests of speed, power, agility and strength.

They will also view strength-building demonstrations, learn techniques for evaluation, goal setting and program implementation with and without sophisticated equipment.

A reduced fee of $40 for those who come to AU.

For registration information, contact the Office of Continuing Education, 100 Mell Hall, Auburn University, Auburn, AL 36849-3501, phone (205) 826-5100.

For information on other Alabama sites contact Ed Booth, Division of Continuing Education, P. O. Box 2967, the University of Alabama, University AL 35486.

Basketball rebounds from holidays

by Fred Guarino

Santa Claus has come and gone and a new year is upon us.

Now that the Christmas gifts have shed their multi-colored wrappers and bows, and the champagne bottles have been emptied, it's time once again for basketball.

The Pelham Panthers began the new year in style. Tuesday night, a week ago, the Panthers handed the Thompson Warriors a rare loss, 70-61.

The Reporter was unable to get in touch with Panther coach Tony Taylor for comments, but their is little doubt that a victory over the Warriors was a big one for Pelham.

The Panthers were expected to take on Berry last Friday night.

* * * *

The Chelsea Hornets got off to a slow start in 1984, with losses to Calera last Thursday and to Winterboro, Tuesday a week ago.

But that doesn't have coach Mike Sims too upset.

"We are just young, playing a lot of tenth graders. Four of our five starters are playing their first year on the varsity team. It's a growing thing," Sims said.

The Hornets are 2-9 on the season. But even in their 83-55 loss to Calera and their 57-56 loss to Winterboro, they showed class.

Steve Shelton scored 23 points against Calera and was followed by Jason Wiggins with 10. Wiggins also got ten rebounds.

Shelton also paced Chelsea against Winterboro with 21 points. Keith Welch got 15 points and Mike Fant got ten. Wiggins led the squad with 11 rebounds.

* * * *

Indian Springs School, suffering a 1-7 record, is waiting until Monday night to open the new year against Springville.

Except for last Monday's expected contest, coach Greg VanHorn's team saw no action after the holidays.

* * * *

The last time Coosa Valley touched the basketball was just before the Christmas holidays when the Rebels fell in an upset to Shelby Academy.

The 6-2 team coached by Bruce Breland was expected to open 1984 action against Chambers last Friday night and play Chambers again last Tuesday night.

Breland said of the pre-holiday 53-41 loss to the Raiders, "We went in over-confident and they came out ready to play. We were let down both physically and mentally."

"But I think we learned that even though we have a good ball team, we cannot go out and not play hard," he continued. "Hopefully, that brought us back to earth."

Against Shelby Academy, Van Huffaker led the Rebels with 13 points while John Beavers hooped in 12. Huffaker led in rebounding with nine.

* * * *

The Shelby Academy Raiders are now 7-3 on the season with a big win in the Cahawba Invitational Tournament last Thursday night.

The Raiders whipped Cahawba 44-43 in the championship game, placed Jim Lee on the All Tournament Team, and saw Dennis Attaway named MVP.

Attaway scored 15 points in the championship game and Vince Pickett went to the boards to lead the team with 12 rebounds, passing usual board master Lee in that contest.

The Raiders were to play Berney Points last Friday night.

* * * *

Shelby County's Wildcats have not played since the holidays. They were expected to return to action last Friday night against Briarwood.

* * * *

The Montevallo Bulldogs were 5-2 on the season as of Friday afternoon. Tuesday, a week ago, Coach Kurt Pnazek's squad defeated Maplesville 47-43.

Tyrone Bell and Taylor Blackwell led the Bulldogs against Maplesville with 14 points each, followed by Tommy Bivins with ten.

Terry Rutledge pulled down eight rebounds to lead the Bulldogs on the boards.

(See separate story on Friday's game against Bibb County.

* * * *

With a loss to Pelham High School, Tuesday a week ago, the 10-4 Thompson Warriors got 1984 off to a shocking start.

The Warriors, who play good ball most of the time, "are losing some of their intensity," according to Coach Thomas Johnson.

Johnson said that while the only senior on his squad, Luvell Bivins, is giving good leadership, he hopes the rest of the team comes around.

Against Pelham, Chris Thomas led in scoring for the Warriors with 18 points and led in rebounding with 14 boards.

The Warriors took on Vincent last Friday night and returned to old form downing the now 9-3 Yellow Jackets 75-62. (See accompanying photos)

* * * *

In a 63-54 contest, Tony Hamilton led the 'Jackets with 16 points, while Bruce Hamilton led in rebounding with 18 boards.

Against Thompson Bennie Joe Keller led the team with 18 points and Bruce Hamilton led in rebounding with 18 boards.

* * * *

The only contest played by Calera since the holidays was the 83-55 win over Chelsea.

Now 3-5 on the season, Greg Haynes led the Eagles with a hot 26 points and 19 rebounds against the Hornets.

Calera played Altamont in an away game last Tuesday.

* * * *

In post-holiday action, the 5-4 Lions knocked off St. Clair County 59-33 last Thurday night.

Bobby Welch led Briarwood's scoring attack with 14 points, and the defensive aspect of the game as well, with 11 boards. Bob Farris was close behind Welch with ten rebounds of his own.

Golden Falcons stumble against top ranked foes

The UM Lady Golden Falcons basketball squad traveled to Pensacola last week and saw a five game win streak end on two losses to nationally ranked teams.

The Golden Falcons fell in a 80-70 decision to eighth ranked Central Arkansas and then lost 74-64 to Arkansas at Monticello. The setbacks put the Lady Falcons record at 5-4 on the year.

"We played two outstanding teams that didn't make many mistakes," said Coach Bud Childers. "Both teams were well coached and did what they do best all night long, go inside to their All-Americans. We couldn't stop them when we had to."

In the first game against Central Arkansas, UM jumped out to a 26-21 lead on a basket by Ruth Perkins with 8:15 left in the first half. Central Arkansas then outscored Montevallo 18-10 the rest of the half and took a 39-36 halftime lead on a long shot by Natalie Martin as the horn sounded.

In the second half Montevallo couldn't stop the duo of Ann Beck and All-American Terri Conder. The two combined for 26 second half points, all coming from inside. For the night, Beck scored a career high 26 points and Conder added 23.

The Golden Falcons cut the lead to 62-59 on a basket by Judy Perkins with 4:33 left to play but then Central Arkansas put together three, three-point plays to lead 70-59 with 2:49 left.

"We made too many defensive mistakes," said Childers. "Conder showed why she is an All-American and we let Beck be an All-American for one night."

Montevallo was led by Karen Scott with 22 points followed by Sharen Douglas 20 and Judy Perkins 17. Scott grabbed a game high 13 rebounds as the Golden Falcons outrebounded the taller Central Arkansas squad 39-33. The downfall of the Golden Falcons was that they committed 17 turnovers to Central Arkansas's 7.

The next night against Arkansas-Monticello the Golden Falcons got 30 points from Karen Scott and 15 points from Sharen Douglas but came up short in the end losing 74-64. Montevallo trailed 38-24 at the half but came back to within five points on three different occasions in the second half.

The crucial point in the game came after a Lynett French basket cut the lead to 50-45 with 9:56 left. But after Montevallo's defense held Arkansas-Monticello the Golden Falcons offense turned the ball over with a chance to cut the lead to three on two consecutive trips down the floor.

"We had them on the ropes..." said Childers. "If we could have scored we would have won the game."

Arkansas-Monticello was led by 6' 3", 235 pound All-American Pearl Davidson's 22 points.

"We are still a good basketball team, we're just not a great one yet," added Childers. "In our first nine games we have played five teams in the top twenty so a 5-4 record isn't that bad."

The Lady Golden Falcons next home games are against Livingston (Monday, Jan. 16) and against North Alabama (Thursday, Jan. 19) at 5:30 p.m.

Oak Mountain golf

According to State Parks Director Sidney B. Bledsoe, senior citizen permit holders will receive their 50 percent discount on the discount prices as well.

In addition to Oak Mountain, the green fees will apply at Gulf State, Joe Wheeler, Lake Guntersville, Lakepoint and Roland Cooper State Parks.

Chelsea man plays Jim Bowie

With only a fillet knife and his bare hands Fred Griffin of Chelsea has filled his family's freezer with fresh meat and won a trophy for his wall.

Griffin, his wife, Reba, sister-in-law Cecila Griffin and their five children were cutting firewood last Monday on the family property when they heard the dogs start running, he said. He told the kids to be quiet and listen and they might see a deer. Sure enough, in a few minutes one of them yelled that a deer was in the lake.

Ice still covered much of the lake's surface but a large buck was breaking it with his front hooves as he made his way through the water.

Forgetting the cold, Griffin dashed into the water and waded out waist deep to catch the buck by its antlers. Calling for someone to bring him a gun or knife he began wrestling the animal toward shore.

It kicked him on the leg, skinned his side with an antler and once even threw him under the water, he said, but he managed to hang on.

Meanwhile, Reba and a nephew, Gerald Griffin, had run to the house for a weapon. Unable to find a loaded gun, the nephew grabbed a fillet knife and carried it to his mother who waded out to Griffin with it.

"I felt sort of bad about it all after I had killed him," Griffin says. But he admits that the deer makes for mighty fine eating.

The family and dinner guests shared a large roast on Sunday and they have also enjoyed "deer burgers." And the head, sporting an eight-point rack, is being mounted for the Griffin's wall.

Vickrey attends NCAA meet

Why was University of Montevallo President Jim Vickrey in Dallas for the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA)? After all, his school is a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

"You don't have to be president of a large university with a football program," Vickrey said, "to be concerned about ensuring the integrity of American intercollegiate athletics."

As chairman of the NAIA's Presidents' Advisory Committee, Vickrey added that his group should have been represented at the day-long meeting since the NCAA is proposing to create a similar president's program.

Vickrey is also a member of the Interassociational Presidents' Committee on Collegiate Athletics (IPCCA) which is sponsoring the forum and meeting during the NCAA convention.

Alabama helps Alabama

Area businesses, civic groups, churches and individuals are being asked to contribute to the financially stricken, non-profit Children's Hospital of Alabama. Randy Owens of the musical group 'Alabama' kicked off the 'Help Alabama's Children' fundraising campaign by handing over a $5,000 check from the group, to the hospital's Jim Reed. For information on helping, call Reed at 939-9000.

Tax refund program helps fight child abuse

Alabama taxpayers who check item 34c on their tax form may keep a child from being neglected or abused.

A checkmark beside that item indicates the taxpayers' willingness to give part of their refund to programs targeted at preventing child abuse and neglect.

Last year, the State Department of Pensions and Security received almost 24,000 reports of child abuse and neglect. And social workers believe the number of unreported incidents would run the number much higher.

In order to deal with the problem, the state legislature created a 14-member board last year to administer funds for prevention programs.

Although the board is separate from DPS, it works together to inform the public of the need for funds and how they will be used.

Alabama DPS Commissioner Leon Frazier, who also serves on the board, reports that programs which educate parents in child care and home management "go a long way toward preventing abuse and neglect."

He said that half of the funds collected will be distributed by the board to community services and programs, with the half being invested for future use.

According to Frazier, the board will select projects to be funded from grant proposals. They will be chosen, he said, after the Child Abuse Trust Fund monies are in place and have been released by the State Revenue Department for the board's use.

Taxpayers who do not qualify for a refund but would still like to help the program, may check item 34c and add their doantion to their tax payment.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
ROSE M. SMITHERMAN

In rememberance of Rose Marie Smitherman, who died two years ago, Jan. 15.

Your smile has yet to be forgotten in our family Aunt Rose, and even though you've been gone for quite a while now, you haven't been forgotten.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
AMY SEAGLE

In memory of Amy Seagle who died one year ago, January 15.

You left in such a hurry, that we weren't able to say goodbye, give you a hug, and tell you how much we loved you... and still do.

Needless to say, we miss you Amy, and most of the time there isn't a day that goes by that you don't cross our minds. But amidst the tears that fill our eyes in our sadness, there's a smile that fills our hearts also and a joy in knowing we'll see you again.

MISS LEIGH SAVAGE
...to wed Karl C. Knight

Miss Savage to be married

Mrs. Brenda J. Woods and Mr. Brian D. Savage of Birmingham announce the engagement of their daughter, September Leigh Savage, to Karl Coldwell Knight of Indian Springs.

Miss Savage is the granddaughter of Melba Saltsman and Wallace Douglas Gowins of Birmingham, and the late Marta Adelina Milla Savage and Charles D. Savage of Guatemala.

She is a graduate of W.A. Berry High School, and is presently attending Southern Institute. She is employed in Hoover.

The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Knight Jr. of Indian Springs. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Chadwell Coldwell Bridges of Birmingham, and Richard P. Knight Sr., and the late Lillie Kessler Knight of Birmingham.

He is a student at the University of Alabama, and will receive a degree in mechanical engineering in May.

A June 30 wedding is planned at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Homewood.

EMT class offered

A new class to train emergency medical technicians in the first category will begin next Monday. The class will be taught at the Community Services building in Columbiana on Monday nights from 6 to 10.

It will be limited to 25 persons and will cost approximately $50 for each student.

For more information call Larry Ray, 669-6174.

MMS improves relations

Parents of students at Montevallo Middle have been given a unique opportunity to become more involved with the school.

Morning coffees have been scheduled for parents at each grade level, beginning on January 18 with parents of 6th graders. Faculty members, the guidance counselor, and principal will meet informally to discuss academics, policies and programs, and to answer questions.

The primary goal of the sessions will be to improve relationships between teachers, students, and parents.

The meetings will also serve as a means of letting students see the interest their parents have in their educational development.

Ballet comes

The Joffery II Dancers -- the "farm team" of the Joffery Ballet, will perform at University of Montevallo's Palmer Hall, Jan. 16 at 8 p.m.

Joffery II has trained over 150 young professionals since its beginning almost 15 years ago.

Tickets to the performance will be available at the door.

Shelby County Amateur Radio Club will teach Morse Code and Radio Theory beginning Jan. 26 for those interested in becoming Ham Radio Operators. Classes will be conducted each Thursday night at Oak Mt. State Park.

This winter, get your diesel off to a good start.

Gulf

Gulf Auto Diesel fuel is specially formulated to meet the cold weather starting needs of diesel engines. A cold flow improver makes the fuel flow to your engine as easily in January as it does in June. And, because Gulf adds the cold flow improver before you pump fuel into your car, you don't need to add anything later on.

So, if you want to beat the cold weather starting grind, look for our red and yellow 'D'. And get off to a good start this winter with Gulf Auto Diesel.

Parks shuffle personnel

by Fred Guarino

You could call it a case of state park 'musical chairs.'

On January 9 some important changes took place at Oak Mountain State Park which affected at least two other parks in the state system.

After serving for ten years as head of security at Oak Mountain, Talmadge Butler has been been promoted to assistant manager.

That promotion resulted in part from Phil Robeson's stepping-up from six and a half years as assistant manager at Oak Mountain, to the manager's seat at Chewacla State Park in Auburn.

In connection with Robeson's promotion, former Chewacla manager John T. Meredith has been transferred to the management position at Lake Guntersville State Park.

Meredith was transferred to Chewacla from Oak Mountain State Park two and a half years ago.

Butler said he is pleased with the move from his security role at Oak Mountain.

For the past ten years, he has been responsible for coordinating efforts with county law enforcement agencies, emergency medical services, fire and rescue, civil defense and night trail search efforts at Oak Mountain.

Now he will have a chance to become involved in the park's total operation.

"It is something I have looked forward to doing," Butler told the Reporter. "I've looked at the over-all aspects of management and it's something I wanted to get involved with. It also gives me a chance for advancement I didn't have in security."

In addition to supervising the person who takes his place, Butler will work with Oak Mountain manager Phil Easterwood concerning budgeting, accounting and daily park operations.

Robeson is also pleased with his promotion to Chewacla as well. "I really am looking forward to a new challenge," he said.

Located inside Auburn's city limits, Robeson will be responsible for the total park operations which include five cottages, 15 camp sites, a beach area for swimming, boat rental, hiking trails and picnic areas.

However, Robeson said he made a lot of friends at Oak Mountain and with six and a half years service there, he said he will miss the park.

The Reporter was unable to contact Meredith about his move to Lake Guntersville.

Education election

March 13 election as well.

Tucker also suggested that Shelby County look into getting out of using the 1,000 lb. bulky mechanical voting machines it now uses. In their place, he suggested new 45 lb. electronic units.

Accoding to Tucker, there might be a market for the old machines now, but once other counties switch to electronic units, Shelby County would have only scrap metal.

Snowden agreed to start taking proposals for electronic units for use in later elections. He also suggested that the county might one day be able to switch from individual voting spots to voting centers.

LEGAL NOTICE TO ALL MOBILE HOME OWNERS

Under the provisions of the laws of the State of Alabama, all mobile homes must be assessed for taxes. This may be done by either specific inclusion of the mobile home with the land or by separate assessment for taxes as you would an automobile under the provisions of Section 40-12-256 and Section 40-12-255. The provisions of the law also require that a colored decal be supplied by Shelby County and placed by the owner on or near the front of the unit. These decals have been mailed out to all mobile home owners who are indicated on the Shelby County records as having assessed the mobile home for taxes either as a part of the land or separately under the aforesaid provisions. If you have not received such a decal and if you own or are in possession or maintain a mobile home, you must assess your mobile home for taxation in the office of the Tax Assessor or Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama, at the Court House in Columbiana, Alabama.

Shelby County now has a license inspector whose duty it is to enforce these provisions. The failure to conform with the State law amounts to a violation of criminal law.

If you do not have either a red or white colored decal, you should check immediately with the Tax Assessor or the Probate Office of Shelby County, as the case may be, and make arrangements to properly assess your mobile home. As indicated, this applies to all mobile homes except those which a licensed mobile home dealer has in his inventory.

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama
Case No. CV-84-001 (E)
Notice

TO: The unknown heirs or devisees of Walter Hawthorne, deceased; Allen Lumber Co., and the unknown owners and shareholders thereof and their heirs or devisees if deceased; Darling Daniel, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Beatrice Noland, deceased; Alex Bickerstaff, and his heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Lillie Hawthorne Peterson Bicke taff, deceased; Catherine Abbott; Elizabeth Branch, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Lillian Lewis, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; Dorothy Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Willie Lee Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Howard Lee Noland, Jr., and his heirs or devisees, if deceased, and the following described real property located in Shelby County, Alabama: The NE¾ of NW¾ of Section 32, Township 18 South, Range 2 East, and any and all persons or corporations claiming, or reputed to claim, any title to, interest in, lien or encumbrance on said lands, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and all other persons, defendants.

You are hereby notified that the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr. Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, have on this 4th day of January, 1984, filed their verified Complaint in the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, against you, and against the above designated real property, pursuant to the provisions of 1975 Code of Alabama, Title 6, Sections 6-560 through 60-573, for the purpose of establishing the fee simple title to the above designated real property in the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr., Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning said real property, and said designated suit is now pending in said Court.

The plaintiffs allege in said Complaint that they are the owners of the real property described more particulary above, in fee simple, subject only to current year ad valorem taxes, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property as the sole surviving heirs and next of kin of Joe Peterson, deceased, said property having been formerly owned by Joe Peterson under warranty deed from Lillie Peterson dated January 24, 1933, and recorded February 6, 1933, in Deed Book 95 at page 178, Office of Judge of Shelby County, Alabama, said Joe Peterson having died intestate while a resident of Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit, in the year 1939, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property under said deed.

Plaintiffs further allege that they are in the actual, peaceable possession of said lands; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation is in the actual possession of said lands and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have held color of title to the said lands for a period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint, and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have paid taxes on said lands during the whole of such period of time; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation has paid taxes on said lands during any part of said period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint.

Plaintiffs further aver that no action is pending to test their title to, interest in, or the right to their possession of such lands.

Plaintiffs further allege that after diligent search and inquiry they have been unable to learn the names, whereabouts, or addresses of any defendant to this suit, except as designated above herein, and that in the belief of the plaintiffs, all of said defendants are over 19 years of age and that none of said defendants are known or suspected to be of unsound mind.

You are further notified that you, and each of you, are required to plead, answer or demur to said Complaint on or before March 3, 1984, or suffer decree pro confesso or other default judgment in accordance with law, to be rendered against you.

In the Matter of
Charlotte Ann Woods

In the Juvenile Court
Shelby County, Alabama
Case No. JU-83-542
ORDER

It being made known to the Court that Ann R. Shirley, has filed with said Court in the above styled matter, a Petition to terminate all parental rights in, for, and to the child: Charlotte Ann Woods and to vest full custody of said child in State of Alabama, Department of Pensions & Security for permanent placement or adoption;

Said Petition being, in words, substantially as follows: On or about 11/30/83, in Shelby County, Alabama, said child is dependant in that said child was born out of wedlock and paternity has not been legally established. Said child has been in foster care of petitioner's agency since April 14, 1983, by order of this Court due to the failure of the mother to provide a suitable home environment. Petitioner avers that the mother an putative fathers are not at the present time nor will in the foreseeable future be able to provide a fit and suitable home for said child and to provide for her support, maintenance and education and petitioner has not been able to locate suitable relative resources interested in caring for said child. Petitioner prays that this Court will cause service to be effected upon the mother and putative fathers by service of summons as provided by law and upon a hearing of the matter, the Court will enter an order terminating all parental rights of the mother and putative fathers in and to said child to the Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent placement or adoption, pursuant to Section 12-15-30, Code of Alabama, 1975.

Dated: 12-15-83

Sworn Signature: Ann R. Shirley

It also being made known tothe Court that after a due and diligent search the whereabouts of the putative father of said child and the whereabouts of any other person or individual claiming a parental right in, ior, or to said child, are to the Petitioner, unknown;

And the Court having considered all of the foregoing, be it now Ordered, Adjudged, and Decreed that a hearing on said Petition be held on the 24 day of January, 1984 at 8:30 o'clock in the a.m., in the Shelby County Courthouse at Columbiana, Alabama;

And it is further Ordered, Adjudged, and Decreed, that the said putative father and any other person or individual claiming a parental right in, for, or to said child be hereby given due notice and service of summons to attend said hearing; and that a copy of this Order be published in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper of general publication in Shelby County, Alabama for four (4) consecutive weeks so as to give due notice and service of summons for said hearing to the said putative father and any other person or individual claiming a parental right in, for, or to the said child.

Done and ordered on this the 15th day of December, 1983.

LEGAL NOTICE
Repair of Private Bridges, Protective Structures and Purchase of Mobile Homes

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) gives final notice to the public of its intent to determine whether the repair, replacement, and provision of private bridges, protective structures, and purchase of mobile homes under the Individual and Family Grant Program (Section 409 of the Disaster Relief Act of 1974) Complies with the President's Order on Flood Plain Management, Executive Order on Flood Plain Managment, Executive Order 19368. FEMA proposes to assist the State of Alabama to fund this repair, replacement, provision or purchase because of recent flooding in the following counties which are included in the President's Declaration of a Major Disaster for Alabama. (FEMA 695-DR-AL): Jefferson County, Dallas County, Shelby County, and Calhoun County. Some of these facilities are within the 100 year floodplain and span of the floodway and may be structurally located, in part, within the floodway.

FEMA may require that the registration of those facilities incorporate certain measures designated to mitigate against effects of future flooding.

Although these projects are in the floodway, FEMA's participation is based on the following rationale:

1. The bridges are part of existing networks of roads that cannot be economically replaced.
2. No known alternative sites are available.
3. There are no other known practicable ways of crossing the floodway.
4. No long-range adverse effects to the physical environment are known to exist.
5. Failure to restore pre-existing routes could cause serious time delay for emergency and other vehicles.
6. Repair, replacement or provision of protective structures will mitigate against future damages (by flooding or slides) to private individuals.
7. Time is of the essence in providing suitable housing to particular applicants.

The rationale for proposed participation in the restoration of bridges and protective structures and the purchase of mobile homes, provides the basis for consideration of funding.

Interested parties may obtain information about these actions from the Federal Coordinator's Office, Federal Emergency Management Agency, 1375 Peachtree Street, N.E., Suite 750, Atlanta, Georgia, 30309.

Comments should be submitted in writing to the above address within fifteen days from January 15, 1984.

THANKS

Card of Thanks

Nellie Clark and her brother, Lester Hutchson, sould like to thank the people for the many gifts given to Hattie Hutchson at Briarcliff Nursing Home.

Card of Thanks

Perhaps you sang a lovely song, or sat quietly in a chair
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers. If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words, as any friend can say;
Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day.
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food, or maybe furnished a car,
Perhaps you rendered a service unseen, Near at hand or from afar,
Whatever you did to console the heart,
We thank you so much - whatever the part.

The family of Lynn Whitfield

Post office changes

Kay Palmer and Phil Edwards worked their last shift together Friday at the Columbiana Post Office. That's the day Palmer took over the position of postmaster which Edwards has been filling since last year on a temporary basis. Palmer moved into the highly sought after position after only some six years with the postal service. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Projects keep Jaycees busy in North Shelby

The North Shelby Jaycees are proving their involvement in Shelby County.

This past Christmas may have been a good time for many county residents. But thanks to the Jaycees, for at least 14 needy childeren in the Alabaster area, Christmas 1983 was one they will probably never forget.

According to Rick Jones, with the help of local businesses and residents of the surrounding communities, the organization was able to spend between $50 and $60 for each child during a December 17th shopping spree.

However, projects to help the needy do not sum up the North Shelby Jaycees' role in Shelby County by a long shot.

Next month, Jones said the group will begin canvassing for nominees to its annual Outstanding Young Congress honors program.

That program, which features an awards banquet in March, will seek to honor outstanding men or women in six categories including religious, physical fitness, farming, education, business, law enforcement, and an over-all Outstanding Young Man.

Last year's Outstanding Young Man was Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox.

Jones also told the Reporter his organization will hold a Miss Alabama preliminary beauty contest on February 24.

Slated for 7:30 p.m. at Riverchase Middle School, the event will be called the Miss North Shelby Pageant.

Single girls from ages 18-26 will be eligible to enter.

Palmer named as postmaster

by Bert Seaman

Kay Palmer decided she had nothing to lose by tossing her hat in the ring when the postmaster's job came open in Columbiana.

As it turned out, her toss was pretty good.

The 28-year old candidate, who celebrates her next birthday this month, was notified before Christmas that the position was hers.

She officially took over her duties January 7 from Phil Edwards, who has been officer in charge since September when former Postmaster Elbert Gibson retired.

One of the new postmaster's rural carriers is her dad, Raymond Davis, who has worked for the postal service 33 years.

A resident of Columbiana for ten years, Palmer has been a clerk in the Columbiana Post Office since graduating from the University of Montevallo in 1977.

She worked part time as a typesetter at the Shelby County Reporter during her senior year at Thompson High School and during her college years.

During her UM days she also held a part time job at the First National Bank of Columbiana.

The new postmaster is married to Mike Palmer, an employee of Gulf States Paper Corporation.

Opportunity knocks for vets

Six years ago, when Danny Triplett got out of the army, he was without a high school diploma.

He was unemployed for several months before finding a job.

Even after he got a job, Triplett realized that he was missing out on a lot of things at work because he had not completed high school.

Several years later he received a letter from an organization that could provide a solution to this problem.

Veterans Upward Bound -- an adult education program for educationally disadvantaged veterans -- offered Triplett the chance to prepare for a high school equivalency test.

Triplett was so convinced the program could help him that in 1981 he traveled from his home in Alabaster to Chilton County every weekday for three months to participate.

During this time he took refresher courses in English and Math, and then passed his GED.

Triplett now says he's thankful for the assistance Veterans Upward Bound gave him and recommends it to other veterans who might be in a similar situation.

According to outreach coordinator Bruce Graham, the program's purpose is to help veterans like Triplett move ahead in life through education and career planning.

Besides providing GED training, the program also offers college preparatory training, academic counseling, and career counseling.

For those who are interested, the program will be offered in Shelby County January 16 - May 11, Monday through Thursday evenings at the Shelby County Vocational Center.

Any veteran in Shelby County who served on active duty 181 continuous days, was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable and, is in need of GED or preparatory training is eligible to participate.

There is no tuition and books are furnished free.

For more information, contact Jim Mayhew, Shelby County's VA representative at 669-6246.

Battery Distributors ranks as THE place for all your auto needs

There was a reason Battery Distributors moved from Homewood to Pelham in August of 1977. A good reason.

"The market was wide open," said co-owner David Crumpton in a recent business interview. "No one in the area was providing batteries at wholesale prices."

So the ball started rolling.

Add to that open market the two important aspects of quality products and personal service, and you have the reason why so many people from north Shelby to Columbiana, trade at Battery Distributors on US 31 next to Strickland's Chevrolet.

In 1978, Dave, brother Al, and their partner John Ferguson added a full line of Cash and Carry auto parts to better serve their growing number of customers.

Two years ago they became a jobber for Bumper to Bumper.

Now, five and a half years later, Battery Distributors is well established as THE place to go for wholesale prices on quality batteries, as well as all your automotive parts needs.

Of course, no one likes having car problems. That's why the staff at Battery Distributors goes out of their way to help you make the best of an always frustrating situation.

To begin with, cars can't read calendars and often choose Sunday to break down. Knowing that, Al, Dave and John open the store Sundays.

Also, Dave notes, it never does anyone any good to sell somebody a battery if the true cause of the problem is in, say, the alternator. The key is in correctly diagnosing your car or truck's problem.

With that in mind, Battery Distributors offers free -- yes, FREE -- testing for batteries and alternators. That can save you money. And time. And frustration.

That's one of the reasons a tremendous amount of their business has been referred to them from previous, satisfied customers -- the ultimate testimony to any business.

Too, there is no point in buying a weak or low quality battery that might start your car this month, but leave you stranded somewhere when you least expect.

Which is why Battery Distributors handles Globe and Delco products.

Globe -- for those not in the know -- is the largest, most respected battery manufacturer in the United States, providing quality products to many large retail chains.

As for Delco -- well, they just don't come any better.

In fact, Al notes with pride, Battery Distributors now has the new Delco Dura Power battery. With its new technology, this battery packs the wallop of 650 cranking amps. Incredibly, all this power comes in an 8-inch case and costs only $51.95, plus tax!

If that's not exactly what you want -- don't worry. Battery Distributors stocks from 3,000 to 4,000 batteries at any given time, and one of them will meet the needs of your car -- and the needs of your pocketbook.

THE CREW

Brad Dawson, Tim Robertson, Nelson Doss and Lonnie Bearden can -- and will -- get you on the road when your car is down.

Heading up the route division for Battery Distributors is trusty sales manager Charles Harris.

Outside sales are handled by Bill Ellis, Danny Woodliff, Doug Lawson and Bob Cook.

Ann Driver, secretary, keeps everybody in line.

Besides personal service, quality merchandise, and a prime location, Dave, Al and John have one other thing going for them -- one of the world's easiest phone numbers. 663-0000.

Give them a call for all your battery and automotive needs.

Pledge of resources

Alabama Secretary of State Don Siegelman has pledged the full resources of his office to help registrars register more voters between now and the 1984 general election than at any point in state history. Meeting with Siegelman recently in Montgomery were Shelby County Board of Registrar members Marti Dillard and Vestula V. Thompson.

School suit dropped by former teacher

A decision by the Alabama Supreme Court in a non-tenured teacher case has affected a suit filed against eight school officials in Shelby County.

The $4.8 million lawsuit filed by former teacher Lynn Horton against eight Shelby County school officials, will apparently be dismissed.

An adverse decision by the state's high court in a similar case, prompted Alabama Education Association attorney Victor Price to file a motion for dismissal in his client's case.

That motion is being considered by Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Ingram.

No action was taken during a Dec. 20 hearing on a motion filed by an attorney for the Board of Education. That motion asked for a ruling in the board's favor without a trial.

Horton had been a teacher of the visually impaired for a year in the Shelby County School system prior to the non-renewal of her contract in the spring of 1981.

When the non-tenured teacher filed a lawsuit the following year, it charged the school officials with negligence in failing to properly evaluate her.

Defendants named in the suit were: Charles Knowles, former superintendent of education; Barbara Whitman, board president; board members, Bill Fancher, John P. Sumners and J.H. Upchurch and former member Claude Lee.

Also named were: Carol Buttel, supervisor of the visually impaired, and Linda Nolen, supervisor of special education.

Registrars drive to sign up voters

The Board of Registrars, in conjunction with the State of Alabama, is making an effort to register every qualified voter in Shelby County.

According to Shelby County registrar chairman Vestual Thompson, the drive is aimed particularly at young people who are, or will turn 18 by the next election in 1984.

Therefore, a major part of the drive involves a series of night time registrations at high schools in every part of the county.

Also, the board is deputizing designated people in all sections of the county to assist with area registrations. Among those being deputized are town clerks, which will enable registration during office hours at some city halls, Thompson said.

A deputy registrar will also be on duty at the license branch office in Pelham, she said.

Because of errors in the past, some people have been voting in the wrong boxes. Thompson did not yet know how widespread this problem is, but said the board is working to correct it.

Thompson said some people are reluctant to register because of the mistaken idea that jury lists are drawn from the voter list. She said juries are presently being drawn from driver license lists, and the board is legally restricted from divulging information from the brief voter registration forms.

The Shelby County Board of Registrars is in session the first and third weeks of the month. Furthermore, one of its three members are on duty from 8-4:30 every day the courthouse is open.

Thompson invited any county civics teacher to bring classes to tour the courthouse on days the board is in session.

She also urged all residents to register and exercise their right to vote. For more information, call 669-3197.

Board members are Thompson, Marti Dillard and J.T. Spates. Clerk is Patsy Wells.

The board is appointed by the governor, state auditor and commissioner of agriculture.

Calling all cats and owners

Shelby County cat owners: start preparing your pet for Birmingham's annual cat show.

The Birmingham Feline Fanciers is presenting its All Breed Show for Championship and Household Pets Jan. 28-29.

The show will be held at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Exhibition Hall South Room from 9-4 each day.

Proceeds are will go toward projects which promote research and welfare of cats.

Any one interested in entry or ticket information may call 631-3657 or 836-3925.

DEPRESSION

It can, and does, affect anyone
It is a common problem with several causes, which include:
•Personality type •Biochemical Functions
•Genetic Patterns •Environmental Influences
Depression varies in degree of severity
•Mild - The Blues •Moderate - Feeling Hopeless
•Severe - Separation from Reality
When symptoms are severe and lasting professional help is needed. Remember: When you need us we will be there.

Opryland sets local audition

Shelby County musicians who have been waiting for their big break, may get it this month.

Representatives from Nashville's Opryland will be conducting auditions in Birmingham on Wednesday, January 16.

The 300-350 entertainers hired during the nationwide auditions will appear in more than a dozen Opryland productions.

Some of the performers at the theme park are even selected to appear on Nashville network's cable tv show, 'Opryland on Stage.'

Singers, dancers, dance captains, conductor-pianists, musicians, stage managers and technicians are being sought for the shows, which feature all types of American music.

Singers should bring their own piano accompanist, music in the proper key and be prepared to perform two numbers -- a ballad and a more upbeat song.

Dancers will be asked to perform a routine of no more than one minute. A record player and a cassette tape player will be available at the open-call auditions.

Instrumentalists will be asked to sight read and woodwind players must be proficient doublers.

Conductor-pianists must submit a resume and references and a piano audition will be required.

Stage managers and technicians should bring a resume. Stage managers will be interviewed at the auditions -- technicians' resumes will be forwarded to Opryland's technical director.

Auditions will be held in UAB's Bell Theatre from noon to 5 p.m.

For further information, write Opryland Entertainment Dept., 2802 Opryland Drive, Nashville, Tenn., 37214, or call 615-889-6600 ext. 4343.

Helena has fair info

It's almost time for another World's Fair.

And in 1984 -- the event which draws visitors from all over the world -- is being held within a day's drive of Shelby County.

New Orleans, La. is hosting the '84 fair which runs from May 12 - November 11.

In order to get the most from the time spent in New Orleans, visitors may want to study the comprehensive tour guide put together by the Louisiana Office of Tourism.

It is available for reference at the Helena Public Library and others.

Helena's library hours are: 12-5 Tuesday and Thursday; 9-5, Wednesday and 9-12 Saturday.

Student dances

Ten-year old Stacie Robertson stood tall and proud as a toy soldier in the recent Alabama Ballet's production of 'The Nutcracker.'

The Valley Elementary fifth grader said she enjoyed the experience and made a lot of friends at the three-hour-a-day rehearsals she attended since October 31.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl G. Robertson of Pelham.

Depot on the move

Traffic backs up on Highway 25 in Montevallo as the Southern Railway depot passes through from Wilton to Calera's new Railroad Museum and Park. Broken into two pieces, the depot is still wide enough to block the road completely. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Wilton depot goes to Calera

by Bert Seaman

The old clapboard building -- separated into two sections -- moved slowly down State 25 Friday.

Asbestos roof shingles were knocked off as the 37-foot roof span hit cedar trees growing close to the road.

The uprooted building, on its way to a new home ten miles down the road, was the Wilton depot. Built in the 1890's, when the town was a bustling railroad center, the old clapboard building was no longer wanted by the railroad.

The building, however, is just what members of the Heart of Dixie Railroad Club have been looking for. They accepted the town of Wilton's offer to move the building and will use it as a museum in the park they're developing in Calera.

Wilton acquired the depot from the Norfolk Southern Railroad after a new train station was built this year. But the town couldn't come up with the money to move and restore the old building, so it was offered to the railroad club.

After it determined that it would cost some $10,000 to move the building and put a foundation under it, the club had 15 days in which to act. Its decision to take the depot was made Monday -- six days before the deadline.

Money that had been set aside to repair boxcars is being used to finance the project.

Eventually, the club plans to move the boxcars, now parked in Birmingham, to the Calera park. However, that's several years -- and thousands of dollars -- away.

Track will have to be laid first since the club was not able to afford the price of both track and the nine miles of right of way that was purchased from Norfolk Southern two years ago.

Two miles of track that a woodyard uses were left in place though, and the club hopes to be able to conduct excursions in the not too distant future.

Club President Warren Reid said that the railroad group hopes to have some kind of operation in the park within the next two years.

When the project is completed, there will be a railroad yard and museum on the ten acres off 20th Street, and train rides will be available from Calera to Shelby.

Dog racing issue lands in Pelham

by David F. Moore

"Do you favor the creation of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission...?"

Win, lose or show, a group of unnamed businessmen are placing a longshot, $1,300 bet that greyhound dog racing can be established in Pelham.

A general bill calling for Pelham residents to vote on the commission which would oversee the race track in pari-mutuel wagering, is being advertised for the next four weeks in the legal section of this newspaper.

In the past, similar bills have never gone any farther than the advertising stage.

As of Tuesday morning at press time, both Senator Frank 'Butch' Ellis and Representative John Tanner said they had not been contacted about introducing the bill in the legislature. The Reporter was unable to reach Representative Sonny Moore for comment.

"I'm not championing dog racing and I'm not intending to," Tanner said. "I've never been opposed to people voting on things, but this is a horse of a different color."

"It's not my bill," Ellis said, "and I don't intend to sponsor it."

The Pelham council some three years ago voted to accept a resolution which would allow the often debated racing issue to be voted on, providing it was approved by the legislature. (Such a vote would also require the signature of the governor, unless a veto was over thrown.)

The initial action by the council was pushed for by Kimbrough & Associates, a Pelham based public relations firm which had been hired by the unnamed interest group to do so.

The firm's president, Tom Kimbrough, delivered the bill this Monday to the Reporter for publication which is necessary before the bill can ever be introduced in the legislature.

The $1,296.50 advertising cost is being paid, Kimbrough said, "by a group of responsible Pelham citizens who wish their names withheld for the present time, who do not wish to be annoyed by opponents to dog racing."

"As soon as a chairman for the supporters is chosen, an announcement will be made," he said.

Both Tanner and Ellis indicated the bill does not stand much chance of being passed, but noted that as a general bill, it could, conceivably, be introduced by any member of the legislature.

Kimbrough said his clients "feel a dog-track in the Metro-Birmingham area is inevitable and consequently the citizens of Pelham and Shelby County should be the ones to benefit from it."

"Pelham and Shelby County are growing rapidly and we need the income to keep our tax base low and provide financial means for a healthier economy," Kimbrough said.

After all expenses, the bill calls for the following local breakdown of the proceeds:

- 18% to the board of education and/or any new municipal school system
- 2% for higher education
- 3% for the sheriff's office
- 27% "for the benefit of the citizens" of Shelby County
- 50% unearmarked for the citizens of Pelham.

Catholic church plans north Shelby school

Construction is expected to start soon on a Catholic elementary school in north Shelby County. Registration for the new parochial school starts Monday.

Our Lady of the Valley Church has been planning for six months to build the facility on its 16 acres on Cahaba Valley Road (State 119). The school will be the second phase of the church's master plan to develop its land there.

Church pastor Michael J. White announced Monday that final plans for the $650,000 school have been approved by the Most Rev. Joseph G. Vath, Bishop of Birmingham. Site and construction plans have also been approved by planning and zoning commission chairman Paul Owens, White said.

The 15,000-square foot facility will accommodate 250 students, grades one through eight. It is targeted for completion in time for classes this fall.

The school is the first diocesan school to be constructed since the formation of the Catholic Diocese of Birmingham in 1969.

Charlotte Lusco, chairman of the church's education committee, said the school will become accredited by both the State of Alabama and the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges.

Architect for the project is Edward Bailey & Associates of Birmingham, and general contractor is Gary C. Wyatt of Hoover.

Members of the church planning committee include Terry Colafrancesco, Alaim Gallet, Bill Darmstadt and Edwina Carlisle.

Registration for the school begins January 23. Parents can sign up their children from 8 - 3:30, Monday through Friday, at the church office. (For more information: 991-5488.)

Racing reactions quiet with council members

by Fred Guarino

News of a renewed dog track effort for Pelham, took city council members by surprise Monday night.

When informed that a bill calling for a citywide vote on the issue had been presented for publication in the Reporter, council responses ranged from "I'm opposed" to "no comment."

Only one council member, Beverly Hall, acknowledged she was aware of an effort to revive the matter which, in the past, has nevered passed the legal advertisement stage.

Hall refrained from making any comment on the proposition.

However, K.O. Maynard was the only councilman to let his views be known about the most recent dog track bill.

"I've been opposed since the first one, and I'll fight this one," he said firmly. "This residential area is no place for a dog track."

Councilman Ray Hamilton blew through his lips, looked at the floor and showed his surprise.

"Anyone can take these type things to your paper," he said, reaching for words to express his feelings. "I'm sorry, I thought the issue was dead."

Mayor Burk Dunaway said that people have a right to vote on such matters, but refused to give a public statement of position.

"I can't dictate... But it's between me and me if I have to pull the lever to vote," he said.

"I would hestitate to state my position because I would want to hear the presentation," said Councilman Bob Cleveland. He acknowledged, however, that the law provides people the right to vote on such issues and to ask the legislature to take them up.

Councilman Willard C. Payne said he had no opinion at this time.

Helena votes to hold at large elections

by Fred Guarino

The City of Helena will elect a mayor and five council members in an at large election to be held in July.

At Monday's council meeting, Billy Harris moved to approve a resolution establishing the general election. He was seconded by Councilman C.W. Fulgham, and the motion passed without objection.

Also present for the meeting were Mayor Charles W. Penhale, and Councilman Jim Kwater. Councilmen Ron Erwin and Billy Ray Hinds were absent.

The call for an at large election was passed routinely when Penhale said he thought he would just get the matter "taken care of."

Last year, the Rev. Johnny Deviner asked the council to establish district lines -- similar to those in Alabaster and Montevallo -- so that blacks would have a chance at being elected.

Life in a tepee

Housekeeping is a snap for Ginger Fuller since she and her family moved into the tepee they set up in Brierfield. Making the beds and sweeping the rug completes her cleaning chores. But life isn't always easy in a tepee -- cooking is time consuming and storage space is limited. However, the home stays warm and dry despite cold snaps and torrential rains. Pelham rezones land

A piece of property across from Oak Mountain Park Road, on State 119 in Pelham, was rezoned from agricultural to business status Monday night.

Pelham's City Council voted to approve the rezoning request upon hearing no objections during a public hearing for Cecil and Joyce Laney.

The property reportedly will be used for a convenience store and gas station.

In other action:

A retail table wine and beer license application for the Italian Villa Restaurant (formerly Mama Mia's) on US 31 South was approved.

Also, a resolution stating that Pelham will not discriminate against handicapped persons was approved to make the city eligible for federal revenue sharing funds.

Mayor Burk Dunaway reported that vacancies exist on the city's library board and its park and recreation board.

The council will appoint a new member to replace James Hallmark on the libary board and new council member Beveral Hall on the park and recreation board.

Marijuana fields destroyed

Number of marijuana plots found per county between Feb. 15, 1983 and Nov. 21, 1983.

Eight fields of marijuana were destroyed in Shelby County last year in a push to do away with plants grown domestically.

Public Safety Director Col. Byron Prescott reports that 496 plots were destroyed statewide as part of the Domestic Marijuana Eradication Program.

In its second year of operation, the program led to the destruction of more than $32 million worth of marijuana -- almost double the figure from the previous year, Prescott said.

During a ten-month period in 1983, the operation in Alabama netted 62,758 plants growing in fields, pots and greenhouses in 50 Alabama counties.

The number of people arrested came to 103, $59,265 in property was seized, and other drugs worth $28,725 worth were confiscated.

Agencies cooperating in the effort were: local police, sheriffs' departments, Drug Enforcement Administration officers and narcotics agents with the Department of Public Safety.

After fields are located from the air, local agencies are contacted to assist in destroying the plants.

Citizens with information on where marijuana may be located may contact HELP, toll free, at 800-392-8011. Callers will remain anonymous.

Alabaster seeks squad cars

by John Hood

The Alabaster City Council voted Monday to purchase two police cars and initiate a Neighborhood Watch program.

Police and fire commissioner Glen Naish introduced the motion to vote on bids for two new police cars, saying that recent annexations to the south of town had stretched the department's patrols too thin.

"Annexation is putting a real wear and tear (on the cars) and we need two new ones," Naish said. The money for the cars will come from revenue-sharing funds.

Mayor H.A. 'Doc' Rubin introduced a motion to vote on purchasing signs for a Neighborhood Watch program. Alabaster Police Chief C.E. 'Bull' Carter said 96 signs are needed, and the program will take the place of an older program called Citizens on Patrol.

"We have Citizens on Patrol," Carter told the council, "but we want to change the format to get more equipment."

Because Neighborhood Watch is widely used throughout the country, Carter said materials such as handouts and decals are relatively easy to get. The cost of the project will not be more than $2,500, he said.

In other business during the brief meeting, the council adopted a resolution to comply with federal regulations on revenue-sharing funds. The resolution forbids discrimination of handicapped persons at city facilities.

The council also adopted and passed the audit of the city's finances for the 1982-83 fiscal year.

UW food bank opens

The United Way Montevallo Area Service Center will be distributing food this month on an emergency basis. General distribution is set for Wednesday, Jan. 25, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at 16 Middle Street in Montevlalo.

The food is available on a limited basis to residents of Shelby County who are either unemployed or have low incomes. Applicants must furnish identification and income restrictions will apply.

A separate distribution day has been reserved for handicapped and elderly. They may pick up their food on Tuesday, Jan. 24 from 1-4 p.m. at the office at 20 Middle Street.

Mother pleads guilty to negligence

A Montevallo woman whose newborn daughter was killed by dogs, has pled guilty to criminally negligent homicide.

Esther Cutts had pled not guilty to a 1983 indictment for manslaughter issued by the grand jury.

According to authorities, Cutts had put the baby outside after its birth last May in an attempt to conceal it from her parents who were unaware of her pregnancy.

She will be sentenced March 12.

Defendants who pled guilty to property crimes on a recent call docket and their sentences are as follows: Terry Moore, attempted burglary 3rd, 6 months to serve; Daryl T. Atkinson, attempted theft of property 2nd, 6 months to serve; Boyd Sutherland, attempt to receive stolen property 2nd, 12 months sentence suspended for 2 years on the condition of payment of a $200 fine and court costs.

Pleading guilty to attempted burglary 3rd, Sylvester A. Rhine was sentenced to 12 months hard labor for Shelby County plus 12 months for his guilty plea in attempting to possess a forged instrument.

Walter McKinney pled guilty to criminal mischief 2nd, was sentenced to 6 months suspended for a year with restitution and payment of court costs. Terrill McGinnis pled guilty to the same charge and received the same sentence.

Defendants pleading guilty who will be sentenced Mar. 12 are: Jerry Lee Jackson, burglary 3rd, attempt to unlawfully break and enter a vehicle, attempted theft of property 2nd; Ruby Mitchell, theft of property 2nd; Richard A. Ware, 3 counts of burglary 3rd.

Morris O. Davis will also be sentenced Mar. 12 for possession of methaqualone. Others pleading guilty to drug charges are: William Michael Morris, Joe Morris, Joyce Smith. All three pled guilty to attempting to violate the Alabama uniform controlled substances act and received a 6 months suspended sentence for a year with the payment of a $250 fine and court costs.

Thomas Ray Skinner pled guilty to sexual abuse 2nd and was sentenced to 6 months suspended for 12 months with the conditions he avoid the victim and pay court costs.

Donald Ray Hagood pled guilty to robbery 3rd and was sentenced to 10 years for the holdup of Barton Leaf at Valleydale Discount Pharmacy on County 17.

County grand jury indicts 57

A Shelby County grand jury last week handed down 57 indictments after hearing evidence in 104 cases.

Sixteen cases were dismissed, 19 continued and 12 merged.

Twenty two cases were drug related and with four indictments issued for trafficking -- two for marijuana and two for cocaine.

Five cases in which indictments were issued involved crimes of violence. Three indictments were for assault, one for rape and one for sexual abuse.

One indictment was issued for perjury, two for impersonating a peace officer and one for leaving the scene of an accident.

Flood loans offered

If you want a loan because of losses you suffered in the December floods, apply now.

Norm Davis, coordinator of the Small Business Administration, said the deadline for loan applications is February 13. "Action under the Individual and Family Grant program cannot begin until SBA has first completed action on loan applications," he said.

Shelby County residents are eligible for the reduced interest loans.

Calera theatre group meets

The Calera Community Theatre will hold a meeting on Tuesday night, Jan. 24 at 7 in the Calera recreation building to discuss plans for this summer's show.

All CCT members are urged to attend, as well as anyone interested in joining the theatre group.

5 Country European Tour Planned

Alabamians are making plans to spend their spring holidays in Europe this year. The tour, sponsored by Ambassadors Abroad of Birmingham and escorted by Milton Bridges of Shelby County, will span five countries, Switzerland, Germany, France, Liechtenstein and Austria.

This eleven day tour will leave on Thursday, March 8 and return on Sunday, March 18, 1984.

Included will be Strasbourg, a magnificent cultural city on the Rhine, followed by a sightseeing tour of Baden-Baden, a luxurious spa and resort of kings nestled in the romantic Black Forest of Germany.

While in Switzerland, Lucerne will be headquarters. Situated on the shore of picturesque Lake Lucerne and its diorama of hills and mountains, and its legends of William Tell, is a city both old and new. From the old covered bridges, to the modern shops fine Swiss watches and souvenirs and gifts are offered.

There will be a tour of Schaffhausen, a medieval Swiss town with a spectacular view of the imposing Munot castle overlooking the Rhine. Nearby are the Rhine Falls, the most powerful in Europe.

Also visited will be Engelberg, the great mountain resort of Central Switzerland. Some may wish to ski while others will be content to enjoy the splendor of the Alpine scenery.

The group will travel by train from Lucerne to Munich, stopping for lunch in Innsbruck, the lovely city in Austria's Tyrol region and travel through the Principality of Liechtenstein, the tiny fairy tale country on the Rhine, noted for its postage stamps and picturesque castles.

Two nights will be spent in Munich, the cultural center and capital of Bavaria. The last night will be spend in Frankfurt before flying home.

The tour has been arranged by Ambassadors Abroad of Birmingham and the cost is $1499. This includes round-trip jet transportation via Lufthansa from Atlanta, private motor coach with English speaking guides, luggage handling and porterage, hotels (superior tourist class), most meals, all taxes and service charges. It is possible to earn three quarter hours college credit through Calhoun College of Decatur.

For more information contact Milton Bridges at 668-2275.

Free cheese distributed

Low income families can take advantage of a free cheese distribution next week in Columbiana.

The Community Action Program will handle the distribution from 9-5 on Monday, January, 23, and Wednesday, January 25.

Guidelines for eligibility remain the same as for previous distributions. Proof that income does not exceed 125% of the poverty level, proof of food stamp eligibility, and proof of unemployment will need to be presented, according to a spokesperson for Community Action.

The cheese will be distributed at the Community Services Building across from the courthouse parking lot.

Pelham blocks cemetery location

by Bert Seaman

Pelham residents stood and applauded the decision made by the city planning commission Wednesday, which will keep a cemetery out of their back yards.

Although most of the 35 acres developers planned to use were outside the city limits, they asked the commission to approve the approximately ten acres within the city's boundaries.

With the planning commission's vote against making the acreage a special district, the request will go no further.

Following Wednesday's meeting, residents of Brookfield subdivision were still worried the developers would go ahead with the cemetery on unincorporated land.

But John Shugrue, one of the partners of Oakwood Inc., assured the Reporter that all plans to locate the cemetery in Pelham have been abandoned.

"We're going to look for land elsewhere," he reported.

Nearly 100 area residents -- including some from Oak Mountain Estates -- turned out for the hearing at city hall to protest the proposed cemetery.

Petitions signed by all the homeowners in Brookfield were handed over to the commission and a number of people in the audience told why they were against the development.

One reason given was the loss of privacy in the backyards which bordered the proposed cemetery.

Bill Hamilton was one of those homeowners. He pointed out that rather than disrupt a funeral, he would go indoors.

The 25 foot buffer zone, he pointed out, would not be adequate if homeowners were using their swimming pools or cooking out.

Clovis Wheeles and others insisted their property values would be lowered if a cemetery were located on adjacent land.

But developers claimed that a survey done by a real estate appraiser showed property values were not affected.

Jerry Reid brought up the point that the city would not benefit from a cemetery being developed on the land since it would not bring in any tax revenue.

The increased traffic on the road and the possibility of worsening the drainage problems that already exist were also mentioned.

Some of those voicing their opinions said they didn't want to be buried so close to home. And one person who had made inquiries reported that there are 89,000 grave sites within a 25 mile radius of Pelham.

Although most zoning requests are passed on to the council for a final decision, Mayor Burk Dunaway told those present that in the case of a special district, a negative vote puts the matter to rest.

$10 million lawsuit alleges SMC negligence hurt baby

Shelby Medical Center is being sued for $10 million by parents whose newborn son suffered brain and muscle damage.

A lawsuit filed in Shelby County Circuit court this month by David and Angie Holcombe of Calera, alleges negligence on the part of hospital employees.

The suit says hospital employees "failed to properly carry out the orders of the (Holcombe's) physician in the filling and administration of the medication ordered."

The medication was given to day-old Christopher Michael Holcombe Oct. 28.

The suit also alleges that SMC workers "had actual knowledge that the drug or medication was excessive, dangerous and likely to cause irreparable damage."

According to reports, it won't be known whether the baby's injuries are permanent or temporary until he's about a year old

Calera Mayor opposes 100' park buffer zone

by Bert Seaman

The plan for continued development of Oliver Park was approved by the Calera Park Board last week.

When the subject was brought up at Monday's council meeting though, both mayor Carl Prichard and councilman W.B. Watts still objected to a 100-foot buffer zone between the park and Farris subdivision.

When councilman Mark Jones first presented the plan at the Jan. 9 council meeting, the mayor expressed concern that changing the location of an access road would lead to additional expense.

The road wasn't mentioned Monday, but Prichard and Watts still insisted the 100-foot buffer zone would cost the use of valuable land.

Watts reported that residents of Dunwar Estates, for which there were no plans made for a buffer, are now asking for a 100-foot buffer zone to the west of the park.

"We'd be tying our hands in the future," the mayor pointed out.

If the buffer zone could be used for something like nature trails or a picnic area, Watts said he wouldn't object to it.

"I'm for utilizing the property," he declared

Councilman Larry Farris, who is also a park board member, said some minor changes in the plan, which include uses for the buffer zone, will be presented at the next council meeting.

At that meeting, the council will vote on accepting or rejecting the plan.

Another topic discussed at the previous meeting which came up again Monday was the $4,502 in revenue sharing money which has not been allocated.

J.C. Rowe asked that the money be given to the water board to be used as a down payment on a backhoe.

Farris was in favor of the money being given to the water board, noting that the board wasn't asking for "extra" money but for something that was really needed.

After ascertaining from City Clerk Lemoyne Payton that the board had in excess of $40,000 in the bank, Prichard said the town has a lot of other unmet needs that deserve attention.

Prichard wants the money used for moving a metal building from the landfill to the city shop to provide storage space.

Although Watts made a motion to give the money to the water board, it died for lack of a second.

It was Pilgreen's opinion that more time was needed to study the situation, so the matter was left hanging until the next council meeting.

The council also heard from investment banker Russell Stutts Monday. He urged them to make arrangements for permanent financing of the city's sewer project.

With reference to interest rates, he predicted that the last quarter of 1984 would probably be a good time to make the move.

Mayor Prichard asked Stutts to bring three proposals for financing back to the council for consideration.

Helena keeps at large voting

Deviner was not present at Monday night's city council session, and the Reporter was unable to reach him for comment.

On the agenda for Monday nights meeting was a resolution to not discriminate against handicapped persons.

A motion to that effect was approved in order to keep Helena in compliance with federal regulations for the receipt of revenue sharing funds.

Penhale said the passage of the resolution will mean at most the construction of two ramps at city buildings.

According to the federal regulations for revenue sharing funds, handicapped persons cannot be discriminated in treatment, or employment by a city.

TAX TIME

The closer it gets, the better we look.

Anytime is a good time to open an Individual Retirement Account. And with tax time just around the corner, you still have plenty of time to consider the tax advantages of a Jefferson Federal IRA. Plenty of time to choose which of two accounts is right for you. Both are easy to open, and if you make the maximum deposit by April 16th, you can take the full deduction on your 1983 income tax return. Even better, if you make your 1984 contribution at the same time, your account can start earning high interest, tax-deferred for the rest of the year.

Check the charts for maximum contributions and the two types of tax-saving IRAs offered by Jefferson Federal. Then start saving for a comfortable retirement the easy way. And remember, the sooner you start, the greater the benefits. Stop by any one of our offices, and we'll help you make a timely decision. Because we want you to keep more of what you make, and make more of what you have. What could be better than that?

Maximum Deposit per year:
Single $2,000; One-paycheck couple $2,250;
Working couple $4,000.

Tax backed -- reluctantly

One would have to look far to find a person opposed to improving education. As such, we support the county board of education's proposed vote on an additional three mill property tax for schools.

But we support the proposal reluctantly.

For starts, money isn't always the answer to problems. Who's guaranteeing this tax will improve education?

Secondly, the board owes the voters some details on where the tax will go.

Also, many people aren't convinced the board isn't now wasting some money on various programs and administrative costs.

Finally, the board gets an 'F' in public relations by trying to sell voters on more taxes, when -- in light of the primaries -- its $7,000 special election appears frivolous.

By holding the election on a different day, the board seems to think it can better control the outcome. But what it truly needs to do is a good, honest, and fast PR job.

Unlike opposition to education, one doesn't have to look far to find opponents to taxes.

Council members are overpaid

Letter to the Editor:

Best Politicians Money Can Buy.

The first council meeting of 1984 on January 5, the Columbiana City Council voted to double the council members pay rate and raised the mayor's salary -- all they thought "common sense" would allow. They had to do this in haste because January 10 was the deadline for the change to become effective for the people who are elected to the next term this summer.

The National lawmakers luxuriously lined their pockets last fall; the State politicians really laid it on us on the opening day of the fall special session with a hefty raid on state bucks. Now this local ploy.

I believe dedicated city council members of small towns should work for free. I would opt for mileage if much driving is necessary, and I do not include multiple-trip's to the local drug store for council sub-meetings. (Board of Education members get $7.50 per meeting plus mileage). Other data are appropriate here:

Montevallo: population, 1970 census, 3,719 plus University of Montevallo 2,552 students. Mayor $3,000., Council $0. Total $3,000 annually.

Columbiana: population, 1970 census, 2,448 and declining. Mayor $4,800, Council $12,000, total $16,800 -- a $7,200 jump from 1983 and a month ago this same council could not find about $500 additional to help the local library out.

I tried to serve for free, during my first appointment to the water board, but the then and now chairman of the water board told me "to join the party, take the money, give it to my favorite charity!" That same day I resigned from the board and later a check was mailed to me covering the four meetings I attended. It is not in my inner self to be a part of that sort of party.

I wonder if a solitary voter in the entire U.S. had the option of the democratic process in voting for or against any one of the three debacles? All three political groups budget for us, the taxpayers, and assure that we pay our taxes. In the modern 'trickle-down' political game all taxpayers have to pay the salaries and expenses of government at all levels. These three examples smack a hit of "taxation without representation."

Three present council members probably will not run next time, but perhaps it is time to get the Indian suits out of the attic and get the tea ready to go in the harbors.

Or better still chuck it in the Walker-Lathan beaver refuge near Shelby. The tea might just chase the beavers down stream. Better tea than offal.

Tax bite is too big for schools

Letter to the Editor:

I am apposed to the proposed property tax on Shelby County residents for any reason at all. I think it is the cruelest tax that could be imposed on our people at this time, especially using our children as a pawn.

We have just gone through one of the most traumatic experiences ever known by the recent increase on our property tax, handled in the manner that it was, with so many people not even being able to establish their property lines. They should be receiving compensation instead of paying more tax. The one goal in life that most people try to accomplish is their own roof over their heads, feeling it is the only security they might have as they grow older. Will they be able to continue paying taxes on it?

Most Shelby Countians are not too young to remember when they were brain washed into believing if they voted to legalize liquor in Shelby County it would take care of all of education's needs forever. Then a few years ago, people voted a special sales tax for education. Where is it?

I have grandchildren in school in Shelby County and certainly want them and all of our children to have a good education. We have always supported our schools, with taxes, contributions, volunteering services, buying tickets to everything, paying three dollars for twelve cookies, one dollar candy bars and everything else we were asked to do.

Some of our most noted educators say "Money is not the answer." We could do with fewer administrators, assistants, directors, etc. and show more concern for our children learning the basics.

Another thing I cannot understand, if money is so badly needed, why spend over seven thousand dollars of taxpayers money to hold this one special election when it could be held in March at the time of the Presidential Primary and save that money and apply it to education.

The State will soon be imposing a new tax on us and I understand most of that will go for education.

I know Shelby County is experiencing tremendous growth at this time, but the new people who are moving in are certainly not free loaders. They are paying their fair share of taxes and are very supportive of our schools.

If we have to be further taxed, why not tax beer, liquor and cigarettes? People always have money for them and never miss it. It is their choice. I'm sure more tax money could be generated from this than anything else.

Yours truly,
Alta King

School tax will mean more waste

Letter to the Editor:

I see the school tax vote is set for Feb. 14 "Valentines Day." They need more money for education. I say the more they get the more they will spend. Money is wasted every day for this situation.

Take for instance, forced busing, new buses, more mileage each day, gas, tires, new schools. When is the government going to realize something has to be done, than to ask for more money? Go back a few years and look at this same problem -- children were learning more, less dropouts, less stabbing, less rape and etc. I know each and every one would be better off if we could go back and look at this subject and see where we are now. Education, in my opinion, has gone to the dogs.

If you want this tax increase vote for it, but remember it will never be taken off once it is in effect. Look at our hospital tax. It has not been taken off as promised under the Hill-Burton Act. It will be there until you die then it will be passed on to our children.

Thanks,
John O. Leemon, Jr.

Abortion foes should fight for rights of unborn babies

Letter to the Editor:

January 22, 1984 marks the 11th anniversary of the Roe vs. Wade decision to legalize abortion in our nation. This June, on the floor of the Senate, a Senator stated that the movement against abortion in America was dead. The fact is that we have a land full of folks who detest abortion! They either lack direction or the motivation to do anything about it. We have learned to live with it.

It is time to stand up and fight this action that not only kills babies, sometimes destroys the lives of young men and women, but also grieves God.

There are those who protest, "But, my rights!", not realizing that only if we were the sole person living would we have complete "rights". Then, there are others who are scared, lonely and looking for an easy way out. Being falsely assured of living happily ever after, they begin the biggest guilt trip of all.

I do not want to be ashamed when, many years from now, my grandchildren ask me, "Where were you when they were killing the babies?"

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Entrekin

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Mr. E.C. Simpson
Montevallo, Alabama

Dear Mr. Simpson:

Sometime in the year 1916 or 1917 three men unloaded two bunches of wild mustangs in Columbiana, Alabama.

Four blocks west of the court house, on West College Street, there is a hill where, at one time, they burned coke to make charcoal. To this day it is known as coalchute hill. I suppose they picked up the chute because, with a stock law in force, people brought their stock to this hill and drove them through a chute to a dipping vat. This is where they unloaded the mustangs.

Four men, dressed like cowboys, drove them off coalchute hill and put them in Mr. Laney Isbell's barn.

Two blocks west of the court house, on West College Street, Mr. Isbell, the county tax collector, lived with his family in a big rambling house with a large barn out back.

This is where Buster and Gordon Isbell pumped water from their papa's well to water the mustangs.

People came from all around to look at them, and some to buy, giving $75.00 a pair for them. Sometimes it took from three to five men to get them out of the lot.

The first pair was bought by Aaron Davis, who hauled lighter pine into town from up Pumpkin Swamp way. A month later he came into town with his mustangs hitched to his pine wagon, with a log fastened to the collar of each horse.

They sold every mustang and came back later and sold mules, housing them in a long tin barn that stood in the vacant lot that is next to the Shelby County Reporter today.

And that is the story of the wild mustangs.

Sincerely,
Milton Bird
The Shelby County Reporter

P.S. It would be nice if you dropped a Thank you note to: Gordon Isbell, 3701 N. 27th St., Birmingham, Alabama

Fred's Corner

by Fred Guarino

Can there ever be a true NCAA college football national champion?

Now that tempers have cooled over the recent selection of number four ranked Miami over number three ranked Auburn for national honors, I would like to put my two (or three) cents in on the subject.

This year's disappointing AP Poll and UPI Poll results for Alabamians have sparked comments that the current method of choosing a national champion by vote is a bad one.

The claim is certainly not new. Coach Pat Dye's calling for a credible national championship is really no different from complaints from other dejected coaches in past years. Yet the 'mythical' national championship selection by the poll continues to move ahead unchanged.

Even the recently proposed method of correcting the situation was not new. Use of existing college bowl games as playoffs has been touted for years. Still, nothing has been done to accomplish this goal.

Why?

I think it is because no one has really sat down, worked out the details, and moved to put a solution into practice. Someone simply says use bowl games as playoffs and leaves it at that.

Too, big money bowl officials are not going to support anything that will take away from their games.

Well, if no one else is going to get down to specifics on what should be done, and how, I will.

One of the most crucial points of any playoff plan is how playoff teams are selected. Obviously, the first thing is to do away with popularity polls.

Don't base eligibility for playoff action on rankings which are established by the vote of coaches -- who generally favor teams in their own areas -- or sports writers -- who rely on supposed sectional strengths and big names.

Instead, pick the winners of each conference in the country. To clear up any confusion, make every team in the country join a conference (even if only as an associate member), for a total of 16 conferences.

Most big college football teams now play an 11 game schedule, including a lot of out of conference games.

Do away with all nonconference games and require each team to play every opponent in its own conference. If a conferences is too big for this, break it into smaller groups.

This must be done to have a true championship system. To boot, a shorter regular season might make playoff bowls easier to handle.

Number of victories should be the prime factor for determining a conference winner, and all conference winners will be considered as championship contenders. (Points scored and who beat who should only be used as tie breakers.)

The conferences cannot be aligned with bowls.

Drop the names of all bowl games into a hat and hold a blind drawing to determine which bowls will host first round playoffs. The drawing will continue to see which of the remaining bowls will host quarter, semi-final and final games.

Once the drawings are held, schedule the bowl game dates accordingly.

Example: The drawings might match the Southeastern Conference Champion against the Southwestern Conference.

In this manner, no politics and no big money would be involved in the process.

Semi-final playoff survivors go against each other for number one.

The AP and UPI Polls, if they still exist, could be used to rank the teams which did not make the playoffs.

But don't hold your breath for all this. Nonconference champions, the UPI and AP Polls, and the current bowl invitation system won't fold their traditions easily. It would do away with too much that a lot of folks have going.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Although it has happened many times in the past, some Alabamians still wonder how can it be so -- the Special Education Trust Fund, from which schools are funded, overflows with tax dollars, but the State General Fund, from which most state agencies are funded, is in dire financial condition.

That was the report given last week to members of the legislative budget committees by State Finance Director Henry Steagall. He forecast that the SETF will close out the current fiscal year with a surplus of $136 million, and that by the end of the 1984-85 fiscal year it could be as much as $306 million. But in the same breath, he said taxes going to the General Fund weren't expected to increase more than $1 million next year.

How can this be so --- how can one part of state government be flush, the other almost broke? One word -- earmarking. The taxes earmarked for schools, particularly the sales and income taxes, are generating revenue at a record clip, indicative of the turnaround in the economy. People are making more money, so the income tax goes up; people are spending more money, so the sales goes up.

But not so the levies earmarked for the General Fund. They are increasing, but ever so slowly. And because the taxes are earmarked, there's no way to transfer some of the SETF surplus to the General Fund. That was tried once and it almost triggered World War III.

What will be the answer? Steagall provided it. An increase in taxes of perhaps $175 million in the upcoming regular session of the Legislature.

Odds and Ends -- Once and for all, let's try to clear up the confusion about the names of the various George Wallaces.

The governor of Alabama is George C. Wallace Jr., although he has never used the "junior" title; his son is named George C. Wallace III, yet he has always been identified as George Jr.; thus the new arrival born last week in Montgomery is indeed George C. Wallace IV. And for the record, the State Constitution specifies that a candidate for governor must be 30 years old, hence young George Wallace IV cannot run until the year 2016...

The Auburn University Board of Trustees has named Dr. James E. Martin as the new president of that university. His election came swifter than had been anticipated. There had been earlier reports that a new president was not likely to take over until this fall. Martin attended Auburn on a basketball scholarship in the early 1950s...

What was intended to be an investigation to determine if Wheeler Foshee was qualififed to be assistant director of the Department of Aeronautics became instead a head-hunting effort by the committee to fire the department director, Jim Rowe. Rowe had been highly critical of Foshee's appointment to the $43,000-a-year job, but what Rowe failed to take into consideration is that he didn't have nearly as many friends in the Legislature as did Foshee. Rowe has submitted his resignation, although Gov. Wallace has asked him to reconsider that decision.

'Coupla White Chicks'

"A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking," will be presented Jan. 19-21 at 8 p.m. each evening at the Montevallo Orr Park Recreation Building by the Shelby County Community Theatre. Directed by William Marlowe, the comedy is about the friendship kindled between a rambunctious former Texas cheerleader and a very proper and prim Long Island housewife. Star performers are Pam Middaugh and Sara Marlowe. Tickets may be purchased at Montevallo Mud on Middle Street, or for further information call 665-7774.

Davis named top alumna

A woman who has spent more than 38 years teaching music at the University of Montevallo has been named Alumnus of the Year for 1984.

Professor Emerita Maxine Couch Davis came to Montevallo as a student in 1929, graduating from Alabama College in 1933 with highest honors.

She became a music instructor in 1940 and culminated a 33-year, full-time teaching career at the university with retirement in May 1978.

Since her retirement, Dr. Davis has continued to teach a music literature class at Montevallo and serve as the music library coordinator.

The Union Grove native was reared in Guntersville. She earned her master of music degree from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, NY in 1937.

Dr. Davis was awarded a master of arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1953, and in 1957, she received a doctor of education degree from Columbia University. From 1943-45, Dr. Davis served with the American Red Cross, and spent a year in England at the U.S. Army General Hospital.

MAXINE COUCH DAVIS

She returned to teaching duties at Montevallo and has been there since, excepting a two-year leave of absence to work for her doctorate.

She received the first Distinguished Teacher Award in the College of Fine Arts in 1976-77 and also served as the first chairman of the Faculty Advisory Committee to the President.

She served as local president and state vice president of the American Association of University Professors. She also served as local president of the American Association of University Women.

She holds memberships in the American Musicological Society, American Music Teacher Association, College Music Society, Pi Kappa Lambda music honorary and Phi Mu Epsilon fraternity.

The presentation of the Alumnus of the Year Award will be made Feb. 18 at the noon homecoming luncheon and annual business meeting of the UM Alumni Association.

Cattlemen meet at UM

The Shelby County Cattleman's Assocaition will hold its annual dinner meeting Friday at the University of Montevallo.

According to association spokesman James Braden, editor and vice of president of Progressive Farmer, Charlie Scruggs will be guest speaker.

The meeting will be in the UM cafeteria at 7 p.m. For more information: 668-0173.

Montevallo proposes educational compact

The University of Montevallo and the three schools in the city, although they have a long history of close and cooperative relations, plan to sign a "Montevallo Educational Compact," on January 19.

The unprecedented document formally commits UM and local school leaders "to cooperate more closely, beginning with a determination of the special needs of the three public schools and a plan to meet same..." It also commits UM leaders to find "ways the university can be of greater assistance to them."

UM President Jim Vickrey, coordinator of the event, says several local leaders have been invited to the signing ceremony and the luncheon preceding it. Both events will take place at the Montevallo Middle School at 12:30 p.m.

Hosts will be principal Frances Smitherman and other members of the 'Committee of Six." The other members are Vickrey, Mayor Ralph Sears, UM Education Dean and County School Board Member Bill Fancher, High School Principal Norman Payne, and Elementary School Principal Jimmy Jones.

The Committee resulted from recommendations of the Task Force on Enhancing the Economic and Educational Development of Montevallo. The group of local leaders made its report public last fall, calling for among other things, the Compact. The overall report has been endorsed by both the Montevallo City Council and the University's Board of Trustees.

Eagle Scout

Gene Holder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Holder of Pelham, recently attained the rank of Eagle Scout. He has also earned 34 merit badges, 11 skill awards, the World Conservation Award, and the Bronze Palm. Holder is a member of Troop 254, which is sponsored by Briarwood Presbyterian Church, and has been tapped into the Order of the Arrow. R.J. Fischer is his scout master. A sophomore at Briarwood Christian School, Holder is a member of the Key Club, plays on the varsity football team and soccer team, and is president of Explorer Post 254.

Wreck story corrected

An article on a fatal car wreck in the December 29, 1983, issue of the newspaper contained inaccurate information.

James Blanton of Jemison was killed December 23 after his Chevrolet crashed under a truck's trailer rig which was being backed into a driveway by Dewey Lamar Gable of Altoona, AL. The wreck happened at 8:20 p.m. on State 155 near County 18.

The article incorrectly stated that the vehicle driven by James Maxwell Carter of Montevallo, then came along and hit Blanton's car from the rear. According to the state troopers' accident report -- made available to the newspaper just this week -- Carter's Toyota hit the truck's trailer between the truck's cab and where Blanton's car had hit seconds earlier.

The report noted that both Blanton and Carter had been blinded by the truck's headlights.

The Reporter is glad to make this correction.

Thompson fights off Holy Family attack

by Fred Guarino

Even with a home court advantage, the 3A Thompson Warriors had to be tough to beat smaller 2A Holy Family 71-61 last Thursday night.

The Warriors had to come up with six clutch free throws in the games final minute. Luvell Bivins and Tony Hale had to play a solid four periods and hit 20 points each. Chris Thomas had to fight hard for 15 rebounds.

All these 'had to' situations were necessary just to negate the 28 points and outstanding play of Holy Family's Arnold Hamilton.

Don't let the fact that Holy Family is a 2A school, fool you. For starts, it enjoys the privilege of recruiting athletes, which public schools cannot do. It's also notorious for knocking off larger foes.

In fact, one of Thompson's four losses this season came at the hands of Holy Family, 84-75 -- this, despite the fact the Warriors have beaten every 3A team in their area.

"We played better defense and shot free throws better," was all a delirious Warrior Chris Thomas could say after Thursday's win.

But Thompson Head Coach Thomas Johnson wasn't surprised by the win.

"We can play with anybody if we don't read our press clippings, get too big headed, and play sloppy," he said prior to the game.

The contest was a heart-stopper from beginning to end.

The visitors got things going with an early bucket, then held the Warriors at bay until Thompson broke into an 8-7 lead. The home team held on from there to take a precarious 12-9 edge at the first period buzzer.

The second period was more of the same and the best the Warriors could do was maintain a three point edge, 26-23.

Thompson pulled away in the third period to take a -- seemingly -- commanding 50-36 lead into the final stanza.

However, coach Daniel Lyons' Family fought the Warriors to within seven points with 2:20 left to play.

But Holy Family hit foul trouble and Bivins capitalized, hitting both ends of a one-one to keep Thompson in front by six.

Holy Family again cut the lead to four, but Hale hit crucial free throws at the :27 mark to put Thompson up 69-61.

The Warriors scored one final bucket to take the game 71-61, and up their mark to 13-4. Holy Family fell to 8-7 on the season.

County teams get ready for tourneys

Things are getting interesting. Shelby County teams are tuning up for area, district and county tournaments.

The Coosa Valley Rebels recently defeated Chambers Academy in two separate games, upping themselves to 8-2 on the year. They won 70-40 and 84-55.

In the first meeting, John Beavers scored 25 points and accounted for seven steals. Van Huffaker scored 14 points and led rebounding with ten.

In the second meeting Huffaker led in scoring and rebounding with 27 and ten respectively. Beavers played tough ball of his own with 25 points, eight rebounds and five steals.

* * * *

Shelby Academy's Raiders also won two recent games, defeating Berney Points 40-33 and Autauga 44-37.

Against BP, Dennis Attaway led the Raiders with 14 points, while Lee Pickett led with five rebounds.

Against Autauga, Attaway scored 21 points and Jim Lee took down eight rebounds.

* * * *

The Vincent Yellow Jackets returned to winning ways with a 51-46 rocking of Shelby County High. The win puts the 'Jackets at 10-3 on the year.

Against SCHS, Eddie Reynolds scored ten points and pulled down 14 rebounds.

* * * *

The Chelsea Hornets won their third game of the season by edging Springfield 50-48. Their record is 3-10.

Steve Shelton led the Hornets with 21 points in that contest while Jason Wiggins, Keith Welch and D. Lehner all contributed in rebounding efforts.

* * * *

The Thompson Warriors also returned to winning ways with recent victories over Sylacauga and Childersburg. Their record is now 12-4.

Against Sylacauga Chris Thomas led with 16 points and tied Demetrius Gaiters with five rebounds.

Against Childersburg, in a hot over-time contest, a hot-handed Thomas scored 28 points and pulled down 16 rebounds.

Tony Hale iced the win by hitting four crucial game ending free throws.

See related story for the Thompson/Holy Family game.

* * * *

The Montevallo Bulldogs rebounded from their last outing by beating West Blocton 60-56.

Taylor Blackwell scored 24 points to lead the 'Dogs, while Terry Rutledge pulled down 13 rebounds.

Montevallo is 6-3 on the season.

* * * *

The Pelham Panthers, now 9-6 on the season, are coming on strong.

Tony Taylor's squad followed an upset win over Thompson by beating Berry 62-57 and whipping Homewood 58-55.

Brian Hughes led in scoring against Berry with 21 points and he led in both scoring and rebounding against Homewood with 19 points and six boards.

* * * *

Things aren't looking much brighter for Indian Springs School. That team dropped its eighth game of the season against Springville 64-50.

David Hunt led the now 1-8 ISS team with 15 points, while David Garcia led the squad with 11 rebounds.

* * * *

With a 51-46 loss to Vincent, the Shelby County Wildcats are now 7-5 on the season.

Against the Yellow Jackets, David Wood led his squad with 13 points and seven rebounds.

Calera and Briarwood Christian High School coaches were unavailable for comment.

UM on tap for big Southern game

Birmingham-Southern vs. Montevallo -- "It's our biggest game of the year," said UM coach Bill Elder of this Thursday's encounter.

When these two teams get together, look out for cliches like 'throw out the records' and 'barh-burners.' Last year the Falcons beat the Panthers 71-60 in their first meeting then lost the second 72-64. B-S leads the series 22-14.

A win by either team could provide the momentum needed to capture the Southern States Conference title, and both have the talent.

"From the beginning of the season I thought they were the best team in the conference," said Elder. "And right now they are at the top. They have the most experience returning in the league and Coach Joe Dean and has come in and done an excellent job of teaching them his system."

The Panthers (12-5, 2-0) are strong with a balanced offense. They are led by forward Pat Brown who leads the SSC in field goal percentage (69.3%) and is sixth in scoring average (17.0 ppg.) and in rebounding (6.5).

As a team the Panthers are scoring 72.2 points per game and are averaging 32.8 rebounds.

The Falcons (10-5, 0-1) were picked to finish third in the conference in the coaches' pre-season poll. But when they knocked off Auburn-Montgomery in the Blue-Gray Classic they showed that they may have the talent to claim top honors.

UM's Anthony Glaude, a 6'3" senior guard is having an All-American season. He leads the team in scoring (18.9 ppg), field goal percentage (56.8%), and in steals with 23. Until Cumberland, he had a string of 14 straight double figure scoring games.

His high was 35 points against Troy State.

The only other Falcon averaging in double figures is sophomore Kennedy King, with 10.6 points per game. He leads the team in rebounding at 5.0 boards per game.

"There are a couple of keys to us winning this game," said Elder. "First we have to get something out of our full court defense.

"Secondly, we need to make somebody else besides Reggie Keith handle the ball against our press. Thirdly, and perhaps the most important thing, is that we have to have some scoring out of somebody else besides Glaude. We can't win without a balanced scoring game."

Upcoming games: The Falcons' next home game will be Saturday night against Phillips College at 7:30 p.m. Montevallo then hits the road for games at Talladega (Jan. 23). Auburn-Montgomery (Jan. 26) and Alabama Christian (Jan. 28).

Big buck

James S. Russell of north Shelby County, shows off a 280 lb. buck he recently shot in Chilton County. The ten point deer falls just short of qualification for National Boone and Crockett Trophy honors.

Races planned

Another new event for Talladega will be a 50 mile International Race of Champions on July 28. It will be the third in a series of four special races that will pit a dozen of the world's top drivers against each other in identically prepared Camaros.

Dates have also been announced for the track's most famous races. The Winston 500 is scheduled for May 6 and the Talladega 500 will be run on July 29.

Wiggins takes Chelsea honors

Former University of Alabama quarterback Steadman Shealy told Chelsea football players that success depends on "having a plan -- and being willing to do what no one else is willing to do."

That was the case with the 1979 Crimson Tide team that went 12-0, Shealy told players and guests who attended the annual football banquet Saturday night.

His own goals were realized at Alabama, Shealy said, because he had a plan.

"Without a plan, you're not going to reach that golden apple," he said.

The former Tide star, who serves as a volunteer assistant coach while he studies law at UA, was introduced by incoming Athletic Booster Club President David Nichols.

It was the second time that Shealy has spoken at a Chelsea football banquet.

Following his usual practice, he concluded his talk by giving his Christian witness.

When awards were handed out, Chelsea quarterback Jason Wiggins wound up with three. He was named MVP, Most Valuable Back and Best Academic Record.

Other awards went to: Keith Brasher, Most Valuable Defensive Lineman; Johnny Sands, Most Valuable Offensive Lineman; Tommy Kelly, Most Improved Player; Mike Beavers, Most Spirit.

A trophy was also given to cheeleader Tracey Massey for having the Most Spirit.

Joe White, outgoing Athletic Booster Club president, presided at the banquet.

Fish stocking applications taken

If you want to have your lake stocked with fish from state hatcheries, apply by February 1.

Game and Fish Director Charles D. Kelley said this week that private ponds need not be full of water, but the authorities must have a close estimate of the size of the pond before any stocking takes place.

A fee of $30 per surface acre will be charged for stocking private ponds with bream and bass. Payment must be received at the Eastaboga Hatchery, Box 158, Eastaboga, AL 36260 by Feb. 10. Any pond to be stocked must be completely free of other fish, Kelley said.

A combination of largemouth bass, bluegill and redear sunfish is also available. If a pond is managed properly, it should produce good fishing by June, 1985, according to Fisheries Section Chief Barry W. Smith.

Shelby County residents may obtain their application from the Eastaboga address given above.

'New' church

Rector Edward P. Whatley, Jr. stands before his 'new' church -- the former Wilton Methodist Church -- by former St. Andrews Episcopalians who didn't like the renovations made in their previous church. Now the Anglican Church of the Holy Comforter, Whatley's small congregation has broken away from the Episcopal Church.

Anglicans start new church in Wilton after break from Montevallo Episcopals

Shelby County has a brand new church, and its national bishop is coming Thursday evening.

Following disagreements over theology, 14 members of the approximately 50 member St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Montevallo left to join a national group of Episcopal breakaways. They formed the Montevallo parish of the Anglican Church of the Holy Comforter.

The Anglicans organized at the home of Marian and Annie Mary Jones-Williams. They then met for three weeks at the home of UM professor Reuben Triplett, before leasing the former Methodist Church in Wilton where they plan to meet for the time being.

"We're a very well-kept secret among Episcopalians," says the Rev. Edward P. Whatley, Jr., rector of the new church.

Whatley, ordained an Anglican rector in 1980 in Havana, Ala., grew up in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Greenville. Disenchanted with modern Episcopal trends he served brief stints as a Methodist and as a Lutheran.

Because of a shortage of rectors, Whatley is also in charge of a ministry to UM students, heads another church (Trinity Parish) in Tuscaloosa where he oversees a campus ministry at UAT.

Whatley preaches twice monthly at the Wilton church, and spends two Wednesdays per month at the UM campus. Episcopal lay readers fill in in his absence. Services begin at 10 Sundays.

Women of the Church and a Sunday School are being organized.

The Montevallo parish, which covers Shelby, Chilton, and Bibb counties, was founded October 11, 1983. It immediately joined the Anglican denomination which was formally organized in 1978.

Officers include Rector Whatley and: Dr. Jesse Jackson (unrelated to the presidential candidate), Sr. Warden; Reuben Triplett, Jr. Warden; Mrs. Jan Seaman, Treasurer; Dr. Shirley Jackson, Clerk; Mrs. Alice Lature, Altar Guild Directress; and Annie Mary Jones-Williams, Directress of Memorials. The Vestry is composed of Jimmy Snyder and James Seaman.

St. Andrews and St. Francis of Assisi, a new church meeting at Riverchase Middle School, are the two remaining Episcopal churches in the county. An Episcopal church existed briefly in Helena many years ago.

According to Whatley, the 'bolters' are really orthodox, and are trying to return to the Episcopal beliefs of an earlier period.

The break was triggered by a 1976 Episcopal convention in Minneapolis which revised the 1928 Book of Common Prayer. The new church still uses the old version, while the more numerous 'remainders' use a 1979 version.

Major theological differences cited by Whatley include the prayer book controversy, and the refusal of the growing Anglican group to accept the ordination of women or homosexuals, or to tolerate denial of the trinity, Christ's divinity, or virgin birth.

Since it is new and small, the Anglican church has very large dioceses. The Montevallo parish belongs to the Diocese of Christ the King, which covers most of the nation and is based in Washington, DC.

The Rt. Rev. Robert S. Morse, bishop, will be visiting Wilton from Washinton for a special service to begin at 6:30 p.m., January 19.

LEGAL NOTICE
Final Public Notice

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in conjuntion with the State of Alabama gives final notice of its intent to provide disaster victims in the Counties of Jefferson, Shelby, Calhoun and Dallas with temporary housing in existing resources.

As some of these resources are located in the floodplain, public comment concerning utilization and application of the Floodplain Management Executive Order to these resources was invited by notice in this publication on Jan. 19, 1984. Even though no public comments were received, prior to choosing this course of action, FEMA evaluated other alternatives according to economic, environmental, sociological, technological and safety factors.

FEMA and the State of Alabama determined that the only practical alternative is to utilize some of these resources located in the one-percent floodplain for the following reasons:

1. Other resources cannot be made available in a timely manner to the disaster victims needing temporary housing.

2. Utilization of these resources will not subject an occupant to unreasonable future flood risk.

3. The integrity to existing communities (occupants proximity to places of business, worship, educational facilities) would be compromised if the utilizaiton of other resources was dictated.

4. Utilization of these resources does not encourage degradation of the floodplain or ruin its natural protective values.

Other alternatives considered, but not selected, included:

1. Relocating the disaster victim out of his/her community, and

2. Delaying the provision of temporary housing assistance for a significant time period until housing units became available out of the floodplain.

Interested persons may obtain information about these actions and their locations at the Federal Coordinator's Office. In care of FEMA, 2121 Building - 8th Avenue North, Birmingham, Alabama 35203. Attention: Paul E. Hall.

Comments sould be submitted in writing at the above address within 15 days from January 9, 1984.

LEGAL NOTICE
Notice of Finding of No Significant Impact on the Environment
Date: January 19, 1984.
Local Government: City of Montevallo
53 South Main Street
Montevallo, AL 35115
To all interested agencies, groups, and persons:

The above-named local government proposes to request the Office of State Planning and Federal Programs to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93383) to be used for the following project: Improvement and rehabilitation of 60 units of substandard housing in the Shoals Creek neighborhood.

Estimated Cost of the Project is: $295,000

Location of the Project is: Montevallo, Shelby County, Alabama.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of human environment and, accordingly, the above named local government has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-109).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such statement are as follows:

-after assessment of various environmental matters associated with the project, only temporary and/or beneficial impacts were identified. Various steps will be taken during the project to lessen these situations.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the project has been made by the above-named local government which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request between the hours of 8:00 am and 4:30 pm.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the staff. Such written comments should be received at the address listed above on or before February 3, 1984. All such comments so received will be considered and the local government will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Where do I find the phone services I need?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But South Central Bell is still your phone company. As part of a holding company called BellSouth, we'll continue to provide dependable service. For your home. And for your business.

While there are many changes taking place, there will be little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is. If you decide to make changes in your service, however, you'll notice some differences.

Use these phone numbers.

Now, when you need help with your phone or phone service, you should use these phone numbers, which may be different from some you've used in the past.

This winter, get your diesel off to a good start.

Gulf

Gulf Auto Diesel fuel is specially formulated to meet the cold weather starting needs of diesel engines. A cold flow improver makes the fuel flow to your engine as easily in January as it does in June. And, because Gulf adds the cold flow improver before you pump fuel into your car, you don't need to add anything later on.

So, if you want to beat the cold weather starting grind, look for our red and yellow 'D'. And get off to a good start this winter with Gulf Auto Diesel.

It seems that everyone I've come in contact with lately is either on a diet or going to go on one Monday. (Sound familiar?) I guess it is truly the 'diet season', and I like to get involved -- so naturally I'm on a diet.

For two weeks now I have resisted the temptation of such dieter's delicacies as pizza, chocolate chip cookies, cheeseburgers... and oh those little chocolate kisses that just melt in your mouth! Instead, I have eaten my fill of vegies, including cabbage, carrots, green beans, pickles and lettuce. (No wonder a cow never smiles!)

So far I haven't cheated on my diet once... not once, but I am beginning to think maybe I should because I am starting to hear things and I think it may be related to eating all of those vegetables. The first time I noticed something out of the ordinary was last week when I strolled past a box of fresh donuts and heard a shout from within the box. It went something like this, "Just one won't hurt you... Come on Iris, we don't have that many calories."

Now if you have been on a diet for a couple of weeks, perhaps you are getting the same symptoms. If so, here is the only remedy that I have heard of.

It seems a co-worker of mine heard the same voice coming from within the box, however instead of listening to the cries of uneaten calories, he simply put the little guy out of his misery. His remedy? "I know one of those donuts that will never talk again!" he boasted.

And so goes the diary of a deprived dieter...

Public hearings set to improve education

The public will have 16 opportunities to take part in hearings about a new plan for excellence in education.

State Superintendent of Education Wayne Teague announced this week that the hearings will include talks by state board members, local superintendents and staff from the state department of education.

Questions will be invited from the public.

The hearings will be held at locations throughout the state over a period of a month. The two closest to Shelby County will be at Shades Valley High School on Thursday, January 19 and at Parker High School on February 14. Both high schools are in Birmingham.

They will begin at 7 p.m. and conclude at 9 p.m.

Teague says, "We are very enthusiastic about this plan and what it will do for the students of our state through improving educational opportunities."

Build a dulcimer

A Calera couple will give a workshop this weekend at Auburn University, on building mountain dulcimers.

An American folk instrument that's simple to play, the mountain dulcimer is said to sound like a four-stringed bagpipe.

As part of the Auburn University Continuing Education program, dulcimer instructors Earl and Linda Templin of Calera will give a workshop on the instrument this Friday and Saturday, room 202 of Foy Union.

Participants will assemble, shape, sand and finish a solid cherry, teardrop dulcimer from pre-sawn pieces.

Neither woodworking nor musical experience is required to participate. The $75 fee includes tools, materials, building instructions, learning to play several songs, and refreshment breaks.

Finished dulcimers will also be on sale.

On Friday the workshop runs from 4-9 p.m. Saturday, it lasts from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. For more information, call AU at 1-826-5101.

Defendants

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama
Case No. CV-84-001 (E)
Notice

TO: The unknown heirs or devisees of Walter Hawthorne, deceased; Allen Lumber Co,. and the unknown owners and shareholders thereof and their heirs or devisees if deceased; Darling Daniel, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Beatrice Noland, deceased; Alex Bickerstaff, and his heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Lillie Hawthorne Peterson Bickerstaff, deceased; Catherine Abbott; Elizabeth Branch, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Lillian Lewis, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; Dorothy Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Willie Lee Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Howard Lee Noland, Jr., and his heirs or devisees, if deceased, and the following described real property located in Shelby County, Alabama: The NE¼ of NW¼ of Section 32, Township 18 South, Range 2 East, and any and all persons or corporations claiming, or reputed to claim, any title to, interest in, lien or encumbrance on said lands, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and all other persons, defendants.

You are hereby notified that the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr. Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, have on this 4th day of January, 1984, filed their verified Complaint in the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, against you, and against the above designated real property, pursuant to the provisions of 1975 Code of Alabama, Title 6, Sections 6-560 through 60-573, for the purpose of establishing the fee simple title to the above designated real property in the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr., Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, and to cleer up all doubts and disputes concerning said real property, and said designated suit is now pending in said Court.

The plaintiffs allege in said Complaint that they are the owners of the real property described more particulary above, in fee simple, subject only to current year ad valorem taxes, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property as the sole surviving heirs and next of kin of Joe Peterson, deceased, said property having been formerly owned by Joe Peterson under warranty deed from Lillie Peterson dated January 24, 1933, and recorded February 6, 1933, in Deed Book 95 at page 178, Office of Judge of Shelby County, Alabama, said Joe Peterson having died intestate while a resident of Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit, in the year 1939, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property under said deed.

Plaintiffs further allege that they are in the actual, peaceable possession of said lands; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation is in the actual possession of said lands and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have held color of title to the said lands for a period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint, and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have paid taxes on said lands during the whole of such period of time; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation has paid taxes on said lands during any part of said period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint.

Plaintiffs further aver that no action is pending to test their title to, interest in, or the right to their possession of such lands.

Plaintiffs further allege that after diligent search and inquiry they have been unable to learn the names, whereabouts, or addresses of any defendant to this suit, except as designated above herein, and that in the belief of the plaintiffs, all of said defendants are over 19 years of age and that none of said defendants are known or suspected to be of unsound mind.

You are further notified that you, and each of you, are required to plead, answer or demur to said Complaint on or before March 3, 1984, or suffer decree pro confesso or other default judgment in accordance with law, to be rendered against you.

LEGAL NOTICE

State of Alabama
County of Shelby

Notice is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made, to-wit:

A Bill to be Entitled An Act

Relating to the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation; and create a Pelham Municipal Racing Commission for the regulation. licensing, qualification for licensing, and supervision of Greyhound racing, and wagering thereon; to prescribe the composition, qualification, appointment, terms of office; powers and duties of the commission; to prescribe certain qualificaitons for applicants for licenses; to provide for and regulate the pari-mutuels or certificate method or wagering within the enclosure of licensed race tracks; to provide for the distribution of license fees, taxes, commissions and other moneys received under the provisions of the act; and to provide certain penalties for the violation of this act and for other purposes relative thereto, and to provide for a referendum of the voters of the City of Pelham on the question of whether the act will become effective in said municipality; to authorize the employment by said Racing Commission of special legal counsel in addition to representation by the Office of the City Attorney of said city; to prohibit members of said Racing Commission from making political contributions; to provide for the severability of the parts, sections and provisions of said Act.

Be it Enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. A municipal Racing Commission is hereby created and established for and in the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation, and said Racing Commission is vested with the powers and duties specified in this Act, and all other powers necessary and proper to enable it to execute fully and effectually the purposes of the Act. The official name of said Commission shall be The Pelham Municipal Racing Commission, the same being sometimes referred to herein as the Racing Commission or the Commission. Said Commission shall consist of three (3) members to be appointed as hereinafter provided. The member of the Alabama Legislature representing House District 40 shall appoint one (1) member of said Commission to serve for a period of one (1) year from said effective date;

the Mayor of Pelham, Alabama shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of two (2) years from said effective date; and the City Council of Pelham, Alabama by majority vote of the members present shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of three (3) years from said effective date. As the terms of each Commission member shall expire, such member's successor shall be appointed for a period of three (3) years by the appointing authority who made the original appointment. If a vacancy shall occur for any reason, then that vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as original appointments are made. In the event that any vacancy shall exist on the Commission for a period in excess of thirty (30) days, then the Governor of the State Of Alabama shall fill such vacancy in lieu of appointement by the appointing authority as herein designated. Initial appointment of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission shall be made within fifteen (15) days after this act is approved by the voters of the City of Pelham, Alabama as is herein provided.

Section 2. All books, records, maps, documents and papers held by the Commission shall constitute public records, and be available for copying, examination and inspection during all normal business hours by any agency, official or person.

Section 3. The members of the Commission shall be qualified electors not less than twenty-one (21) years of age, who shall be resided in the City of Pelham for a the period of three (3) years next preceding their appointment. Each Commissioner shall take the same constirutional oath of office as other municipal officers, and shall give bond payable to the City of Pelham in the amount of $25,000, conditioned that such member will faithfully and properly perform the duties of his office. The premiums on such bonds shall be paid by the Commission from the funds out of which the members of the Commission are compensated. The Commission may employ such assistants and employees as may be necessary. The Com,mission may also employ accounting, investigative, publicity and public relations and architectural firms for assistance in implementing and enforcing its duties under this Act.

The Commission shall select one of its members to act as Chairman thereof. The Chairman so selected shall hold office for a period of one (1) year or until his successor shall be selected. The Commision shall meet on the call of its Chairman, but no less than once each three (3) months for the conduct of its business.

A member of the Racing Commission must not be, nor shall he be, a member of any board of directors or an officer, partner or associate in any organization financially interested in any race track, or race meeting licensed by the Commission, or any licensee hereunder; nor shall he race any dog or be financially interested in any dog in any race meeting licensed by the Commision.

Section 4. The compensation of each member of the Commission shall be One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) per month. One (1) member of said Commission shall be required to be in attendance at each racing event and said designated mamber shall receive an additional Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem while engaged in the performance of his duties. Each Racing Commissioner engaged in the performance of his duties when traveling within the State of Alabama but outside Shelby County shall receive Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem and when traveling outside the State of Alabama, One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) per diem plus transportation expenses.

Section 5. The Finance Director or other chief fiscal officer of the City of Pelham shall be Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission, and shall collect all the license fees, taxes and moneys provided in this Act, and shall supervise, check and audit the operation of the pari-mutuels wagering pools and the conduct and distribution thereof.

Section 6. The Racing Commission shall have the authority to employ legal counsel of its selection to advise the commission and represent it in all proceedings. The compensation of such counsel shall be paid out of the general fund of the City of Pelham.

Section 7. It shall be the duty of the Racing Commission to carry out the provisions of this Act; and it shall have the following specific duties:

(1) To fix and set dates upon which racing meetings may be held or operated.

(2) To make an annual report to the governing body of the City of Pelham of its operation, showing its own actions and rulings, and receipts derived under the provisions of this Act, and such suggestions as it may deem proper for the more effective accomplishment of the purpose of this Act.

(3) To require each applicant to:

(a) If an individual, group of individuals or partnership, each individual or partner shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(b) If a corporation, each incorporator, stockholder, director, and officer shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(c) Set forth on such application for a license the following information:

(i) The full name of each individual or partner, their business and home address, their present business, occupation, or profession, and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such individuals for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such application.

(ii) The name and address of each of the incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers of any corporation making such application and the present business, occupation, or profession of each of such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such appplication.

(iii) The exact location where it is desired to conduct or hold a racing meet and a complete set of architectural renderings and construction plans showing the site, topography, the type of construction, the track design, and the concession plans, together with sufficient proof of capitalization to construct and operate said facility. If such proof of capitalization contemplates that a loan or other indebtedness will be incurred by such applicant, then the name and address of each person, firm or corporation making such loan or underwriting such indebtedness shall be given together with the written commitment of such person, firm or corporation to make such loan or underwrite such indebtedness.

(iv) Whether such racing plant is to be owned by applicant or leased, and if leased, the owner thereof shall meet the same residence requirments as an applicant and the same information shall be furnished for such owner as is required to be furnished for an applicant.

(v) If the applicant is to enter into a management contract with any person or legal entity, then such person or other legal entity shall meet the same residence requirement and the same information shall be furnished concerning such person or legal entity as is required of an applicant.

(vi) The kind of racing to be conducted and the dates requested.

(vii) Such other information as the Racing Commission may require.

(viii) To disclose any indictment for or conviction of any felony and any conviction of a misdemeanor involving a crime of moral turpitude on the part of the applicant, its officers, directors, stockholders, partners, associates, or any person financially interested in said applicant.

(4) To require an oath of every applicant, or by the president or executive officer of the association or corporation, stating that the information contained in the application is true.

(5) To make uniform rules and regulations governing the holding, conducting, and operating of all race tracks, race meetings, and races held in the City.

(6) Receive all applications for the initial license within thirty (30) days following the appointment of the Commissioners and to grant, reject or otherwise act upon all such applications within ten (10) days after the last day for receiving such applications.

(7) All books records, maps, documents, and papers of the Commission, including those filed with the Commission as well as those prepared by or for it, shall at all times be open for the personal inspection at the office of the Commission during its normal business hours by any officer of the State of Alabama, or of any county, municipality, or other subdivision of the State, or of any official investigative body or committee, provided that such officer, investigative body or committee shall be authorized to carry out such inspection and examination, and no person having charge or custody thereof shall refuse this right to any officer or investigative body or committee, and it shall be the express duty of such person to assist such officer or committee in locating records or information desired by them. Any member or employee of the Commission who violated the provisions of this section shall be removed from office and forfeit his bond.

Section 8. Any person, association, or corporation desiring to operate a race track in the City of Pelham shall have the right to apply to the Commission, subject to the provisions of this Act, to hold and conduct one or more race meeting at such track each year, provided that no such license shall be granted to any person, association, or corporation, or to any track, for a period longer than three hundred (300) racing days in any one (1) year.

The Commission may extend said limitations of time for greyhound racing not to exceed three (3) days at any one track beyound the period otherwise provided by law so that any such track shall conduct a charity day or days of racing for any one or more recognized charities in the City of Pelham which has a tax exempt status as provided for under the Internal Revenue Code. The total of all profits derived for the operation of such racing on such charity days, including all moneys which would otherwise be received by the Commission as taxes for such days' operations, shall be and become a part of a charity trust fund for which such racing on such days is conducted. The charity trust fund shall be administered as directed by the Racing Commission.

In determining profits derived from such racing on such charity days, said profits shall include all taxes payable to the City of Pelham or any agency therof for such days' operations. The licensee of said tracks shall only be entitled to deduct from the profits accruing from all receipts on such charity days of racing their actual operating costs, which costs shall be those expenses incurred by the race track solely by reason of holding said charity days of racing and shall not be deemed to include such expenses constant from day to day and which would have been incurred had the race on that day not been held, including, but not limited to, such items as capital expenditures, interest on debts, real estate taxes and annual license fee, donations, bad debts, and such other items of daily or prorated expenses as the Commission may by rule prescribe and provided, however, that such expenses shall be deemed to be a donation to the charity or charities benefiting from said racing days.

There shall be only one greyhound dog racing facility in Pelham.

Section 9. No race or racing shall be permitted on Sunday. No person under nineteen (19) years of age shall be employed in any manner about said race track except as exercise boys, jockeys, handlers, grooms, ushers and concessionaires; nor shall persons under nineteen (19) years of age be permitted to attend any race.

Section 10. The original license issued in accordance with the terms of this Act shall be for a period to allow ten (10) full calendar years of racing following the construction and equipping of the racing plant or facility or for the length of time required for the amortization of the capital investment, whichever is longer, and shall be granted so as to expire on the 31st day of December following such ten (10) full calendar years of racing or the amortization of the capital investment. On or before the 1st day of December of the last year of the original license, the Racing Commission shall accept application in the manner, form and requiring the requisite qualifications all as prescribed in this Act for additional periods of not more than three (3) calendar years. On or befor the 1st day of January thereafter, the Commission shall convene to consider and act upon such applications. Subsequent applications shall be accepted and license issued in the same manner. If a licensee shall apply for a renewal license, the same shall not be denied except for good cause provided, however, the Commission may require that such licensee furnish the requisite information and meet the requisite qualifications required by this Act.

The license granted under this Act shall set forth in addition to any other information prescribed by the Racing Commission the name of the licensee, the location of the race track, duration of the race meeting and the kind of racing desired to be conducted and shall show the receipt by the Commission of a license fee set by the Commission, provided, however, that such license fee shall not exceed One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) annually. No such license shall be transferable, nor shall it apply to any other place, track, or enclosure except the one specified in the license.

Section 11. (a) The Commission may suspend or revoke the license of any licensee conducting a race meeting, upon the willful violation of any of the provisions of the Act, or any rule or regulation promulgated by the Commission or may invoke a fine not to exceed $10,000 per offense in lieu thereof in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable.

(b) It is unlawful for any member of said Racing Commission, or any licensee under this chapter directly or indirectly, to make any contribution whatsoever to any political party or to any candidate for any State, County, or Municipal office, and upon proof being presented of any such prohibited contribution having been made by the licensee, the Commission shall immediately and permanently revoke the license of such licensee.

(c)If any member of said Racing Commission violates, consents to, or participates in, any violation of the provisions of this Act, in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable, such member shall be subject to removal from office.

(d) No disciplinary action may be taken hereunder until the licensee has been presented with notice in writing specifying the time and place of a disciplinary hearing, said notice setting out in substance the nature of the accusation, and inviting the licensee to appear, with or without counsel, as the licensee may decide, the licensee being afforded an opportunity to face and examine his accusers, call witnesses and testify if he chooses.

Section 12. The Commission is empowered to compel the production of any and all books, memoranda, or documents showing the receipts and disbursements of any person, association or corporation licensed to conduct race meetings under the provisions of this Act. The Commission may at any time require the removal of any employee or official employed by any licensee hereunder whenever it has reason to believe that such employee or official is guilty of any improper practice in connection with racing, has failed to comply with any condition of the license, or has violated any rule adopted by the Commission. The Commission shall have the power to require that the books and financial or other statements of any licensee be kept in a manner and method provided by the Commission; and the Commission shall be authorized to visit, investigate, and place auditors and inspectors in the offices, tracks, or place of business of any person, association or corporation licensed under this Act.

The Commission shall have power to summon witnesses before its meetings; to administer oaths to such witnesses, and to require testimony on any issues before it.

Section 13. The Commission shall have the power to grant, refuse, suspend, or withdraw licenses to all persons connected with race tracks, including all salaried employees, gate keepers, announcers, ushers, starters, officials, drivers, dog owners, agents, trainers, handlers, grooms, stable foremen, exercise boys, veterinarians, valets, sellers of racing forms or bulletins, and attendants in connection with the wagering machines, pursuant to such rules and regulations as the Commission may from time to time adopt and upon the payment of license fee as shall, from time to time, be fixed and determined by the Commision in accordance with the position and compensation of such person. Any such license may be revoked by the Commisison, at is discretion, and any person whose license is revoked shall be ineligible to participate in such occupation connected with racing unless the license is returned by the Commission with permission to operate thereunder. The Commision may deny or revoke a license to any person who has been refused or denied a license by any other state racing commission or racing authoriy, or who has furnished the Commission with an application containing falsified information.

Section 14. The Commission shall make rules governing, permitting, and regulating the wagering on races. "Pari-Mutuels Wagering" shall be legal to the extent that, and so long as, the same is carried on and conducted strictly in conformity with this Act, and not otherwise. Only the persons, associations, or corporations receiving a license from the Commission shall have the right or privilege to conduct this type of wagering within the City of Pelham, and the licenses shall restrict and confine this form of wagering to a space within the race meeting grounds. All other forms of wagering on the result of the races shall be illegal, and any or all wagering outside of the enclosure of such races, where such races shall have been licensed by the Commission, shall be illegal.

No person or corporation shall directly or indirectly purchase parimutuels tickets for another for hire or for any gratuity and no person shall purchase any part of a pari-mutuels ticket through another, wherein he gives or pays directly or indirectly such other person anything of value.

Section 15. Every licensee conducting race meetings under the provisions of this Act, shall pay to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission for the use of the Commission, a tax in an amount equal to six per cent (6%) of the total moneys wagered in all pari-mutuels pools conducted on any race track licensed under this Act. The commission of a licensee on a pari-mutuels pool shall in no event exceed eighteen percent (18%) of the amount wagered in said pari-mutuels pool, which amount shall include the six percent (6%) tax heretofore provided. After the deduction of the six percent (6%) for the use of the commission and the percentage commission of the licensee, the remainder of the totals wagered in each pool shall be divided among the winners in each pool according to the Rules of Racing outlined by the Commission, which Rules shall generally conform to practices now in effect at other lawfully licensed dog race tracks in the United States. Each redistribution shall be made in a sum equal to the next lowest multiple of ten. The licensee is entitled to retain the odd cents of all redistribtuions to be known as "breakage to a dime", and all moneys represented by any unclaimed, uncashed or abandoned pari-mutuels tickets known as "outs" tickets. Under the pari-mutuels system of wagering herein provided, the licensee shall be permitted to provide separate pools for bets to win, place, show, a daily double, exactas, trifectas, a quinella and a double quinella, or such other pool as may from time to time be approved by the Commission. Each pool shall be redistributed separately as herein provided. Should there be no winning ticket sold on any pool that conforms to the intent of that pool, provisions will be made in the Rules of Racing adopted by the Commission to assure the distribution of the net amount of such pool.

The licensee shall be required to use a totalizator machine to record the wagering and compute the odds. Rules and regualtions governing the operation of each of the pools shall be set out in book form by the Racing Commission. The licensee shall collect from each person attending the race meetings under the provisions of this Act ten (10) cents admission tax. Licensees shall make payment of such taxes to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission once each quarter (three months) which payment shall be accompanied by a report on the races covered by such payment and such other information as the Commission may require.

Section 16. If any free passes or complimentary cards shall be issued to guests by any license, such licensee shall nevertheless be responsible for payment of the admission tax upon such complimentary admission cards or passes as though they had been sold at regular admission price. However, nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the issuance of tax free passes to officials and actual employees of the licensee, or other persons actually engaged in working at such track, including persons actually employed and accredited by the press or other news service; provided, that the issuance of all such tax free passes shall be governed by the regulations and orders of the Commission and a list of all such officers, employees, and news service representatives shall be filed with the Commission.

Section 17. The license fees, commissions, and excise texes imposed herein shall be in lieu of al license, excise, and occupational taxes to the State of Alabama, or any county, city, town or other political subdivision thereof, provided however that any person firm or corporation who operates a restaurant, bar or other concession on the premises shall be subject to the usual city, county and state taxes that are normally leview upon such businesses including sales taxes.

Section 18. Any corporation, association, or person who directly or indirectly holds any dog race without having procured a license as prescribed in this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person wagering upon the results of such a race, except in the pari-mutuel method of wagering when the same is conducted by a licensse and upon the grounds or enclosure of said licensee, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any corporation, organizaiton, assoiciation, or person who violates any provision of this Act, for which penalty is not expressly provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Upon conviction of any of the above misdemeanors in a court of competent jurisdiction, the penalty shall be a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), or by imprisonment of not less than five days nor more than six months, or both, such fine and imprisonment to be in the discretion of the court.

Section 19. All fees, commissions, taxes and other moneys, including fines and forfeitures, received under the provisions of this Act shall be paid to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission within ten (10) days following the quarterly receipt therof and shall be forthwith deposited or caused to be deposited to the account of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission. Deposits shall, to the extent practicable, be deposited in interest bearing accounts or securities. All such moneys remaining after payment of the expenses incurred in the administration of this Act, including the payment of the salaries and expenses of the members and employees of the Commission, shall be distributed within forty-five (45) days of receipt of the Commission to the City of Pelham, the proceeds of which shall be used by said municipality in the following percentages and for the following purposes:

(a) Eighteen percent (18%) for the Shelby County Board of Education to be used for the operation of the public schools in Shelby County, Alabama, privided however in the event one or more municipalities in Shelby County shall create a separate school system then and in such event or events the distribution as herein provided shall be prorated between the Shelby County Board of Education and such separate municipal school system based on the student population.

(b) Two percent (2%) for higher education in Shelby County.

(c) Three percent (3%) for use by the Sheriff's Department of Shelby County as the Sheriff shall from time to time determine.

(d) Twenty-seven percent (27%) for use for the benefit of the citizens of Shelby County as the governing body of the county shall from time to time determine.

(e) Fifty percent (50%) shall remain unearmarkded and may be spent in any manner provided by law, for the benefit of the citizens of Pelham, Alabama as the governing body of that municipality shall from time to time determine.

Section 20. No person who engages in the practice of illegal bookmaking dog races, or who knowingly taken any part in such practices, shall be eligible as an applicant for any license or permit to operate a race track or a race meeting under the provisions of this Act, or to be connected therewith in any capacity; and any association or corporation which has as an officer, director, stockholder, executive or any other person financially interested therein or who knowingly employs any person who engages in such practices shall likewise be ineligible as a licensee, and the Commission is hereby empowered to inquire into such matters in entertaining any such applications and otherwise administering this Act.

Section 21. Any person who shall influence or have any understanding or connivance with any owner, groom or other person associates with or interested in any kennel or dog, or race in which any dog participates, to prearrange or predetermine the results of such race, or any person who shall stimulate or depress a dog for the purpose of affecting the results of a race, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year nor more than ten years, or shall be fined not less than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or both, in the discretion of the court.

Section 22. It is the intent of this Act to improve the economic well being of the citizens of the City of Pelham, by providing an increased tax base, jobs for the citizens herein, and the promotion of conventions, tourism, and recreation in the City of Pelham. It is the intent of this Act to provide for strict local control of the racing plant or plants and the operation of said plants by Shelby County citizens so as to minimize the possibility of undesirable gambling elements from ever controlling this industry.

Section 23. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.

Section 24. The provisions of this Act are severable. In the event any section or part therof is declared invalid, such declaration shall not affect the validity of the part and sections which remain.

Section 25. The governing body of the City of Pelham shall on the first Tuesday after thirty (30) days have elapsed from the effective date of this Act call and provide for holding a referendum for the purpose of determining if this Act shall become operative. The question to be voted on shall be stated on the ballots or voting machine tabs substantially as follows:

"Do you favor the creation of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission to regulate licensing and supervision of dog racing and wagering theron as provided in Act No. ------ approved --------, 198—?"

If the majority of the votes cast in the referendum are "Yes" racing shall be legal in the City of Peham as herein provided, and this Act shall become operative therein; if the majority of the votes cast in the election are "No", an additional referendum to be called by the municipal governing body at a time selected by them and set in accord with the provisions of this Section shall not be held within two years of such vote provided however, that additional referendums called by the municipal governing body shall not require further action or approval by the Legislature or by the Governor. The municipal election commission shall certify the results of the referendum to the Secretary of State of Alabama within thirty (30) days after the eleciton returns are canvassed.

Section 26. This Act shall become effective upon its passage and approval by the governor, or upon its otherwise becoming a law.

THANKS

Card of Thanks

A special thanks to Pelham Fire Dept., Chief Bryars, David Bryars, and Debbie Blackwelder, for a special visit to a dear friend on Christmas Eve. These people did a great deed, far beyond their regular job. The citizens of Pelham are fortunate to have such good public servants as these. May God bless them all.

Life under the 'big top'

Butch and Ginger Fuller have found that a teepee home is real down to earth living. Here they enjoy a story with their children Braum (l), Heather, Brendan, Morgan and their pet dog Bear. Fuller is Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 559 in Montevallo.

Fuller family leaves town for tepee living in woods

by Bert Seaman

Most people don't live in tepees -- but most people don't have the love affair with the Indian that Butch Fuller has.

Ever since he was a youngster in Slapout, Ala., Fuller had dreamed about living in a tepee. So last year he took the plunge -- along with his wife and four children.

A technician with Alabama Power Company, Fuller and his family lived in Montevallo before moving to the wooded acreage in Brierfield to set up housekeeping in a tepee.

In Montevallo they had a kitchen, a bathroom, a living room and a bedroom for themselves and the children.

Now, with everyone in one room, they have as much togetherness as anyone could possibly want. Sometimes, even more.

Add to that the inconveniences of hauling water for washing and drinking, cooking over an open fire or on a Coleman stove, reading by lantern light, and going outdoors to a small tent to use the bathroom... One might think they'd be ready to call it quits by now.

That's not the case though. After four months -- during which there were torrential downpours and a record cold spell -- the Fullers are still enthused about their rustic way of life.

"In fact," Fuller says, "we've been talking just recently about maybe extending our time in the tepee beyond the year we agreed on."

Fuller's romance with the Indian way of life could be the result of the Creek blood he inherited from his mother's side of the family.

His coloring is that of an Indian, and with his long hair pulled back in a pony tail and a bone choker around his neck, Fuller could pass for a brave.

His fair skinned, blue-eyed wife doesn't fit the stereotype of an Indian woman, though. Even though, Ginger Fuller says she's adapted amazingly well to the Indian way of life. In fact, she claims that she was just as anxious as her husband to try the 'grand experiment.'

Although Mrs. Fuller had only camped out three times in her life prior to the big move, her husband's enthusiasm for tepee life became contagious.

Plans for the move had been discussed for quite awhile, but the time to act came sooner than they expected.

The date they were aiming at was July, 1984. However, when they lost the lease on their Montevallo house in September, they viewed it as opportunity knocking early.

Their new home -- an authentic Cheyenne tipi (the Indian spelling) -- was made by a craftswoman in Florida.

In the 18x20-foot interior are mattress beds, a kerosene heater, a pole on which clothes are hung, and several wooden boxes for storage. Books and games are placed next to walls.

"We brought too much when we came," laughed Mrs. Fuller. "We had to take two loads back and store it with our other belongings."

Getting back to nature has wrought changes in their lives other than their physical surroundings, the couple point out.

"We wake up earlier than we used to," Mrs. Fuller explains. "When the sun comes up, it gets too light in here."

The reverse is true too. "We used to be night owls," Fuller noted. "Now in we turn in early."

Having the outdoors so close can be disconcerting, though. For in-

WIN takes county recipients off welfare

Sixty-one people who have been receiving public assistance in Shelby County are now self supporting.

The reason they have been able to come off the welfare rolls is because of the WIN (Work Incentive) program.

Administered by the Department of Pensions and Security and the state Employment Service, the program provides assistance in finding employment.

Begun in the 1970's, the program is aimed at applicants for Aid to Dependent Children, and those already receiving ADC payments.

Tom Medders, director of the Employment Service in Shelby County, reported that 128 individuals signed up for the WIN program during the 1983 fiscal year.

"That brought the total number of people on board -- as of September -- to 209," Medders said last week.

Twenty-eight of those who found employment were placed by the state agency, with 33 finding jobs on their own after receiving counseling from the agency.

Statewide, more than 2,600 low income people found employment through the WIN program.

Leon Frazier, state DPS commissioner, noted that 61 percent of the state's ADC recipients live in the 16 counties which currently have active WIN programs.

It would not be cost effective to operate the program in some counties, Frazier explained, because of limited job opportunities resulting from a depressed local economy.

ADC applicants from those counties are not required to sign up for the WIN program. Other exemptions from the progam are: physical disability, being 65 years of age or over, or having children under the age of six.

According to Frazier, the WIN program resulted in the removal of more than 2,000 ADC recipients in Alabama from the case load, and a reduction of benefits to 460 recipients during the past fiscal year.

"Securing employment for those recipients saved taxpayers more than $3.6 million in annualized welfare grant reductions and food stamp issuances," Frazier reported.

The commissioner also mentioned that the program had resulted in a savings of more than a million dollars in annualized Medicaid benefits.

THS hosts aid night

Thompson High School will be the host for the fifth annual Financial Aid Information Night on Tuesday, January 24.

The meeting is planned to explain to high school juniors, seniors, and their parents, how to qualify for finanacial aid at various colleges and universities.

According to Harriet Davis, Thompson advisor, the following persons will be on hand to conduct three 30-minute sessions: Linda Knowles, financial aid advisor at University of Montevallo, Gertie Clark, of Birmingham- Southern, who will discuss aid at private colleges; Air Force Lt. Davis Crenshaw, who will present plans for the Air Force Academy and ROTC scholarships; Darold Dunlavy, vice chancellor of Auburn University of Montgomery; and an army representative.

In addition, Miss Davis says there will be several parents on hand "who have learned the hard way," about financial problems connected with college.

She said that as a result of last year's meeting, Thompson students received more financial aid to colleges than ever before. She stresses, however, that the primary factor in attending college should not be the cost.

Students and parents from any Shelby School are welcome to attend. Registration will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Thompson High School cafeteria.

Sell potholes for your club

With more than 250,000 nonprofit agencies competing for charitable dollars, fundraisers have to be creative in the way they solicit money.

In order to assist those engaged in fundraising efforts, the Birmingham YMCA is sponsoring a week-long workshop on the topic, Jan. 23-27 The Grantsmanship Center, the country's oldest and largest fundraising training organization, will conduct the event.

An example of creative fundraising is the Buffalo, New York's 'un-luncheon' sponsored by the Better Business Bureau there. Participants mailed in money and non-reservations for the $20 a plate meal, saying they intended to eat lunch elsewhere on that date.

Another group sold street potholes at $10 each.

The weeklong program to teach creative fundraising is open to representatives of any agency in the area.

There is a tuition charge, and scholarships are available for organizations with small budgets.

For further information, call Suzanne Durham at the Birmingham YMCA, 251-1151 or the Grantsmanship Center at their toll free number 800-421-9512.

Band director gives recital

Mark Cox of Wilsonville will have his senior recital on the University of Alabama campus in Tuscaloosa Jan. 18.

A graduate of Shelby County High School, Cox plans on becoming a band director. His instrument is the alto saxophone.

Cox's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Travis Cox.

Ballet holds workshop

The State of Alabama Ballet will be host to world famous ballerina Melissa Hayden in a dance workshop February 17, 18 and 19.

She will give classes for all age groups. Registration is open to the public and must be received by January 31.

Information: 252-2475.

3) TO CLAIM PRIZE: Winners of Twenty Five Cent or Fifty Cent prizes see cashier to claim prize. All others, submit ticket(s) for verification to store manager (sign ticket on back in his presence). Winners of prizes less than $100 will receive their prize immediately at store. Potential winners of prizes of $100 or more complete a claimants form (retain receipt) for payment by check after verification. Allow two weeks for awarding of prizes of $100 or more.
4) OFFER NOT OPEN TO: Employees of sponsoring stores, its subsidiaries, Curtin Associates, their advertising agencies, and families (I.R.S. listed dependants) of the foregoing.
5) ALL TICKETS: Are subject to verification, are void, and may be rejected if not obtained through legitimate channels, or if illegible, mutilated, forged, tampered with or irregular in any way or contain printing or other errors. Liability for irregular tickets, or those not verified limited to replacement of ticket. Void where taxed or restricted by law. Person(s) using any device, scheme, information or method other than fair chance to play and win is disqualified. Chain reserves the right to limit prize to one per household. Valid winning tickets must be presented within two (2) weeks after end of game or prizes are forfeited. Winning tickets become property of sponsoring chain and cannot be returned. State, Federal and other taxes imposed on any and all prizes are sole responsibility of winners.
6) GAME ENDS ON DISTRIBUTION OF ALL TICKETS. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such time as verified claims for prizes in any category equals number of prizes posted in participating stores and advertised for that category, then game, as it relates to that specific prize category, shall immediately terminate without notice and any unverified tickets at or after that time shall be automatically rejected. Chain reserves the right to limit prizes to one per household.
7) UPDATING ODDS: Odds to win and number of prizes unclaimed will be updated each week after thirty (30) days for all prize categories $100 and over.
8) TICKET VOID: If it does not contain proper Security Codes and patterns.
9) AMERICA'S CHOICE™ is played in approximately 330 participating Piggly Wiggly Stores throughout the United States. Scheduled starting date is January 18, 1984. Scheduled ending date is April 18, 1984. See rules poster in store for complete geographical listing.

Family sets up housekeeping in tepee stance, during a thunderstorm lightning flashes create an eerie effect in the tepee, Mrs. Fuller said.

However, their only real scare came when a tornado was headed their way.

"We could hear the roar as it approached, but it went on over us," she said with relief.

In general, life in the woods is good, though.

Their children seem healthier since taking up the outdoor way of life, the Fullers observed, and all of the children have more confidence too, they say.

Living close to nature, they've seen deer outside their door, watched owls fly by and followed the progress of a caterpillar making its way up a tree trunk.

Their nine-year old son Braum has become so used to his home, that when he was asked at school to write about some interesting person or experience -- he wrote about his uncle!

Daughter Heather, who will be six this month, also seems to accept their way of life as nothing out of the ordinary. The same goes for four year old twins -- Brendan and Morgan.

Pelham support noted

The City of Pelham has received state recognition for its support of Valley Elementary School.

An article in the December issue of Alabama Education -- the official publication of the state board of education -- credits Pelham for its monetary support of Valley Elementary. The story also notes that the Pelham fire and police departments respectively logged 600 and 410 man-hours of support at the school.

Other support comes from local businesses, and individuals.

Principal Dr. Norma Rogers explains in the locally written piece that specific requests and calls for action generate much more response than generalities.

Rogers placed the value of this community support in 1983 at $40,000, and estimated PTO support at $20,000.

After publication of the article, state school superintendent Wayne Teague wrote Pelham Mayor Burk Dunaway a letter of thanks for the support shown to education.

"We are indeed grateful for the personal interest you are taking in the school," Teague wrote. "I sincerely believe that only through the involvement of the public will the state's educational system survive."

'Save your sweet heart'

"Save Your Sweet Heart Week" is the theme for a program to highlight nutrition and its impact on the heart.

The week is scheduled for February 13-17. It will be observed in 200 schools in the state, where students will learn that good eating habits are basic to having a healthy heart.

Shelby County schools participating in the program are Montevallo Middle and High; Columbiana Middle; Shelby Elementary and Thompson Middle.

PHS Geometry Team

Lawsuit filed for disabled

Half a million recipients have been taken off disability since Congress ordered a review of the 2.7 million people receiving social security benefits.

But a number of disabled Alabamians who think they've been treated unfairly aren't sitting still for the action.

A lawsuit was filed in federal court last month asking that disability benefits be restored.

The class action challenges the Social Security Administration's practice of terminating disability benefits without proof the person's condition has improved.

Legislation to prevent termination of benefits without medical improvement is expected to pass in the next session of Congress.

However, some governors, including Alabama Governor George Wallace, have already ordered state officials to stop the benefit cutoffs.

The disability review had been conducted by the states using Social Security guidelines and federal funds.

At the present time though, most of the people whose benefits were terminated under the new policy, still remain without their monthly checks.

Election funding has winners, losers in the pocketbook

When it comes to Shelby County elections for state offices, there are winners and losers in more places than the voting booth -- the pocket book for example.

In the November's special elections, some candidates actually made money in defeat, while others lost money in victory. Some won or lost in both cases.

Public records of contributions and expenditures by candidates recently released by Secretary of State Don Siegelman, bare this out. While law requires contributions to be listed prior to elections, however, the records do not include post-election gifts.

Don Murphy lost his bid for Senate District 14, yet he came out on the plus side by collecting $12,513.35 more than his campaign reportedly cost him.

On the other hand, Frank 'Butch' Ellis, Jr. won the Senate race, yet according to the disclosure files, it cost him $2,754.47 more than he collected contributions.

Jim Entrekin was unsuccessful in his bid for the House District 41 seat. Yet after expenses, he came out on the plus side by $139.45.

Sonny Moore won all round, beating Entrekin and landing $1,630.14 more in pre-election contributions, than he spent.

Al Knight lost the race for House District 40 and spent in the effort $2,989.55 more than he received in contributions. Ed Gentry also lost his race for the same seat. But according to the records he filed, he spent to the penny what the campaign cost him.

John Tanner was the winner in the House District 40 race, but it cost him $3,694.65 more than his pre-elections contributions.

Tanner said prior to the elections that some political action groups -- such as AEA -- don't send in contributions until after the voters pick the winner.

Hospital 'boss' resigns

by David F. Moore

In the wake of R. Roland Bradford's resignation, the Shelby Medical Center board of directors is searching for a new hospital administrator.

Bradford resigned abruptly last week at a special meeting of the hospital board. The board named as interim administrator SMC director of corporate planning and developing, Norman Price.

According to Joe Arledge, director of the board's personnel committee, the special meeting was called Tuesday, January 17, and held that night. Arledge said Bradford submitted his resignation and the board accepted it.

"I think it was in the interest of both parties that he resigned and we accepted," Arledge told the Reporter.

When questioned, Arledge said Bradford was not involved in anything which was dishonest or might have jeopardized patient care.

Board chairman Jerome Turner said the hospital directors were expected to form a search committee at their regular meeting this Tuesday (after morning press deadlines.)

"We're looking for someone who can lead the hospital, to meet the medical needs for Shelby County," Turner said. "This is our primary goal -- good patient care at a cost that's reasonable."

Price, who came to SMC two years ago, is a former executive director of the West Alabama Health Council, and a health planner at South Arkansas Health Systems Agency.

He earned a masters in business and health administration from East Texas State University, and a BS in business and public administration from Auburn University. Price now lives in Montevallo.

Bradford, who lives in Hoover, came to SMC in August, 1979, after holding positions at Brookwood Medical Center and other health agencies.

SMC was chartered as the county hospital in 1956. It has grown to a 210 bed capacity and boasts an annual budget of some $34.5 million.

Educators urge new trustees to support county school tax

by Fred Guarino

A school trustee orientation session Monday night turned into a pep rally for the February 14 school tax vote.

The session, held in Columbiana, was intended to inform 42 recently elected trustees from 14 county schools about their duties and obligations. But what the nearly 100 persons who attended heard, was a call to arms in support of the proposed three mill tax.

State Superintendent of Education Dr. Wayne Teague led the first cheers. "I don't know what you're doing about that referendum. But you ought not leave a stone unturned to get that thing passed."

Teague added that trustees are the only contact many people will ever have with the school system. He said that two-thirds of the people in the nation don't have children in school.

Dr. Michael Books, a trustee for Riverchase Middle School, also called support of the tax in order to help the whole school system.

"If you want to be ineffective, just concentrate on one school," he said. "You must have a vision beyond that school."

But the pep rally began in earnest when Herschel Hale, a trustee for Thompson Schools, took the floor.

Hale pointed out that the Shelby County Parent Teacher Organization is the sponsoring organization for the upcoming vote. He asked the new trustees to financially help the organization -- to the tune of $2,500 -- promote the tax vote.

"Our idea is that there are some 12,000 students. Figure what you represent, and pick off your part to help raise money," he said.

The biggest push for support, however, came from Shelby County Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox.

Suit may lead to budget cut

by Fred Guarino

Pending litigation against Shelby Medical Center and the county commission is the main reason $200,000 - $300,000 may be cut from the county's budget.

The county commissioners were angry Monday over a civil law suit that has stopped negotiations between SMC and the county for some $250,000 needed to balance the budget.

At the suggestion of commissioner Harold Davenport, they decided to hold a budget revision hearing on February 13.

The hospital funds have been held up by a suit filed by the Shelby County Tax Watch Committee, which is challenging the use of a special tax for purposes other than paying off the hospital bond for which it was created.

The county wanted the money to help fund health department operations. But the commissioners said that may be impractical because the pending court battle could take two years to resolve.

"No action on payment of funds from SMC to the county commission will be taken until litigation in the matter is resolved," SMC spokesman Steve Martin confirmed.

In addition, the county may have to cut another $40,000 from its budget because no mines are currently operating in Shelby County which would generate coal severence taxes.

"It's no secret we are not going to get money from the hospital," Davenport said. "It is an injustice to department heads if we don't let them know (cuts are necessary). I'd hate for them to think they are going to get money they are not going to get."

Commission clerk Myra Davis said that she could have budget figures through January 31 mailed to commissioners prior to the February 13 meeting.

While no vote was taken, the commissioners agreed to review the budget at that time.

Commissioner John Ames suggested that all department heads attend the revision meeting. Later, Ames let his anger over the suit show.

"The four people who formed that idiotic committee against the hospital are doing a terrible disservice to Shelby County," Ames said. "We've got an elected governing body dealing with the Candidates must pay Columbiana fee

by Bert Seaman

Columbiana's next administration will be paid more, but candidates running for office will first have to put out some money of their own.

This year's election is the first time that candidates will have to pay a qualifying fee. By unanimous consent of the council Thursday, a qualifying fee of $50 was set for the mayor with a $25 fee approved for the council.

Acting on a request for financial help held over from the last meeting, the council approved a $624 donation to the DAY (developing Alabama youth) program.

Councilwoman Jessie Jones said the young people enrolled in the program would probably end up in prison if the program should fold for lack of funding.

"These are cases," Jones explained, "that the school has given up on." Most were referred to the program by the court.

Even though the school system turns over the pro rata share of money received from the state for the 58 countywide students the DAY program buses daily to its center in Siluria, public school funds cannot be used for the bus driver's salary.

The reason, Jones explained, is because the van is furnished by the Alabaster Rotary Club and does not meet school bus standards. She noted that the school system does pay for maintenance on the van, as well as the salaries of two DAY teachers and an aide.

The city's $624 donation was based on the seven students from Columbiana enrolled in the program.

With construction on the city's long awaited sewer project only a few months off, former county highway director Jimmy Ray spoke with the council about what will be involved.

Ray was hired by the city to oversee the project, which will be funded with a $300,000 federal grant (of which the city pays $60,000).

After some discussion, the council voted to replace 8-inch line with 10-inch line from the housing project to the State 25 bypass.

The difference in cost would be $11,000, but Ray said it would be well worth the difference if future growth is anticipated south along County 47.

Ray said the project will also involve extending sewer line north of Columbiana from the bypass, out County 47. The engineer reported that 5,000 linear feet of 8-inch line will be laid in that area.

Another 5,500 feet of 10 and 12-inch line will be replaced in other sections of the city, Ray said.

He told the council that contracts for the construction should be ready to be let by late May and anticipated work would be completed near the end of October.

The council also voted to run a 6-inch line 194 feet down Hwy 70 to Nelson Lathan's property line, with Lathan paying the difference in cost between it and a 4-inch line. An employee of the city water board, Lathan has been using a septic tank -- no longer serviceable -- while adjacent homes have had access to city sewer.

It was pointed out that the 6-inch trunk line to Lathan's home will also benefit others in the area.

Another item the council approved was the donation of $2,500 toward the restoration of the old county courthouse.

Jones said she had assumed that amount in the budget was earmarked for that project, but recently learned that it was designated as miscellaneous donation.

Since the Shelby County Historical Society had been expecting the money to help get the museum ready to open, the council agreed to use the entire fund for that purpose.

In other business, the council approved the placement of a mobile home for Bell Glass at the intersection of Old Hwy 25 and the bypass. There was no objection from neighbors, Wayne Gould told the council, and there are other trailers in that area.

The trailer will replace the old rundown house in which Glass now lives.

Judge dismisses ten cases in Pelham gambling raid

Deficiencies in indictments against ten men charged with gambling in Shelby County have led to the dismissal of their cases.

The defendants were among 24 indicted last August following a July gambling raid of the AMVETS club in Pelham.

Judge Robert Armstrong, who made the ruling, said the prime reason for dismissal was failure to give specific acts.

However, District Attorney Billy Hill said the cases will be presented again to the next grand jury.

Cases have been dismissed against the following defendants:

Edward Eugene Glasgow, Leroy Davis, Johnie Crawford, Donald Ralph Castleberry, James Michael Cruse, Joseph Lewis Cameron, Paul Jackson, Nathan Levern Metcalf, Mark Randall Metcalf, James O. Shelton.

The Metcalfs, Jackson and Castleberry were charged with promoting gambling; the others were charged with simple gambling.

William Eubanks' case was dismissed earlier and returned to the grand jury docket.

Other defendants who have already pled guilty to the charges include: Joe Carrier, William Terry McMahan, Marvin Shapiro, James Earl Parsons, Richard P. Dujan, Bobby Joe Price, Michael Jay Milam, Robert Walter Humphries, Eddie Alex Shunnarah.

Cases are still pending against Saliba Said Bajalieh, Harry Brunswick Nase and Tommie Lee Bailey.

Bottoms up

Crane operator Matt Pardue got a jolt Thursday in Montevallo when the outriggers on his machine broke through a hollow sidewalk and partially tipped over. "It sounded like thunder," reported Travis Killingsworth, who was nearby when the incident happened. The crane is being used to rebuild a grocery which burned last year in the Whaley Shopping Center. Columbiana defends raises, responds to citizen complaints

by Bert Seaman

The population of Columbiana declining?

Not so, said Columbiana Mayor Buck Falkner at Thursday's council meeting.

In response to a letter printed in last week's Reporter, Falkner reported that the population totaled 2,655 in 1980 and is continuing to grow. Letter writer Bob Hume gave the 1970 census figure which was 2,448.

"People are calling every day wanting to rent houses or apartments in Columbiana," the mayor said. "We must be doing something right."

When it came to the council's salary increase, Hume indicated in his letter that he didn't think anything the council had done was in any way right. Hume came to Thursday's meeting to pursue the subject.

Salaries for the next administration will give the mayor a $100 a month raise, bringing his annual earnings to $4,800. The council's monthly paycheck was doubled to a $2,400 a year.

"Aren't there any checks and balances on these things -- do you raise it as much as the traffic will bear," Hume asked.

"We use horse sense," Falkner replied.

Councilman Harold McCord pointed out that, "a lot more time is spent on city business than most people think."

"You don't get better people by paying more money," Hume replied, adding that Montevallo's council doesn't receive a salary.

When Hume asked if the taxpayers had been asked for their thinking on the raise before it was approved, Councilman Frank Owen said citizens have the opportunity to attend meetings and voice their opinions.

"Do the taxpayers have any recourse now?" Hume asked.

Not once an ordinance is passed, Falkner told him.

Then he asked Hume if any other business with a $750,000 budget could operate on $16,800. "That's our total salaries," Falkner said.

One reason Hume had objected to the raises was the refusal of the council to grant the Columbiana Library's request for an extra $555. The amount was needed to give the three part-time library employees the same 4% raise as other city employees.

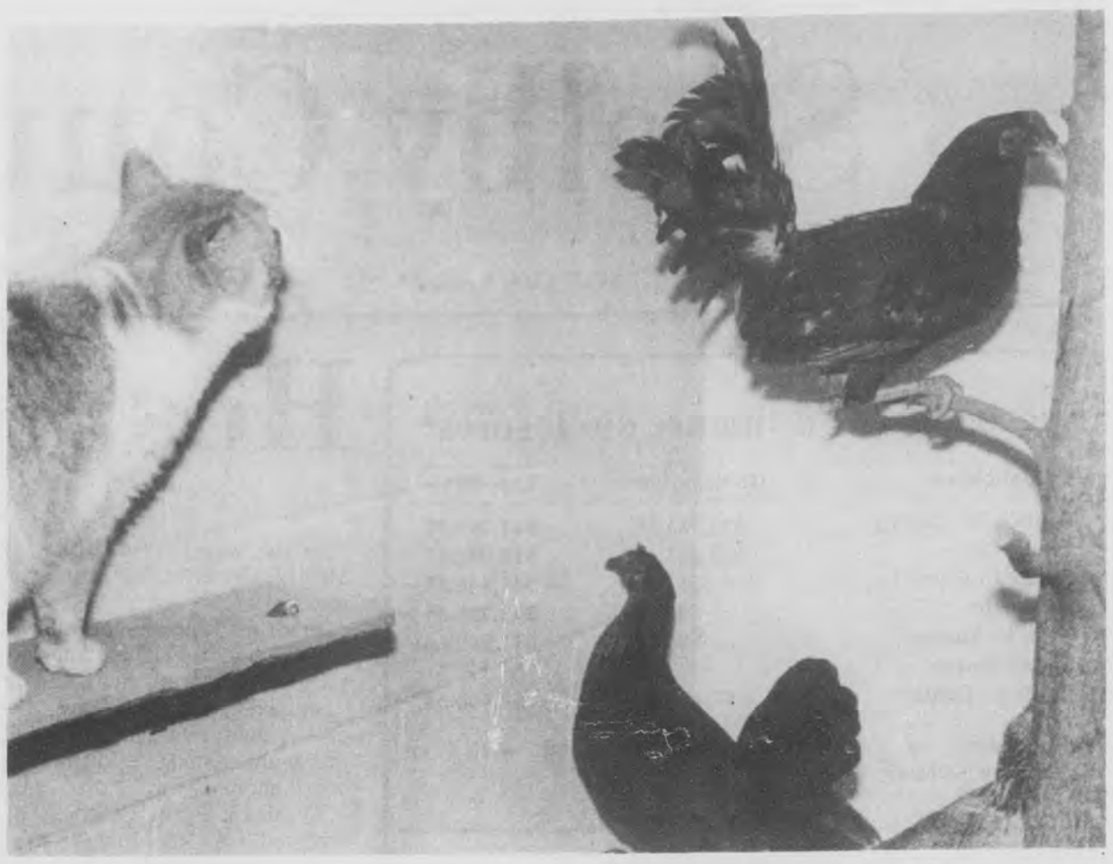
"We've allocated $20,000 to the library in our budget," the mayor reported.

However, that sum is the city library's only source of revenue other than fines and donations from Friends of the Library.

Columbiana Librarian Barbara Roberts said the library couldn't keep going without the money brought in from fines and donations.

Falkner contended that the majority of the people living in Columbiana were, "happy with the way things are going."

"I've had a lot of calls about the raises" (expressing dissatisfaction) Hume replied.



New roommates

The Shelby County Humane Society rescued seven chickens and a rooster left behind when the owners moved. However, Mister Cat doesn't approve of the fowl occupying the room in the new shelter reserved for felines, so the chickens need a new home. Anyone interested in taking the chickens should call 669-4562.

SMC administrator's resignation surprises former assistant

Shelby Medical Center's assistant administrator for finance, Gene Taylor, has taken a similar position at another area hospital.

Taylor left January 13 to become financial manager at Brookwood Medical Center in Homewood. He had been at SMC four and half years prior to working out a 30-day notice of his leaving.

Controller Kathy Sayler is now acting as temporary head of the finance department, according to SMC community relations director Steve Martin.

Taylor, who lives in Riverchase, said he made the move to Brookwood for "professional" reasons.

"I think I made a positive contribution (to SMC)," he said. "I went on to a company that's part of AMI (American Medical International, Inc.) -- the second largest health care firm in the world."

Taylor was hired at SMC several months after R. Roland Bradford became administrator. He said last Wednesday that he was "a little surprised" that Bradford had abruptly resigned.

AMI operates 104 health centers internationally, and is nationally ranked second in size only to Hospital Corporation of America, according to Brookwood media relations manager Steve Smith.

Reporter denies ABC request

The Reporter has declined a request by the ABC Board to testify in hearings on the selling of alcohol to minors.

A recent front page article in the newspaper depicted the ease with which two undercover minors -- Jack and Jill -- purchased beer or liquor at stores in Pelham, Alabaster, Montevallo and Calera.

On the day of publication, the paper was asked by ABC director Henry Gray and other state agents to testify before the board that the story was true. Depending on the board's findings, results of the testimonies would range from letters of reprimand, to personnel suspensions, revocation of alcohol licenses, or fines.

Later, an ABC agent requested information on the undercover buys not published in the article. Counsel has since advised that such testimony could possibly lead to legal demands to reveal the names of 'Jack and Jill.'

"We committed ourselves to protecting the two minors," said managing editor David Moore. "Furthermore, despite the fact that we wish to see the problem of alcohol sells to minors abolished, we decided that testifying in a case such as this would be stepping beyond our responsibilities as a newspaper."

As of press deadline Tuesday morning, it was unknown if the ABC Board would continue its investigations into the stores and clerks which made the sells in question.

"I think the article has served its purpose," said ABC supervisor William Daniel. "It pointed out a laxness in some of our stores that we have since tightened."

County to consider budget cuts hospital board, which the attorney general said was alright. It's ridiculous that four people could tie that up."

Ames pointed out that most of the SMC money would have been used to fund county health department services for poor people, including home visits by nurses.

"When we have to reduce funding... These indigents are going to have to go somewhere and will wind up at the county hospital," Ames said. He indicated that these expenses to the county will exceed those for which the $250,000 was intended.

Commissioners Jake Morris and Davenport agreed with Ames assessment.

Ames also pointed out that the health needs of the county will not go away while the Tax Watch Committee's suit is being settled.

"It reminds me of a bunch of people sitting around drinking beer and deciding they are going to run the country," Ames said.

School tax promoted

"With improved classroom facilities, as well as the learning-teaching environment, things have got to improve," he said.

Glasscox said that 67 teachers are having to do their jobs in storage rooms, offices, hallways, and mobile classrooms. He also handed out copies of a detailed proposal on how the proposed tax will meet the building needs of the school system.

Glasscox said the reason the election is being held separately from the presidential preferance primary, is that it's "important enough to deserve center stage." He said that the cost difference between adding it to the primary, and holding a separate election would only be $1,000.

"Obviously we are going to have some opposition," Glasscox added. "But we are trying to look at where the needs are, working in the school system (as a whole). Once we address these needs, we can address others."

"Shelby County has everything to gain and an awful lot to lose," an unidentified woman said in support of the tax.

Others who addressed the trustees were school system attorney Oliver Head, Shelby County Board of Education President Barbara Whitman, and Thompson High principal Allen Fulton.

Where do I find the phone services I need?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But South Central Bell is still your phone company. As part of a holding company called BellSouth, we'll continue to provide dependable service. For your home. And for your business.

While there are many changes taking place, there will be little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is. If you decide to make changes in your service, however, you'll notice some differences.

Use these phone numbers.

Citizens seek Harpersville annexation

by Bert Seaman

A number of residents living on County 62 want to be annexed into Harpersville.

"We want to have some input into what goes on," Wiltha Kelley told the council at its monthly meeting January 17.

Kelley and Terry Threatt were at the meeting to see if the council had an answer to the request for annexation presented in December. A crowd attending that meeting gave the council a petition containing 74 names. Most of those signing were husband and wife.

Because the petition was not left with the council, no official action could be taken.

However, Mayor J.W. Donahoo told the two men who were present Tuesday, that the council had taken the matter under advisement.

Explaining the difficulty of annexing one area when two others have also asked to come into the city, the mayor said that those left out would say they were being discriminated against.

It would also be a liability to the city to bring in new areas, Donahoo said, because city services such as police and garbage pickup, would have to be provided for new residents.

However, the tax revenue derived from those areas, should they be annexed, would be "a mighty small amount, the mayor noted."

Another alternative Kelley asked about was dividing the city into voting districts.

"That hasn't been discussed at all," remarked councilman Knox Rayfield.

The district method of voting calls for the town being divided so one district has a majority of black voters.

According to a survey conducted by the Birmingham Regional Planning Commission, 40% of the town's 934 residents are black. All the council members are white.

Another thing that bothered Kelley was the way boundary lines are drawn. He said it appeared the lines were drawn to exclude the area where he lives.

Councilman Defford Morris explained that the city was trying to get the prescribed number of people on each 40 acres when the city was incorporated.

According to Rayfield, another reason for the uneven boundaries is that people requested to be left out when the lines were drawn.

Kelly reminded the council he has been asking about getting city services since the late 1950's.

"We haven't had any improvements or any sign of improvements," said Threatt, adding that he didn't think the black community was asking for very much.

It was the mayor's contention that there are black areas right in the city which need attention. He mentioned the replacement of water lines to the O.B. Wallace community.

Although the city has been trying without success to get a federal grant for the project, the mayor declared, "We're going to do it if we don't get a penny from the feds!"

Bringing the council up to date on the damage done to the Harpersville Clinic when a ceiling pipe broke, the mayor said that medical equipment, typewriters and paper were soaked.

The mayor reported that the city was not insured against water damage when the pipe broke during the December freeze. Since then, the additional insurance coverage has been secured.

"It's high, but it's well worth it," Donahoo noted.

The medical equipment belonged to the doctors who operate the clinic.

The city is replacing the ceiling and paneling the walls of the room where the damage occurred. Cost of the repair work won't be determined until the work is completed

Montevallo signs compact

by Bert Seaman

"I'm on cloud nine," State Superintendent of Education Wayne Teague said Thursday, as he spoke to a gathering of educators and Montevallo city officials.

The statement was spawned by the signing of a compact pledging increased cooperation among the public schools in Montevallo, the University of Montevallo and the city.

"There are very few places in America that have this kind of cooperation," Teague told the group gathered in the Montevallo Middle School library.

The signing of the compact was one of the recommendations of a task force assigned to enhance the economic and educational development of the city.

Mayor Ralph Sears pointed out that the signing of the compact marks a "new stage in the city's romance with education."

Even though increased cooperation has been called for, the mayor reported that the city has been helping education since the 1830's when a Presbyterian academy was established in Montevallo.

In his remarks, UM President Dr. Jim Vickrey stressed the need for reforms in education, saying that an increase in local support should be an encouragement to state leaders.

At the present time, the state superintendent is traveling throughout Alabama presenting his 'Plan for Excellence in Education.' Judging by the mail he's received, Teague said he believes the majority of Alabamians "are ready to see excellence in education."

Before the compact was signed, brief remarks were made by: Dr. Bill Fancher, UM Dean of Education and member of the Shelby County Board of Education; Jimmy Jones, Montevallo Elementary School principal; Norman Payne, Montevallo High School principal.

Shelby County Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox was present for the occasion along with board president Barbara Whitman and other board members. The city council and task force were also represented.

Principals list education needs

Representatives of the city and educational institutions in Montevallo have pledged increased cooperation to improve the quality of education in the city.

One of the aims of an educational compact signed there last week, is to provide any assistance that might be needed in securing Southern Accreditation of Colleges and Schools for the city's three public schools. Presently, only Montevallo Middle School is lacking accreditation, but the self-study leading to SACS status is now underway.

Another aim of the compact is to give the public an insight into the equipment and supply needs of local schools. Lists drawn up by the three principals are as follows:

Montevallo Elementary
James Jones, principal

- music and art teachers
- 10 computers - $18,000
- physical education gym equipment - $2,800
- carousel projector - $350
- vacuum cleaner - $400
- landscaping - $3,000
- blackout shades for every room - $3,984
- labor to paint 16 classrooms

Montevallo Middle
Frances Smitherman, principal

- at least 3 Apple IIE computers - $4,404
- 3 portable security tables - $396
- security storage cabinet for software - $210
- computer printer - $1,588
- computer software - $3,000
- movie projector - $1,200
- partial operating funds for copier - $1,500
- library books - $5,000
- larger lunchroom with new plumbing, sewerage systems; new tables
- covered walkway from main building to vocational building
- new gym divider - $1,200.
- two water fountains for PE dept. - $900
- new lighting fixtures in PE dressing rooms
- library carpet - $1,800
- library shelving
- minimum of four classroom lockers - $3,250
- blackout shades for 13 rooms - $5,850
- auxiliary lighting for halls, smoke detection, fire alarm when power is off

Montevallo High
Norman Payne, principal

- five Apple IIE computers - $7,340
- 250 folding chairs - $1,750
- Therma-Flex machine - $900
- three vacuum cleaners - $900
- 10 file cabinets - $2,180
- 25 dictionaries - $212
- blackout shades, auditorium - $1,800
- repair library equipment - $1,200
- floor scrubber - $400
- water vacuum - $80
- classroom shades - $1,500
- janitorial supplies - $400

In order to provide some of the funding for educational improvements, the task force report presented to the city council in August recommended a one-cent increase in the city sales tax.

Pro-education forces are also hoping for the passage of the three mill tax increase for the county school system to be voted on Feb. 14.

The University of Montevallo's participation in the cooperative effort includes making equipment and facilities available to local schools free of charge.

People resources on the campus -- which number over 200 -- are also available to the community for consultation and providing services.

Grady McEwen dies

One of Wilsonville's better known businessmen and civic leaders died January 17 at the age of 93.

Henry 'Grady' McEwen -- better known as Mister Grady -- operated a service station in Wilsonville after retiring from 50 years of serivce as a rural mail carrier in the area.

He was a member of the Wilsonville Baptist Chruch and Wilsonville Civitan Club.

McEwen died at Shelby Medical Center. His funeral was held January 19 at Bolton-Brown Chapel in Columbiana with burial in Wilsonville City Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Buna McEwen; a son, Sammy McEwen; daughters, Ruby Smothers of Columbiana and Jewel Cox of Talladega; a stepson, John Frank Melton of Chelsea; step-daughters, Clara McGaughy of Homewood, and Glenda Chambless of Sylacauga; sisters, Lilla Nall of Birmingham, Ina Sims of Wilsonville, Grace Perry of Columbus, Ga. and Rosalee Baker of Mobile.

Chamber to honor Montevallians

The Montevallo Chamber of Commerce will hold its sixth annual Citizens Night Banquet on Thursday, February 2.

Between 175 and 200 people are expected to be on hand as the chamber awards individuals and groups which have performed outstanding services to Montevallo during the past year.

The 7 p.m. event will be held in the Montevallo Room in the university cafeteria.

According to chamber member Pat Lane, reservations should be made prior to Tuesday, but tickets will be available at the door. For ticket information, call Lane at 665-1248, or Claud Elledge at 665-4900.

Seeking the right SMC leader

Shelby Medical Center is the county's largest employer. It has an operating budget of $34.5 million dollars. Even more importantly, the health and very lives of thousands of people are dependent on the county hospital being a high-calibre operation.

In the wake of R. Roland Bradford's abrupt resignation, SMC's board of directors now faces the responsibility of locating and hiring a new administrator. Because of the public trust involved, this is, indeed, a weighty responsibility.

SMC needs an administrator that can run a large scale hospital, and yet find time to care about the community it serves. SMC needs an administrator wise enough to follow the hospital board to even bigger and better times, yet not a person who is not merely a 'yes man' or puppet to any group with power.

SMC needs a professional who can talk and reason with a highly trained staff of doctors, nurses and support personnel, but at the same time can show understanding to the farmer who brings in his wife for an operation.

In short, a high-calibre leader is needed to run the hospital.

We wish the board and its search committee success in finding this unique individual. And, whether the applicants interviewed are easily located in our backyard, or are brought in from the other side of the country, we trust they will be scrutinized with the utmost of care.

Jack and Jill will stay home

The Reporter initiated its recent 'Jack and Jill' liquor story as a public service. And the story served its purpose -- to demonstrate the ease with which minors can buy alcohol in Shelby County.

It was not the original intent of the story -- or, more specifically, this newspaper -- to go beyond that purpose by acting as an arm of the law and assisting in proceedings against any individual or group.

The story in question is true as it appears in the January 5, 1984 issue of the paper. As such, it is information of public record.

The Reporter, we feel, would be acting beyond its duties as a responsible newspaper by offering an outside agency -- such as the ABC Board -- any information other than what it has already published.

We're glad to do our part by pointing out problems and issues, and we're glad to hear the story has produced positive reactions. We wish the ABC Board success in correcting the problem of liquor sells to minors in Shelby County.

Education tax is a must

Letter to the Editor:

Thank you for your support of the proposed three mill property tax for schools. Since we need more than reluctant support, I would like to address comments in your editorial and letters appearing in the January 9, 1984 issue of the Reporter.

We cannot guarantee that this tax will improve education. We can guarantee that without it we will continue to have substandard facilities. We presently have sixty seven county teachers teaching our children in storage rooms, offices, hallways, mobile homes, etc. Additional funds or "money" is the only answer we have for construction and renovation of buildings to provide decent facilities for our teachers and students.

"Better teachers" has often been quoted as the means to obtain better education. It will be difficult to retain, or to attract, the better teachers with worse facilities. Many of us could not, or would not, work in some of the facilities we provide our teachers.

Where will the money go? The Shelby County Parent-Teacher Council, in cooperation with the office of the Superintendent of Education and local PTA/PTO organizations throughout the county, will be distributing information on this in the next few days.

The special election for this issue may cost considerably less than the $7,000 figure that has been quoted. If my information is correct, Shelby County would have borne half the cost of a primary election if this issue had been included.

Is our tax bite too big for schools? I say no! Consider the following data supplied by the Birmingham League of Women Voters in 1983:

For Shelby County: Local Millage for Support of Schools - 12; Teacher-Pupil ratio - 23:1; '81-'82 Expenditure per pupil - $1,418.

For Mountain Brook: Local Millage for Support of Schools - 34.7; Teacher-Pupil ratio - 16:1; and '81-'82 Expenditure per pupil - $2,580.

For Homewood - Local Milleage for Support of Schools - 32.3; Teacher-Pupil ratio - 16:1; and '81-'82 Expenditure per pupil - $2,587.

When we see comparisons and ratings of Alabama's educational expenses, etc., with other states, we are always near the bottom. We actually rank fairly high in state funding for education, but pitifully low in local tax support.

Yes, the more money we provide our educators, the more they will spend. They will spend it on buildings, safer buses, modern equipment, salaries and all the other things that they must to provide our children a better educational opportunity and our teachers a better place to work.

Sincerely,
Thomas L. McAliley

Take school interest test

Letter to the Editor:

History has shown us that most citizens only become upset or involved with their government when they feel personally threatened by something. Perhaps that is what is now causing all of the negative letters I am seeing regarding the proposed property tax increase.

It is a shame that our Shelby County Citizens haven't felt threatened earlier with the condition of our education in this County and State. Statistics show that our State is at the bottom or close to the bottom in most of the various educational categories; and our county is not anywhere near the top in the State. So where does that put us on a national level?

These are hard economic times and I don't like tax increases any more than the next person; and it is true that money is not always the answer to every problem. But, have you taken time to walk through our schools, have you noticed how many very good teachers leave and go to private industry, and have you sat through County Board of Education Budget Hearings? I have. Some of our schools are in deplorable physical shape. I have seen excellent science and math teachers leave because after spending so much time and money for degrees they found that they could not support a family. I have looked at each line item of the current school budget. There were some line items I personally may not agree with; but I honestly did not see that much 'fat.' Certainly not the millions that are needed right now.

The Citizens of Shelby County have two choices on February 14th...

1)Vote yes on the much needed 3 mill tax increase

2)Vote no and be prepared to watch our educational system grow worse.

We continue to blame the system and its administrators, but in my opinion the majority of the blame lies at the family level. We need to go beyond buying cookies, tickets, and candy. Take this test and see if you are really concerned:

1)Can you name at least 2 of your child's teachers?

2)Can you name your school's principal?

3)Does your school's principal know you?

4)Do you attend your school's PTO/PTA meetings?

5)Do you know the name of your PTO/PTA president?

6)Do you ever walk through your school during a school day?

7)Do you know all of the subjects your child is taking this year?

8)Have you ever attended a county board of education meeting or examined the school budget?

9)Have you ever expressed your wishes to the proper administrator regarding a problem area in your school?

10)Do you ever discuss education with your child to determine what his or her values are regarding education, school, and teachers?

If you answered yes to all 10, congratulations, you qualify for at least a minimum level concerned parent.

A Father,
William A. Cobb Jr.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

This and That and These and Those: They keep slipping away and leaving their names behind. James Curtis and Blanch Ansley and Harold Naylor and E.H. Windle and Denver Shaddix and Grady McEwen.

News from the Methodist Newsletter -- Home from the hospital and getting better at home: Erma Farr and Elizabeth Isbell. And still in the hospital at Shelby Medical Center: Y.C. Bird, Ruby Mooney and Oakley Vincent.

The weather is still so pretty a person can hardly believe it. Just sunny warm days, one after another, all through the last half of December and the first half of January. So the note said, from a nice old lady who lives in Hawaii.

I visited 20 folks in the hospital and gave away a sack of candy kisses because nobody hates a sour person more than I do. And in each room to add a little sunshine I told 'em: "We're due to get 10 inches of snow this afternoon and tonight." And then, to add a little more sunshine, I added: "In Buffalo, New York."

Ed Benson's got a new mutt. But it's three months before I'll plant my corn. They'll kill a dozen dogs on the highway around Shelby before the middle of April and Ed's dog may be one of 'em.

I guess that's why the man said: "Don't count 'em before they're hatched."

I spent Monday and Tuesday hunting turnip greens and mustard. I went all the way from Vera Strickland's house to Peter Jones' place. I didn't find the first leaf or the first stalk. The patches are whiter than snow and as wrinkled as old Aunt Millsa Uptree and as dead as last year's bird nests.

Santa came and Santa went. We spent the holidays with the kids in Florida. Santa treated us like we were pretty special, which we are at our house.

We decided not to make any New Year's resolutions and then got disturbed because we didn't have any to break. We made a dozen on January 14. We're breaking 'em, one at a time, and things seem pretty normal.

If you had a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, you got just what I hoped you'd get.

Notes from the Kingdom

Off to the races...

by David F. Moore

It hit me like a splash of cold water -- the ultimate solution to the issue of dog and/or horse racing. This great revelation came to me while singing in the shower the other morning.

Consider this:

First, as most everyone knows, a group of mysterious Pelham businessmen still want to establish a greyhound track in Pelham. A group of less mysterious fellows in Birmingham want to build a horse track somewhere around Oxmoor Road.

Okay now, besides the problem of getting the necessary but historically difficult bills through the legislature, there just doesn't seem to be enough betting money around these parts to support two separate tracks -- what with baby needing new shoes, people being already hooked on things like supper, and whatnot. Something's got to give before they close the betting booths for good.

So we compromise.

First off -- and this ought to tickle Rick Arrington and some of those people in the city -- let Birmingham gerrymander its way down the rights of way for US 280 and Caldwell Mill Road -- all the way to the countyline. Ditto for Pelham. It can expand its 'Gateway to Opportunity' up Valleydale and Caldwell Mill Roads. (Think how much fun this'll mean to the map makers and Post Office.)

This sets the stage for hurdling the problem of this area not being big enough for two race tracks. (It also, so to speak, gets Birmingham out of Birmingham -- something that's unofficially been going on for a long time...)

Of course a few residents along the quiet Cahaba River might raise some metropolitan sized objections, but if the county planning commission is off whack as much as some folks allege, this matter of mere zoning can be passed on the back stretch.

An option at this point would be to locate the track on the north side of US 280. There's no zoning there at all...

Perhaps, once these measures have been taken care of, the track proponents can get together and set up their own compromises on the actual racing commission itself. With the resources of both dog and horse groups, surely whatever came out of their pow-wows would be a class act.

If no agreement can be reached between whether to race dogs or horses, maybe an alternating schedule can be arranged. Or maybe instead of greyhounds and thoroughbreds, bets could be placed on Chihuahuas and Shetlands...

About this time, the hot water ran out in my shower and 'the ultimate solution' chilled somewhat. With a few more gallons of warm shower water I'm sure I could have polished up a few of the rough edges.

My gut level feeling on the situation is that if dog racing is ever put to a vote in Pelham, it won't pass. But unless that vote takes place, we won't ever know who won the race for racing.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

They rolled back the clock last week. Friends, campaign workers and former cabinet members held a dinner honoring Gov. John Patterson on the 25th anniversary of his inauguration as governor.

It was a time for telling tall tales of political wars of the past, particularly of the 1958 gubernatorial campaign where a young John Patterson -- the youngest man ever elected governor of Alabama -- did what no one else has ever done: He beat George Wallace in a governor's race.

Former cabinet members came from far and wide to join in the tribute to the "Boy Governor" --- Charlie Meriwether, who masterminded the campaign was there, looked as fit and able today to direct a statewide race as he did in 1958; Harry Cook, Patterson's press secretary, came down from Washington.

Speaking at the event were Ralph Williams of Tuscaloosa, Sonny Hornsby of Tallassee and Judge Bill Page of Huntsville, all former cabinet members.

Patterson, now 62 with a little more paunch and a lot less hair, was obviously moved by the tribute paid him.

* * * *

With it all but certain that the Wallace Administration will be seeking a huge chunk of new revenue when the Legislature convenes in regular session, the big question now is what new tax will be imposed, or what existing tax will be increased?

One suggestion calls for disallowing the federal income taxes paid when computing state income tax, and another simply calls for an increase in the state income tax rates. However, a random survey of legislators indicates that there is absolutely no sentiment for this proposition.

Gov. Wallace has a way of changing the minds of legislators, but it will take Wallace at his persuasive, arm-twisting best to sell the lawmakers on an income tax increase.

This is not a suggestion that Wallace can't do it, but he better get his best hold.

* * * *

Odds and Ends -- There is an old political rule that says that you should never get in another dog's fight. That rule is being broken by two prominent Alabama politicos -- Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley and former Lt. Gov. George McMillan. Both have publicly identified themselves in the camp of North Carolina Gov. James Hunt in his effort to unseat superconservative US Senator Jesse Helms. Probably not one Alabamian out of 1,000 has ever heard of Gov. Hunt, but Sen. Helms is the darling of a lot of the more conservative Alabamians. Probably Baxley and McMillan have concluded they have no support from that group anyway, so why worry about upsetting them...

Former Congressman Albert Lee Smith of Birmingham has made it official -- he will seek the GOP nomination for the US Senate (and very likely win it in a walk), and then challenge incumbent Sen. Howell Heflin in November. If the polls can be believed, Smith faces an uphill fight against Heflin...

Chelsea gets clutch buckets, finds confidence at Briarwood

by Fred Guarino

Last Friday's basketball game between the Chelsea Hornets and the Briarwood Christian Lions, came down squarely on the shoulders of CHS's Steve Shelton.

With less than a minute to play, Shelton hit four clutch free throws, giving the 3-13 Hornets their fourth win of the year, 61-57 over the 7-5 Lions.

Even more, Chelsea was out to avenge an earlier two-point loss to Briarwood, as well to prove its young squad could be a real contender in the game of round-ball.

The Hornets average 6'4" in height -- respectable in any county league. But they also feature three sophomores, one junior, and only one senior - all of whom are prone to show a lack of experience.

Often lacking in confidence, Chelsea's good shooting players have tended to be cold at the wrong times, causing their mixture of zone and man-to-man defenses to break down often.

Still, there is room to believe Chelsea could be better. Many of the Hornet's losses came against quality teams such as Vincent and Montevallo. Some of those contests had been close.

Senior Jason Wiggins knew what his team had to do at Briarwood to change this.

"Teamwork... and good shooting," he said would be necessary for the Hornets to beat the Lions.

However, Chelsea's coach Mike Sims, knew more.

"Our defense is on some nights, but more times its off. It will probably come down to which team plays the best and hits the free throws at the end."

Chelsea did start out shooting well, playing as a team and showing the good defense it was capable of.

After the Lions scored the first bucket, the Hornets came back to hit for six unanswered points.

But the Lions broke the Chelsea defense and came back to tie things at 6-6 before Chelsea could regroup and fight to a 16-10 first period lead.

Foul trouble hit both sides in the second period. Chelsea had to struggle defensively to maintain a 28-23 edge with Briarwood hitting a last shot at the buzzer.

By then, Chelsea's Wiggins and Keith Welch had two fouls each, and Briarwood's Bob Farris and Steve Blake had three fouls each.

Chelsea's shooting cooled down in the third period, the defense broke, and Briarwood ran off numerous strings of unanswered points.

Going into the final period the score stood 44-36, Chelsea -- but the Lions were gaining momentum.

Before Chelsea coach Sims could scream "time out!," the Lions closed the lead to 48-46 with less than five minutes left to play.

Chelsea continued to struggle and with 1:04 left in the match the Lions knotted things at 57-all.

Only 48 ticks remained on the game clock when Briarwood committed a costly foul and put Chelsea's Shelton at the free throw line.

Lion home fans screeched, stomped and yelled to provide enough distraction to turn a lesser man to jelly. Shelton, however, stayed cool and hit both ends of a one-and-one. Chelsea went on top 59-57.

Then, with 15 seconds left on the clock, Briarwood again blundered and the Hornets showed composure. Once again Shelton went to the foul line and hit both ends of a one-and-one.

The Hornets went berserk over their 61-57 victory.

"It was mostly the first quarter," said dejected Briarwood player Ken Preston. "They got away from us. We started to fight back but it was up hill. They played a good game."

How did Shelton feel about the position he was put into to win the game?

"I was under pressure but I was confident," he said grinning broadly in the locker room. "I felt as a team we were confident for the first time this year."

So maybe, just maybe, the Hornets have arrived. They now go to 4-13 on the season and Briarwood goes to 7-6.

Prior to losing to Chelsea, the Lions defeated Indian Springs by a whopping 83-37 score with Bobby Welch and Victor Nichols scoring 18 each.

For the record, Shelton scored 29 of Chelsea's points against Briarwood.

Lady Hornets win

The Lady Hornets of Chelsea High School played a heart-stopper of a contest at Briarwood Christian High School last Friday night.

The female Hornets beat the Lady Lions 27-26 after Briarwood failed to capitalize on a Chelsea foul at the final buzzer.

But while the Hornets were victorious at Briarwood, they were not so lucky in the Lady Blazers Classic played in Birmingham's Boutwell Auditorium Saturday.

Chelsea, the only Shelby County school to participate in the event, lost 39-28 to West Birmingham.

Sandy Brasher scored 20 points in that contest which dropped the Hornets to 6-7 on the year.

Note: Scores of girls basketball games should be presented to the Reporter by no later than noon Sunday.

County teams go for cage title

It's tournament time in Shelby County.

The countywide basketball tourney is already underway, and the Coosa Valley Invitational Tourna- is set to tip off Thursday night in Harpersville.

The CVA Invitational will be played Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, January 26-28, and will involve Bessemer, Minor, Berney Points, Cahawba, Lee Scott, Coosa Valley, and Shelby Academy.

In Thursday's action, Bessemer Faith will take on Minor at 5 p.m., Shelby Academy will shoot it out with Berney Points at 6:30 p.m. and CVA will go after Cahawba at 8 p.m. Lee Scott will not play the first round.

Friday the winners of Bessemer Faith vs. Minor and Shelby Academy vs. Berney Points will play at 6 p.m. and 7:30 respectively and Lee Scott will play the winner of the CVA-Cahawba game.

A consolation game will be played at 6 p.m. Saturday with championship action to get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Eight high school basketball teams are locked into a shoot-out for Shelby County bragging rights.

The county basketball tournament got underway at Pelham High School Monday night (after the sports deadline), with the number one seeded Thompson taking on number eight seeded Chelsea. Number five seeded Shelby County also took on number four seeded Vincent.

Tuesday night, number three seeded Calera took on number six seeded Pelham, and number two seeded Montevallo battled number seven seed Briarwood.

In Thursday's semi-final action the winner of the Thompson/Chelsea game is scheduled to take on the winner of the Vincent/Shelby County contest at 6:30 p.m.

Also, the winner of the Calera/Pelham contest is to take on the winner of the Montevallo/Briarwood match at 8 p.m.

There will be no consolation match for the county tournament, but prior to Friday night's championship game at 8 p.m. the Thompson High School B-team will take on the Montevallo High School B-team at 6:30 p.m. for the county championship in that category.

Area tourneys draw near

It's anyone's guess as to which Shelby County basketball teams will be favorites to win area basketball tournaments are slated to begin in February.

The District 7 Tournament for private schools -- including Coosa Valley Academy, Shelby Academy, Berney Points, Minor, Cahawba and Bessemer -- is scheduled to begin the first Monday of the month.

That tournament will be held at Berney Points.

* * * *

The 3A Area 9 tournament will be played in Childersburg, February 20-24. Teams fighting for the title and a chance for state playoff action are Thompson, Shelby County, Pelham, Chilton County, Bibb County, Childersburg and Sylacauga.

The 2A Area 7 public school tournament will be played in Montevallo, February 20-24. Teams going for honors there will be Vincent, Montevallo, Chelsea, B.B. Comer, Winterboro and Holy Family.

The 1A Area 8 public school tournament will be played in Billingsley and will begin on February 20. Teams in the hunt for that title include Calera, Indian Springs, Billingsley, Maplesville, Isabella, Verbena, Thorsby, Fayetteville and Weogufka.

Briarwood Christian High School is in the race for county basketball honors this year, but will not participate in any area event.

The school is considered an associate member of the Alabama High School Athletic Conference while it seeks state board of education accreditation.

Vincent girls show well at AU invitational

The Vincent High School girls track team finished fourth at an Auburn Invitational indoor meet last Friday and Saturday.

But don't let the fourth place finish fool you. Except for one other 2A school (Stevenson), Vincent competed in a 4A dominated event.

Still, Yellow Jacket Wanda McCrimon finished first in the long-jump, the 60-yard low-hurdles and the high-jump. She jumped a distance of 16'6.5", ran a time of 8.6 and tied a meet record with a high-jump of 5'4".

In addition, teammate Anne Stone finished fourth in the shot-put and the Vincent two-mile relay track team finished sixth.

Hunters appeal for compassion when dogs fall victim to traps

by Fred Guarino

An urgent appeal for compassion is being raised by Calera deer hunters for the release and return of their hunting dogs. The animals are believed to have fallen victim to steel fox traps.

Since December of 1983, five hunting dogs belonging to members of the Calera Sportsman Club and the Indian Hills Hunting Club have either disappeared, been found dead, or have returned to their masters missing toes or legs.

The club members say they are not out to cause trouble, but they are asking that trappers at least let them know when their dogs are caught.

The appeal could be considered a magnanimous one since the injury and death of the hunting dogs have allegedly occured on land the hunters lease from Gulf States Paper Company, or lands adjoining the leased areas.

The hunters say trapping without permission on leased land is not permitted. Club members insist that while they have the right to trap on the land they lease, none of their members are trappers.

Yet they found one trap on the land -- a trap with no permit number or identification on it.

The Reporter met last week with Bobby, Pat and Butch Phillips, Vick Manasco and Ed Smith at the Calera Sportsman Club House. At that time, an unmarked steel fox trap and a dog missing its right front leg were displayed.

The Phillips and Manasco represented the Calera Club while Smith represented the Indian Hills group. The Calera group leases land off County 310 below the I-65 over-pass, and the Indian Hills groups leases land off County 86 south of Prospect Church.

Smith reports that on two occasions one of his dogs got caught in a fox trap during the Christmas holidays. He also stated that he found a trap on either hunting club land or land adjoining it where he claimed no one is supposed to have traps.

Smith brought with him a hunting dog owned by Edwin Carden which was released to run deer during Christmas week, and which stayed gone nearly 17 days. When the dog was found, its right front leg had been damaged to the point that veterinarian John Gates had to amputate it at the shoulder.

"The leg had rotted to the point that he couldn't put it back," Smith said, looking sympathetically at the animal. "The dog's no good for hunting anymore."

This is the first year we've actually experienced losing dogs and having them come back wounded from being in a trap," says Bobby Phillips.

He reports that two dogs were lost Wednesday, December 13, and that one of the animals did not return until New Year's day. It was missing two toes on the left foot with "obvious trap marks,"he says.

"One of the dogs missing from that day has never returned," he adds.

According to Pat Phillips, the first dog was returned after they received a call from Bill Geeslin of Buxahatchee Country Club.

"When we got up there, the collar that fit around her neck (when the dog was first released) seemed like it was weighing her down," she says.

"Trappers are supposed to take a choke collar and release hunt dogs," she adds. "One man's dog was taken out of a trap and thrown on a creek bed, almost dead."

The hunters are asking that trappers not set their traps from now on, until deer season (November 18 thru January 16) is over.

They also point out that all hunting dogs wear a collar with a name and phone number on it, and that a trapper could at least be compassionate enough to call if a dog is caught.

Smith is quick to point out that all traps are supposed to be marked with the owner's name, and a permit number. He says that the trap he found had no markings on it at all.

"A game warden said that a trapper is responsible for any domestic animal caught," Smith also interjects. But the hunters agree that all they want is the return of their dogs.

"We burn up gallons of gas looking for dogs and here they are dead," Pat Phillips says.

Butch Phillips adds that at one location, he actually found dog remains in the center of a perfect circle. The circle, he says, was the results of a dog trying to escape by dragging a trap in every direction, the full length from its stake.

Have a heart

County basketball update

Basketball season is really proving long for Indian Springs School.

Coach Greg VanHorn's charges suffered their 12th loss against one win this season when Briarwood beat them in recent action, 83-37.

"We didn't play real well," VanHorn understated. His top two scorers, Scott Pulliam and David Kent, managed only eight points each while leading rebounder David Garcia pulled down 12 rebounds.

Indian Springs will go for its second win of the season against Altamont in Birmingham on Thursday, Jan. 26. The game will be played at the coliseum prior to the UAB game.

* * * *

The Thompson Warriors took their fifth loss of the season in a recent contest played in Sylacauga. The Warriors dropped their record to 13-5 with an 83-62 defeat at the hands of the Aggies.

Luvell Bivins led the Warriors with 25 points. Chris Thomas grabbed ten rebounds.

* * * *

Mike Sims' Chelsea Hornets also took a loss on the chin recently, falling to Vincent 76-51.

In the contest, which left Chelsea at 3-13 on the year, Steve Shelton scored 23 points while Jason Wiggins and Keith Welch led in rebounds.

See related story on Friday's Chelsea/Briarwood game played at Briarwood Christian High School.

* * * *

The Calera Eagles suffered a tough loss in recent action, falling to top-ten ranked area foe Billingsley 64-49.

The loss dropped Calera to 4-6 on the year.

Kenny Marsh and Willie Taylor scored 15 points each to lead the Eagles against Billingsley.

* * * *

Coach Richard Crumpton's Vincent Yellow Jackets continued their winning ways recently by beating Chelsea 76-51. The win put the 'Jackets at 11-4 on the season.

Leading the Yellow Jackets against Chelsea were Bruce Hamilton with 19 points and Pat Kelly with 14 rebounds.

* * * *

Shelby County High School is two for three in other recent action, with wins over Chelsea and Jemison, and a loss to Childersburg.

Then 9-6 on the season, the Wildcats beat Chelsea 84-74, and Jemison 78-62 before losing to the Tigers of Childersburg 83-51.

Against Chelsea, David Wood led in scoring and rebounding with 21 points and eight boards. He also led against Jemison with 29 points and nine boards.

In losing to Childersburg, Wood was again the high man with 14 points and nine boards.

* * * *

Shelby Academy is 11-3 on the season with recent wins over Edgewood and Minor.

The Raiders whipped Edgewood in a low scoring affair 30-24 with Vince Pickett leading in scoring and rebounding with ten points and nine boards.

Minor proved to be another low scoring event with Shelby Academy coming out on top 41-32. Jim Lee led in scoring and rebounding with 14 points and four boards in that game.

* * * *

The Pelham Panthers are 11-6 on the year, following a 62-53 win over Montevallo. Leading the Panthers against the 'Dogs were Eddie Reeves and Brian Hughes with 18 and 13 points respectively.

* * * *

Speaking of Bulldogs, Montevallo is now 7-5 on the season after losing to both Pelham and Banks.

In action against Pelham, Tommy Lee Bivins led in scoring with 18 points while teammate Terry Rutledge led in rebounds with seven boards.

The Bulldogs lost to Banks 52-48 in a contest played at the University of Montevallo. In that game Bivins scored 14 points and Terry Rutledge pulled down 13 rebounds.

Side terminal batteries carry danger for boats

Serious fires and explosions have occured on some boats equipped with side terminal batteries and portable fuel tanks.

Marine Police Director William B. Garner said the danger was stressed at a recent National Boating safety Council meeting.

Garner emphasized that boats equipped with such batteries can pose a real threat when steered into a turn.

If not properly insulated and secured in a battery box there is a possibility the battery can slide across the deck, bringing the terminals in contact with the side of the fuel tank.

Garner urges any boater using side terminal batteries to make certain such batteries are tightly secured and the terminals are properly insulated as required by Electrical Systems Standard.

UAB 'puts on Ritz' for homecoming week

The University of Alabama in Birmingham is 'putting on the Ritz' this week for Homecoming 1984.

Thursday after the Blazer game, party-goers can have a night on the town, dancing to the punk rock music of 'Between the Two.' The concert/ dance is free and open to the public in the South Exhibition Hall of the Birmingham-Jefferson County Civic Center.

The annual meeting and banquet of the UAB Alumni Society is Friday and includes entertainment by 'Three on a String.' Cocktails begin at 6:30 p.m., and the banquet starts at 7:30 p.m., all at the civic center,

Also on Friday, a bonfire will be lighted at the UAB Mini Park on the corner of 13 St. South and University Boulevard between 6:30 and 7 p.m. A pep rally/ party will be held from 7 p.m. til midnight at the University Center.

Tip-off for the homecoming game between UAB and Jacksonville is set for Saturday at 8 p.m. in the coliseum.

Following Friday's game, an alumni-student dance with music by '3-D' will be held in the exhibition hall.

Long shot proves fatal as UM falls to Southern

With the help of a long shot from the floor with only four seconds left on the scoreboard, Birmingham Southern recently snatched a victory from the UM Falcons.

"It was a tough game to lose," said Falcon coach Bill Elder of the 43-41 heartbreaker against archrival Southern. "But I can't get on the players because they played hard. It was an excellent game, one of the most exciting that I have been involved in."

Coupled with wins over Alabama-Huntsville 77-61 and Phillips College 60-59, the loss to Southern put Montevallo at 12-6 on the year, 1-2 in the Southern States Conference and, 2-2 in District 27 play.

Anthony Glaude led UM against Southern with 20 points. He led with 28 points against Alabama-Huntsville.

Steve Swain scored only two points for the Falcons against Phillips College but they came at the buzzer to give UM a needed win.

While the UM Falcons were upping their season tally, the Lady Golden Falcons were doing the same thing.

The female Falcons upped their record to 7-8 and their District 27 mark to 3-0, with a 78-64 win over West Florida at home.

"It was an important win for us if we have any hopes of post-season play," said coach Bud Childers.

The key to the win was point production from Sharen Douglas and Judy Perkins. Douglas scored 22 points and grabbed 16 rebounds while Perkins hit for 21 points and dished out five assists.

The victory kept the Lady Golden Falcons just ahead of the Lady Charges of Alabama-Huntsville who are 9-10 over all and 3-1 in district play.

For her efforts, Douglas was named District 27 'Player of the Week' for January 8-15.

For the record, the Lady Golden Falcons have faced six top 20 teams in their first 14 games.

Pelham wins junior cage title

Shelby County junior high school basketball bragging rights now go to the Pelham Panthers.

Coach Jerry Yancy's squad completed a 13-1 season and won county honors by beating Briarwood 41-27 in a tournament played in Calera last Thursday night.

Pelham will represent Shelby County in 3A and 4A state regional playoffs to be played in early February.

On the way to taking county honors, Pelham had to knock off the Thompson Warriors as well.

Briarwood finished second in the county junior high school action and Vincent placed third.

Leading the Panthers in championship action were Brad Youngblood with 13 points, Ralph Novle with 11 points and John Erwin with nine points.

CVA routs Cahawba

The Coosa Valley Academy Rebels are 9-3 on the season as they prepare to host their own invitational tournament this Thursday night.

In recent action, the Rebels defeated Cahawba 69-58 in a contest that was not nearly as close as it sounds. The Rebels led by as many as 30 points before coach Bruce Breland threw all of his reserves into the game.

In action against Cahawba, John Beavers scored 18 points and Larry Hill scored 14 points.

GULMER WILSON
...former UM secretary

Wilson retires from university

After nearly 43 years of typing letters, reports, and minutes, Gulmer Wilson put the cover over her IBM typewriter for the last time this month.

It was February 23, 1941 when the Montevallo woman first walked into her office on the University of Montevallo campus -- then Alabama College. She began her duties as secretary in the State Department of Education's Vocational home Economics office.

During the years she worked on the campus, six college presidents came and went, and the seventh is now in office.

One of her friends observed that if all the materials the home economics secretary has typed and duplicated were stacked in front of Wilson, she would be hidden from view.

Besides her duties in the office, Wilson also had responsibilities at teachers' workshops and youth meetings.

Even though she's retired, Wilson will still use her secretarial skills in church work by helping with the church newspaper at Montevallo United Methodist Church.

She plans to keep busy by doing yard work at her home on Pineview Drive in the Arden subdivision. Since reading has always been one of her favorite pasttimes, Wilson also plans to spend a good deal of time with books.

Two parties were given to honor the longtime secretary. Home Economics supervisors and secretaries from the State Department of Education gave a luncheon in Prattville earlier this month and presented her with gifts including luggage.

On Sunday, Dr. Lois Ackerley, former head of the Home Economics Department at UM, entertained with a tea at her home.

UM plans Black Heritage, events

The first black woman to win a Pulitzer Prize for poetry will be at the University of Montevallo, Tuesday, January 31.

Gwendolyn Brook's visit will initiate Black Heritage Month activities at UM. She will give an informal reading and commentary on her life and work for UM freshmen and sophomores, followed by a question and answer period in Comer Hall at 10 a.m.

At 2 p.m. she will meet informally with students in the English Commons Room in Comer Hall, and at 8 p.m. she will hold a public poetry reading in LeBaron Recital Hall.

The UM Faculty Concert Series will present a free piano recital by Kathy Vines Thursday, Feb. 2 at 8 p.m. in LeBaron Recital Hall.

For more information call 665-2521, ext. 202.

The work of Pulitzer Prize winning author Annie Dillard will be examined by a UM English professor Dr. Elizabeth Rodgers as part of the Faculty Lecture Series.

Rodgers will focus her discussion on the book for which Dillard received a Pulitzer Prize for general non-fiction -- 'Pilgrim at Tinker Creek.'

The lecture will be held Thursday, February 2 at 7:30 p.m. in 204-A Wills Hall on the Montevallo campus. Admission is free.

DAR chapter announces Good Citizen winners

The David Lindsay Chapter of DAR held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. James Davis in Columbiana.

During the business meeting the Regent made several important announcements.

First, the District winner of the DAR Good Citizen Contest was the David Lindsay entry - Rickey Hayes of Pelham High School. Second, it was announced that $25 had been contributed from the chapter to the Shelby County Historical Society, to be used in the restoration of the old courthouse in Columbiana.

Finally, with the election of new officers coming up, the nominating committee was selected. They are Mrs. George Seier, Mrs. Frank Ellis, and Mrs. Denson Elliott.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Jack Ward gave an informative account of her recent cruise of the Greek Isles. During the talk she passed around pictures, maps, dolls dressed in native costumes, and other mementos of her trip.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU SMELL GAS.

Natural gas has no odor of its own. We add one for your protection. Here's what you should do if you smell gas.

If the odor is slight, and it's near an appliance, it may simply mean a pilot light is out and needs relighting. But if there's any doubt, give us a call.

If the odor is strong, leave the building. Don't flip the light switches. Don't use any other electrical equipment. Don't light a match or candle or try to find the leak yourself. Be sure everyone is out, and call us from a neighbor's phone.

If the odor is outdoors, call us immediately. Don't wait for others to do it.

You can reach us anytime. If you smell gas, one of our servicemen will come right to your home and make a thorough inspection.

Natural gas is one of the safest energies you can use. And together we'll keep it that way.

DID YOU KNOW?

Nuclear fuel has lessened the need for foreign oil.

Alabama Power is not dependent on expensive foreign oil for electric generation thanks to coal, hydro and increasingly to nuclear fuel. In fact, last year we generated approximately 20% of our power from nuclear and none from oil and natural gas. In 1980, for the first time in history, utilities in the United States generated more electricity from nuclear fuel than from oil.

Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr. et al, Plaintiffs VS.
The Unknown heirs or devisees of Walter Hawthorne, dec., et als, Defendants

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama
Case No. CV-84-001 (E)

Notice

TO: The unknown heirs or devisees of Walter Hawthorne, deceased; Allen Lumber Co., and the unknown owners and shareholders thereof and their heirs or devisees if deceased; Darling Daniel, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Beatrice Noland, deceased; Alex Bickerstaff, and his heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Lillie Hawthorne Peterson Bickerstaff, deceased; Catherine Abbott; Elizabeth Branch, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Lillian Lewis, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; Dorothy Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Willie Lee Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Howard Lee Noland, Jr., and his heirs or devisees, if deceased, and the following described real property located in Shelby County, Alabama: The NE¼ of NW¼ of Section 32, Township 18 South, Range 2 East, and any and all persons or corporations claiming, or reputed to claim, any title to, interest in, lien or encumbrance on said lands, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and all other persons, defendants.

You are hereby notified that the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr. Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, have on this 4th day of January, 1984, filed their verified Complaint in the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, against you, and against the above designated real property, pursuant to the provisions of 1975 Code of Alabama, Title 6, Sections 6-560 through 60-573, for the purpose of establishing the fee simple title to the above designated real property in the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr., Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning said real property, and said designated suit is now pending in said Court.

The plaintiffs allege in said Complaint that they are the owners of the real property described more particulary above, in fee simple, subject only to current year ad valorem taxes, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property as the sole surviving heirs and next of kin of Joe Peterson, deceased, said property having been formerly owned by Joe Peterson under warranty deed from Lillie Peterson dated January 24, 1933, and recorded February 6, 1933, in Deed Book 95 at page 178, Office of Judge of Shelby County, Alabama, said Joe Peterson having died intestate while a resident of Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit, in the year 1939, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property under said deed.

Plaintiffs further allege that they are in the actual, peaceable possession of said lands; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation is in the actual possession of said lands and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have held color of title to the said lands for a period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint, and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have paid taxes on said lands during the whole of such period of time; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation has paid taxes on said lands during any part of said period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint.

Plaintiffs further aver that no action is pending to test their title to, interest in, or the right to their possession of such lands.

Plaintiffs further allege that after diligent search and inquiry they have been unable to learn the names, whereabouts, or addresses of any defendant to this suit, except as designated above herein, and that in the belief of the plaintiffs, all of said defendants are over 19 years of age and that none of said defendants are known or suspected to be of unsound mind.

You are further notified that you, and each of you, are required to plead, answer or demur to said Complaint on or before March 3, 1984, or suffer decree pro confesso or other default judgment in accordance with law, to be rendered against you.

LEGAL NOTICE

State of Alabama
County of Shelby

Notice is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made, to-wit:

A Bill to be Entitled An Act

Relating to the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation; and create a Pelham Municipal Racing Commission for the regulation, licensing, qualification for licensing, and supervision of Greyhound racing, and wagering thereon; to prescribe the composition, qualification, appointment, terms of office; powers and duties of the commission; to prescribe certain qualificaitons for applicants for licenses; to provide for and regulate the pari-mutuels or certificate method or wagering within the enclosure of licensed race tracks; to provide for the distribution of license fees, taxes, commissions and other moneys received under the provisions of the act; and to provide certain penalties for the violation of this act and for other purposes relative thereto, and to provide for a referendum of the voters of the City of Pelham on the question of whether the act will become effective in said municipality; to authorize the employment by said Racing Commission of special legal counsel in addition to representation by the Office of the City Attorney of said city; to prohibit members of said Racing Commission from making political contributions; to provide for the severability of the parts, sections and provisions of said Act.

Be it Enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. A municipal Racing Commission is hereby created and established for and in the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation, and said Racing Commission is vested with the powers and duties specified in this Act, and all other powers necessary and proper to enable it to execute fully and effectually the purposes of the Act. The official name of said Commission shall be The Pelham Municipal Racing Commission, the same being sometimes referred to herein as the Racing Commission or the Commission. Said Commission shall consist of three (3) members to be appointed as hereinafter provided. The member of the Alabama Legislature representing House District 40 shall appoint one (1) member of said Commission to serve for a period of one (1) year from said effective date;

the Mayor of Pelham, Alabama shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of two (2) years from said effective date; and the City Council of Pelham, Alabama by majority vote of the members present shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of three (3) years from said effective date. As the terms of each Commission member shall expire, such member's successor shall be appointed for a period of three (3) years by the appointing authority who made the original appointment. If a vacancy shall occur for any reason, then that vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as original appointments are made. In the event that any vacancy shall exist on the Commission for a period in excess of thirty (30) days, then the Governor of the State Of Alabama shall fill such vacancy in lieu of appointement by the appointing authority as herein designated. Initial appointment of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission shall be made within fifteen (15) days after this act is approved by the voters of the City of Pelham, Alabama as is herein provided.

Section 2. All books, records, maps, documents and papers held by the Commission shall constitute public records, and be available for copying, examination and inspection during all normal business hours by any agency, official or person.

Section 3. The members of the Commission shall be qualified electors not less than twenty-one (21) years of age, who shall be resided in the City of Pelham for a the period of three (3) years next preceding their appointment. Each Commissioner shall take the same constirutional oath of office as other municipal officers, and shall give bond payable to the City of Pelham in the amount of $25,000, conditioned that such member will faithfully and properly perform the duties of his office. The premiums on such bonds shall be paid by the Commission from the funds out of which the members of the Commission are compensated. The Commission may employ such assistants and employees as may be necessary. The Com,mission may also employ accounting, investigative, publicity and public relations and architectural firms for assistance in implementing and enforcing its duties under this Act.

The Commission shall select one of its members to act as Chairman thereof. The Chairman so selected shall hold office for a period of one (1) year or until his successor shall be selected. The Commision shall meet on the call of its Chairman, but no less than once each three (3) months for the conduct of its business.

A member of the Racing Commission must not be, nor shall he be, a member of any board of directors or an officer, partner or associate in any organization financially interested in any race track, or race meeting licensed by the Commission, or any licensee hereunder; nor shall he race any dog or be financially interested in any dog in any race meeting licensed by the Commision.

Section 4. The compensation of each member of the Commission shall be One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) per month. One (1) member of said Commission shall be required to be in attendance at each racing event and said designated mamber shall receive an additional Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem while engaged in the performance of his duties. Each Racing Commissioner engaged in the performance of his duties when traveling within the State of Alabama but outside Shelby County shall receive Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem and when traveling outside the State of Alabama, One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) per diem plus transportation expenses.

Section 5. The Finance Director or other chief fiscal officer of the City of Pelham shall be Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission, and shall collect all the license fees, taxes and moneys provided in this Act, and shall supervise, check and audit the operation of the pari-mutuels wagering pools and the conduct and distribution thereof.

Section 6. The Racing Commission shall have the authority to employ legal counsel of its selection to advise the commission and represent it in all proceedings. The compensation of such counsel shall be paid out of the general fund of the City of Pelham.

Section 7. It shall be the duty of the Racing Commission to carry out the provisions of this Act; and it shall have the following specific duties:

(1) To fix and set dates upon which racing meetings may be held or operated.

(2) To make an annual report to the governing body of the City of Pelham of its operation, showing its own actions and rulings, and receipts derived under the provisions of this Act, and such suggestions as it may deem proper for the more effective accomplishment of the purpose of this Act.

(3) To require each applicant to:

(a) If an individual, group of individuals or partnership, each individual or partner shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(b) If a corporation, each incorporator, stockholder, director, and officer shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(c) Set forth on such application for a license the following information:

(i) The full name of each individual or partner, their business and home address, their present business, occupation, or profession, and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such individuals for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such application.

(ii) The name and address of each of the incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers of any corporation making such application and the present business, occupation, or profession of each of such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such appplication.

(iii) The exact location where it is desired to conduct or hold a racing meet and a complete set of architectural renderings and construction plans showing the site, topography, the type of construction, the track design, and the concession plans, together with sufficient proof of capitalization to construct and operate said facility. If such proof of capitalization contemplates that a loan or other indebtedness will be incurred by such applicant, then the name and address of each person, firm or corporation making such loan or underwriting such indebtedness shall be given together with the written commitment of such person, firm or corporation to make such loan or underwrite such indebtedness.

(iv) Whether such racing plant is to be owned by applicant or leased, and if leased, the owner thereof shall meet the same residence requirments as an applicant and the same information shall be furnished for such owner as is required to be furnished for an applicant.

(v) If the applicant is to enter into a management contract with any person or legal entity, then such person or other legal entity shall meet the same residence requirement and the same information shall be furnished concerning such person or legal entity as is required of an applicant.

(vi) The kind of racing to be conducted and the dates requested.

(vii) Such other information as the Racing Commission may require.

(viii) To disclose any indictment for or conviction of any felony and any conviction of a misdemeanor involving a crime of moral turpitude on the part of the applicant, its officers, directors, stockholders, partners, associates, or any person financially interested in said applicant.

(4) To require an oath of every applicant, or by the president or executive officer of the association or corporation, stating that the information contained in the application is true.

(5) To make uniform rules and regulations governing the holding, conducting, and operating of all race tracks, race meetings, and races held in the City.

(6) Receive all applications for the initial license within thirty (30) days following the appointment of the Commissioners and to grant, reject or otherwise act upon all such applications within ten (10) days after the last day for receiving such applications.

(7) All books records, maps, documents, and papers of the Commission, including those filed with the Commission as well as those prepared by or for it, shall at all times be open for the personal inspection at the office of the Commission during its normal business hours by any officer of the State of Alabama, or of any county, municipality, or other subdivision of the State, or of any official investigative body or committee, provided that such officer, investigative body or committee shall be authorized to carry out such inspection and examination, and no person having charge or custody thereof shall refuse this right to any officer or investigative body or committee, and it shall be the express duty of such person to assist such officer or committee in locating records or information desired by them. Any member or employee of the Commission who violated the provisions of this section shall be removed from office and forfeit his bond.

Section 8. Any person, association, or corporation desiring to operate a race track in the City of Pelham shall have the right to apply to the Commission, subject to the provisions of this Act, to hold and conduct one or more race meeting at such track each year, provided that no such license shall be granted to any person, association, or corporation, or to any track, for a period longer than three hundred (300) racing days in any one (1) year.

The Commission may extend said limitations of time for greyhound racing not to exceed three (3) days at any one track beyound the period otherwise provided by law so that any such track shall conduct a charity day or days of racing for any one or more recognized charities in the City of Pelham which has a tax exempt status as provided for under the Internal Revenue Code. The total of all profits derived for the operation of such racing on such charity days, including all moneys which would otherwise be received by the Commission as taxes for such days' operations, shall be and become a part of a charity trust fund for which such racing on such days is conducted. The charity trust fund shall be administered as directed by the Racing Commission.

In determining profits derived from such racing on such charity days, said profits shall include all taxes payable to the City of Pelham or any agency therof for such days' operations. The licensee of said tracks shall only be entitled to deduct from the profits accruing from all receipts on such charity days of racing their actual operating costs, which costs shall be those expenses incurred by the race track solely by reason of holding said charity days of racing and shall not be deemed to include such expenses constant from day to day and which would have been incurred had the race on that day not been held, including, but not limited to, such items as capital expenditures, interest on debts, real estate taxes and annual license fee, donations, bad debts, and such other items of daily or prorated expenses as the Commission may by rule prescribe and provided, however, that such expenses shall be deemed to be a donation to the charity or charities benefiting from said racing days.

There shall be only one greyhound dog racing facility in Pelham.

Section 9. No race or racing shall be permitted on Sunday. No person under nineteen (19) years of age shall be employed in any manner about said race track except as exercise boys, jockeys, handlers, grooms, ushers and concessionaires; nor shall persons under nineteen (19) years of age be permitted to attend any race.

Section 10. The original license issued in accordance with the terms of this Act shall be for a period to allow ten (10) full calendar years of racing following the construction and equipping of the racing plant or facility or for the length of time required for the amortization of the capital investment, whichever is longer, and shall be granted so as to expire on the 31st day of December following such ten (10) full calendar years of racing or the amortization of the capital investment. On or before the 1st day of December of the last year of the original license, the Racing Commission shall accept application in the manner, form and requiring the requisite qualifications all as prescribed in this Act for additional periods of not more than three (3) calendar years. On or befor the 1st day of January thereafter, the Commission shall convene to consider and act upon such applications. Subsequent applications shall be accepted and license issued in the same manner. If a licensee shall apply for a renewal license, the same shall not be denied except for good cause provided, however, the Commission may require that such licensee furnish the requisite information and meet the requisite qualifications required by this Act.

The license granted under this Act shall set forth in addition to any other information prescribed by the Racing Commission the name of the licensee, the location of the race track, duration of the race meeting and the kind of racing desired to be conducted and shall show the receipt by the Commission of a license fee set by the Commission, provided, however, that such license fee shall not exceed One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) annually. No such license shall be transferable, nor shall it apply to any other place, track, or enclosure except the one specified in the license.

Section 11. (a) The Commission may suspend or revoke the license of any licensee conducting a race meeting, upon the willful violation of any of the provisions of the Act, or any rule or regulation promulgated by the Commission or may invoke a fine not to exceed $10,000 per offense in lieu thereof in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable.

(b) It is unlawful for any member of said Racing Commission, or any licensee under this chapter directly or indirectly, to make any contribution whatsoever to any political party or to any candidate for any State, County, or Municipal office, and upon proof being presented of any such prohibited contribution having been made by the licensee, the Commission shall immediately and permanently revoke the license of such licensee.

(c) If any member of said Racing Commission violates, consents to, or participates in, any violation of the provisions of this Act, in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable, such member shall be subject to removal from office.

(d) No disciplinary action may be taken hereunder until the licensee has been presented with notice in writing specifying the time and place of a disciplinary hearing, said notice setting out in substance the nature of the accusation, and inviting the licensee to appear, with or without counsel, as the licensee may decide, the licensee being afforded an opportunity to face and examine his accusers, call witnesses and testify if he chooses.

Section 12. The Commission is empowered to compel the production of any and all books, memoranda, or documents showing the receipts and disbursements of any person, association or corporation licensed to conduct race meetings under the provisions of this Act. The Commission may at any time require the removal of any employee or official employed by any licensee hereunder whenever it has reason to believe that such employee or official is guilty of any improper practice in connection with racing, has failed to comply with any condition of the license, or has violated any rule adopted by the Commission. The Commission shall have the power to require that the books and financial or other statements of any licensee be kept in a manner and method provided by the Commission; and the Commission shall be authorized to visit, investigate, and place auditors and inspectors in the offices, tracks, or place of business of any person, association or corporation licensed under this Act.

The Commission shall have power to summon witnesses before its meetings; to administer oaths to such witnesses, and to require testimony on any issues before it.

Section 13. The Commission shall have the power to grant, refuse, suspend, or withdraw licenses to all persons connected with race tracks, including all salaried employees, gate keepers, announcers, ushers, starters, officials, drivers, dog owners, agents, trainers, handlers, grooms, stable foremen, exercise boys, veterinarians, valets, sellers of racing forms or bulletins, and attendants in connection with the wagering machines, pursuant to such rules and regulations as the Commission may from time to time adopt and upon the payment of license fee as shall, from time to time, be fixed and determined by the Commision in accordance with the position and compensation of such person. Any such license may be revoked by the Commision, at is discretion, and any person whose license is revoked shall be ineligible to participate in such occupation connected with racing unless the license is returned by the Commission with permission to operate thereunder. The Commision may deny or revoke a license to any person who has been refused or denied a license by any other state racing commission or racing authoriy, or who has furnished the Commission with an application containing falsified information.

Section 14. The Commission shall make rules governing, permitting, and regulating the wagering on races. "Pari-Mutuels Wagering" shall be legal to the extent that, and so long as, the same is carried on and conducted strictly in conformity with this Act, and not otherwise. Only the persons, associations, or corporations receiving a license from the Commission shall have the right or privilege to conduct this type of wagering within the City of Pelham, and the licenses shall restrict and confine this form of wagering to a space within the race meeting grounds. All other forms of wagering on the result of the races shall be illegal, and any or all wagering outside of the enclosure of such races, where such races shall have been licensed by the Commission, shall be illegal.

No person or corporation shall directly or indirectly purchase parimutuels tickets for another for hire or for any gratuity and no person shall purchase any part of a pari-mutuels ticket through another, wherein he gives or pays directly or indirectly such other person anything of value.

Section 15. Every licensee conducting race meetings under the provisions of this Act, shall pay to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission for the use of the Commission, a tax in an amount equal to six per cent (6%) of the total moneys wagered in all pari-mutuels pools conducted on any race track licensed under this Act. The commission of a licensee on a pari-mutuels pool shall in no event exceed eighteen percent (18%) of the amount wagered in said pari-mutuels pool, which amount shall include the six percent (6%) tax heretofore provided. After the deduction of the six percent (6%) for the use of the commission and the percentage commission of the licensee, the remainder of the totals wagered in each pool shall be divided among the winners in each pool according to the Rules of Racing outlined by the Commission, which Rules shall generally conform to practices now in effect at other lawfully licensed dog race tracks in the United States. Each redistribution shall be made in a sum equal to the next lowest multiple of ten. The licensee is entitled to retain the odd cents of all redistribtuions to be known as "breakage to a dime", and all moneys represented by any unclaimed, uncashed or abandoned pari-mutuels tickets known as "outs" tickets. Under the pari-mutuels system of wagering herein provided, the licensee shall be permitted to provide separate pools for bets to win, place, show, a daily double, exactas, trifectas, a quinella and a double quinella, or such other pool as may from time to time be approved by the Commission. Each pool shall be redistributed separately as herein provided. Should there be no winning ticket sold on any pool that conforms to the intent of that pool, provisions will be made in the Rules of Racing adopted by the Commission to assure the distribution of the net amount of such pool.

The licensee shall be required to use a totalizator machine to record the wagering and compute the odds. Rules and reguations governing the operation of each of the pools shall be set out in book form by the Racing Commission. The licensee shall collect from each person attending the race meetings under the provisions of this Act ten (10) cents admission tax. Licensees shall make payment of such taxes to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission once each quarter (three months) which payment shall be accompanied by a report on the races covered by such payment and such other information as the Commission may require.

Section 16. If any free passes or complimentary cards shall be issued to guests by any license, such licenses shall nevertheless be responsible for payment of the admission tax upon such complimentary admission cards or passes as though they had been sold at regular admission price. However, nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the issuance of tax free passes to officials and actual employees of the licensee, or other persons actually engaged in working at such track, including persons actually employed and accredited by the press or other news service; provided, that the issuance of all such tax free passes shall be governed by the regulations and orders of the Commission and a list of all such officers, employees, and news service representatives shall be filed with the Commission.

Section 17. The license fees, commissions, and excise texes imposed herein shall be in lieu of al license, excise, and occupational taxes to the State of Alabama, or any county, city, town or other political subdivision thereof, provided however that any person firm or corporation who operates a restaurant, bar or other concession on the premises shall be subject to the usual city, county and state taxes that are normally leview upon such businesses including sales taxes.

Section 18. Any corporation, association, or person who directly or indirectly holds any dog race without having procured a license as prescribed in this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person wagering upon the results of such a race, except in the pari-mutuel method of wagering when the same is conducted by a licensse and upon the grounds or enclosure of said licensee, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any corporation, organizaiton, assolciation, or person who violates any provision of this Act, for which penalty is not expressly provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Upon conviction of any of the above misdemeanors in a court of competent jurisdiction, the penalty shall be a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), or by imprisonment of not less than five days nor more than six months, or both, such fine and imprisonment to be in the discretion of the court.

Section 19. All fees, commissions, taxes and other moneys, including fines and forfeitures, received under the provisions of this Act shall be paid to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission within ten (10) days following the quarterly receipt therof and shall be forthwith deposited or caused to be deposited to the account of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission. Deposits shall, to the extent practicable, be deposited in interest bearing accounts or securities. All such moneys remaining after payment of the expenses incurred in the administration of this Act, including the payment of the salaries and expenses of the members and employees of the Commission, shall be distributed within forty-five (45) days of receipt of the Commission to the City of Pelham, the proceeds of which shall be used by said municipality in the following percentages and for the following purposes:

(a) Eighteen percent (18%) for the Shelby County Board of Education to be used for the operation of the public schools in Shelby County, Alabama, privided however in the event one or more municipalities in Shelby County shall create a separate school system then and in such event or events the distribution as herein provided shall be prorated between the Shelby County Board of Education and such separate municipal school system based on the student population.

(b) Two percent (2%) for higher education in Shelby County.

(c) Three percent (3%) for use by the Sheriff's Department of Shelby County as the Sheriff shall from time to time determine.

(d) Twenty-seven percent (27%) for use for the benefit of the citizens of Shelby County as the governing body of the county shall from time to time determine.

(e) Fifty percent (50%) shall remain unearmarkded and may be spent in any manner provided by law, for the benefit of the citizens of Pelham, Alabama as the governing body of that municipality shall from time to time determine.

Section 20. No person who engages in the practice of illegal bookmaking dog races, or who knowingly taken any part in such practices, shall be eligible as an applicant for any license or permit to operate a race track or a race meeting under the provisions of this Act, or to be connected therewith in any capacity; and any association or corporation which has as an officer, director, stockholder, executive or any other person financially interested therein or who knowingly employs any person who engages in such practices shall likewise be ineligible as a licensee, and the Commission is hereby empowered to inquire into such matters in entertaining any such applications and otherwise administering this Act.

Section 21. Any person who shall influence or have any understanding or connivance with any owner, groom or other person associates with or interested in any kennel or dog, or race in which any dog participates, to prearrange or predetermine the results of such race, or any person who shall stimulate or depress a dog for the purpose of affecting the results of a race, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year nor more than ten years, or shall be fined not less than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or both, in the discretion of the court.

Section 22. It is the intent of this Act to improve the economic well being of the citizens of the City of Pelham, by providing an increased tax base, jobs for the citizens herein, and the promotion of conventions, tourism, and recreation in the City of Pelham. It is the intent of this Act to provide for strict local control of the racing plant or plants and the operation of said plants by Shelby County citizens so as to minimize the possibility of undesirable gambling elements from ever controlling this industry.

Section 23. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.

Section 24. The provisions of this Act are severable. In the event any section or part therof is declared invalid, such declaration shall not affect the validity of the part and sections which remain.

Section 25. The governing body of the City of Pelham shall on the first Tuesday after thirty (30) days have elapsed from the effective date of this Act call and provide for holding a referendum for the purpose of determining if this Act shall become operative. The question to be voted on shall be stated on the ballots or voting machine tabs substantially as follows:

"Do you favor the creation of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission to regulate licensing and supervision of dog racing and wagering theron as provided in Act No. ------ approved --------, 198—?"

If the majority of the votes cast in the referendum are "Yes" racing shall be legal in the City of Peham as herein provided, and this Act shall become operative therein; if the majority of the votes cast in the election are "No", an additional referendum to be called by the municipal governing body at a time selected by them and set in accord with the provisions of this Section shall not be held within two years of such vote provided however, that additional referendums called by the municipal governing body shall not require further action or approval by the Legislature or by the Governor. The municipal election commission shall certify the results of the referendum to the Secretary of State of Alabama within thirty (30) days after the eleciton returns are canvassed.

Section 26. This Act shall become effective upon its passage and approval by the governor, or upon its otherwise becoming a law.

THANKS

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank our family, friends, neighbors, the Saginaw Fire Dept. and Shelco for all the help and kindness during and after our unfortunate event Dec. 22. We greatly appreciate everything.

Tim, Donna and Suzanne Lovelady

Card of Thanks

The family of Bruce Wakefield, would like to extend the most sincere thank you to the members of Prospect Baptist Church, Rev. Wayne Horton, Rev. Ray Smith, friends and neighbors for your kind expressions of sympathy shown to us during the illness and death of our beloved husband, Daddy, granddaddy and brother.

All of the prayers, visits, food and money were deeply appreciated. Your thoughtfulness meant so much to us.

Heat without safety can mean disaster

by Jim Zales

Every year the onset of cold weather causes an increase in the danger of injury and property damage from fire.

Recognition of this danger isn't paranoia or crying wolf. The disaster of a fire can strike anyone. At stake is the loss of your life, family, home, pets, and personal belongings.

But disaster can be prevented. Safety factors under extreme weather conditions -- such as those which hit Shelby County in December and last week -- gain even more importance. A good rule might be: The colder the weather, the more safety conscious one must be with heating sources.

There are various ways of home heating used in Shelby County, other than central heat. The main ones are wood stoves and fireplaces, gas heaters, kerosene heaters, and electric heaters -- all of which have the potential to be dangerous if not given proper safety considerations.

The old-fashioned wood stove has regained popularity in recent years. But, according to Lt. Bart Wilkerson of the North Shelby County Fire District, Lt. Terry Ray of the Pelham Fire Department, these stoves have also become a leading cause in home heating fires, frequently causing flue and chimney fires.

"These types of fires can create temperatures of up to 2000 degrees," Wilkerson said. He pointed out that if you have a fire in your chimney, the first thing you should do is call the fire department.

Secondly, completely close the damper(s) and douse the fire with small amounts of water. This creates steam which will often extinguish the fire in the chimney. But you should use caution.

"Using a large amount of water at one time can cause cracks in the metal and masonry of wood stoves and fireplaces," Ray said. "About a quart at a time would be good."

To avoid flue and chimney fires, they said you should burn only dry hardwood. Burning pine and/or garbage in your stove creates an excess of creosote which can be ignited by a small spark.

Another preventive measure is to have your chimney cleaned at least every year or two, depending on the build-up of residues. (Both the Pelham and north Shelby fire departments perform free home heating inspections upon request in their districts.)

As for gas heaters, Ed Waldrip of Wan-Bon Gas Company in Westover said one of the most common dangers stem from buying used heaters.

"A lot of appliance dealers in Birmingham make these heaters look good on the outside," he said, "but a lot have valves on the inside that leak. I saw one that looked like it came off of Noah's Ark and had about 300,000 miles on it."

"The cost of new valves and the labor to install them can be as much as $250," Waldrip said. "Propane is heavier than air and natural gas is lighter than air, so these heaters have to be converted over. Most people don't know this and the appliance dealers don't always tell them."

Another problem Waldrip cited is that when one gas company discovers a defective gas unit and puts a cut-off on it, another company sometimes comes along and puts it back in service.

"They do it because the driver doesn't know any better or maybe just to make a sale," he said.

Waldrip recommended that Shelby County adopt an inspection department similar to the one in Jefferson County. He added that gas heater owners should have their units inspected and adjusted at least every two years.

Truitt Ray of R&S Gas Company in Columbiana, said his drivers are trained to spot faulty equipment and inform the customer of its danger.

"Gas heaters need an access to fresh air (such as keeping a window open a little) and should be watched closely to make sure they burn with a good blue flame," Ray said. "The most common problem with heaters is that the burners get dirty and soot up. They get cobwebs in them and air adjustments work their way loose."

Kerosene heaters have also gained popularity recently in Shelby County.

But the Insurance Information Institute (III) of New York City has noted that kerosene heaters "should only be used in adequately ventilated areas. They consume oxygen as they burn. Without enough oxygen there is incomplete combustion which creates carbon monoxide -- an odorless, poison gas."

The III also noted that kerosene heaters can emit other pollutants such as carbon dioxide, nitrogen dioxide, and sulphur dioxide. These gases are a risk to pregnant women, asthmatics, those with heart trouble, the elderly, and the very young.

According to the III, these hazards can be avoided by following heater manufacturer's instructions and by adopting other common sense measures. Furthermore, the institute strongly stressed you have a fire extinguisher nearby at all times.

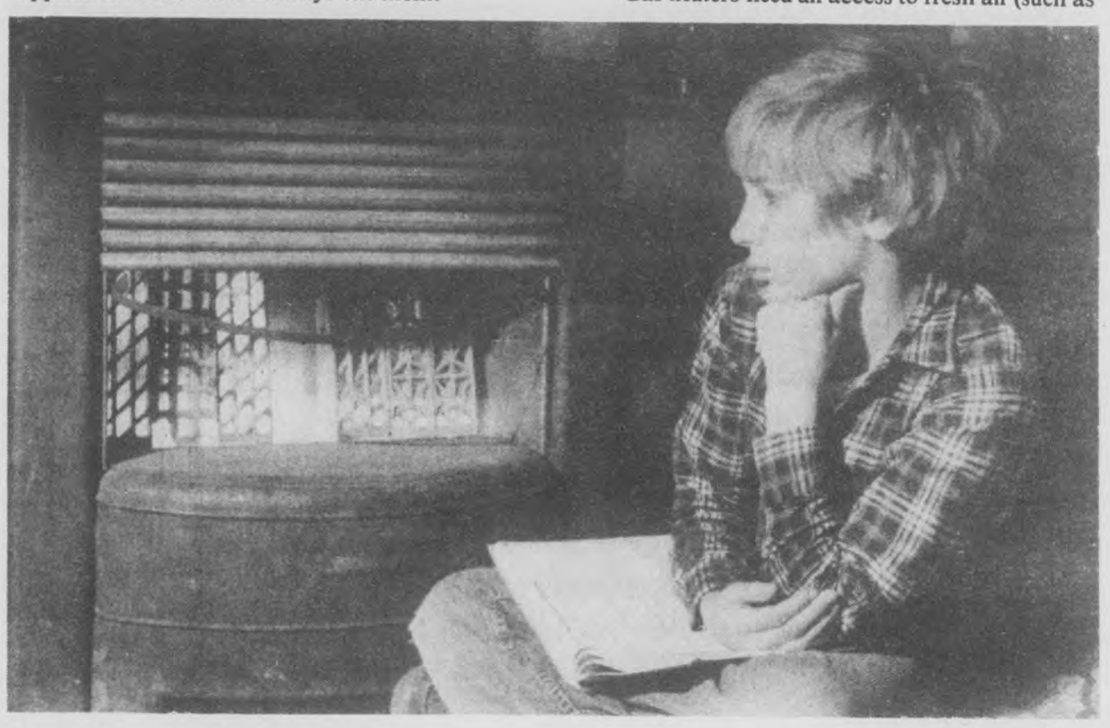
Likewise, electric heaters require safety consciousness. The Alabama Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection urges that you be sure your electric heater has an automatic shut-off switch which terminates electric power if the heater is tipped over.

The office added that to prevent electric shock, avoid using a portable heater anywhere near a bathtub, shower, or sink. Never touch an electric heater if you are wet.

More safety information can be obtained from your heater dealer, your fire department, or your insurance company.

But the most important factor in preventing fires or asphyxiation just might be 'plain ol' common sense'. For safety's sake, heaters and fires must be respected, and that respect can make the difference between winter comfort tragedy.

There's a saying that "a good scare is always worth more than good advice." However, following the home heating safety tips can not only prevent a disaster, but might even prevent the good scare.



Comfort and danger

Ten-year old Tim Wertz of Westover wards off the winter cold by studying -- too closely -- beside a gas space heater. Heat is necessary when temperatures drop, but due caution must be exercised or comfort can easily and quickly change to disaster. For safety tips on using gas, wood and kerosene heaters, see Page 9 in the X-tra Section of this week's Shelby County Reporter. (photo by David F. Moore)

Welfare fraud hot line draws heavy response

About 200 calls per month are still coming in on the state's welfare fraud hotline.

The toll-free telephone line enables citizens to report suspected cases of welfare fraud and abuse. The number is 1-800-392-8048.

According to Leon Frazier, commissioner of the state Department of Pensions and Security, "All reports are thoroughly investigated."

Most of the callers request to be anonymous. Most of them are neighbors, coworkers, and relatives of the suspects.

Information received from the hotline is referred first to local DPS offices for investigation. Most persons convicted of welfare frauds are ordered to repay benefits wrongly received, but some receive jail sentences, Frazier indicated.

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

Question: "Is there really a risk of a non-smoker developing cancer from working in an office full of cigarette smoke?"

ANSWERline: We still don't know whether exposure to second-hand smoke results in cancer or other diseases, but recent studies indicate that smoke-filled rooms are far from healthy. One study, reported in the New England Journal of Medicine, involved more than 2,000 smokers and non-smokers. Results showed that the nonsmokers inhaling other people's smoke had the same lung damage as light smokers or smokers who do not inhale. The damage affected the small airway passages of the lungs, but the effect of that damage to a person's health is not yet known. Lung damage to average and heavy smokers was far worse. Another study showed that a smoke-filled room needs six times as much air circulated per hour as one without cigarette smoke, in order to maintain the same amount of oxygen.

Question: "I'm 23 years old and one of my friends tells me it's important for young women my age to have regular Pap tests to check for cervical cancer. I thought that cancer affected only women over 35.

ANSWERline: Your friend is right. All women 20 years of age and older, and younger women who are sexually active, are susceptible to cervical cancer. You should get a Pap test at least every three years, once you've had two initial negative tests one year apart. The Pap test is important because it is extremely accurate in detecting cervical cancer while the cancer is still in an early, localized stage. That's when chances of cure are best. The other form of uterine cancer – endometrial cancer – affects mainly older women. A special tissue sampling is recommended at menopause, as part of a complete pelvic exam. Also recommended is a pelvic examination every three years from age 20 to 40, and annually thereafter.

Question: "I find that when I'm sitting in front of the typewriter, I simply must smoke. Would I be better off smoking cigars or a pipe instead of cigarettes?"

ANSWERline: That depends on how you smoke them. Naturally, you would be far better off if you stopped smoking altogether. Cigar and pipe smokers – as a rule – inhale less than cigarette smokers, so they have less of a risk of smoke-induced lung cancer, although they are still more likely to get it than nonsmokers. However, pipe and cigar smokers are especially subject to cancer of the lip, mouth and nasopharynx area. One problem of switching from cigarettes is that smokers who inhale usually continue doing so even after taking up cigars or pipes. Since cigar and pipe tobacco is stronger, such smokers expose themselves to even greater risk of lung cancer.

Welfare fraud hot line draws heavy response

About 200 calls per month are still coming in on the state's welfare fraud hotline.

The toll-free telephone line enables citizens to report suspected cases of welfare fraud and abuse. The number is 1-800-392-8048.

According to Leon Frazier, commissioner of the state Department of Pensions and Security, "All reports are thoroughly investigated."

Most of the callers request to be anonymous. Most of them are neighbors, coworkers, and relatives of the suspects.

Information received from the hotline is referred first to local DPS offices for investigation. Most persons convicted of welfare frauds are ordered to repay benefits wrongly received, but some receive jail sentences, Frazier indicated.

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

Question: "Is there really a risk of a non-smoker developing cancer from working in an office full of cigarette smoke?"

ANSWERline: We still don't know whether exposure to second-hand smoke results in cancer or other diseases, but recent studies indicate that smoke-filled rooms are far from healthy. One study, reported in the New England Journal of Medicine, involved more than 2,000 smokers and non-smokers. Results showed that the nonsmokers inhaling other people's smoke had the same lung damage as light smokers or smokers who do not inhale. The damage affected the small airway passages of the lungs, but the effect of that damage to a person's health is not yet known. Lung damage to average and heavy smokers was far worse. Another study showed that a smoke-filled room needs six times as much air circulated per hour as one without cigarette smoke, in order to maintain the same amount of oxygen.

Question: "I'm 23 years old and one of my friends tells me it's important for young women my age to have regular Pap tests to check for cervical cancer. I thought that cancer affected only women over 35.

ANSWERline: Your friend is right. All women 20 years of age and older, and younger women who are sexually active, are susceptible to cervical cancer. You should get a Pap test at least every three years, once you've had two initial negative tests one year apart. The Pap test is important because it is extremely accurate in detecting cervical cancer while the cancer is still in an early, localized stage. That's when chances of cure are best. The other form of uterine cancer – endometrial cancer – affects mainly older women. A special tissue sampling is recommended at menopause, as part of a complete pelvic exam. Also recommended is a pelvic examination every three years from age 20 to 40, and annually thereafter.

Question: "I find that when I'm sitting in front of the typewriter, I simply must smoke. Would I be better off smoking cigars or a pipe instead of cigarettes?"

ANSWERline: That depends on how you smoke them. Naturally, you would be far better off if you stopped smoking altogether. Cigar and pipe smokers – as a rule – inhale less than cigarette smokers, so they have less of a risk of smoke-induced lung cancer, although they are still more likely to get it than nonsmokers. However, pipe and cigar smokers are especially subject to cancer of the lip, mouth and nasopharynx area. One problem of switching from cigarettes is that smokers who inhale usually continue doing so even after taking up cigars or pipes. Since cigar and pipe tobacco is stronger, such smokers expose themselves to even greater risk of lung cancer.

Workers honored

Illegal filings cause 'tax gap'

Who is responsible for the tax gap that left the United States short about $50 billion in 1981?

The Internal Revenue Service has an idea that the main persons responsible are the individual taxpayers who file returns, but fail to report their full income.

And who are these individuals? According to a recent IRS statement, samples include the plumber 'who does a little work off the books' in the evening, charging less if customers pay in harder to trace cash; the couple who carelessly omit interest from their savings account on their tax return; the waiter who reports only a part of his tip income; and the wheeler-dealer who fails to report income from stock transactions.

Other components to the tax gap include those who overstated their personal deductions and business expenses. The IRS thinks it lost $13 billion there. Some $9 billion was lost through illegal income from drugs, gambling, etc. that was never reported. People who failed to file tax returns accounted for $3 billion.

To counteract all this, the IRS is applying some new powers this year. Abusive tax shelters are now on the IRS hit list, with new penalties to those who promote such shelters.

Several fines for criminal violation of tax laws have been significantly increased. The maximum fine for tax evasion was increased from $10,000 to $100,000 for individuals and to $500,000 for corporations

In Alabama, over 65 individuals have been recommended for prosecution and over 100 are under investigation for violations of the tax laws.

The new measures, along with more staff and computers, are expected to help close the tax gap. And that, says IRS, sure beats raising the taxes of those who already pay their fair share.

Talks cater to women in business

A two-day conference for women business owners will be held in Atlanta on February 1-2. It will feature workshops on business management skills.

More than 25 sessions will be offered on a wide range of topics for prospective and present women business owners.

Purchasing managers of major corporations and government will be on hand, along with exhibits of business equipment and supplies.

SMC lab accredited for two years

Shelby Medical Center has been awarded a two-year accreditation for its clinical laboratory.

The accreditation is based on results of a recent on-site inspection.

According to a SMC spokesman, the Commission on Laboratory Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists (CAP) noted the lab and its staff for the "excellence of services you are providing patients and their physicians."

Computerized equipment which has been added in the lab has cut lab result times in half, while increasing accuracy, according to hospital information.

The SMC laboratory is one of 3,000 CAP-accredited labs in the US.

Dr. James A. Davis, III, and Sylvia Sumners are co-directors of the lab.

Sumners has recently been elected as vice-president of the Alabama Association for Laboratory Management. She has worked in the SMC lab ten years.

Hamer joins honor group

Beth Hamer of Montevallo has been initiated into the University of Alabama chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, the national education honor society.

Hamer received a bachelor's degree from Lambuth College in 1966 and a master's degree in 1971 from the University of Georgia. She is working toward a doctorate degree from UA.

Safety tips for heater use

Wood Stoves

•Make sure there is enough clearance between the stove and combustible floors, walls, ceilings, furniture, and drapes.
•Place stove on a fire-proof base.
•Have a mason or other competent person inspect the chimney.
•Burn only dry, well-seasoned hardwood.
•Consider opening a window a crack for ventilating, especially if your house is tightly insulated.
•Dispose of ashes in a closed metal container outside the house.
•Don't connect a wood stove to a fireplace chimney unless the fireplace has been sealed off.
•Don't start a fire with flammable fluids.
•Don't burn trash in the stove.
•Don't let a wood fire burn unattended or overnight.
•Make sure your stove is made of sturdy, suitable material such as cast iron or steel. Look for stoves listed by Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) or other recognized testing laboratories.
•If you purchase a used stove, check it for cracks or other defects. The legs, hinges, grates, and draft louvers should be checked carefully.

Gas Heaters

•Always have your heater professionally installed and inspected.
•Don't put heater near drapes, furniture or other flammable materials.
•Keep a window partially open and the room well ventilated for proper combustion.
•Never use flammable liquids such as gasoline around a space heater. The flammable vapors can flow from one part of the room to another and be ignited by the open flame.
•Never use an unvented heater overnight in the room where people sleep. Deadly amounts of carbon monoxide could accumulate and asphyxiation might occur.
•Purchase a heater with a guard around the flames to keep children and pets away from the heat source.
•If your heater must be lit manually, always light the match before turning on the gas. This avoids the risk of a flare-up from accumulated gas.
•If you have a gas leak don't use electrical switches or telephones. Open windows and doors and call your utility company on a neighbor's phone.
•Keep lint and dust from gathering around the heater. Follow cleaning instructions which come with the heater.

Kerosene Heaters

•Keep away from combustible materials or fumes.
•Keep children (especially with loose clothing) and pets a safe distance away.
•Don't use in small closed areas.
•Be sure your heater has a recognized seal of approval such as Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label. This means the heater has performed well under test conditions and meets acceptable fire safety standards.
•Be sure your heater has a battery operated lighting device. It eliminates the need for matches.
•Heaters should have a safety shut-off device which extinguishes the flame if the unit is jarred or tipped over.
•A properly operating kerosene heater emits no smoke or strong odor during normal operation. A faint odor when you enter the room is normal. Also, there is a strong odor when they're turned on or off or run out of fuel.
•Check the fuel gauge regularly.
•Have adequate ventilation to other rooms and a source of fresh outside air such as a window open about an inch.
•Check the wick every week or two during the heating season. If it is dirty, clean it according to manufacturer's instructions.
•Wipe up any kerosene spillage immediately.
•Remove dust and dirt from in and around the heater regularly.
•Kerosene heaters require 1-K grade kerosene. When colored or cloudy kerosene is burned it will give off an odor, smoke, and cause increased indoor pollution levels because the fuel's higher sulphur content sharply boosts sulphur dioxide emissions. Also, kerosene other than 1-K grade can gum up the wick.
•Never use a substitute such as gasoline or camp stove fuel. It could start a fire or explode.
•Parents of babies, toddlers, and young children, as well as pet owners, should be aware that touching any part of an operating kerosene heater above the open flame could result in a serious burn. Safety cages are available.
•Never attempt to move a lighted kerosene heater. Even a carrying handle could cause a burn. Extinguish the flame and allow the heater to cool before moving it.
•Never refuel a kerosene heater when it is still hot. Wait for it to cool.
•Fire officials strongly urge that kerosene heaters be turned off before you go to sleep.
•Have a smoke detector and fire extinguisher in your house.
•Store kerosene in a safe place away from heating sources, preferably in a garage or shed.
•When refueling refill only 90% of the tank. Cold kerosene expands in a heater tank as it warms to room temperature and could overflow.

Truck wreck kills principal of Chelsea

from staff reports

Funeral services for Chelsea principal William Bradford Stephens were held Tuesday in Columbiana. Stephens died Sunday night in a one vehicle accident while returning from the river home near Ashville where he and his wife had planned to retire.

According to state troopers, Stephens, 56, was killed at 10:40 p.m. on St. Clair County 21, one mile north of Ragland. They said the rear axle broke on Stephens' late model Chevrolet pickup, causing him to run off the road, and throwing him from the truck.

His wife said she had wanted them to return from their river house early Monday morning, but that Brad -- as he was known -- thought that would be inconvenient to her.

She later said she had a 'uneasy feeling' about her husband's safety. Traveling ahead of her husband in a separate vehicle, she returned to their mobile home behind Chelsea School, and waited for Stephens a while, before driving back to try and find him.

WILLIAM B. STEPHENS

Instead, she found the wreck scene and was told by officials there about her husband's death.

Stephens had been principal at Chelsea for six years. News of his death caused considerable shock at the school Monday.

Some students -- such as those in June Niven's third grade class -- were so upset, the teachers had them talk openly about Stephens and his death during morning class.

Young students at the 12 grade school were known to be especially fond of Stephens, and he would often stop on his way to and from his mobile home to chat with them and hug them, teachers said.

"We certainly appreciate the order Mr. Stephens gave the Chelsea Community," said school superintendent Ellie Glasscox. "When he came here, he did things differently. He had a strong will, but the results show he did an excellent job."

Glasscox named Stephens' assistant Marilyn Stutts as interim principal, and Richard Conkle as interim assistant.

Postmaster questions linger after shooting in Maylene

by Bert Seaman

Investigating authorities were still not certain Tuesday if the death of Maylene Postmaster Carolyn Terrell was murder or suicide.

Alabaster police, however, say it appears that the 37-year old postmaster took her own life.

Still, homicide hasn't been ruled out.

Postal authorities in Birmingham were waiting Tuesday at press time for results of FBI tests on gloves Terrell was wearing at the time of death.

The postmaster's body was found around 6 p.m. Thursday in the mail vestibule of the post office.

She had been shot in the temple with a .38 calibre handgun which was found near the body. Police report that it was her gun.

They say it appears the postmaster had been sitting on a mail cart when the shot was fired.

She was found on the floor, next to the cart, by Star Route carrier Berman Young when he stopped to pick up the mail.

Alabaster police investigator Sgt. Larry Rollan, who is assisting postal investigators with the case, reported that nothing in the post office was disturbed. He said there are no suspects at this time.

An autopsy was performed on Terrell's body at Cooper Green Hospital and her gloves were sent to the FBI laboratory in Washington DC to determine if they contained gun powder residue.

Terrell had been postmaster at Maylene two years. She began her career with the U.S. Postal Service at the Wilton Post Office in 1972.

Frances Rawlings has been named officer in charge of the Maylene Post Office until a new postmaster is named.

A resident of Route 5, Montevallo, Terrell is survived by her husband, J.V. Terrell and daughters Towana and Tara.

Other survivors are: five sisters, Minnie Aldrich, Rockcreek, Mable Pickett, Montevallo, Sara Lucas and Dottie Epinosa, California, Ann Holt, Birmingham; one brother, Bobby Lucas, Alabaster.

Funeral services were held Sunday at Hoffman-Rocko Chapel with burial in Shelby Memory Gardens.

Man held for shotgun slaying

by David F. Moore

A Calera man was jailed Saturday night for the alleged shotgun slaying of his wife.

Montevallo police arrested Ronald James Anderson, who will turn 36 next week, at the scene of the shooting. He is charged with the murder of Shirley Wyonia Anderson, 36.

Anderson is also charged with the attempted murder of Albert Ezell Hamm, owner of the mobile home on Spring Creek Road (County 12) in Montevallo where the 7:17 p.m. shooting occurred.

According to police and sheriff's reports:

The couple and two of their children were visiting and drinking some at Hamm's home behind the former Humble Oil service station, when an argument broke out.

Anderson took one child, returned to their Route 2 Calera house (in Chilton County), and picked up a 12 gauge shotgun. On the way back to Hamm's, he stopped at a store and reportedly bought boxes of magnum buck and .00 buck shells.

Back in Hamm's yard, Anderson opened fire into the mobile home, apparently hitting his wife and Hamm several times. The second child was not hit.

Anderson fired at least five times. During the shooting, Hamm returned fire from his doorway with a shotgun.

It was unclear who actually called the police, but Montevallo officers Doug Jackson and Jesse Payne were on the scene almost simultaneously. Sheriff's investigator Richard Fox worked the case.

Anderson's wife died after being rushed to Shelby Medical Center. A hospital spokesman said Monday that Hamm was in 'satisfactory' condition.

Shirley Anderson is survived by daughters, Scarlett W. Anderson and Zandra Jo Anderson; son, Kerry Brian Anderson, all of Calera; mother, Ola Lee Edwards of Wilton; sisters, Dottie Buford of Centreville and Kitty Miller of Montevallo; brothers, Clinton and Randy Edwards, both of Wilton, Marshall Edwards of Wilsonville, Henry Joe Edwards of Montevallo and Don Edwards of Clanton.

Funeral services were held January 31 at Community Baptist Church, with burial in the adjoining cemetery.

Lawmen seek truck stop suspect

Jefferson County lawmen say they have several suspects in the truck stop shooting death of a Montevallo man. But as of press time Tuesday morning, no arrests had been made.

Kenneth Ray Lawley, 43, of Route 5, Montevallo, (Dogwood area) was shot in the head at about 8 a.m. Saturday, February 28. Sheriff's Capt. D.F. Haynes said Lawley apparently died instantly.

Lawley was shot while inside a room at the Fifth Wheel Truck Stop on the Bessemer Super Highway in Brighton. He had stayed there the night before.

Haynes said robbery was the apparent motive and an undisclosed amount of money was taken. The door to the room had been kicked down, and the killers apparently fled in a car.

Lawley is survived by his wife, Lavada L. Lawley; sons, Billy Ray, Gordon J. and Kenneth Wayne Lawley, all of Montevallo; a daughter, Dodie Darlene Lawley of Montevallo; Mother, Nellie Kimbrell of Alabaster; sisters, Etta McGuffie of Centreville, Hazel Hyde of Montevallo, Audrey Holsomback of Columbiana, Margaret Hatcher of Houston, Tx., Inez Morlan of Helena, and Lorine Hughes of Birmingham.

Funeral services were held Monday at Hoffman-Rocko Chapel, with burial in Macedonia Cemetery.

Public transportation rolling into county

by David F. Moore

Question: What takes you from point 'A' to point 'B' if you don't have a car -- or if you leave your car at home in the garage?

Answer: Public transportation.

By March 1 of this year, public transportation is expected to become a reality in Shelby and Chilton Counties.

The service is being made available through a $200,000 federal urban mass transit grant which was established to set up and operate transportation in rural areas such as Shelby and Chilton Counties.

The county commissions in the two-county area have appointed the Chilton-Shelby Mental Health Center (CSMHC) to handle the funding. Through that agency the Chilton-Shelby Rural Transportation Program has been established.

According to Lou Vick, director of special projects for CSMHC, who is now also coordinating public transportation, the service will provide transportation to the general public to and from most anywhere in the two counties.

The five-day a week service will be provided through fixed routes, or into areas where requests are made for urgent transportation.

Rides will costs $1 for each one way trip. Discounts will be given to the elderly, handicapped and children, Vick said.

To start, transportation will be provided through two vans -- one in each county. Next fall, the program expects to let bids on two small transit type buses.

Vick said the service should solve the problems many people face in trying to go shopping, visit the doctor, or just visit friends.

Announcement on routes, schedules, and a 'toll free number' for transportation will be made in the next few weeks, Vick said.

Similar programs have been operating in other rural counties for the past year, and this area is one of the last to take advantage of the federal funding that was available.

This Thursday, Vick expects to attend a meeting in Montgomery of other rural transportation providers.

"We expect to get the final feedback we need to implement the program," Vick said.

The program will require Vick's services as a parttime director, the services of a fulltime secretary/ dispatcher, at least two fulltime van drivers, and other parttime and volunteer workers.

The grant also provides for the purchase of the two initial route vans, one van for urgent requests, and a backup vehicle, Vick said.

For at least the first year, the program will not cost the county or any municipalities any money. The mental health service will initially be providing some $75,000 in matching funds or in-kind services.

"We're going to start out slowly and build on to this thing," Vick said. "If our requests (for transportation) are coming for a given area, we'll target that area. We have to get ridership to make this thing work."

The long range goal of the program, he said, is to coordinate the new service with other groups -- such as RSVP, Community Action, Senior Citizens, mental health and others -- so that money is saved through elimination of duplicated routes.

New school buses are on the way in, and asbestos is on the way out

New school buses are on the way in to Shelby County -- what is presumed to be asbestos is on the way out.

At last week's Board of Education meeting in Columbiana, board members voted to order 22 new buses at a total cost of $513,100.96.

They also approved employing Dampier-Harris and Associates of Alabaster as architects for the removal project of a material presumed to be asbestos.

During the school bus discussion, Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox reported the system is getting two diesel engine buses with an eye to saving fuel.

They will be used in the Columbiana area so the transportation department can keep a close check on the amount of fuel used.

The diesel powered chassis were ordered from Patton International Trucks at a cost of $19,589.48.

Bill Strickland in Pelham was awarded the bid for 20 gasoline powered chassis. His bid was $15,093.

The reason the bus order is larger than usual this year is because the school system is playing catch-up. With pro-ration in effect, there were no buses ordered last year.

When the subject of asbestos removal came up, Glasscox said the board was moving earlier than planned to meet the fall deadline.

Because so many school systems will be working on the same thing this summer, the superintendent said the board had been advised to start as soon as possible.

It hasn't been determined whether the substance found in 17 county schools is actually asbestos, because the only testing done was at Pelham. That test showed the substance was not asbestos.

But Glasscox said the board has been told it would cost less to remove the material -- found mostly on boiler room pipes -- than to do the testing.

Bids will be taken within the next six weeks on the removal and replacement of 1,800 square feet of insulation.

In other matters:

•The board approved the payment of $610 on work done to straighten out a land line at Chelsea School (a portion of the football field had been built on land that was not school property so a land swap was made with the property owner)

•The board was given the updated personnel policy manual to study before a vote is taken at the next meeting on its adoption

Educators explain proposed school tax

by Bert Seaman

Will the proposed 3 mill tax for education to be voted on February 14 improve the quality of education in Shelby County?

School officials answer with a resounding 'yes!'

"It's depressing and demoralizing to students," says Thompson High School Principal Allen Fulton, "to try and study under conditions that exist at Thompson."

He says that because of a heating system that can't be regulated, some classrooms are too hot while others are too cold. There are also problems with the plumbing, the wiring and a leaking roof.

The school was built in 1950 and later expanded.

Thompson and other schools in the county also have a problem with insufficient classroom space.

If the three-mill tax passes, it will bring in approximately $900,000 a year. That amount will allow the board to borrow $6.5 million for building needs it classifies as 'urgent.'

Those 'urgent' needs (additional classrooms, covered walkways, new band rooms and a new high school at Thompson) add up to a total of $9.7 million

The additional $3.2 million is expected to come from the general operating budget. Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox told the Reporter every effort will be made to tighten the budget enough to fund the 'urgent' needs projects within the next three years.

The reason for the tax vote being set on February 14, the superintendent explains, is to 'isolate it from other major issues.'

Some critics of the Valentine Day date think the election would not cost the county anything if it were included on the ballot with the March primaries.

Probate Judge Tommy Snowden reports that is not the case. If a local issue is on the March ballot, Snowden says the county would have to pay half the cost of the election -- approximately $7,000.

By holding a separate election for the education tax vote, Snowden figures the difference in cost will be $800.

Besides the assertion that better instructional facilities will improve the quality of education, the point has also been made that better schools will help the growth and development of the county.

"Real Estate people tell me that one of the first things they're asked by prospective home buyers, is about schools" says Wilsonville resident Betty Rayfield.

The same point was made recently by members of a task force in Montevallo, who recommended ways to enhance the economic development of the city.

Quality schools or not, rapid growth has been predicted for the county, amounting to a 37.5% increase by 1990.

With Thompson High School already at capacity with 830 students, parents in the Alabaster area are concerned about classroom space because 1,350 elementary school students are now on the way.

According to THS principal Allen Fulton, a new high school with space for 1,200 students would cost some $5 million.

But Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox says the board hopes to keep the cost closer to $4 million, leaving more money to address building needs at other county schools.

The superintendent denied the assertion of one unidentified person who wrote the Reporter saying that all of the money borrowed as a result of the increased tax revenue would be used for Thompson.

Admitting that Thompson is one of the top priorities, Glasscox said that any school where there is a space problem is also considered a top priority.

In answer to the claim made by some people that Thompson can be renovated, trustee Hershel Hale said that a contractor several years ago called the facility a 'throw-away' building.

"We've been told," he reported, "that it would cost as much or more to renovate the building than it would to construct a new one."

Stressing the need for additional classrooms at his school, Calera Elementary School Principal Philip Haynie asked how test scores can be improved when teachers are hampered by the facilities.

Haynie reports a kindergarten class and a 5th grade class -- both in mobile classrooms -- do not have adequate space; learning disability classes have to meet in a small office in the library; the speech and gifted classes have to meet in the library's audio visual room; there is no designated instructional space for physical education.

Other county schools have similar needs.

On the list of 'urgent' building needs are additional classrooms for six schools, indoor activity areas at three others, and new band rooms for two schools.

Other projects where capital outlay funds will be used include: covered walkways, lunchroom, auditorium and office renovation, heating and ceiling renovation, and an additional fire exit.

•Columbiana Middle School -- additional classrooms, lunchroom and office renovation

•Helena -- new cafeteria, indoor activity area, additional classrooms, renovation to parts of existing building

•Montevallo Middle School -- lunchroom renovation, additional classrooms

•Montevallo High School -- fire exit, other required safety repairs

•Pelham -- new band room

•Riverchase -- music, art, special education and other additional classrooms

•Thompson Middle School -- additional classrooms, covered walkways

•Valley -- new indoor activity area, additional classrooms

•Vincent High School -- renovation of auditorium

•Vincent Middle School -- renovation of heating system and ceilings

•Wilsonville -- Renovation for parts of existing building.

Exposed ceiling

Thompson High School Principal Allen Fulton and trustee Hershel Hale look at the unfinished ceiling and exposed wiring in a hall at the 34 year old school. The defective heating system makes the floor and nearby lockers extremely hot.

Kiwanians help equip a Red Cross kitchen

The Kiwanis Club of Columbiana has contributed $100 to help the Shelby County Red Cross equip a kitchen.

The kitchen unit will be used to prepare food for disaster victims and work-relief crews, according to Red Cross director Emily Rabren.

Between emergencies, the facility will be available for blood drives, to those attending safety, nursing and health courses, and for other civic activities.

Kiwanis president Robert Barrett said the Red Cross would appreciate other donations to help complete the kitchen unit.

Chelsea principal dies in wreck

Stephens, a graduate of William Carey College with a master's from South Alabama, had been involved in education since serving four years in the Pacific during WWII. He was the past state president of AEA, and past president of the State Principals' Association.

He was the Worshipful Master of the Masonic Lodge in Chelsea, a member of the Order of Eastern Star 490 and the Scottish Rite, and past Sunday school superintendent at Liberty Baptist Church. He was born in Anniston and was later a resident of Mobile.

Besides his wife, Stephens is survived by sons William B. Stephens II of New Jersey, Daniel L. Stephens of Pensacola; a daughter, Judy S. Marshall of Huntsville; and stepson Ronald Dykes of Mobile; Brother, Brancie W. Stephens of Aiken, SC; sister, Mildred S. Cross of Anniston; mother, Kathleen Stephens, also of Anniston; father, W.W. Stephens, and step-mother, Evelyn Stephens, both of Kansas City, Missouri; and seven grandchildren.

A funeral service will also be held February 2, at Radney Funeral Home in Mobile, with burial in Pine Crest Memorial Cemetery there.

Property taxes lowest in nation

There has been some opposition to paying the extra three mills on the basis that county taxpayers are already paying enough -- or too much -- taxes.

However, tax assessor Bobbie Reynolds reports that Alabama is ranked 50th in property tax payments -- the lowest in the nation.

A Chelsea resident the Reporter talked to said that one of her relatives moved to another state because of better educational opportunities for their children.

That relative, she reports, paid $1,500 ten years ago in property taxes on a modestly priced home.

In comparison, today, a homeowner in Shelby County with a $50,000 home pays $83 (with a homestead exemption) per year. That would increase by $12 should voters approve the additional three mill tax.

At the present time, taxpayers in this county pay a total of 30 mills in property taxes, 12 of which go to education.

Another question that has arisen is what happens if one Shelby County school district votes in the increase, and the other votes it down? (The Vincent area has, since 1927, been in a district separate from the rest of the county system -- a situation brought about by state law.)

According to Glasscox, if this happens, the area voting in the tax will be the only one to receive any of its benefits, and the only one taxed.

Who's the smartest of them all?

Which high school has the sharpest and quickest students in Shelby County?

If you would like to see that question answered in an open and fair forum, be at Pelham High School on Thursday, February 2, for the second annual Shelby County High Schools Scholars Bowl.

The event -- which pits teams from seven schools in academic, question and answer matches against each other -- will be held from 5:30 until 9 p.m.

Pelham High School is the defending champion of the competition which this year also includes teams from Montevallo, Vincent, Calera, Shelby County and Thompson.

Each school is allowed to send a maximum of eight team members. Team members scheduled to compete are as follows:

•Vincent -- Tracy Kelley, Rhonda Carter, Mike Otwell, Noelle Bouchet, Wayne Lackey, Mike Whitfield, Troy Datcher and Tommy McDonald.

•Shelby County -- Ann Smith, Duann Vanderslice, Jon Binkerd, Jeff Denny, Cal Davis, Leigh Starnes, Becky Vincent and Amanda Vincent.

The closer it gets, the better we look.

Anytime is a good time to open an Individual Retirement Account. And with tax time just around the corner, you still have plenty of time to consider the tax advantages of a Jefferson Federal IRA. Plenty of time to choose which of two accounts is right for you. Both are easy to open, and if you make the maximum deposit by April 16th, you can take the full deduction on your 1983 income tax return. Even better, if you make your 1984 contribution at the same time, your account can start earning high interest, tax-deferred for the rest of the year.

Check the charts for maximum contributions and the two types of tax-saving IRAs offered by Jefferson Federal. Then start saving for a comfortable retirement the easy way. And remember, the sooner you start, the greater the benefits. Stop by any one of our offices, and we'll help you make a timely decision. Because we want you to keep more of what you make, and make more of what you have. What could be better than that?

Hospital will 'coast' with interim boss

by David F. Moore

Shelby Medical Center will apparently 'coast' for a while with Norman Price as its interim administrator.

At last week's meeting of the SMC board of directors, no action was taken on forming a search committee to screen applicants for the position R. Roland Bradford vacated by his abrupt resignation January 17.

The board did, however, go into two executive sessions, closing the meeting to the press while it discussed the "good name and character" of personnel involved in two different matters.

The board also agreed to wait until next week before committing itself on more than $1 million worth of heart catheterization lab equipment.

Chief of staff Dr. Stacy Childs suggested to the board that more research on the equipment was needed to make sure it met specifications for mobility in the operating room.

Board member C.E. 'Bull' Carter questioned the need to act immediately on a tentatively accepted bid by a German manufacturer. Board member Calvin Carter, who is heading the committee on the equipment, noted that the low bid brand is even considered unsafe.

Price said the hospital was not legally obligated to purchase from the low bidder. Furthermore, he said the German company had since lowered its bid by $20,000 and another company had changed its bid to $1.6 million.

According to Price, the hospital had time for further study and still get it ordered in time to open the new catheterization facility by October.

Childs also reported that doctors had successfully removed a number of simulated kidney stones.

The new equipment and procedure -- when fully operational within the next two months -- will allow patients to have stones removed through minor surgery. Such patients are now having to be transferred to other hospitals, Childs said.

Childs also reported on a problem in the radiology department that involved the separation of authority between medical and administrative personnel. Childs said the medical executive committee asked for a change in the lines of authority there, so that the medical staff would be in immediate control.

On hand for ensuing discussion were doctors Peter Jander and Dan Thompson. Before specifics were discussed board chairman Jerome Turner called for an executive session and requested that two newspaper reporters leave the room, as well as two staff members not directly involved.

The meeting was closed for one hour.

After the closed hearing the board rejected any change in the administrative set up in the radiology department.

Five minutes later, board member Herman Moore brought an undisclosed matter to Turner, who in turn again closed the meeting to the press and all staff members including Price and two other administrators.

Following the ten minute executive session Turner would only say that the matter discussed was "strictly personalities" and concerned a former employee. He said that employee was not Bradford, and that the discussion had nothing to do with the search committee for his replacement.

Earlier, Turner and board member Joe Arledge both said they expected the board to form a search committee for a new administrator at the meeting last Tuesday. After the meeting, however, Turner said the search committee had not been included on the night's agenda.

"It's too early in the game for that (the search committee)," he said.

"Our chairman felt like we ought to coast for a while and see," Carter said, indicating that the board was content for the time being to keep Price as interim administrator.

Patient occupancy drops

The patient census at Shelby Medical Center is down, which means income is, too.

That's the report comptroller Kathy Sayler gave last week to SMC's board of directors. But, she noted, other area hospitals are experiencing similar drops in patient numbers.

Census show 60% occupancy for the final quarter of 1983 -- a drop of 5% over the same period in 1982. She blamed the low average mostly on November's figures, saying the 51% rate in December had been expected.

As of January 24, she said occupancy at the 210-bed hospital was at 72%. That compares to 80% the year before.

She said income from leased office space and the gift shop helped keep operations in the black. According to Sayler, 55% occupancy is needed to break even.

She said bad debts and charity cases were running at 14%.

School trustee election method may change

by Bert Seaman

Bob Gignilliat says he doesn't think trustee elections at Pelham High School were conducted fairly. Linda Scott, one of six people recently nominated for the position, agrees.

Although they would like to see another election held, Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox said he doesn't believe that would be possible. He said that Pelham Principal Ed Belue followed guidelines set by the state in conducting the election.

However, in light of the parents' claim that the meeting date was not adequately advertised, Glasscox said the procedure for handling the next trustee election may be changed.

Rather than letting the principal of each school be responsible for setting a date and notifying parents -- the way it's now done -- the superintendent said his office will probably take over that responsibility.

The two Pelham parents who object to the way they say trustees were chosen, claim Belue selected in advance of the election the six people he wanted nominated. And, they claim, most of the people who were notified about the meeting were supporters of those candidates.

Belue said that a principal would naturally prefer some people over others as trustees, but denied there was anything improper about the way the election was conducted.

Twice at last week's board meeting, Gignilliat tried to express his opinions on the way the trustees were elected at Pelham. However, both times board president Barbara Whitman refused to let him speak.

During the meeting the board announced that Pelham trustee Mike Campbell had resigned. Campbell had been given the position over Jim King last November after the board rejected King. (King had been the leading vote getter among Pelham parents voting.)

But last week the board reversed its decision and unanimously approved King as trustee. No reason was given for the about face.

However, when asked why he resigned, Campbell said, "the patrons at Pelham gave Jim a mandate to be renominated... I wanted to give the board a chance to reconsider."

Bill Matin -- whose children attend a private school -- and Robert Gardner, are the other Pelham trustees.

Replying to the charge that adequate notice of the nomination meeting was not given, Belue said the date was printed in the school newspaper and sent out ten days prior to the election.

He also reported that telephone committees -- which included band and athletic boosters, the PTO and a special interest group -- also notified parents.

Belue said the date was also posted on the marquee at the entrance to the school.

One parent, however, noted that the marquee notice is not very effective since a large number of students drive themselves to school.

Gignilliat said some parents told him they did not get the school newspaper until the day of the trustee election.

Ninety eight people voted in the election, with six being chosen from the 12 nominees.

"The bottom line of this whole thing," Scott said, "is that the people are fairly represented -- that a few don't run the whole show."

"Maybe some good will come out of this," she said, "if the policy on handling elections is changed."

Steel worker falls 104 feet to death

A Mount Olive man fell 104 feet to his death while working Monday at the steam plant in Wilsonville.

According to a sheriff's department spokesman, Earskin McCombs, 47, of 5510 Shady Grove Road died instantly when he fell at 8:25 a.m.

McCombs, a steel worker for Combustion Engineers, was reportedly moving a 4x8-foot steel grate when he slipped and fell. The 200-pound grate landed on top of him.

Combustion Engineers has been contracted by Alabama Power to do furnace work at the Earnest G. Gaston Steam Generating Plant.

Riverchase pageant set

The Riverchase pageant to choose preliminary winners in the Miss Hemisphere contest, will be held Feb. 4 at Valley Elementary School.

There are five age divisions for contestants ages 3-27.

If there is enough interest, there will also be a division for babies.

Registration will be 9:30-10:30, interviews will begin at 11 with the contest set to get underway at 2 p.m.

For further information call Judy Waltham, 988-3748 or Janet Reed, 663-2760.

Free CPR course offered

A free CPR course is being sponsored by the Shelby County Amateur Radio Club Friday, February 3 and 10th at the Civil Defense building in Columbiana.

Interested persons should note that both classes must be attended for completion and the classes will be held from 7 until 9 on both nights.

According to Bill Fleet of the amateur radio club, no registration fees are required.

The course is being taught on behalf of Brookwood Medical Center.

Blood sought

There will be a blood drive in Montevallo on Thursday, February 9 from 10 am until 4 pm. The goal is 100 pints of blood.

The drive will be held at Montevallo's First Methodist Church.

Schools need tax, 'extras'

Letter to the Editor:

Recent letters in your paper have been critical of the upcoming tax referendum. I have the following comments which I would like to make to all Shelby County residents. First of all, the money is needed and the schools should have it. The fact that we may have been taxed before for these same reasons is not the issue here. We now have a new superintendent, who, I think, should be trusted until he gives us good reason not to do so. Maybe he can accomplish what other people have not been able to accomplish.

Some people complain of waste, but are not specific and certainly offer no viable method for eliminating the waste. I am certain that waste exists, but as long as our administrators are human we shall have waste. The reason is simple -- waste is usually the result of a mistake and all humans make mistakes.

The main point of my letter is, however, not the tax referendum, but concern for the school system. Our schools need more than just money. Sure, we all pay taxes, buy cookies and candy and bulbs, etc. But how many of us give any of our time to the schools. How many of us parents belong to a PTA or PTO? And if we belong, do we ever attend a meeting? This kind of support is frequently much more important than the giving of money through the purchases of cookies or candy. Recently the principal of the Montevallo Elementary school asked for volunteers to paint the classrooms which had not been painted in several years. This provided the Montevallo community with an excellent opportunity to save the school some money and much more importantly to demonstrate to the teachers that someone cared. The turn-out was good, but could have been better. Of course, many parents may not have known about the painting project. My message to those parents is that they could have known if they had wanted to know. The painting was sponsored by the PTO (paint was supplied by the county). So, to know about such events in the future, all one has to do is to join the PTO and then tell their child's PTO classroom representative or some member of the PTO executive committee to be sure to call when there is a special project. The calls for help usually go only to those who are most likely to respond. The most important result of this project was not, however, the new paint but the message that the teachers received as a consequence. Our children received the same message. They know that the paint was really for them.

I think that if we continue to do 'extra' things for our schools that our children, their teachers and the schools' administrators will soon realize that we also expect something extra from each of them. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Gene G. Garza

'No, more taxes will not help'

Letter to the Editor:

I have never written an editorial to a paper, but this 3 mill school tax that is coming up has prompted me to do so.

I hope all the citizens of Shelby County that have never registered to vote will do so before Feb. 14 and go to the polls and vote against this tax. I think it is time for people to sit down and think back on all the promises that have been made to us in the past years. Do you remember when we voted the hospital tax? We were told that when it was paid for the taxes would be taken off. Well it must be paid for if they can turn around and give so much to the county commission.

Do you remember when they promised that if we voted to legalize liquor in Shelby County we would have all the money we needed for school?

Don't get me wrong I know it takes a lot of money to run the school. I can remember when we didn't have so many assistants, administrators and directors, they got a better education than the children do today. What we need is less Chief and more Indians. No, more taxes will not help.

If we had more people in office that were more concerned in the welfare of our County and State, less in how much money they can put in there pocket, how quick they can get a raise in pay after they get in office, not only the county but the whole world would be better off. We the middle income people are the ones that carry the tax burden, I think it is time that we speak up for what we believe.

Three mills doesn't sound like a lot of money but that is a 10% increase. A fair tax would be something that everybody contributes to not just property owners.

I know people who have 4 & 5 children in school that do not own any property and they get the same benefits from our school as people who pay property tax.

Yours truly,
Martha P. Griffin

Spending should be planned

Letter to the Editor:

It would seem that if our County Board of Education wanted more money for education, buildings, buses, etc., that they would present a plan for use of such taxes. To date it seems that they expect taypayers to allow just any use of the taxes. Shortly ago an extra one cent tax was voted in and one half was to go to education in our county.

What happened? Did it all go for increases in salaries for our officials?

Also, it now appears that the State of Alabama is preparing to slap us with an education tax soon.

I, for one, am opposed to voting in a tax that will never be withdrawn and one that may be used to pay political debts. Any tax use should be planned for well in advance. Perhaps our new Superintendent of Education does not want us to know how it will be used.

I propose that we defeat this effort at genteel robbery.

Jaycees thanked for good deeds

Letter to the Editor:

Our two year old son can now say "Jaycee pure-ject," because Daddy works on a Jaycee project at every opportunity. It's been hard on the family not having Daddy at home many nights and weekends. But we have finally decided we are grateful for our North Shelby Jaycees.

Many citizens of North Shelby County lead better lives because of the Jaycees. This past year the North Shelby Jaycees provided Christmas toys and clothes for fourteen Shelby County kids, sponsored a Miss North Shelby pageant, offered a community CPR course, organized a political forum, gave audio-visual equipment to the new Alabaster Library, and awarded outstanding young leaders in the area. I am proud of the good deeds of these men.

However, I am eternally grateful for the good examples they set for my son and daughter. The Jaycee's volunteer commitment to better our community is a lesson my children will never outgrow.

During this Jaycee Week, I want to join with Jaycee wives and the community in thanking the Jaycees for their good deeds and their enthusiastic role models. Congratulations to Jaycees everywhere and much continued success.

Landfill employees irk reader

Letter to the Editor:

On 1-19-84 I took my garbage to the land fill that's located between Westover and Harpersville. I could not get to the dump due to the mud. Two employees (county) were doing nothing. I told them we needed better service at the land fill.

They said, "We are running the land fill and if you don't like what we are doing, 'you can kiss our ---' or we will call the law and have you jailed."

I took my garbage to Talladega County. The employees met me with a front end loader and carried the garbage to the dump.

I feel we need to examine our political situation in Shelby County. Something is wrong! Trash comes in many bags. Let's remove it!

Sincerely yours,
James O. Bonner Jr.

Pelham coach applauded

Letter to the Editor:

Congratulations are to be extended to Coach Tony Taylor and his Pelham team for their classic victory in last week's county tournament championship game.

Coach Taylor has proven the past few years that he is indeed a good if not great high school coach. He has taken young men possessed of little natural ability and molded them into exceptional teams. One must imagine how good his teams would be if he coached the young men who play for Thompson, Vincent, and Montevallo.

Congratulaions again to all who support Pelham athletics.

Sincerely,
Bobby L. Harris

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

He walked a game trail, through a willow swamp, and up a sage covered hill where postoak acorns lay, washed, as they were, by heavy fall rains. On the other side of the hill where a tall pine tree grew, he'd sit down and wait.

Sometime, between now and dark, a turkey gobbler would likely come to roost. A big, sly gobbler he had followed for two weeks, finally seeing him fly to roost in this big pine last evening. And today, if he came back tonight, sometime between daylight and sun-up, he'd have a chance to kill him.

He had walked the game trail early, finding a good spot behind a stooping hickory covered with honeysuckle, and here he would settle down and wait. Night came on and darkness covered the place and after a long while daylight came, slipping through the hollow and over the little hill so quietly he didn't hear a sound.

He began to search the pine, looking up one limb and down another, up and down and up and down again. Once he saw a squirrel, so nearly a ball he thought it was a knot, except a shaggy tail hung down that the wind played with. He kept looking up and down, searching each limb. Only his eyes moved, following the shape of each limb.

Townway, a town dog barked. And after a little another. But he didn't notice. It wasn't the sound that mattered now. It was movement that would frighten the turkey.

In the east a little cloud was beginning to turn lavender and after a minute another and another. Until, suddenly, the sun peeped over the horizon.

He took one more long look, covering the entire tree from limb to limb. Maybe the turkey had got scared off, he thought. Maybe an owl came in the dark and pushed him off the roost. Or a possum, maybe, hunting his breakfast.

He gave up and started to leave. He took two steps and stopped. There was a sudden noise in the pine -- like the flutter of a giant fan. And then on the other side of the tree, the turkey flew out and sailed down the hollow.

The Crescent pulled into the Morris Avenue station right on time. It stopped only about five minutes, just time enough to load the passengers and baggage.

Then it eased away, parallelling First Avenue North as it headed toward its next stop in Anniston.

Not many people think about the train as a means of travel any more. But for this trip to Charlottesville, Virginia, Amtrak's Crescent, with an overnight sleeping compartment, had a more convenient schedule and price for me than either a plane or bus.

I was frankly curious about what the details of the trip would be. It had been many years since I had ridden a Frisco coach into Birmingham, and even longer since I had spent the night in a Pullman.

The first surprise came in driving up to the Amtrak station. A man with a baggage cart came right to the car and loaded the bags.

"Do you want them checked through, or do you want them with you?" For the short stay, I had only two bags, which they allowed in the compartment. But I could have checked three more. I learned.

After a quick look at my ticket, he told me at which "location" my car would stop for boarding, and said the porter would put my bags in my roomette.

This was certainly different from the old days of train travel, I thought.

On the platform, passengers waited in preassigned locations so boarding would be fast and uncrowded.

The next surprise came when the train was exactly on time, even though I had heard Amtrak has a good record. We left on schedule at 2:20 p.m.

Bob McIntosh, the porter, came to show me how things work in a roomette - which is what they call the space for a person traveling alone. There's a closet, just the size of a coat - a sink that pulls out from the wall with water taps ready to go - a separate drinking water tap - commode - a switch to adjust heating or cooling - a little bin for shoes - and a comfortable upholstered seat.

The bed, completely made up, pulls down from the wall. Everything compact, everything with a purpose.

By now we were in Irondale - then Leeds, where we picked up speed, but soon slowed down to enter a tunnel in the Talladega National Forest. From the train passenger's eye view all the familiar places take on quite a new appearance. Even Logan Martin Lake from a railroad bridge is a new sight.

Anniston was to be the first stop. I was waiting for the stop to give my nails a coat of polish. But Amtrak stops only long enough to load and moves on. To give you an idea of how long we were in the station, I had only painted one nail when we pulled out.

First call for dinner came at 4:30. The menu featured five or six dinners, ranging in price from $6.50 to $11. Sandwiches were also available and so were cocktails.

The dining car would seat 48 people at a time. Tablecloths and napkins were paper, but of good quality.

My seafood dinner appeared to have been prepared somewhere else, and reheated in the train's microwave.

In Atlanta a club car was added, and several passengers whiled away the hours playing backgammon, cards, or chatting, while they chose from a selection of soft and hard drinks.

Around 11, I pulled down the bed and slept through South and North Carolina.

The porter brought complimentary coffee in the morning, just waking me in time for the 6:39 arrival in Charlottesville.

Yes, I'd do it again. The price was $95 for the ticket, and $59 for the sleeper. Discounts are available on round trips, and various specials are offered, I was told.

A plane ticket for the trip was quoted me at $272. The bus would have been only $75, but would have had a delay in Chattanooga, and a two-hour layover around midnight in Knoxville. Driving takes 12 hours, and at 20 cents a mile would have come to about $120.

Mario Patti, the Chief of on-Board Services is looking forward to upgrading the Crescent to accommodate the crowds they expect to attend the World's Fair in New Orleans.

The route of the Crescent is New York to New Orleans and back. It leaves New York at 2:30 p.m. each day and arrives in New Orleans at 6:20 p.m. the next day. On the return, it leaves New Orleans at 7:30 a.m. and gets to New York at 12:47 the next day.

It leaves Birmingham for New York each day at 2:20 p.m. and for New Orleans at 11:20 a.m. It stops only three times in Alabama - at Tuscaloosa, Birmingham, and Anniston, and is the only train that carries passengers in the entire state.

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

The legislative investigation being made of the Department of Aeronautics grows more incredible---and shameful---by the day.

It all started months ago when the director of the department, James Rowe, said publicly that the appointment of Wheeler Forshee as assistant director of the department---at $43,000 a year---was a waste of taxpayers' money. Rowe said the department didn't need an assistant director, and in addition, that Foshee was totally unqualified for the position.

Rowe found out swiftly that "whistle-blowing" can be hazardous to your health, especially if the appointee has friends in high places and a brother in the State Senate. Foshee has all of that.

A legislative committee was then created to presumably look into the charges made by Rowe. To say the committee was stacked with Foshee friends is a slight understatement.

These six legislators on the committee---headed by Sen. Charles Bishop of Jasper---made it clear at the outset that they were out to protect Foshee and to get rid of Rowe for daring to open his mouth. Two days of hearings were enough to convince Rowe that he was doomed. Rather than put up with the committee's assault, led by Sen. Bishop, who is not a candidate for any awards for courtesy, Rowe retired.

Under most circumstances, that would have ended the controversy. But the committee members want some more blood. Now they have hired a private eye... at taxpayers expense...to continue the probe. They are determined to dig up something to besmirch Rowe.

Meanwhile, Wheeler Foshee, who was supposed to be the subject of the investigation, continues to draw his $43,000-a-year salary.

Perhaps the most regrettable effect of this sham of an investigation is that it will surely discourage any other state employees or officials from calling public attention to wasteful practices.

* * * *

Odds and Ends---Sen. Jeremiah Denton spent most of last week in Alabama, admittedly on a "fence-mending" mission. While he does not face a reelection bid until 1986, he has concluded it's time to start laying the groundwork for that campaign. A whole lot of Democrats are already gearing up to unseat the Republican incumbent. Denton is aware of this...

The $25-a-plate dinners held in Montgomery and Birmingham last week were jointly sponsored by Gov. Wallace and the State Democratic Executive Committee, with the proceeds to be used by Gov. Wallace to pay off a debt he owed to the State Democratic Executive Committee. The SDEC had loaned him $50,000 for the 1982 governor's race. Both the governor and the SDEC were pleased at the results.

Help sought to complete courthouse

In the past thirteen months the old Shelby County Courthouse has taken on a brighter look.

The 'Old Lady' -- as Shelby County Historical Society member Mildred Harrison would call the museum to be -- will be restored on the outside and much of the inside before the year is out.

But the final extent of restoration depends on the financial help individuals, groups and local governments give, according to society president Ken Penhale.

Donations such as the $2,500 given by the City of Columbiana are going into reflooring, forced air heat, rewiring, new plaster, and outside paint.

"We feel like the city's behind us and that means a lot," Penhale said. "We hope other cities will chip in and help us out."

One thing the museum needs now is new -- make that 'old' -- flooring.

"The Old Lady needs wide, pine barn siding to finish off the floors," Harrison said. "Anybody that has an old barn that needs tearing down, the society will do it for the wood."

The courthouse -- which has also served as a city hall, boarding house, hotel, and county offices -- is one of the few antebellum public buildings standing in the state. A classic example of Jeffersonian architecture, it is listed on the National Register of Historic Sites.

No floors

No floors. That's what Columbiana Mayor Buck Falkner and historical society treasurer Nell Fulton found when they dropped by the 1854 Shelby County Courthouse one rainy evening last week. They also found Ken Penhale of Helena getting ready to do some more voluntary restoration work. (photo by David F. Moore)

No reflection...but

Shelby County YMCA Board Members Tom Loyd and Dr. Norma Rogers compare plaques they received for their contributions to the organization. The presentations were made at last week's banquet to kick off the Y's fund raising drive.

Chace Lake banquet kicks off Y fund raiser

"Ladies and gents, start your engines," called out Sherman Holland, as he concluded his talk to YMCA fund raisers last week.

Holland, who is overall chairman of the fund raising campaign, advised workers to get started with their calls as soon as possible.

The Thursday night banquet at Chace Lake Country Club was held to kick off this year's campaign to raise $17,000 for the local Y.

Holland reported that Y members involved with the major gifts division of the drive, have already raised $8,360 of their $12,000 goal.

Besides getting the fund raising drive underway, the Y also recognized two members for their service.

Dr. Norma Rogers received the Triangle award as volunteer of the year, and retiring board chairman Tom Loyd received a plaque for his contributions to the Y.

Civic club aids organizations

The Shelby County Humane Society and the Attention Home will get something better than valentines Feb. 14.

Both non-profit organizations will receive checks from the Ladies Auxiliary of the Indian Springs Civic Club.

The auxiliary will be donating the proceeds of their 1983 fund raising at this year's kick off meeting at Meadowlark Farm. The meeting begins at 10:30 a.m.

Those interested in attending the affair may make reservations for lunch by contacting Martha Knight, 988-0334.

Almont fire dues become issue

by David F. Moore

The subject of fire dues is becoming a hot potato in Almont.

Two years ago Montevallo stopped answering fire and rescue calls outside its city limits -- which cut off neighboring Almont from its customary protection.

Therefore the community voted to form the Community West Fire District and charge residents dues. The dues -- which amount to just over $50 per year -- are used to contract with Montevallo, for fire and rescue service.

The problem: according to district trustee Rev. Albert Jones, people aren't paying their dues. According to city officials, that means the contract for services is breached and may become void.

"We're in a pinch," Jones says. "They (city officials) said they're going to cut it off if we don't do something pretty quick."

The fire district is holding a special, public meeting at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Pilgrim's Rest Baptist Church, Monday, February 6, to discuss the situation. Jones is urging all Almont residents to attend.

City officials will be on hand, as well as a fire district lawyer. The lawyer will be explaining the district's legal rights to place a lien on area homes that haven't paid dues.

Ultimately, if dues aren't paid, the fire district can foreclose on residents' houses, then sell them to cover the dues.

"We don't want to have to do that," Jones stresses. "We're trying to be lenient with people.

He says some of the 50 or so families that haven't paid anything in two years probably don't because they didn't vote for the district to begin with. Legally, that doesn't matter, they have to pay.

With many families, Jones thinks the problem is simply a lack of communication. They don't know they can apply for hardship deferments.

Jones also notes that his premiums dropped $120 when he notified his agent that his home was in a 'Class 6' fire district. Some people aren't aware of the certificates (they'll be available Monday) to send to their agents, and still pay 'Class 10' rates.

Montevallo Mayor Ralph Sears said that the city has again waived several of the monthly $350 backpayments the district owes.

"But we can't keep waiving the payments forever," he said.

Since October, Montevallo has made two fire calls and 11 rescue calls to Almont.

Other district trustees are: Henry Tolbert, Amos Nicks, Fred Alexander, Will Brantley, Roger Smitherman, and Foster Dove.

Chelsea store robber still eludes arrest

"Don't turn around. Give me the money."

These were the first words 21 year-old Chris Thomas of Chelsea heard when he got to work on Monday morning. According to Thomas, he was about to open the door of the K-Springs Korner Grocery when someone walked up behind him, put a hand on his shoulder, and gave the order.

He didn't turn around. He handed over the money, he said.

Thomas speculated that the robber had apparently been hiding behind the store run by his family at the corner of County 39 and 36 in Chelsea.

After the man took his money, said Thomas, he heard a car pull up behind them and the man get in. The car pulled away and he looked around to see it heading east on 39.

He could not offer many details because it was about 6:25 and still too dark, he said.

Thomas called the sheriff's department. As of press time Monday, the robber had not been apprehended.

Thomas did not disclose the amount of money involved.

Pelham bumps Thompson for county cage title

by Fred Guarino

History repeated itself in Pelham last Friday night. The Pelham Panthers beat Thompson 57-53 for the county basketball title, in a wild, over-time finals match on their home court.

With the win, the Panthers continued the annual saga of alternating county championships with Thompson which has spanned four years.

Only 20 seconds showed on the regulation game clock as Pelham led the defending county champion Thompson Warriors 48-46.

The situation was critical...

A Panther foul had just sent Warrior Jerome Taylor to the free-throw line and the home crowd knew the importance of the moment.

A long, drawn out chant of "Pressure! Pressure!..." descended upon Warrior ears.

Thompson coach Thomas Johnson called time out to talk with his squad. Taylor followed the pause by cooly hitting both ends of a one-and-one. That tied the match at 48-all and threw three over-time minutes on the clock.

The mix of Warrior/Panther fans -- filling two levels of seats in Pelham's gym and spilling over into a standing room only situation -- went beserk.

It was almost as if someone had written a story book script for the battle between the two Shelby County basketball giants.

The Warriors entered the championship final with a record of 16-5 while the Panthers brought a record of 15-6.

In 1983, history told a different story. Thompson beat Pelham 65-53. Pelham, however, defeated Thompson in over-time in 1982. But in 1981, Thompson beat Pelham in tripple over-time...

This year Pelham was determined to take its turn again at the top, and now only three minutes of over-time stood in its way.

Thompson made a threatening move to make it two titles in a row by controlling the opening tip. But the curse of alternating winners would not be denied as foul trouble struck the Warriors like a bolt.

Panther Eddie Reeves made four straight free-throws down the stretch.

Pelham's Bryan Hughes added two more free-throw points before Reeves added another and a final Pelham bucket put the game on ice 57-53.

"Free throws made everything," an estastic Hughes later said as his teammate John North carried out the tradition of cutting the net.

Did he really think his team could win?

"Yeah... all the way," Hughes grinned. "We beat them once before this year. There was no doubt."

A dejected coach Johnson spoke horsely of the Warrior loss.

"We played hard but we just didn't win," was all he could manage.

Apart from giving Pelham the county title, the win also handed the Panthers a 16-6 record -- identical with Thompson's.

That means that both schools will now be at each other's throats for the 3A Area 9 title to be decided February 20-24 in Childersburg.

But Shelby County, Chilton County, Bibb County, Childersburg and Sylacauga will all have something to say about that.

For the record, Tony Hale led the Warriors in last Friday's losing effort with 16 points, while North paced the Panthers with 22 points of his own.

However, Thompson can take some solice from the county tournament. The Warrior B-Team managed to knock off Montevallo 49-37, to win that class of the county tournament.

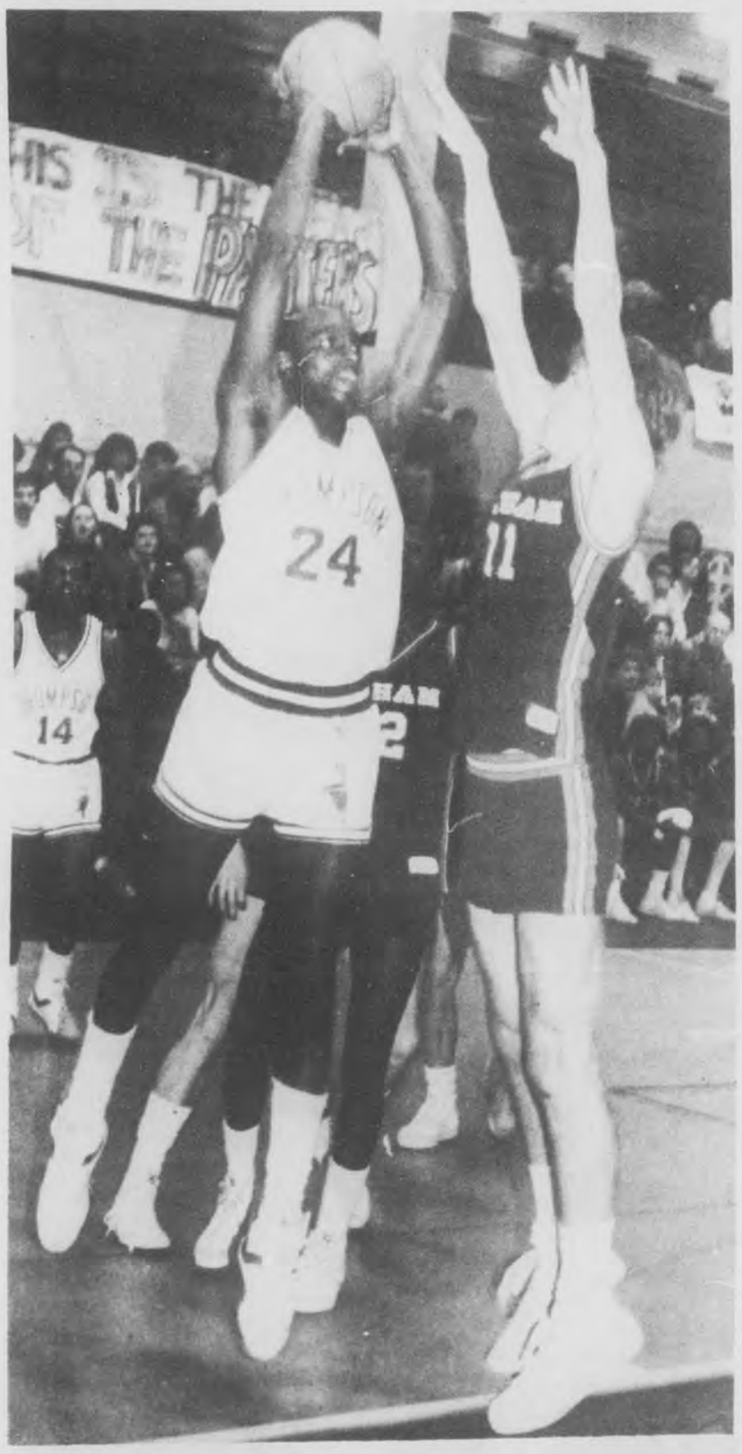
The B-Team Warriors were led by Elliott Bivins with 16 points. Slade Blackwell paced the Bulldogs with 12.

Celebration

Pelham Cheerleaders join Coach Tony Taylor (far right) and the Pelham Panther basketball team in a celebration of the county basketball title P.H.S. won by defeating Thompson last Friday night. Team members include Eddie Reeves, Brian Hughes, Kyle Hutchison, John North, Alfonzo Hudson, Lee Snyder, Hal Youngblood, Dough Patton and Tyron Wade. Cheerleaders are: Missy King, Rhonda Sheley, Renee' Busby, Laura Phillips, Cris Zinser, Laura Suling, Kristi Hicks, Lisa Floyd, Leah McCoy and April Fowler. (Photos by Fred Guarino)

'Jackets, 'Dogs go down hard

Two determined 2A basketball teams came close to pulling major upsets of 3A opponents in semi-final action of the Shelby County Basketball Tournanment last Thursday night.



MVP

Chris Thomas (24), Thompson High School's oustanding junior when it comes to roundball, puts up a shot over Pelham's Kyle Hutchinson in final county tournament action. For efforts such as this, Thomas is the proud winner of Most Valuable Player honors.

But the 15-5, 3A Thompson Warriors rallied to beat 14-4 Vincent 65-58, and the 14-6, 3A Pelham Panthers managed to hold off 7-6 Montevallo by a score of 66-58.

Coach Richard Crumpton's Yellow Jackets played fast and furious against the favored Warriors almost to near the end of the match. But foul trouble proved Vincent's undoing.

Although the Warriors whipped Vincent by 13 points earlier in the season, the Yellow Jackets held a upper hand at 12-10 in the first period, and at 29-26 at the half.

However, momentum changed in the third period when Warrior Tony Hale sank a long range bucket to tie things at 43-all.

Bennie Joe Keller tried to keep the Yellow Jacket attack alive but Thompson slowly took control.

Vincent foul trouble cost the services of star players Bruce Hamilton and Eddie Reynolds.

Making free-throw after free-throw from, the Warriors coasted to a ten point win.

Thompson's coach Thomas Johnson said the turning point of the contest came when Vincent led 43-40.

"I called time out. I knew if we didn't score on the next trip down we would lose the game. We made the three-point play and tied it up. From there is was just who made the free throws."

"They did a super job... exactly what they had to do" Johnson said of Vincent. "Hamilton did a super job inside and they stuck to their game plan right up until the end."

Crumpton, however, wasn't in a priase exchanging mood.

"They wouldn't let Bruce Hamilton play," he said of game officials. "We deserved to win."

Crumpton felt Thompson's Chris Thomas was allowed to play a more agressive game than his player.

Reynolds proved to be Vincent's high man with 19 points. Thompson's outstanding junior, Thomas, hit for a hot 32 points.

Looking on from the stands was University of Alabama recruiting coach Art Tolis...

Rebels win invitational

It came down to a battle between arch rivals Shelby Academy and Coosa Valley Rebels for the championship of the annual Coosa Valley Academy Basketball Tournament last Saturday night.

The Rebels responded to the challenge of facing their arch foe by downing the Raiders 45-39.

In first round action Shelby Academy knocked off Berney Points, Bessemer Faith defeated Minor and Coosa Valley downed Cahawba. Lee Scott won a bye into second round action.

In second round competition, Shelby Academy defeated Bessemer Faith while the Rebels of CVA defeated Lee Scott to set up the championship game.

The win by CVA was paced by Van Huffaker with 13, John Beavers with 14, and Larry Hill with 13, while Dennis Attaway and Vince Pickett led the Raiders with 12 points each.

The tournament left Shelby Academy with a record of 14-5 and it left the Rebels with a 14-3 mark.

Thomas named tournament MVP

County basketball tournaments always produce a terrific display of individual athletic prowess. This year's tournament was no execption.

While Pelham High School managed to walk away with the varsity county crown, the play of runner-up Thompson's Chris Thomas did not go unrewarded.

Thomas was named as the trournament's Most Valuable Player.

Other all-tournament players were as follows:

Montevallo, Taylor Blackwell; Thompson, Tony Hale; Vincent, Tony Hamilton and Benny Joe Keller; Pelham Bryan Hughes and Kyle Hutchinson; Chelsea, Steve Shelton; Calera Willie Taylor; Shelby County, Billy Joe Walker; and Briarwood, Bobby Welch.

Elliott Bivins of Thompson was named the B-Team Most Valuable Player as he led the Warriors to a county title over Montevallo.

Other B-Team all tournament players were:

Montevallo, Slade Blackwell and Danny Holmes; Briarwood, Casey Campbell; Thompson, Leon Doakes and Anthony O'Neal; Calera, Derrick Herndon; Vincent, Vernon Kidd and Olenn Robertson; Pelham, Sam Nelms; and Shelby County, Ashley Phillips.

Prize roadster

The American Soccer Club is giving away this replica of a 1932 Ford Roaster valued at $35,000 and built by Jimmy Williamson of north Shelby County. With the car are soccer players Ron Williamson at right and Jason Tropeano at left.

Soccer fields needed

Soccer anyone?

The American Soccer Club is holding registration this Saturday, February 11 for boys and girls ages 5-18. Registration will be from 11-3 both days, and birth certificate and small picture of the signee is needed.

Last season some 300 youth played on 14 different American teams. Club officials expect at least that many to play again in this the teams' 7th year and 15th season with the Mid-State Soccer Association.

One new twist to the upcoming season -- which has apparently been worked out -- is that the Americans have lost their home field. Our Lady of the Valley Catholic Church is building an elementary school on land it owns on State 119 -- land the church previously allowed the Americans to use as a home field.

According to Vince Tropeano, chairman for fundraisers, the club has made tentative arrangements to play this year at Riverchase Middle School and First Christian Church at Inverness. Negotiations are underway to also play at Cloud Field off 119.

"What we're really looking at," said Tropeano, "is putting together a major soccer facility over the next several years."

That, of course, will require money. And to help them raise the needed funds, club workers are giving away a 1932 roadster replica valued at $35,000. The car is being shown weekends at area shopping centers -- when it's not being shown at car and boat shows in Birmingham.

Besides a new place to play, the Americans are also looking to produce more winners, such as the under-10 team that won the state tournament last fall.

For more information, call Americans president Tom Pickron: 988-0002.

Falcon men/women go 2-1

The UM Falcons upped their basketball record to 14-7 by posting a 2-1 mark last week.

The Falcons recorded wins over Talladega College 94-49 and Alabama Christian 85-83 while losing to Auburn-Montgomery 67-62 in overtime.

Against the Talladega Tornadoes, UM jumped out to a commanding 57-21 half-time lead by shooting 53% from the field. All-American candidate Anthony Glaude led Montevallo with 25 points. The 6'3" senior guard was 11 of 15 from the floor and grabbed a game high 12 rebounds for the game.

Other Falcons in double figures were Steve Swain 12 points, Richard Dorsey, Clarence Rowe and Wayne Tanner with 10 each.

Next up for the Falcons was a trip to Montgomery and a date with Auburn-Montgomery. Montevallo beat the Senators 66-59 earlier in the year, but AUM won this game 67-62 in an overtime thriller.

Montevallo jumped out to a 15-6 lead on a basket by Glaude at the 14:05 mark of the first half. AUM took the lead at 25-24 at 3:41 on a basket by All-Conference guard Jesse Phillips. AUM led at the half 29-25.

The Falcons battled back in the second half and led 59-57 on a basket by Glaude with 6:01 left to play. The game was tied 53-53 at the end of regulation.

The overtime period was all AUM as the Senators scored the first eight points and outscored the Falcons 14-9 in the five minute period.

Montevallo was led by Glaude as he netted 21 points and Kennedy King added 15.

Montevallo ended the week with a 85-83 win at Alabama Christian to improve their Southern States Conference record to 2-3. Glaude had a game high 25 points followed by Dorsey and Dexter Walker with 19 each.

Montevallo will have two big conference games this week when they host Alabama Christian Thursday (Feb. 2), and Auburn-Montgomery Saturday (Feb. 4). Both games tip off at 7:30 p.m.

At half-time of the AUM game, a UM Old Timers game will be played and the night has been designated as All-Faith night. For more information: 665-2521, ext. 410.

The UM Lady Golden Falcons are 9-9 on the season after going 2-1 last week.

The Golden Falcons played all three games on the road beating Talladega College 87-65, Miles College 88-45 and losing to Troy State 68-52. Montevallo is still atop the District 27 standings with a 4-0 record.

"It was a pretty good week for us," said Montevallo coach Bud Childers. "We needed to get back to the .50 mark (9-9) for our confidence. When I look at the schedule we have played I guess a 9-9 record isn't that bad when you consider the program was 7-38 over the past two years."

The week opened up with the Golden Falcons beating Talladega by 22 ponts. Montevallo was paced by Lynette French 24 points, Lessie Gaddis (Montevallo HS) 16, Pam Johnson 14, and Sharen Douglas 10.

The Golden Falcons then traveled to Troy State to lose 68-52.

"The reason we lost was simple," said Childers. "Troy State wanted the game more than we did. They outhustled us and executed better than us. It's one of those games a team has that is best to forget."

But the week ended for Montevallo on a high note with a 43 point win over Miles College. The Golden Falcons jumped out to a 17-0 lead on a Robyn Bentley basket at the 12:54 mark of the first half. The biggest lead of the night came at 61-17 with 13:04 left on a three-point play by guard Judy Perkins.

The Golden Falcons host powerful Mississippi University for Women (MUW) next Saturday (Feb. 4) at 5:30 p.m. MUW comes into the game ranked 13th in the NCAA Division II.

Semi-finals prove tough

The Montevallo Bulldogs played a mixed game of freeze-ball and fast-break against the Pelham Panthers in their semi-final match.

But as strange as that might seem, it was good enough to keep the 'Dogs in contention with their favored foes.

Proof of the Bulldog success was the fact that Montevallo was able to keep Pelham looking back without the services of head coach Kurt Pnazek -- who was morning the sudden death of his mother in Chicago. B-team Coach Bobby Pierson filled the gap.

Montevallo fought the Panthers to a 10-10 first period knot and was down just 26-21 at the half.

However, Pelham showed its stregnth in the third period taking a 41-46 lead and by pulling away for a 66-58 win.

Still the Bulldogs played well with Terry Rutledge, Taylor Blackwell and Tommy Bivins all scoring in double figures. They scored 19, 16 and 13 points respectively.

Leading the Panthers were Kyle Hutchison with 21 points, John North with 19 points, and Eddie Reeves with 13 points.

* * * *

Thursday's semi-final tourney action was set up by a 97-49 win by Thompson over Chelsea, and an 87-44 win by Vincent over Shelby County. Those games were played Monday, January 23.

That was followed by second night action which saw Pelham down Calera 76-52, and Montevallo oust Briarwood, 63-42.

The tournament left Chelsea with a 4-15 record, Shelby County 9-8, Calera 6-7, Montevallo and Briarwood with records of 7-7 each.

THS band raises funds

Taking inventory at Pizitz' downtown store proved a successful fund raising venture recently for Thompson High School band boosters.

Shirley Mulrooney pointed out that the Thompson Band will attend the Dogwood Band Festival in Knoxville during the month of April and the latest fund raiser helped them pave the way.

She expressed her thanks to 31 people who helped in the cause, as well as 15 Thompson High School band members.

This winter, get your diesel off to a good start.

Gulf

Gulf Auto Diesel fuel is specially formulated to meet the cold weather starting needs of diesel engines. A cold flow improver makes the fuel flow to your engine as easily in January as it does in June. And, because Gulf adds the cold flow improver before you pump fuel into your car, you don't need to add anything later on.

So, if you want to beat the cold weather starting grind, look for our red and yellow 'D'. And get off to a good start this winter with Gulf Auto Diesel.

The Pelham Homemaker's Extension Club met at the home of Cecelia Etheridge during the month of January, with 16 members present. Carol Jenkins presided.

During the business session reports were given from the quarterly county council meeting. Continual international projects for the club will be the collection of sewing materials to be sent to the country of Sri Lanka. The club also collects used postage stamps, and the proceeds from that are used to alleviate hunger overseas.

The group is also working on a highway beautification project, according to member Carrie Sue Hinds. Robert Patterson, a Jefferson State college horticulture student, will oversee soil preparation and planting for the project.

During the month of January the phone lines were quite busy between Montevallo, Calera, Bessemer and Birmingham, as plans were being made for a surprise dinner to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Thomas M. and Marie Fancher. Mrs. Angeline Fancher, daughter-in-law of the couple, headed up the 'planning committee' which was comprised of Fanchers and Samsal families.

The surprise took place in the church dining room, after the morning services at Montevallo United Methodist Church, where the family had decorated for the occasion.

Family members and friends attending were children, Tim and Angeline Fancher and sons, Myron and Paul; Winston, Margaret and Paula Fancher; Paul Gray and Robin Ozley, Murray, Rachel and Whit Fancher; Elizabeth Kendrick, John and Hazel Samsal, Helen and Clyde Burgin, Annette Albright, Geraldine Nelson, Edna Davis, Mary Ward, and Rev. and Mrs. David Atkins, pastor of the church.

The Fanchers were married on January 20, 1934 in Piper. They owned and operated a business in Montevallo for 37 years, and retired in May of 1983.

Christian lawmen celebrate group's third anniversary

Three years ago a common bond drew 21 Shelby County law officers together. The bond was Christianity, and through that bond the group has grown to include 71 law related personnel from nearly every part of the county.

Last Thursday the Shelby County Christian Law Enforcement Organization celebrated its third anniversary at its regular dinner meeting in Alabaster.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Thompson High School coach Barry Jones who gave a special testimony.

"We're trying to change the image many people have of police," said member Doug Jackson, a patrolman on the Montevallo force. "We want people to know we're not just head-knockers."

"Our goal is also to share Christ with other officers and the people in the community we come in contact with," further explained Alabaster Sgt. Stanley Oliver, president of the group. "If anyone needs Christ in their lives, it's a policeman."

One of the group's goals is to establish at least one chaplain in each local police department. So far, it has four: Oliver and Jones, and Sgts. Tom Smitherman and Wayne Watts of the sheriff's department.

Oliver said the group has also helped improve the general working atmosphere in a number of departments by opening doors to better communications.

The group is planning several projects in the future, but all the details have not yet been worked out, Oliver said.

Smitherman is also the group's vice president. Alabaster court clerk Sandy Benson is secretary.

The group was started with assistance from similar groups of law personnel in the Birmingham area.

The Shelby County Christian Law Enforcement Organization meets at 7 p.m., the fourth Thursday of the month at Quincy's Restaurant in Alabaster. The public and all law-related professionals are invited to attend, Oliver said.

February events fill civic center calendar

The month of February should hold a great deal of interest for Shelby Countians at the Birmingham- Jefferson Civic Center.

This Saturday, February 4, the Birmingham Children's Theatre will have matinee performances of the 'The Emperor's New Clothes.'

A boat show will be held for anglers and boating entusiasts through Febuary 5 and the World of Wheels Car Show will be held February 10-12.

Car fanciers might remember that a 1932 Ford Roadster Replica recently took top honors in this event for Shelby Countian Jimmy Williamson.

The World Wide Travel Log will be held February 13 and The Barnum & Bailey Circus will be in town from February 14-19.

But that's not all: the Alabama Gun Collector's will invade the civic center for a February 25-26th stint.

Workers retire

Certificates and jackets were given to James Warren (r), and Billy McNeal, who retired last week from the Shelby County Highway Department. Warren has been with the department 31 years -- McNeal 13 years.

UM prof tells about World War II battles

After listening to UM Professor Eugene B. Sledge tell what combat was really like for Marines in World War II, members of the Montevallo Study Club discussed the decade of the 1940's at their January meeting.

Since the club has reached the half century mark, program themes this year are focusing on what has happened during those five decades. The 1930's was the topic of last month's meeting.

Sledge was featured on the program for the decade remembered mainly for World War II.

'With the Old Breed,' is the title of Sledge's book, which was originally intended to be a personal manuscript for his family.

The most satisfying part of writing the book, Sledge said, was hearing that fellow Marines were grateful to have their story told along with his own.

Mrs. Nolan Hardin introduced Sledge to the group. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James A. Kelly.

Shelby County area church news

The Christian Women's Club will host a brunch on Tuesday, Feb. 14 at the Riverchase Country Club from 9:15-11:15.

The theme for the event will be 'Love makes the world go round', and will feature three speakers to talk on the subjects of 'lovable huggables', 'lovable humables', and 'lovable sharables'.

Reservations and cancellations for both the brunch and nursery help must be made by Feb. 10. For more information call Karen at 663-5125, or Janet 663-0399.

The Unknown heirs or devisees of Walter Hawthorne, dec., et als,
Defendants

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama
Case No. CV-84-001 (E)
Notice

TO: The unknown heirs or devisees of Walter Hawthorne, deceased; Allen Lumber Co., and the unknown owners and shareholders thereof and their heirs or devisees if deceased; Darling Daniel, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Beatrice Noland, deceased; Alex Bickerstaff, and his heirs or devisees if deceased; The unknown heirs or devisees of Lillie Hawthorne Peterson Bickerstaff, deceased, Catherine Abbott, Elizabeth Branch, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Lillian Lewis, and her heirs or devisees if deceased; Dorothy Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Willie Lee Noland, and her heirs or devisees, if deceased; Howard Lee Noland, Jr., and his heirs or devisees, if deceased, and the following described real property located in Shelby County, Alabama: The NE¼ of NW¼ of Section 32, Township 18 South, Range 2 East, and any and all persons or corporations claiming, or reputed to claim, any title to, interest in, lien or encumbrance on said lands, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and all other persons, defendants.

You are hereby notified that the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr., Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, have on this 4th day of January, 1984, filed their verified Complaint in the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, against you, and against the above designated real property, pursuant to the provisions of 1975 Code of Alabama, Title 6, Sections 6-560 through 60-573, for the purpose of establishing the fee simple title to the above designated real property in the plaintiffs, Humphrey L. Peterson, Jr., Layton C. Peterson, Donald E. Peterson, Diane E. Peterson and Beulah Peterson Lawson, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning said real property, and said designated suit is now pending in said Court.

The plaintiffs allege in said Complaint that they are the owners of the real property described more particulary above, in fee simple, subject only to current year ad valorem taxes, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property as the sole surviving heirs and next of kin of Joe Peterson, deceased, said property having been formerly owned by Joe Peterson under warranty deed from Lillie Peterson dated January 24, 1933, and recorded February 6, 1933, in Deed Book 95 at page 178, Office of Judge of Shelby County, Alabama, said Joe Peterson having died intestate while a resident of Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit, in the year 1939, the plaintiffs holding and claiming their title in and to said property under said deed.

Plaintiffs further allege that they are in the actual, peaceable possession of said lands; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation is in the actual possession of said lands and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have held color of title to the said lands for a period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint, and that plaintiffs, together with those through whom they claim, have paid taxes on said lands during the whole of such period of time; plaintiffs further allege that no other person or corporation has paid taxes on said lands during any part of said period of ten or more consecutive years next preceding the filing of this Complaint.

Plaintiffs further aver that no action is pending to test their title to, interest in, or the right to their possession of such lands.

Plaintiffs further allege that after diligent search and inquiry they have been unable to learn the names, whereabouts, or addresses of any defendant to this suit, except as designated above herein, and that in the belief of the plaintiffs, all of said defendants are over 19 years of age and that none of said defendants are known or suspected to be of unsound mind.

You are further notified that you, and each of you, are required to plead, answer or demur to said Complaint on or before March 3, 1984, or suffer decree pro confesso or other default judgment in accordance with law, to be rendered against you.

LEGAL NOTICE

State of Alabama
County of Shelby

Notice is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made, to-wit:

A Bill to be Entitled An Act

Relating to the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation; and create a Pelham Municipal Racing Commission for the regulation, licensing, qualification for licensing, and supervision of Greyhound racing, and wagering thereon; to prescribe the composition, qualification, appointment, terms of office; powers and duties of the commission, to prescribe certain qualificaltons for applicants for licenses; to provide for and regulate the pari-mutuels or certificate method or wagering within the enclosure of licensed race tracks; to provide for the distribution of license fees, taxes, commissions and other moneys received under the provisions of the act; and to provide certain penalties for the violation of this act and for other purposes relative thereto, and to provide for a referendum of the voters of the City of Pelham on the question of whether the act will become effective in said municipality; to authorize the employment by said Racing Commission of special legal counsel in addition to representation by the Office of the City Attorney of said city; to prohibit members of said Racing Commission from making political contributions; to provide for the severability of the parts, sections and provisions of said Act.

Be it Enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. A municipal Racing Commission is hereby created and established for and in the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation, and said Racing Commission is vested with the powers and duties specified in this Act, and all other powers necessary and proper to enable it to execute fully and effectually the purposes of the Act. The official name of said Commission shall be The Pelham Municipal Racing Commission, the same being sometimes referred to herein as the Racing Commission or the Commission. Said Commission shall consist of three (3) members to be appointed as hereinafter provided. The member of the Alabama Legislature representing House District 40 shall appoint one (1) member of said Commission to serve for a period of one (1) year from said effective date;

the Mayor of Pelham, Alabama shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of two (2) years from said effective date; and the City Council of Pelham, Alabama by majority vote of the members present shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of three (3) years from said effective date. As the terms of each Commission member shall expire, such member's successor shall be appointed for a period of three (3) years by the appointing authority who made the original appointment. If a vacancy shall occur for any reason, then that vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as original appointments are made. In the event that any vacancy shall exist on the Commission for a period in excess of thirty (30) days, then the Governor of the State Of Alabama shall fill such vacancy in lieu of appointement by the appointing authority as herein designated. Initial appointment of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission shall be made within fifteen (15) days after this act is approved by the voters of the City of Pelham, Alabama as is herein provided.

Section 2. All books, records, maps, documents and papers held by the Commission shall constitute public records, and be available for copying, examination and inspection during all normal business hours by any agency, official or person.

Section 3. The members of the Commission shall be qualified electors not less than twenty-one (21) years of age, who shall be resided in the City of Pelham for a the period of three (3) years next preceding their appointment. Each Commissioner shall take the same construtional oath of office as other municipal officers, and shall give bond payable to the City of Pelham in the amount of $25,000, conditioned that such member will faithfully and properly perform the duties of his office. The premiums on such bonds shall be paid by the Commission from the funds out of which the members of the Commission are compensated. The Commission may employ such assistants and employees as may be necessary. The Com,mission may also employ accounting, investigative, publicity and public relations and architectural firms for assistance in implementing and enforcing its duties under this Act.

The Commission shall select one of its members to act as Chairman thereof. The Chairman so selected shall hold office for a period of one (1) year or until his successor shall be selected. The Commision shall meet on the call of its Chairman, but no less than once each three (3) months for the conduct of its business.

A member of the Racing Commission must not be, nor shall he be, a member of any board of directors or an officer, partner or associate in any organization financially interested in any race track, or race meeting licensed by the Commission, or any licensee hereunder; nor shall he race any dog or be financially interested in any dog in any race meeting licensed by the Commision.

Section 4. The compensation of each member of the Commission shall be One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) per month. One (1) member of said Commission shall be required to be in attendance at each racing event and said designated mamber shall receive an additional Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem while engaged in the performance of his duties. Each Racing Commissioner engaged in the performance of his duties when traveling within the State of Alabama but outside Shelby County shall receive Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem and when traveling outside the State of Alabama, One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) per diem plus transportation expenses.

Section 5. The Finance Director or other chief fiscal officer of the City of Pelham shall be Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission, and shall collect all the license fees, taxes and moneys provided in this Act, and shall supervise, check and audit the operation of the pari-mutuels wagering pools and the conduct and distribution thereof.

Section 6. The Racing Commission shall have the authority to employ legal counsel of its selection to advise the commission and represent it in all proceedings. The compensation of such counsel shall be paid out of the general fund of the City of Pelham.

Section 7. It shall be the duty of the Racing Commission to carry out the provisions of this Act; and it shall have the following specific duties:

(1) To fix and set dates upon which racing meetings may be held or operated.

(2) To make an annual report to the governing body of the City of Pelham of its operation, showing its own actions and rulings, and receipts derived under the provisions of this Act, and such suggestions as it may deem proper for the more effective accomplishment of the purpose of this Act.

(3) To require each applicant to:

(a) If an individual, group of individuals or partnership, each individual or partner shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(b) If a corporation, each incorporator, stockholder, director, and officer shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(c) Set forth on such application for a license the following information:

(i) The full name of each individual or partner, their business and home address, their present business, occupation, or profession, and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such individuals for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such application.

(ii) The name and address of each of the incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers of any corporation making such application and the present business, occupation, or profession of each of such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such appplication.

(iii) The exact location where it is desired to conduct or hold a racing meet and a complete set of architectural renderings and construction plans showing the site, topography, the type of construction, the track design, and the concession plans, together with sufficient proof of capitalization to construct and operate said facility. If such proof of capitalization contemplates that a loan or other indebtedness will be incurred by such applicant, then the name and address of each person, firm or corporation making such loan or underwriting such indebtedness shall be given together with the written commitment of such person, firm or corporation to make such loan or underwrite such indebtedness.

(iv) Whether such racing plant is to be owned by applicant or leased, and if leased, the owner thereof shall meet the same residence requirments as an applicant and the same information shall be furnished for such owner as is required to be furnished for an applicant.

(v) If the applicant is to enter into a management contract with any person or legal entity, then such person or other legal entity shall meet the same residence requirement and the same information shall be furnished concerning such person or legal entity as is required of an applicant.

(vi) The kind of racing to be conducted and the dates requested.

(vii) Such other information as the Racing Commission may require.

(viii) To disclose any indictment for or conviction of any felony and any conviction of a misdemeanor involving a crime of moral turpitude on the part of the applicant, its officers, directors, stockholders, partners, associates, or any person financially interested in said applicant.

(4) To require an oath of every applicant, or by the president or executive officer of the association or corporation, stating that the information contained in the application is true.

(5) To make uniform rules and regulations governing the holding, conducting, and operating of all race tracks, race meetings, and races held in the City.

(6) Receive all applications for the initial license within thirty (30) days following the appointment of the Commissioners and to grant, reject or otherwise act upon all such applications within ten (10) days after the last day for receiving such applications.

(7) All books records, maps, documents, and papers of the Commission, including those filed with the Commission as well as those prepared by or for it, shall at all times be open for the personal inspection at the office of the Commission during its normal business hours by any officer of the State of Alabama, or of any county, municipality, or other subdivision of the State, or of any official investigative body or committee, provided that such officer, investigative body or committee shall be authorized to carry out such inspection and examination, and no person having charge or custody thereof shall refuse this right to any officer or investigative body or committee, and it shall be the express duty of such person to assist such officer or committee in locating records or information desired by them. Any member or employee of the Commission who violated the provisions of this section shall be removed from office and forfeit his bond.

Section 8. Any person, association, or corporation desiring to operate a race track in the City of Pelham shall have the right to apply to the Commission, subject to the provisions of this Act, to hold and conduct one or more race meeting at such track each year, provided that no such license shall be granted to any person, association, or corporation, or to any track, for a period longer than three hundred (300) racing days in any one (1) year.

The Commission may extend said limitations of time for greyhound racing not to exceed three (3) days at any one track beyound the period otherwise provided by law so that any such track shall conduct a charity day or days of racing for any one or more recognized charities in the City of Pelham which has a tax exempt status as provided for under the Internal Revenue Code. The total of all profits derived for the operation of such racing on such charity days, including all moneys which would otherwise be received by the Commission as taxes for such days' operations, shall be and become a part of a charity trust fund for which such racing on such days is conducted. The charity trust fund shall be administered as directed by the Racing Commission.

In determining profits derived from such racing on such charity days, said profits shall include all taxes payable to the City of Pelham or any agency therof for such days' operations. The licensee of said tracks shall only be entitled to deduct from the profits accruing from all receipts on such charity days of racing their actual operating costs, which costs shall be those expenses incurred by the race track solely by reason of holding said charity days of racing and shall not be deemed to include such expenses constant from day to day and which would have been incurred had the race on that day not been held, including, but not limited to, such items as capital expenditures, interest on debts, real estate taxes and annual license fee, donations, bad debts, and such other items of daily or prorated expenses as the Commission may by rule prescribe and provided, however, that such expenses shall be deemed to be a donation to the charity or charities benefiting from said racing days.

There shall be only one greyhound dog racing facility in Pelham.

Section 9. No race or racing shall be permitted on Sunday. No person under nineteen (19) years of age shall be employed in any manner about said race track except as exercise boys, jockeys, handlers, grooms, ushers and concessionaires; nor shall persons under nineteen (19) years of age be permitted to attend any race.

Section 10. The original license issued in accordance with the terms of this Act shall be for a period to allow ten (10) full calendar years of racing following the construction and equipping of the racing plant or facility or for the length of time required for the amortization of the capital investment, whichever is longer, and shall be granted so as to expire on the 31st day of December following such ten (10) full calendar years of racing or the amortization of the capital investment. On or before the 1st day of December of the last year of the original license, the Racing Commission shall accept application in the manner, form and requiring the requisite qualifications all as prescribed in this Act for additional periods of not more than three (3) calendar years. On or befor the 1st day of January thereafter, the Commission shall convene to consider and act upon such applications. Subsequent applications shall be accepted and license issued in the same manner. If a licensee shall apply for a renewal license, the same shall not be denied except for good cause provided, however, the Commission may require that such licensee furnish the requisite information and meet the requisite qualifications required by this Act.

The license granted under this Act shall set forth in addition to any other information prescribed by the Racing Commission the name of the licensee, the location of the race track, duration of the race meeting and the kind of racing desired to be conducted and shall show the receipt by the Commission of a license fee set by the Commission, provided, however, that such license fee shall not exceed One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) annually. No such license shall be transferable, nor shall it apply to any other place, track, or enclosure except the one specified in the license.

Section 11. (a) The Commission may suspend or revoke the license of any licensee conducting a race meeting, upon the willful violation of any of the provisions of the Act, or any rule or regulation promulgated by the Commission or may invoke a fine not to exceed $10,000 per offense in lieu thereof in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable.

(b) It is unlawful for any member of said Racing Commission, or any licensee under this chapter directly or indirectly, to make any contribution whatsoever to any political party or to any candidate for any State, County, or Municipal office, and upon proof being presented of any such prohibited contribution having been made by the licensee, the Commission shall immediately and permanently revoke the license of such licensee.

(c) If any member of said Racing Commission violates, consents to, or participates in, any violation of the provisions of this Act, in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable, such member shall be subject to removal from office.

(d) No disciplinary action may be taken hereunder until the licensee has been presented with notice in writing specifying the time and place of a disciplinary hearing, said notice setting out in substance the nature of the accusation, and inviting the licensee to appear, with or without counsel, as the licensee may decide, the licensee being afforded an opportunity to face and examine his accusers, call witnesses and testify if he chooses.

Section 12. The Commission is empowered to compel the production of any and all books, memoranda, or documents showing the receipts and disbursements of any person, association or corporation licensed to conduct race meetings under the provisions of this Act. The Commission may at any time require the removal of any employee or official employed by any licensee hereunder whenever it has reason to believe that such employee or official is guilty of any improper practice in connection with racing, has failed to comply with any condition of the license, or has violated any rule adopted by the Commission. The Commission shall have the power to require that the books and financial or other statements of any licensee be kept in a manner and method provided by the Commission; and the Commission shall be authorized to visit, investigate, and place auditors and inspectors in the offices, tracks, or place of business of any person, association or corporation licensed under this Act.

The Commission shall have power to summon witnesses before its meetings; to administer oaths to such witnesses, and to require testimony on any issues before it.

Section 13. The Commission shall have the power to grant, refuse, suspend, or withdraw licenses to all persons connected with race tracks, including all salaried employees, gate keepers, announcers, ushers, starters, officials, drivers, dog owners, agents, trainers, handlers, grooms, stable foremen, exercise boys, veterinarians, valets, sellers of racing forms or bulletins, and attendants in connection with the wagering machines, pursuant to such rules and regulations as the Commission may from time to time adopt and upon the payment of license fee as shall, from time to time, be fixed and determined by the Commision in accordance with the position and compensation of such person. Any such license may be revoked by the Commisison, at is discretion, and any person whose license is revoked shall be ineligible to participate in such occupation connected with racing unless the license is returned by the Commission with permission to operate thereunder. The Commision may deny or revoke a license to any person who has been refused or denied a license by any other state racing commission or racing authoriy, or who has furnished the Commission with an application containing falsified information.

Section 14. The Commission shall make rules governing, permitting, and regulating the wagering on races. "Pari-Mutuels Wagering" shall be legal to the extent that, and so long as, the same is carried on and conducted strictly in conformity with this Act, and not otherwise. Only the persons, associations, or corporations receiving a license from the Commission shall have the right or privilege to conduct this type of wagering within the City of Pelham, and the licenses shall restrict and confine this form of wagering to a space within the race meeting grounds. All other forms of wagering on the result of the races shall be illegal, and any or all wagering outside of the enclosure of such races, where such races shall have been licensed by the Commission, shall be illegal.

No person or corporation shall directly or indirectly purchase parimutuels tickets for another for hire or for any gratuity and no person shall purchase any part of a parimutuels ticket through another, wherein he gives or pays directly or indirectly such other person anything of value.

Section 15. Every licensee conducting race meetings under the provisions of this Act, shall pay to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission for the use of the Commission, a tax in an amount equal to six per cent (6%) of the total moneys wagered in all pari-mutuels pools conducted on any race track licensed under this Act. The commission of a licensee on a pari-mutuels pool shall in no event exceed eighteen percent (18%) of the amount wagered in said pari-mutuels pool, which amount shall include the six percent (6%) tax heretofore provided. After the deduction of the six percent (6%) for the use of the commission and the percentage commission of the licensee, the remainder of the totals wagered in each pool shall be divided among the winners in each pool according to the Rules of Racing outlined by the Commission, which Rules shall generally conform to practices now in effect at other lawfully licensed dog race tracks in the United States. Each redistribution shall be made in a sum equal to the next lowest multiple of ten. The licensee is entitled to retain the odd cents of all redistribtuions to be known as "breakage to a dime", and all moneys represented by any unclaimed, uncashed or abandoned pari-mutuels tickets known as "outs" tickets. Under the pari-mutuels system of wagering herein provided, the licensee shall be permitted to provide separate pools for bets to win, place, show, a daily double, exactas, trifectas, a quinella and a double quinella, or such other pool as may from time to time be approved by the Commission. Each pool shall be redistributed separately as herein provided. Should there be no winning ticket sold on any pool that conforms to the intent of that pool, provisions will be made in the Rules of Racing adopted by the Commission to assure the distribution of the net amount of such pool.

The licensee shall be required to use a totalizator machine to record the wagering and compute the odds. Rules and regualtions governing the operation of each of the pools shall be set out in book form by the Racing Commission. The licensee shall collect from each person attending the race meetings under the provisions of this Act ten (10) cents admission tax. Licensees shall make payment of such taxes to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission once each quarter (three months) which payment shall be accompanied by a report on the races covered by such payment and such other information as the Commission may require.

Section 16. If any free passes or complimentary cards shall be issued to guests by any license, such licensee shall nevertheless be responsible for payment of the admission tax upon such complimentary admission cards or passes as though they had been sold at regular admission price. However, nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the issuance of tax free passes to officials and actual employees of the licensee, or other persons actually engaged in working at such track, including persons actually employed and accredited by the press or other news service; provided, that the issuance of all such tax free passes shall be governed by the regulations and orders of the Commission and a list of all such officers, employees, and news service representatives shall be filed with the Commission.

Section 17. The license fees, commissions, and excise texes imposed herein shall be in lieu of al license, excise, and occupational taxes to the State of Alabama, or any county, city, town or other political subdivision thereof, provided however that any person firm or corporation who operates a restaurant, bar or other concession on the premises shall be subject to the usual city, county and state taxes that are normally leview upon such businesses including sales taxes.

Section 18. Any corporation, association, or person who directly or indirectly holds any dog race without having procured a license as prescribed in this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person wagering upon the results of such a race, except in the pari-mutuel method of wagering when the same is conducted by a licensse and upon the grounds or enclosure of said licensee, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any corporation, organizalton, assoiciation, or person who violates any provision of this Act, for which penalty is not expressly provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Upon conviction of any of the above misdemeanors in a court of competent jurisdiction, the penalty shall be a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), or by imprisonment of not less than five days nor more than six months, or both, such fine and imprisonment to be in the discretion of the court.

Section 19. All fees, commissions, taxes and other moneys, including fines and forfeitures, received under the provisions of this Act shall be paid to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission within ten (10) days following the quarterly receipt therof and shall be forthwith deposited or caused to be deposited to the account of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission. Deposits shall, to the extent practicable, be deposited in interest bearing accounts or securities. All such moneys remaining after payment of the expenses incurred in the administration of this Act, including the payment of the salaries and expenses of the members and employees of the Commission, shall be distributed within forty-five (45) days of receipt of the Commission to the City of Pelham, the proceeds of which shall be used by said municipality in the following percentages and for the following purposes:

(a) Eighteen percent (18%) for the Shelby County Board of Education to be used for the operation of the public schools in Shelby County, Alabama, privided however in the event one or more municipalities in Shelby County shall create a separate school system then and in such event or events the distribution as herein provided shall be prorated between the Shelby County Board of Education and such separate municipal school system based on the student population.

(b) Two percent (2%) for higher education in Shelby County.

(c) Three percent (3%) for use by the Sheriff's Department of Shelby County as the Sheriff shall from time to time determine.

(d) Twenty-seven percent (27%) for use for the benefit of the citizens of Shelby County as the governing body of the county shall from time to time determine.

(e) Fifty percent (50%) shall remain unearmarkded and may be spent in any manner provided by law, for the benefit of the citizens of Pelham, Alabama as the governing body of that municipality shall from time to time determine.

Section 20. No person who engages in the practice of illegal bookmaking dog races, or who knowingly taken any part in such practices, shall be sligible as an applicant for any license or permit to operate a race track or a race meeting under the provisions of this Act, or to be connected therewith in any capacity; and any association or corporation which has as an officer, director, stockholder, executive or any other person financially interested therein or who knowingly employs any person who engages in such practices shall likewise be ineligible as a licensee, and the Commission is hereby empowered to inquire into such matters in entertaining any such applications and otherwise administering this Act.

Section 21. Any person who shall influence or have any understanding or connivance with any owner, groom or other person associates with or interested in any kennel or dog, or race in which any dog participates, to prearrange or predetermine the results of such race, or any person who shall stimulate or depress a dog for the purpose of affecting the results of a race, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year nor more than ten years, or shall be fined not less than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or both, in the discretion of the court.

Section 22. It is the intent of this Act to improve the economic well being of the citizens of the City of Pelham, by providing an increased tax base, jobs for the citizens herein, and the promotion of conventions, tourism, and recreation in the City of Pelham. It is the intent of this Act to provide for strict local control of the racing plant or plants and the operation of said plants by Shelby County citizens so as to minimize the possibility of undesirable gambling elements from ever controlling this industry.

Section 23. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.

Section 24. The provisions of this Act are severable. In the event any section or part therof is declared invalid, such declaration shall not affect the validity of the part and sections which remain.

Section 25. The governing body of the City of Pelham shall on the first Tuesday after thirty (30) days have elapsed from the effective date of this Act call and provide for holding a referendum for the purpose of determining if this Act shall become operative. The question to be voted on shall be stated on the ballots or voting machine tabs substantially as follows:

"Do you favor the creation of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission to regulate licensing and supervision of dog racing and wagering theron as provided in Act No. ----- approved -------, 198--?"

If the majority of the votes cast in the referendum are "Yes" racing shall be legal in the City of Peham as herein provided, and this Act shall become operative therein; if the majority of the votes cast in the election are "No", an additional referendum to be called by the municipal governing body at a time selected by them and set in accord with the provisions of this Section shall not be held within two years of such vote provided however, that additional referendums called by the municipal governing body shall not require further action or approval by the Legislature or by the Governor. The municipal election commission shall certify the results of the referendum to the Secretary of State of Alabama within thirty (30) days after the eleciton returns are canvassed.

Section 26. This Act shall become effective upon its passage and approval by the governor, or upon its otherwise becoming a law.

MEMORY

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
HORACE RAY WOODS
In loving memory of Horace Ray Woods who died Jan. 28, 1982.
Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall,
You had a kind word for each and died loved by all.
The voice is mute and still the heart, that loved us well and true,
Oh, bitter was the trail to part someone so good as you.
Your not forgotten dear, nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are still sore,
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile... your gentle face...
No one will ever fill your vacant place.
The family that loved him very much,
Wife and Daughter
Glenda and Christie Woods

Shelby County Reporter

Covering the news since 1843

Deadlines nearing for victims of flood

Victims of the December flooding and storms in Shelby County have until February 13, to apply for federal disaster assistance.

Representatives of the Temporary Housing Office and Small Business Administration are working out of Room 1506 of the 2121 Building on 8th Ave. North in Birmingham. The phone number is 254-1406.

Furthermore, SBA officials will be at Pelham City Hall from 10-5 on Tuesday, Februrary 7, and Monday, February 13.

Disaster victims who need information on the Individual and Family Grant program may visit the Alabama Department of Pensions and Security at West College Street in Columbiana. Phone: 669-3111.

Presidential hopeful to name his coordinator while at UM

Democratic presidential candidate US Senator Fritz Hollings will announce his Alabama campaign coordinator next week at the University of Montevallo.

The announcement will be made at a 3:30 p.m. press conference Monday, February 6, in LeBaron Recital Hall. The coordinator is expected to be from the Birmingham area.

A reception for the South Carolina senator will be held at 4 p.m. at Flowerhill, residence of UM President Jim Vickrey. The reception is open to the public.

The Shelby County press conference is part of Hollings' two-day swing through Alabama which also includes stops in Huntsville and Wetumpka.

Who'll be Miss North Shelby?

The Miss North Shelby Pageant will be held February 24 at Riverchase Middle School.

Radio celebrities 'Greg and Courtney' will host the second annual pageant which is sponsored by the North Shelby Jaycees.

Winner of the county pageant will enter the Miss Alabama Pageant held to select a state queen to compete for the crown of Miss America in the national competition at Atlantic City, NJ in September.

Rick Jones, Jaycee chairman of the north Shelby Pageant, announced that the community and its organizations will be asked to sponsor contestants, to attend the pageant, and to support it financially.

"This will be a community endeavor and we in the North Shelby Jaycees are sure all in the community will participate to insure its success," Jones said.

Jaycee/Jayceette committee heads for the pageant are: Jim Busbin, Donna Jones, Mary Jo Fields, Lee Moore and Paul Howanitz.

Packed house in Pelham

Rowdy roundball fans witnessed a knock-down, drag-out Friday night in Pelham as the Panthers beat arch-rival Thompson 57-53 in the finals of the Shelby County Basket Tournament. Pelham fans had plenty to cheer about, but Thompson didn't go away totally honorless. Warrior Chris Thomas was named tourney MVP. Tidmore named vice president at Pepsi

Ronald W. Tidmore has been named senior vice president of sales for Pepsi-Cola USA.

"Ron has provided the franchise bottling network with the kind of strong leadership that has marked the beginning of a new drive and a new commitment to building better in-store (sales) across the nation," said Pepsi president Roger A. Enrico.

Tidmore previously held key marketing and sales positions with both Pepsi and Frito Lay.

He is a graduate of Shelby County High School and later earned a master's degree from the University of Georgia where he played football.

He is the son of Odell and Rudolph Tidmore of Route 2, Columbiana.

Shelby Bank has promoted Anthony F. Holmes to vice president and manager of its Pelham office.

A 1974 graduate of the University of Montevallo, Holmes has been with Shelby Bank since January of 1982 when he became manager of the Columbiana branch office. He was later transferred to Pelham where he set up the bank's mortgage lending department.

He is a member of the board of directors for the Pelham Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of its Industrial Development Council. He teaches 'Money and Banking' to several Shelby County bankers as part of the American Institute of Banking's continuing education program.

Holmes lives in Scottsdale with his wife, Sue, and a son and daughter. They are members of Westwood Baptist Church where he teaches an adult Sunday school class.

To keep up with changes in auto design and materials, the Shelby County Area Vocational School has purchased some sophisticated new equipment for its auto body department.

According to instructor Richard Headley, the new unit will be used in diagnosing damage and making repairs to unibody cars. It has been added as an accessary to the original frame repair system the school has been using at the center.

In setting up the equipment, a Blackhawk engineer and sales representative recently conducted a four-day workshop with the class, Headley and center director Jimmy Bice.

Headley said the addition helps the center meet its new curriculum standards.

Marshall E. Killingsworth has been named manager-systems analysis/programming for Saunders Leasing System in Birmingham.

A native of Montevallo and a business graduate of UM, he had 16 years in systems management prior to taking his new position with Saunders.

Saunders is one of the nation's largest truck leasing firms, operating in 24 states and Canada.

Calera apartments open

Calera Mayor Carl Prichard recently cut the ribbon marking the official opening of Hill Brook Manor Apartments in Calera. The $1.1 million 48 unit complex was built by Palafox-Central Shelby. Looking on as the mayor cuts the ribbon are: J.M. Johnson, general partner in the firm; Ruth Brunkhart, apartment manager; Mack McCollum, pastor of Calera First Baptist Church; Betty McGown, Calera postmaster.

IRA INSTEAD OF IRS.
A LESS TAXING WAY TO SAVE FOR YOUR FUTURE.

Instead of paying the IRS, put some money away in an IRA. An Individual Retirement Annuity from Liberty National.

With an IRA, you can save on taxes and accumulate money for your retirement. Deduct up to $2,000 annually from your taxable income and watch it grow with the interest it earns in an IRA. Neither your IRA contribution nor the interest it earns is taxable until it is withdrawn. When you do begin to withdraw the funds to supplement your retirement income, it will be taxed as regular earnings. However, you will probably be in a lower tax bracket during your retirement so the tax savings are still substantial.

Liberty National also offers Waiver of Premium. This disability insurance option protects your retirement income. That's because Liberty National will make your regular deposits to your IRA, should you become disabled. It's a small price to pay for a guarantee of security.

Take this opportunity to profit from the tax and disability benefits offered by an Individual Retirement Annuity from Liberty National. See your agent today about starting your own IRA. It'll pay off.

County offers DAY funding; does not act for Republicans

The Developing Alabama Youth (DAY) program, which helps students referred to it by the courts, may find some financial relief coming from the Shelby County Commission.

The program is running short of funds for bus transportation of Shelby County students.

But, as the result of a request from Ken Williams, president of the non-profit corporation, the county commission agreed Monday to provide a 'reasonable amount' of financial help.

The exact amount needed was not made known to Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden on Monday. But he agreed to poll commissioners by telephone for an exact dollar figure once that is determined.

* * * *

The commission held up on approving an agreement which would allow parts of Leeds and Hoover in Shelby County to file application for community development block grants separate from the county.

Commissioners wanted to be sure such agreements would not hurt Shelby County's chances of receiving block grants.

* * * *

The county agreed bids will be taken on an excavator at the next regular meeting. However, bids for a loader will be delayed until February 27.

* * * *

Commissioners agreed not to take action on an Alabama Republican Party request for a list of registered voter's names, addresses and telephone numbers.

"If it's a public record, they can get it themselves," said commissioner Jake Morris. "The commission needs not to get involved in any way."

The non-action was taken after commissioners were made aware that no such request has been granted before.

The commission also agreed not to take any action on a request by a mobile home dealership to get the mailing address of mobile home owners.

* * * *

Choctaw Culvert Division was awarded the low bid for ten pieces of steel pipe and five corrugated steel bands. Their bid of $2,922.85 beat out bids from Sherman Industries and Brown.

* * * *

Commissioner Morris agreed to look into the use of state inmates for work projects in Shelby County.

* * * *

The data processing department was approved for the hiring of part-time help for key punch operators to help get the budgetary system on line with the county computer.

Nat'l PTA seeking nominees for outstanding educator honors

In 1897 Phoebe Apperson Hearst founded the National Congress of Mothers. She herself was mother to a boy named William Randolph Hearst.

Her son went on to become a newspaper magnate; the organization she founded went on to become the National Congress of Parents and Teachers -- the PTA.

The 5.3 million member organization is now searching for the recipient of its Phoebe Apperson Hearst Outstanding Educator Award. It is asking the 25,000 PTA's across the nation to nominate an educator from their communities who has significantly contributed to the mental, physical and emotional development of children.

Nominations will be made through local PTA's and deadline for entries is April 9.

The outstanding educator will receive $2,500 and a trip to the National PTA convention. The nominating PTA will receive $2,500 for a school project of interest to the winning educator.

The William Randolph Hearst Foundation granted the National PTA $75,000 to establish the annual award.

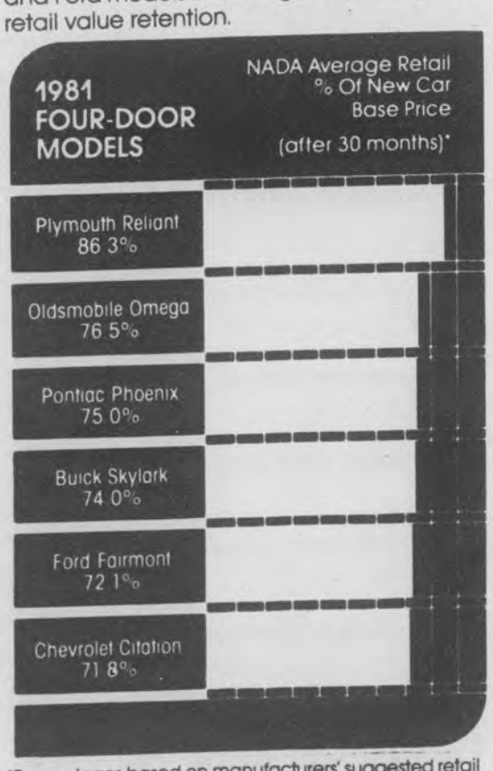
Plymouth Reliant 1984

Proven Resale Value

The amount of money you pay for a new car is one measure of its value. The amount you receive when you're ready to sell reflects how well that value can be retained. Consider this: after thirty months of operation, Plymouth Reliant beat five competitive GM and Ford models in average percentage of retail value retention.



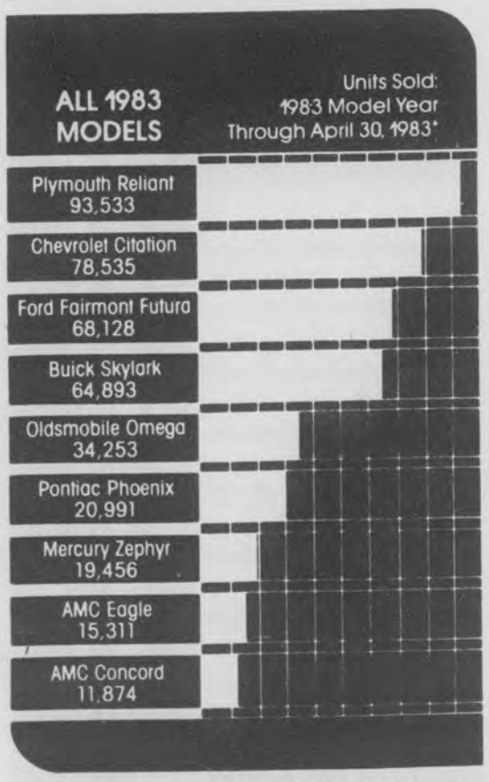
*Percentages based on manufacturers' suggested retail introductory prices, and average retail prices published in NADA Used Car Guide, Central Edition, April 1983. Use NADA average retail prices and percentages for purposes of comparison. Actual prices may vary due to vehicle condition, mileage, optional equipment and other factors.

Resale value is based on several factors, including fuel economy, body condition and dependability. But perhaps the most important factor is the demand for a particular model in the used car market. The facts are clear: people want to own a used Plymouth Reliant as much as a new one. And that's a good thing to know before making your next new car purchase.

Reliant Is A Sales Leader.

Today's smart consumers won't settle for second best. They demand real value for their dollar. So, for a car to become the top seller in its class, it has to have a lot going for it. That's why Reliant has been winning over so many American car buyers.

From the beginning of the 1983 model year through April 30, 1983, Plymouth Reliant has outsold every domestic compact on the market.



*Sales figures based on Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association registrations.

STEPHEN TAYLOR AND JOHN MARTIN
...in recital for piano and flute

Former students return for recital on piano and flute

Two former University of Montevallo students will return to Shelby County next week to perform an unusual recital.

Pianist Stephen Taylor will join John Martin on flute for a special program at 8 p.m., February 7 in LeBaron Recital Hall. They will perform works by Bach, Dohnanyi, Poulenc, Schumann, Boone, Faure, Ibert and Rivier.

Taylor, who studied at UM under Joan Cowan, is a native of South Carolina who transferred from Montevallo to graduate from the Julliard School of Music in 1982. He has since studied five summers at Brevard Music Center and plans to do graduate work this fall.

Martin studied with Robbin Shaw at UM, where he graduated in 1979 with a music degree in flute. While at UM, he won collegiate orchestral competition sponsored by the Alabama Music Teachers.

Also a native of South Carolina, Martin went on to earn a master's degree from Florida State University where he studied under Charles DeLaney.

The Tuesday night recital is open to the public.

Exhibits in Sylacauga Museum coincide with Black History Month

Three new and significant exhibits will be showing this month at the Museum of Arts Center of Sylacauga. Two of the shows are in conjunction with Black History Month.

•Photography by P.H. Polk -- now showing in Gallery IV -- includes portraits of such dignitaries as George Washington Carver, Martin Luther King, Will Rogers, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and President Gerald Ford.

A self-taught photographer from Bessemer, Polk gained national acclaim after graduating in 1920 from Tuskegee Institute, where he remained to work. He likes to film black people against dark backgrounds, and believes in getting his subjects' feelings into the picture.

The exhibit has been shown in New York. Washington DC, Atlanta, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Tuskegee and Birmingham. It will remain in Sylacauga through Black History Month.

•Ink wash drawings by Dr. Art Bacon are showing in Gallery I as part of the special month. Bacon, a professor at Talladega College, has won numerous awards for the way he portrays people, places and things of the South.

•Larry Strickland, artist in residence with the schools in Childersburg, is showing wood sculpture and paintings in Gallery II. Some of pieces are very large, and he has developed characters from cyprus, pine, bone and copper.

His works have been acquired by art patrons and collectors throughout the world. The show will remain in Sylacauga until April when it goes on display at the 1984 World's Fair.

At homecoming

UM holds alumni art show

The University of Montevallo is preparing for its first Alumni Invitational Art Exhibition which will coincide with homecoming.

Entries are still being accepted for the February 11-19 showing. So far, according to Bloch Hall Art Gallery director Catherine Dunn, the exhibit includes works by alumni from the Class of 1914 through 1983.

During the show the gallery will be open from 9-5. On February 18 -- homecoming day -- a reception for the artists as well as all UM graduates in the fine arts, will be held from 5-7 p.m. in the gallery.

For more information: 665-2521, ext. 285.

Symphony plays romantic selections

The Alabama Symphony will present a program of romantic music on Feb. 16 and 17.

Guest conductor for the 8 p.m. concerts is world famous Raymond Leppard -- a self-confessed romantic.

The program includes works by Dvorak, Liadov and Tchiakovsky.

Born in London, Leppard has recorded numerous albums as well as conducted many of the country's most famous symphonies.

Tickets will be available both nights at the door to the Civic Center Concert Hall.

Life with Liberty National is good for your group, too.

Morning Board of Directors

The area vocational center bought a new copier with the $3,000 profit from its recent fundraiser. The selling project was sponsored by the Future Business Leaders of America Youth Club. New morning board of directors are Kelvie Kelley of Vincent, Kelly Berry of Thompson, Quincy Jordan of Vincent, Tina Carter of Thompson, and Denise Heisler of Thompson.

Morning officers

The Future Business Leaders of America Youth Club got off to a good start this year with 115 members. Morning officers are: president Kathy Partridge of Pelham; treasurer Kim Walker of Thompson; vice president Debbie Davis of Thompson; senior reporter Chris Bird of Vincent, and Beverly Bivins of Thompson, junior reporter.

Afternoon Board of Directors

Members of the Future Business Leaders of Afternoon Board of Directors for the Future Business Leaders at the Shelby County vocational school are Debby Stagner of Shelby County High, Kim Isbell of Chelsea High, Eddie Smith, and Glenda Lee, both of Calera High.

Afternoon officers

District Competition will be held on Saturday, March 31 for the Future Business Leaders of America Youth Club. Afternoon officers for the club are Debbie Smith of Calera, vice president; Cynthia Todd of Calera, president; and Wendy Peeples of Chelsea, treasurer.

CPR classes held in Vincent

A free CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) class will be held Feb. 21, at the Vincent Community Center, from 6-10 p.m.

The class is sponsored by Baptist Medical Center-Montclair and the BMC East Shelby Health Center. Dannie Green of the BMC East Shelby Health Center will teach the course.

"In a rural area like Vincent, our resources are limited as far as activating emergency medical systems," Green said. "Because of this, it is vital for the people of our area to be trained in CPR."

The course will consist of technique demonstration, outlining heart attack symptoms, ways of getting help, practice on life-like manikins, and written and performance tests for certification.

There is no charge for the course. Register by Feb. 17 by calling the health center at 672-7358.

Smokers learn new habits

Want to stop smoking?

The American Cancer Society and Lakeshore Hospital are sponsoring a 'Stop Smoking Program' Feb. 7 through March 1.

The sessions are designed to help smokers 'unlearn' their smoking routine and develop new, non-smoking habits.

The classes meet at the Homewood hospital from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the $20 fee includes all materials.

Deadline for registration is Friday, Feb. 3. Call: 868-2300.

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to keep you informed about cancer.

Question: "Why did the American Cancer Society withdraw its recommendation of annual chest x-rays for the detection of lung cancer?"

ANSWERline: Data currently available indicate that there's no evidence of a reduction in mortality from lung cancer by having x-rays every year. However, in individual situations a physician might properly see a need for periodic x-ray examinations and sputum cytology. The Society continues to emphasize programs of lung cancer prevention that will stress the health advantages of quitting smoking and not starting to smoke cigarettes. The Society had formerly recommended chest x-rays for heavy smokers and others considered to be at high risk.

Question: "What is the American Cancer Society's view on thermography for early detection of cancer of the breast?"

ANSWERline: The concept of identifying hidden cancer by measuring variations in tissue temperatures is based on scientific principles. However, thermography techniques now in use tend to produce too many false negatives and false positives to be practical for screening of asymptomatic patients. Breast self-examination, mammography and palpation are generally more efficient at this time.

Question: "How many teenage smokers are there in the United States?"

ANSWERline: About 4,500,000. There are still more boy smokers than girl smokers, but unfortunately the girls are rapidly catching up. Teen-age smoking increased significantly in the 1960's and early 1970's, but a recent government study indicates that overall teenage smoking may now be in decline. The combined total of boy and girl smokers between the ages of 12 and 18 dropped 25 percent between 1974 and 1979.

Question: "Every once in a while one hears of a "miracle cancer cure" performed by a faith healer. Does the American Cancer Society recognize such "cures"?

ANSWERline: Faith healing is a religious matter, not a medical one. Medical records are usually not available in such cases; so there's no way to pass judgement on their merit.

Question: "Are vitamins A, C and E useful in combatting cancer?"

ANSWERline: Much has been said about vitamins and cancer, especially vitamin C. Solid research still is needed to clearly establish the value of any vitamins for cancer prevention or treatment. Properly prescribed vitamins might contribute to an improved sense of well-being in some patients who may in fact be in need of overcoming a specific deficiency

Cancer workshop set

A workshop on "Ministry to the Cancer Patient" for members of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Birmingham Baptist Association will be held Feb. 10 at UAB.

Members of the auxiliary may register for the 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. event by calling 251-7161.

Participants in the Birmingham workshop will learn what cancer really is, how it is being diagnosed and treated today, how it affects the individual and the family structure, and how churches can better support the cancer patient and his family.

Tender trap

The Broadway comedy hit 'The Tender Trap' is playing through March 3 at the Celebrity Dinner Theatre on US 31 in Vestavia. Made in a movie with Frank Sinatra and Debbie Reynolds, the plot revolves around an overly-popular bachelor who gets confused and ends up -- in the same evening -- engaged to not less than two women. Cocktails start at 6:30 p.m., dinner is from 6:45-8, and showtime is 8:15. For reservations: 823-3000. (advertisement)

4-H'ers win prize

Two Shelby County 4-H'ers won ribbons, plaques and cash at the annual Junior Market Show and Hog Sale in Birmingham.

Doug Jennings of Wilsonville won 2nd place in senior judging, and ranked 3rd among the top five youth individuals. He brought home a plaque and $30.

Jason Johnson of Montevallo placed 3rd in junior judging, and ranked 5th among the top youth individuals. He received a ribbon and $10.

Also representing Shelby County were Lance Byrd and Doug Pate, both of Montevallo.

The show was held January 22-23. Some 250 hogs were exhibited by 4-H'ers from across the state.

Calling poets

Shelby County poets have a chance at a $1,000 grand prize being offered by the World of Poetry newsletter.

In all, 100 prizes totaling over $10,000 will be awarded in a search to "produce exciting new discoveries," said director Joseph Mellon.

For a free brochure of rules and prizes, write: World of Poetry, 2431 Stockton Blvd., Dept. G, Sacramento, CA 95817.

AFA offers $500 rewards

The Alabama Forestry Association has for 20 years offered $500 rewards for information leading to convictions in cases of woods arson.

Now the AFA is offering the same reward for information leading to convictions for the theft of forest products such as logs and pulpwood. It is also offering $500 for information leading to convictions for the theft or vandalism of forestry equipment.

Anyone with information concerning these types of crime is urged to call the sheriff's department (669-4181), or contact the AFA or local forestry commission.

Top scholars

Two students from Shelby County were among the 111 undergraduates named to the Dean's List at UAB's school of nursing for the fall 1983 quarter.

Receiving a GPA of 4.0 was Richard L. Kelley of Alabaster.

Receiving a GPA of between 3.6-3.99 was Carrie L. Gill of Pelham.

Helena solves its cash woes

by Fred Guarino

The City of Helena experienced a $25,000 positive cash flow in 1983 and is now on a sound financial standing. And, at least one resident of Dearing Downs, Howard Stoltzner, will see something done to correct a six-year-old sewer problem in the subdivision.

Helena City Councilmen heard the good news and gave the sewer improvement assurance during at its meeting Monday night.

According to a 1983 audit presented by Joe Hawley of Hawley and Company, expenditures dropped from $585,606 in 1982 to $380,135 in 1983, giving the city a positive cash flow of some $25,000.

"This is probably the best year we've had," said counsultant Zack Rogers III.

Council members officially accepted the audit report following an explanation session by Hawley and Rogers.

Regarding Dearing Downs, mayor Charles Penhale assured Stoltzner that action will be taken by this May to stop four homes on Whirlaway Circle from flushing their sewage into Stoltzner's back yard.

The problem reportedly results from the fact that homes on land developed by Harris Development Company were tied into a dead section of the city's sewerage system.

Mayor Penhale confirmed that the homes were tied into the dead line.

He promised Stoltzner that because of the situation, Harris Development will not be allowed to complete a planned second portion of Dearing Downs until the situation has been corrected.

Pelhale also promised that Harris will correct the situation by May, or the city will do the work and assess the cost against Harris Development property.

Councilman Ron Erwin pointed out that the city has already stopped issuing sewer permits in the area.

Stoltzner lives on the opposite side of Whirlaway Circle from the offending homes. He told council members, "In the mornings when those homes flush their toilets, you can't imagine the mess."

In other action, the city passed a resolution promising that it will not misuse a $275,000 community development block grant targeted for street improvement.

The council also asked the Shelby County Humane Society to produce records of the number of stray animals it handles from Helena.

The request was made by council members so the city could determine if it wants to participate financially in a proposed countywide animal control program.

The program, if put into effect, would give the humane society the authority to trap strays and to cite animal owners for violations in return for financial support from the city.

Calera okays plan for sewer project

by Marcia M. Sears

Construction will begin in about two weeks on the long-awaited sewerage treatment system in Calera.

That was the word the Calera Council heard Monday night from Ben Carr, who's in charge of planning the project.

Carr said the project will take about 500 days of construction time. This would put the completion date in August 1985.

The project will bring Calera in compliance with regulations of the Environmental Protection Agency, the Alabama Department of Environmental Mangaement and other agencies.

Carr added that the state will allot the city $686,000 to help build a road to the sewer plant, but will take back all of it except $103,000.

In other action:

•The official audit of the city's finances for 1983 was delivered to the city council Monday. The mayor said a copy will be placed in the public library, and other copies will be at city hall, for any member of the public to read.

•Councilman Mark Jones recommended that plans for the city park be adopted as suggested by the Carr firm. The plans allow 100 feet of space between the outfield of the baseball and softball fields and any subdivisions.

They also call for a fence along the property line, with provisions to insure the 'natural state of the environment and retain the foliage.'

Prichard thought the measure too ambiguous, but a motion to adopt the plan and start the bid process was approved by all five councilmen.

•Controversy over the old building at the landfill arose, but was settled when the council adopted Councilman Arthur Davis' motion, with only the mayor dissenting.

Davis moved that $4,500 in revenue sharing funds be divided, with $2,000 going to the Water Board and $2,500 to be spent to build a fence around the property at the city shop.

Prichard argued that the old landfill building should be moved to the city shop area for additional storage Councilman W.B. Watts commented, "That would cost $5,000 and would be an eyesore."

The mayor called the council's decision "very unwise."

Alabaster plans new fire station

by John Hood

The Alabaster City Council spent most of its time spending money Monday. It also tentatively approved a plan to build a new fire station.

The first stages of construction of the new fire station were outlined by architect John Barrett of P. Lauren Barrett, Architects, Inc. He said the construction would be carried out in phases, and proposed that the first phase be to move the present fire station to another location.

Alabaster presently uses a 900-square foot metal building for its fire station, said fire chief John Cochran.

"The need has been there for several years for more room. The living quarters and offices are just kind of made up," Cochran said.

The new station would contain about 8,000 square feet of space, and would house four fire trucks and a rescue vehicle, along with offices and living quarters.

Barrett said the metal building in use was suitable only for storage or as a garage. The rough estimate for the cost of a new station is $320,000, he said

The council approved Barrett's plan, but will have to wait until city attorneys remove an arbitration clause in the contract, that Barrett objected to, before work gets underway.

The council agreed to purchase two patrol cars for the police department by accepting a bid from Ernest McCarty Ford. At $10,367 for each car, the bid was the lowest of the four bids received.

The council approved the spending on the provision that the police chief could approve the selection of cars.

Other expenditures that the council approved were:

•$6,400 for a used car for Building Inspector Milton Allen.

•$5,841 to replace a diesel engine in a large city maintenance truck.

•The cost of installing 55 streetlights at various intersections in the city.

•$3,000 in an escrow account for the Beautification Board. Council member Jack Reagin proposed the fund after noting that the board was unable to start projects without any money.

•Funds to repair or replace bathrooms at city parks. Finance chairman L.O. Farris requested that the city wait until April to begin work, so that revenue-sharing funds could be used.

•Donations of $1,000 to Shelby County Youth Attention Lodge, and $500 to the Albert L. Scott Library.

In other business, the council listened to Willow Glen resident Neil Herzog voice his Humane Society prepares to occupy new shelter

by Bert Seaman

After months of waiting, the Shelby County Humane Society anticipates moving this week into its new building in Columbiana.

A sewer line to the shelter at the end of McDow Road has held up moving animals from the cramped quarters they now occupy, to the new, larger building.

Mayor Buck Falkner announced Thursday that the county has almost completed the work. All that remains to be done is the placement of inverts in the manholes.

Because the road to the facility was in poor condition even before sewer work began, the county had agreed to plow it up as soon as weather would permit, after the completion of the project. The next step would be laying a base prior to the city's paving of the road.

Even though the Humane Society will now have more room to house the animals picked up and brought in, there is still a need for funding to provide animal control in the county.

A call for help went out to municipalities, with Columbiana's share ($1 per capita) amounting to $2,800.

However, the council decided to hold off on making a decision until someone from the Humane Society appears at a meeting to provide more details about the proposal.

Another subject brought up at Thursday's meeting concerned the price of cable television for senior citizens.

Councilman Frank Owen said that people over 65 weren't getting the reduced price that the council had requested when the cost of the basic package was increased.

A request was made last year to raise the monthly rate from $8.25 to $12 for the basic package, which would include four additional channels.

Tac-Can's district manager Frank Murphy said the increase was to allow his com-

Montevallo taps Kelly, Mahan as its year's top civic leaders

A banker and a dentist received the top awards for 1984 from the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce.

Bank executive Agee Kelly was named 'Citizen of the Year' at last week's awards banquet, and dentist Mike Mahan was honored for civic leadership.

Kelly's contributions to the community consisted of ten years on the City Council, membership on the Industrial Development Board since it was organized, and service in various offices of the chamber of commerce.

The Montevallo native has also taken an active part in Montevallo First United Methodist, the Rotary Club, Boy Scouting, Shelby Academy and the University of Montevallo Foundation.

Kelly has also been recognized for leadership by the banking profession.

Mahan's involvement with the community through dentistry and his work with the Montevallo Fire Department earned him the chamber's award for civic leadership.

He has provided volunteer dental services to area elementary schools and the Sheriff's Boys Ranch, and has administered programs for nursing homes and local social agencies.

The Montevallo dentist was also recognized for using his dental skills to help the Mayan Indians.

Because of the effort Mahan exerted in the training of volunteer fireman and securing equipment, the department was recognized by regional fire officials for having a model program.

That effort also resulted in a lower fire insurance rating for the city.

Other awards presented for outstanding service in various areas went to: Frances Cleveland, Sarah and Carrie Head, Good Neighbor; Holland Floyd, fire department; Charlotte Foley, United Way volunteer; Johnny Holsomback, Athletic Boosters.

Montevallo Middle School teacher Joanna Young, Outstanding Teacher; Wayne Jones, Scouting's honor camper; Mike Muier, honor Scout.

Friends of the Library was named the outstanding club, Chi Omega, Greek service organization; and Circle K was named for the campus community service award.

The Lion's Club presented a check to University Baptist Church Child Development Center. It was given in memory of Billy Joe Holsomback, who drove the church van.

Almont could lose MFD protection

by Bert Seaman

Almont doesn't want to lose the fire protection and rescue services it gets from Montevallo.

That may happen, however, if residents don't pay their dues.

At a Monday night meeting where the situation was discussed, trustee Rev. Albert Jones said that legal action may be taken against families who haven't paid.

"It should have been done long ago," one woman in the audience remarked. "Those of us who have paid are being jeopardized by those who haven't."

The $50 dues may either be paid in full in October, Jones reported, or they may be paid semi-annually.

Montevallo City Administrator Don Hughes said he figured that amounted to 14 cents a day.

Commending Almont residents on their decision to form a fire district, Montevallo Fire Chief Mike Mahan pointed out that they got the "best protection for the least money."

However, 55 of the 200 families in the district have not made any payments since it was created three years ago, Jones said.

In some cases, he pointed out, it was assumed by a person who didn't vote for the district that they didn't have to pay the dues.

"When the district was voted in," the trustee explained, "everyone who lives here was automatically in it."

Holding up a copy of the constitution and by-laws, Jones stressed that the legal action they allow will be used.

That means a lien will be attached to the property of those who haven't paid. The fire district can then foreclose on the home and sell it to cover the dues that are owed.

"We've tried to be lenient," Jones said, "but the city (Montevallo) has told us point blank to get the money in."

If people can't afford to pay, they can apply for hardship deferments, he explained, adding that no one had asked for one.

Jones emphasized the reduction in insurance rates with Montevallo coverage, saying in his case, the savings amounted to $126 a year.

Almont has a class 6 rating which could be lowered if Montevallo gets the 4 rating they narrowly missed last year.

Maylene Postmaster investigation continues

Postal authorities have still not made a ruling on the death of Maylene Postmaster Carolyn Terrell.

Tests are continuing on the gun owned by the 37 year old Postmaster that was found lying near her body.

Arnie DuPriest, officer in charge of the Birmingham postal investigation office, told the Reporter that results of the tests are so far inconclusive.

He said that more tests will have to be performed to determine whether the gun was the type to have left any residue on the hand of the person firing it.

The shot that killed the Postmaster was fired into her left temple.

Pelham helps DAY

The City of Pelham will contribute $828 to the Developing Alabama Youth (DAY) Program.

It will also enter into a contract agreement with a private company for the collection of delinquent insurance license fees.

The DAY contribution was approved by city council members Monday night after mayor Burk Dunaway assured them that the donation would be a "one shot deal."

pany to eliminate equipment being used by tv viewers to steal services.

The council had asked Murphy to leave the $8.25 price for people over the age of 65.

Murphy said it was his understanding the lower price for senior citizens was based on the individual being on a low, fixed income.

The ordinance passed by the council, however, makes no mention of income level.

In order to get the reduced rate, a senior citizen must request it. Murphy reported that one such request was made by an individual who owned his home and property.

Since the ordinance makes no mention of income level, Murphy was obliged to give the individual the reduced rate.

He said he didn't think that's fair because he was not even aware that the council had voted on that arrangement.

Tax vote could be special Valentine for Thompson

Herschel Hale hopes to get a special valentine for Thompson High School next Tuesday.

The passage of a three-mill property tax on February 14 will make it possible for the outdated facility to be replaced, said Hale, speaking before the Alabaster City Council Monday.

"It's our turn," said Hale. "We have voted to upgrade other school systems, and now it is Alabaster's and Thompson's turn."

Hale said that possible sites for a new high school are on County Road 264, behind Thompson Elementary and near the present football field.

If the property tax is approved, the construction of the new facility could begin by 1987, according to Hale, who said that some school board members have toured the present building and considered it in bad enough condition to be razed.

"There were plans to build a new school 14 years ago," Hale said, "but nothing was done." Since then, he feels the tremendous growth which the area has made, makes it necessary to start planning immediately for a new facility.

By enrollment, Thompson is the largest high school in the county, with about 830 students.

complaints about the operation of a junkyard on the edge of the subdivision.

Herzog urged the city to find some way to make the owner of the junkyard fence his property or "ultimately put him out of business."

Mayor Doc Rubin noted that the city had already tried to find some remedy for the subdivision residents, but because the yard existed before the area was annexed, the city could not close the man's business.

Councilman Reagin recommended that Herzog talk to the city attorney to see if any legal action could be taken.

Hollings barnstorms through Shelby County

Democratic presidential candidate Ernest 'Fritz' Hollings turned his attention Monday from New Hampshire to Alabama.

At a press conference at the University of Montevallo, Sen. Hollings of South Carolina announced the selection of Birmingham attorney David Olive as his Alabama campaign coordinator.

Olive is a media law specialist who teaches the topic at UM.

"I'm tickled to death," said Olive. "Senator Hollings is the only one of the democratic candidates that offers any substance at all."

The former governor of South Carolina said his goal in the upcoming New Hampshire primary, the nation's first, is "to place in there with a good vote."

He refused to pinpoint his idea of a "good vote", but quipped that last place would not be satisfactory.

He said he would not consider accepting the vice presidential slot, should he rate poorly in New Hampshire. Hollings said he would prefer to remain in the US Senate where he feels he would be more effective.

"Performance is better than promises," Hollings said of his attempt to gain the democratic nomination. "As governor, I have experience in administering programs, rather than just proposing them," he said.

Reiterating his plans for improving the economy, Hollings said he wants, "Congress to stop, look and listen." He said he wants to freeze the budget for one year, then go ahead with small increases in defense and other programs.

Following the press conference, Hollings was the guest of honor at a reception at the home of UM's president. Hollings also stopped in Birmingham and Montgomery during his two-day swing through Alabama.

Mondale names coordinator

Kevin Vincent of Columbiana has been named as Walter Mondale's temporary coordinator for Shelby County.

Vincent, who is pledged to the presidential candidate, has also qualified as a candidate for delegate to a Democratic National Convention in San Francisco. His name will appear on the ballot throughout the 7th Congressional District -- which includes Shelby County -- in the March 13 primaries.

"I'll be calling around, trying to get volunteers involved and trying to drum up general interest," Vincent said.

A law student at the University of Alabama, Vincent holds an engineering degree from there and graduated from Shelby County High School in 1979. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oakley G. Vincent of Columbiana.

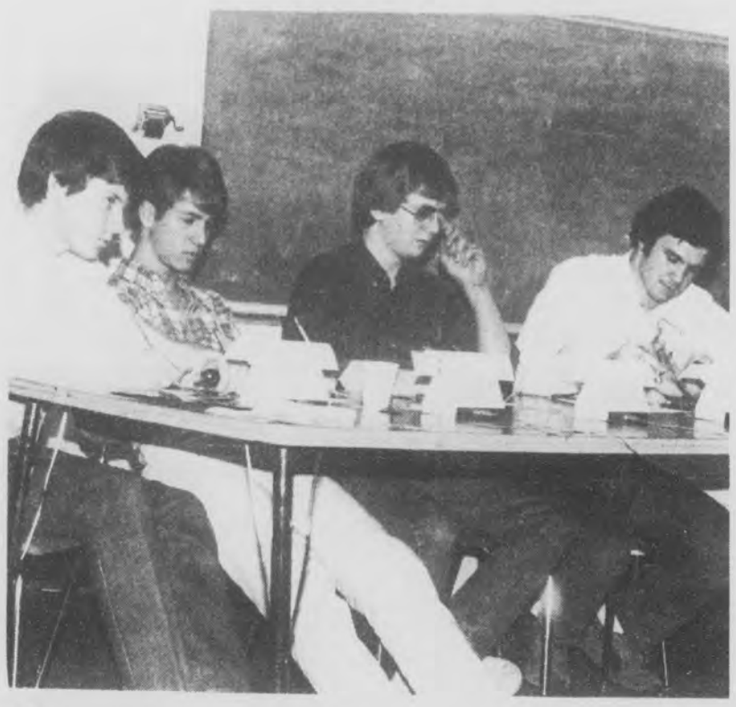
Pelham wins Scholars Bowl



Champions--again

Going for Pelham High's second straight Scholars Bowl title are academic champions Steve Johnson, Paul Routten, Sam Williams and Danny Smith. (photos by Fred Guarino)

Which Shelby County High School has the smartest students of them all?

If you go by the results of the second annual Shelby County High School Scholar's Bowl, the resounding answer to that question is Pelham.

Pelham, which was the host school for the tournament of academic mania, beat out Shelby County, Thompson, Montevallo, Calera and Vincent in a four and a half hour question and answer competition.

The Panthers whipped closest challenger Shelby County with five victory rounds and 855 points to four victory rounds and 675 points.

The Montevallo Bulldogs actually won more rounds than the Thompson Warriors, 3-2, but the Warriors complicated the third place decision by outscoring Montevallo 625 points to 600 points.

Calera won one round of questions and scored 315 points to edge Vincent, which won no rounds and which scored 310 points.

Chelsea High School did not compete.

Almost as if rubbing their victory in the face of their opponents, not only did the Panthers win the scholarly action but their Steve Johnson walked away with top individual honors to boot. He scored 240 points alone.

Second place individual honors went to both Montevallo's James Acker and Thompson's Stewart Moore who scored 130 points each.

The fourth place individual winner was Jon Binkerd who scored 120 of Shelby County's points.

An early indication of the final outcome of last Thursday's event came when round leaders Pelham and Shelby County faced each other. From a tie of two rounds each, the Panthers blasted into the lead on a 210 to 65 point victory.

Showing that Pelham was really on top of things, Panther Danny Smith added to the frustration of the Wildcats by protesting the use of the word Russia.

While objection was not sustained, Smith pointed out that Russia is now officially known as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. He added that technically no country named Russia exists.

If you are wondering just how tough this competition was, try this question on for size:

"If you were a chess king standing on a periodic table of elements, name an element to which you could legally move?"

The answer is Antimony and Pelham's squad got it right.

The Pelham victory is the school's second straight in scholar's bowl competition.

Vincent-Calera competition

Vincent and Calera Scholars go head-to-head and buzzer-to-buzzer in the second annual high school Scholars Bowl competition held at Pelham last Thursday. Vincent team members (from left) are Troy Datcher, Noelle Bouchet, Tracy Kelley and Mike Otwell. Calera's representatives sitting to the right are are Al Mickle, Rhett Prichard, Andrea Pearson and Michelle Pearson.

Churches observe 74th Scouting birthday

The 74th birthday of Boy Scouts of America was observed Sunday in churches across Shelby County and America.

Woody Woodward of area headquarters in Birmingham said he knew of at least three churches in the county which held special services in observance of 'Boy Scout Sunday': Christ Church United Methodist on Caldwell Mill Road, sponsor of troop 5; Our Lady of The Valley, sponsor of troop 71; K Springs Church of God in Chelsea, sponsor of troop 354.

He listed other county troops and their sponsors as: 20, Elliottsville Cumberland Presbyterian; 548, American Legion in Alabaster; 559, Montevallo Rotary Club; 333, Calera United Methodist; 560, Columbiana Kiwanis Club; 549, Harpersville Methodist; 558, Town of Wilsonville; 554, Wilton Methodist; 550, Camp Branch Methodist; 547, Jesus Christ Latter Day Saints, Caldwell Mill Road; 532, Helena United Methodist.

The groups also sponsor cub scout packs.

Since February 8, 1910 over 70 million boys have joined the scouts. In the Birmingham area council--of which Shelby County is a part--17,000 men and boys were involved during the past year.

According to Woodward, there are now 350 boy scouts and 800 cub scouts in Shelby County.

Around 700 boy scouts and 200 leaders from Shelby and south Jefferson counties are expected to convene the weekend of February 17-19 at Brierfield Park, south of Montevallo, for a district "camporee." They will set up camp on Friday afternoon and pack up after church services on Sunday morning.

According to Chelsea scout leader Elbert Pittman, church services are a policy of the National Order of Scouting. He said that most people probably don't realize that when scouts go on weekend camping trips, they always observe church services.

DA files civil suit in registrars' case

Shelby County District Attorney Billy Hill has filed a civil suit to collect overcharges by the former board of registrars.

The overcharges came to light during an audit completed by the State of Alabama Examiners of Public Accounts published last October.

The audit claimed that a total of $6,945 was overcharged to the county commission by former registrar chairman Doris Turner, former registrar S.M. Mahan, and J.T. Spates who still serves on the board.

The audit and suit also names Tommy Snowden as being jointly liable through his position as chairman of the county commission.

The suit was filed February 1 in Shelby County Circuit Court. As of this Monday, papers had either not yet been served or not yet filed on Spates and Snowden.

"We decided to go ahead and file since this thing's been so lengthy," Hill said.

He expects to meet sometime this month with attorneys for the four defendants to present the state's records on the overcharges.

DID YOU KNOW?

It would take a lot of windmills to replace a nuclear power plant.

Much talk has been made about using the wind as a source for electricity. The most advanced wind turbines available are rated at about 4 megawatts. Assuming a continuous wind speed of 20 miles an hour—a pretty stiff breeze—you'd need at least 250 of these towering machines to equal the capacity of a single 1,000 megawatt nuclear plant.

Editorial opinion

Looking at bottom line schools need new tax

If anything lately has stirred up local opinion, it's the proposed three-mill school tax. Strong pros and cons have been voiced and written, but at the bottom line -- where it counts the most -- the schools need the money.

Initially, the board of education did a poor job of explaining to the people of Shelby County just what the tax will do, how it will be used, and details as to just why and where it's needed.

It is unfortunate that no public meetings were held to discuss the proposed tax; that more time was not made available to study the issue. After all, when it comes to requiring people to dig into their pockets, again -- for cookies, magazine subscriptions, whatever -- giving them a full explanation on the use of the money is not much to ask. This is especially so when asking for 'revenue enhancements'. But now, most of the questions have been answered.

If opponents were concerned with waste in the system, the matter should have been dealt with during the 1982 elections. It should have been attacked last year, and again this year, when the board planned its budget for the $26 million in taxes it already gets from us.

Other opponents, with cause, still question the share -- or lack of share -- their schools would receive from the added tax. Their basic question -- 'What's in it for us?' -- is a legitimate point, for them.

The quality of public education affects each and every resident of Shelby County. It affects all our futures. An additional three-mill tax won't cure all our educational woes at all county schools. But it will help.

Alabama and Shelby County pump relatively little into public education, and we get pretty much what we pay for.

It's all just a matter of where one draws the bottom line. We draw the line at the feet of our youth, and contend that we can surely afford three mills more in taxes that will, in the long run, benefit us all.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

On the hottest day of summer, without warning, a junebug lit in Pat's buttermilk.

They were building the railroad, out past Sawmill Hill and a scattering of shotgun houses, and a dirt road with deep ruts in it, left over from the winter rains. Three dozen Irishmen, brought in by the company, and housed in a work car, were a mile from town.

The year was 1900, before street lights and paved walks and inside bathrooms and store-bought bread. Before autos and victrolas and bobbed hair and electric stoves and ceiling fans. Before $3 a pound steak and 40 cent apples and 45 cent bananas. Before a dollar a dozen eggs and two dollar a pound bacon and rubber tires and steering wheels and hundred dollar shoes.

April had gone, and May and June, and now on Thursday it was the 20th of July. April is bluebird nests in old fence posts and tiny blue violets and clouds with tears in their eyes. May is rooster-heads and kneehigh corn and half ripe tomatoes and stumped toes and short pants. June is vacations and wash-holes and bankwalkers and junebugs and corn tassels.

It was dinner time and they were sitting on a little bank with their dinner pails open. Pat had a bucket of buttermilk some lady had brought out that morning and sold to him for a dime. He took three swallows from the bucket and put it down, against a rock.

Over a little hill a man's hounds were chasing a rabbit. Pat stopped eating and listened. "Hope they chase 'im this way," he said.

"What'd you do with 'im?" someone asked.

"I'd clean 'im and cook 'im and bring 'im with me tomorrow."

He took another swallow from his bucket and leaned back, stretching his legs. And then, without warning, a junebug lit in Patrick O'Hara's buttermilk.

He lifted him out and put him in his mouth and sucked him clean. "Go, dern it," he snapped, "as clean as you come!"

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

What has happened in the Department of Aeronautics in recent weeks would make an intriguing stage production. It has all the ingredients of a long-running play -- anger, passion, intrigue. It would be categorized as a tragedy, because the "good guy" lost. Here is a rough draft of the script:

Scene One: Jim Rowe, the department director, points his finger at his assistant director, Wheeler Foshee, a political appointee, and accuses him of incompetence and says the $43,000 paid to him each year could be better used making Alabama's airports safer.

Scene Two: Foshee, who has friends in high places and a brother in the Senate, rallies his supporters. A special legislative committee is created to investigate Rowe's charges.

Scene Three: The committee, rather than determine if Foshee is qualified and needed, attacks Rowe instead. He is hounded so unmercifully that he retires.

Scene Four: Committee chairman Sen. Charles Bishop of Jasper, in the limelight for the first time in his new political career, announces private eye hired to investigate Rowe's administration and casts all sorts of inferences of wrong-doing.

Scene Five: Sen. Bishop announces investigation has proved Rowe guilty of no wrongdoing, in fact, he is "standing tall." Rowe may be standing tall, but he is out of his job. Meanwhile, Foshee is seen headed to the bank with his $43,000. As curtain falls, state employees who had contemplated blowing the whistle on waste in state government are seen running for cover.

* * * *

Odds and Ends -- H.L. (Sonny) Callahan of Mobile, who served three terms in the Legislature as a Democrat, has been politically born again as a Republican and will run for Congress under that party label this fall. Callahan, who lost in a bid for lieutenant governor in 1982, hopes to succeed Congressman Jack Edwards, also a Republican, who has announced he will not seek reelection...

Speaking of Republicans, US Sen. Jeremiah Denton has said in an interview that he knows he needs to do some political fence-mending if he hopes to be more than a one-term senator. He has already begun making repairs in anticipation of a bid for reelection in 1986...

The regular session of the Alabama Legislature which begins shortly may prove to be one of the most costly one in years. Some major tax increases will be sought by the Wallace Administration, and this time around they will be called just that, not "revenue enhancements." Boosts in taxes on gasoline seem very probable, also a tax on soft drinks.

Reader opinions

Writer will vote 'yes' because future is in hands of children

Letter to the Editor:

I know it must annoy the citizens of Alabama to constantly be told they have the lowest property taxes in 50 states. I know too, they get tired of hearing that their school children rank low on the totem pole of test scores. But truth has a way of surfacing again and again. Not only are the previous statements true; but Alabama is also 20 years behind in the progress of education.

Property taxes are, in North Carolina, 4 or 5 times what they are here, providing a more even balance in school funding. North Carolinians realize that the children of today are the leaders of tomorrow.

Our future, however, is in the hands of the children at the bottom of the totem pole. I'll pay whatever it takes to improve conditions, instructional tools, facilities and opportunities, in Alabama Public Schools. And, as a Trustee of my child's school I will work diligently to see that money is allocated fairly and that our school is given due consideration in matters of progress.

As the American philanthropist, Peter Cooper, wrote, "Neither piety, virtue, nor liberty can long flourish in a community where the education of youth is neglected."

I will vote 'yes' for the small 3 mills increase in property tax on February 14. The progress of education in Shelby County and ultimately in Alabama can be predicted on the outcome of this election.

School is for 'have's' and the 'have-nots'

Letter to the Editor:

Re: The letter from W.S. Goad in which he stated he is "opposed to voting in a tax that will never be withdrawn." I would like to point out that the proposed 3 mill property tax is a 20 year tax.

He also states that the Board of Education has not presented a plan for the use of such taxes. The Reporter published the county's capital outlay plans which outlines the construction and renovation for each school by name.

Re: The letter from M.D. Griffin in which she states that only property owners pay property tax. I would like to point out that landlords collect rent from tenants and use part of that income to pay property tax on the rental property. Each time you purchase a loaf of bread, some small part of the purchase price goes to pay the property tax on the grocery store. In that way, we all pay our share of property tax.

Re: People with many children in school who pay no direct property tax. I would like to point out that it is the purpose of our public education system to provide an education to the public, the 'haves' and the 'have nots'. It is sometimes called the American Way.

Sincerely,

Shelby bucks the tax proposal

Letter to the Editor:

I have noted with interest in the past few weeks the articles and letters which support and oppose the proposed three mill tax to be voted on February 14, 1984. Many of us in Shelby (edited) have decided to withhold support for the aforementioned tax. The reasons are as follows:

1.) Shelby Elementary will receive none of the capital funds generated by the proposed tax. Our school building is a 1939 structure which exists with no improvements other than the addition of electricity, in-door plumbing, and a telephone. The Shelby Elementary PTO has in the past provided by fund raising efforts $23,000 for the building and improvement of a gymnasium on the school grounds. The only funds provided by the county on this project was for the purchase and installation of carpeting of the gymnasium floor.

n addition, the PTO has purchased other items such as a photocopier, fans for our school which is not air conditioned, and we are now preparing to purchase a computer. We receive only the minimal basic support from the county. I challenge the superintendent of education to show that the expenditure per pupil holds true at Shelby Elementary.

2.) The current superintendent has failed to give straight anwers to questions presented on behalf of the PTO at board meetings. He was immovable in his decision to remove our second grade teacher and mobile classroom. The enrollment of the first and second grade has increased and the children continue to be faced with the high teacher-pupil ratio and crowded conditions.

When the trustee elections were held the superintendent failed to honor our considerations. These are a few of the incidents which have lead us to the conclusion that his concerns are more political in nature than in support of better education for Shelby County.

3.) The percentage of budget derived from local support for Shelby County is 22% (county taxes) and the state wide average is 15%.

4.) Our school is small and this is in part due to the unequal distribution of zoning lines. Within 1½ miles of the school, students are zoned for Elvin Hill Elementary. This affects the size of the student population, funding, the number of teachers, and many other considerations.

While I understand the other county schools wishes for better and bigger facilities, many of us at Shelby wish to receive equal consideration. If the administration in force was sympathetic to our concerns and would take action to improve the educational and environmental standards of our school, then I would support the three mill tax.

Sincerely,
Renee Clayton

Reader wants youth out of dark

Letter to the Editor:

Last week two letters opposing the proposed three mill property tax increase for education were printed in the Shelby County Reporter. I would like to take exception to the several statements made in those letters.

"I know people who have 4 & 5 children in school that do not own property, and they get the same benefits from our schools as people who pay property tax."

Does this mean that if I pay more taxes than the writer, my children deserve a better education than hers? If those children get the excellent education every child in Shelby County deserves, they will most probably grow up to be taxpayers themselves. The quality of their education will affect the quality of the writer's life and the quality of her childrens' lives.

"Did it (the previously passed one cent sales tax) all go for increases in salaries?"

Heaven forbid that we pay the people who help shape our childrens' lives -- the only shaping some will get -- a decent salary. If you multiply the number of hours most teachers put in by the number of children taught and divide by salary, it will be less than babysitter's wages. I want intelligent, knowledgeable professionals teaching my children. If you pay for babysitters, you get babysitters.

"Perhaps our new Superintendent of Education does not want us to know how it (the tax) will be used."

This information has been available for some time, but the article on page A-2 of last week's SCR explains the plans in more detail. Ellie Glasscox's determination to bring Shelby County's schools from the dark ages into the space age -- which is exactly where I want my children to be -- is going to take much more than three mills, and I am willing to pay it.

UM president urges support for tax vote

Letter to the Editor:

As the father of one of the 12,300 or so students in the Shelby County School System... as a native Alabamian who credits all he is or ever will be to the benefits of public education... as an educator committed to the absolute necessity of increasing local support of local schools in one of the State's most prosperous counties, I urge the people of Shelby County to go to the polls on February 14 and to vote themselves an educational (and economic) Valentine in the form of the additional three-mill ad valorem tax.

Sincerely,
James F. Vickrey, Jr.
President
University of Montevallo

Can we afford not to vote for more millage?

Letter to the Editor:

As a tax-paying landowner in Shelby County, I believe the central question to be considered by each of us in the matter of an additional three mills of ad valorem tax is can we afford not to approve this additional millage. I am convinced that we must favorably approve the referendum in order for Shelby County to develop a quality educational program for all students in this area.

As the parent of two school-aged children, I strongly urge everyone to vote yes on this very important matter.

Sincerely,
Joe Brindley

Planned tornado will test area readiness

Thursday, February 16 a tornado will terrorize the entire State of Alabama.

But this tornado will do no actual damage. In fact, it will be only a figment of imagination -- or better yet, of preparation.

To help Alabamians learn how to handle themselves during tornado watches and warnings, the National Weather Service and Alabama Civil Defense will conduct a statewide drill next Thursday.

In the event of actual bad weather, the drill will be rescheduled.

The make-believe tornado drill will be conducted with the help of the Alabama Department of Education, amateur radio clubs, and the news media, as well as state and local officials.

Here's what to expect:

Sometime during the day, a practice tornado watch will be issued by the weather service in Birmingham, and will be relayed over all normal communications channels.

It will be different from an actual watch in that it will be in effect for the entire state -- and that it will be emphasized as a drill only.

Sometime during the watch period, a tornado warning (clearly labled as a drill) will be issued.

During actual warnings, local weather offices would issue the warning for specific counties.

All warning systems will be asked to activate for the drill. Thursday, the National Weather Service will activate radio alarms, and sirens will be sounded in areas where approved by Civil Defense.

Cooperating radio and TV stations will interrupt local programing to broadcast the warning. The warning will be in effect for 20 minutes.

Purple, Gold carry tradition

University of Montevallo students and alumni will cheer for their favorite team again during this year's Homecoming on Saturday, Feb. 18.

But at Montevallo it is not a football or basketball game that rallies the students and brings alumni back to campus. It is the competition between two student teams vying to create and present the best original musical theatre production.

The annual student extravaganza is called College Night. UM students have presented the original production since 1910.

College Night is so strong a tradition that it became the focus of Montevallo's annual Homecoming in 1940.

While Homecoming is only one day, College Night encompasses four days, and the planning and rehearsals last for four weeks. The Purple and Gold teams, representing the school colors, will perform four consecutive nights beginning Wednesday, Feb. 15.

Students write the scripts, design the sets, stage the productions, choreograph the dances and perform all the other requirements of a production. During the month preceding the shows, the Purple and Gold teams also compete in intramural sports.

Each side has its own officers, orchestras, directors, actors, cheerleaders, songs, cheers and mascots - a gold lion and a purple cow.

Erecting a team sign is a ritual during the beginning of the four-week preparation period, as students walk to the site together led by the cheerleaders and a drummer.

Team leaders elected for this year are Virginia Young of Huntsville and Klinte Kallies of Fultondale, representing the Gold team; and Beth Killough of Greenville and J.B. Brown of Rocky Ridge in Jefferson County, representing the Purple team.

After the final performances in Palmer Hall on Saturday night, off-campus judges will select the winner using a complex formula that includes the results of the intramural games. Purples hold the edge in this unique competition 34-29, with class years winning in 1919 and 1920.

While tickets to the Saturday Homecoming performances are hard to obtain because alumni and team members buy them out early, campus visitors usually can get a ticket at the door to the other three performances which begin at 8 p.m.

Mental health workers attend workshops

The Chilton-Shelby County Mental Health Center has taken steps to improve the productivity of its staff and to help other organizations.

The center's staff attended workshops on management team building and performance appraisal.

"These programs will enable the center to assist other organizations in the Calera area interested in improving productivity and job performance," said director John Brumley.

"The mental health center also offers assistance to employers of the area with the development of employee assistance programs -- a positive approach to assisting employees with problems," he adds.

VOCAL sets meet

Birmingham police officer Carl Jones will speak at a meeting of the Jefferson County Chapter of Victims of Crime (VOCAL) February 14.

The meeting will be held at the FOP Lodge on Green Springs Highway beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone who has been a victim of crime or whose family has been affected by a criminal act, is invited to attend.

Others interested in supporting the group are also welcome.

For further information call 945-1304.

Interested in England?

A slide-illustrated lecture on studying and touring in England will be presented February 15 in the University of Montevallo's LeBaron Recital Hall.

The presentation is being made by UM philosophy and religion professor Dr. Frank Hoffman.

A representative of the American Institute of Foreign Studies will be present at the 7:30 event to discuss specific programs available.

'Big Buck' winners won't tell secrets

by Fred Guarino

If you ever want to know anything about the best hunting places in Shelby County...

If you ever want to know how to kill the big buck...

Don't bother asking Darrell Dawson, Junior McCluskey or Robert Brooks.

These guys may have beat out 61 other area hunters for the top three 'Big Buck' awards presented by Vandiver Trading Post, but they are most unwilling to give up any secrets.

As far as that goes, they won't even give straight answers to where they live. (All claim to be from Vandiver, but sources have it they truly live in Sterrett...)

Take Dawson for example. Please! He killed a 180-pound, seven point, first prize buck this year. Ask him where he shot it.

"In the body," he responds.

"Hey, I don't disclose my places...," he adds with a look that would freeze deer -- and most reporters -- in their tracks.

About the only thing the bearded, stone-faced Dawson will say is that he uses a 12 gauge shotgun pump, and that he usually goes after game with dogs or by stalking.

Ask how long he's been hunting: "Thirty something years."

Ask him how many deer he usually gets a year: "Usually about six."

Ask him how many he killed this time: "This year I didn't get but six."

Grrr...

What about the art of hunting? What does it take to be successful?

"It just takes patience, tracking and scouting the territory. A lot of hard work is what it amounts to," Dawson replies.

Only upon being pushed -- if you are brave enough -- will Dawson tell you that he begins scouting deer about a month prior to hunting season, although he adds that it's really best to start in the spring. "You start from there and in the fall, concentrate on where they are at."

Junior McCluskey is another one who refuses to give out information.

If you ever hope to learn anything about this man's hunting style, you've got to find him first. Then you have to listen to some pretty tall tales.

McCluskey has been hunting for 15 years, and claims a total kill of 140 deer. Last year he won the first Vandiver Trading Post Big Buck Award with a 178-pound, 11 pointer.

This year, when picture taking time came around and McCluskey learned his 158 lb. eight pointer had been beaten by Dawson, he left word at his house that he had "gone fishing."

Only a phone call from Dawson ever got McCluskey to come out of hiding.

McCluskey has a friendlier looking face than Dawson, and his kill was good enough for second place this year. But his friendly face belies openess.

Ask him where he shot his second prize winner: "I ain't telling, either."

About all he will say is that he normally hunts with dogs and a 7 mm magnum. "It has a longer range than a .306."

He will also tell you that he is known for using a 76-pound pull, Bear Alaskan Bow.

Ask him what he attributes his success to: "I've got the biggest light." (That's a joke... we hope).

Ask about scouting hunting spots, this guy will only say that he does it all year.

"For buck, look for rubs and scrapes a little early, but for doe you can turn loose just about anywhere in this part of the country," he says with a smile.

From that point, this is what you get:

"I got brothers that won't let me hunt with them. They accuse me of having the best stands, dogs and places," the champion hunter pouts .

"I have to hunt by myself because my four brothers are so jealous they won't let me go with them. One named Michael didn't even kill a deer this year," he laughs with evil delight.

From there he tells you about seeing bears in Shelby County and about mountain lions he's heard about.

Robert Brooks, who placed third with a 150-pound, eight pointer this season, is younger than his two counterparts, but he has already learned not to give away secrets.

Brooks has been hunting about four years and he killed 12 deer this season alone. His choice of weapon is the .306.

While Brooks won't say where he does his hunting, he will admit, "I scout about two weeks before deer season comes. Rainy days make the best time I like to hunt."

Dawson will only say that he likes to hunt all deer season long and McCluskey will only tell you that he hunts "whenever the sun is shining."

So much for getting good hunting advice...

The 'Big Buck' awards are presented annually by Leo Parker. First and second place carry cash awards and trophies, while third place receives only a trophy.

Friendly disrespect

Showing a friendly lack of respect for each other are Vandiver Trading Post "Big Buck" Award winners Junior McCluskey, Darrell Dawson and Robert Brooks. McCluskey clinches his fist because he won the hunting title last year only to lose to Dawson this time. Brooks draws a bead on Dawson's ear because he killed 12 deer this season and still finished third. It is all in fun of course... isn't it? (photo by Fred Guarino)

UM coach reaches milestone, wants more

Career win number 300 did not come easy for UM Falcon coach Bill Elder.

But the 61-58 victory over Auburn-Montgomery has not stopped the Falcon coach from celebrating or from looking for bigger and better things from his club.

"It was nice to get win 300 but it will be nicer to get number 301 next Saturday against Birmingham-Southern," Elder said of the recent milestone and upcoming shoot-out.

The celebration is not all ego. The win put Elder's career at 300-168 in 17 years of coaching and at 182-109 at Montevallo. But more importantly it put the Falcons in a tie for second place in the Southern State Conference with AUM and Athens State.

That's what makes this Saturday's Birmingham-Southern game so important.

The Panthers lead the conference in which UM now holds second place. They barely beat Montevallo 43-41 the last time the arch rivals met, on a shot with just four seconds left in the game.

A victory could give UM a chance at winning the regular season title.

"It's a big game for us in that we need to finish as high in the conference as possible and hopefully qualify for a first round bye in the SSC tournament," Elder said.

Against Auburn-Montgomery, the Falcons were led by All American candidate Anthony Clause with 25 points. With his help UM upped its over-all record to 17-7 and to 4-3 in the SSC.

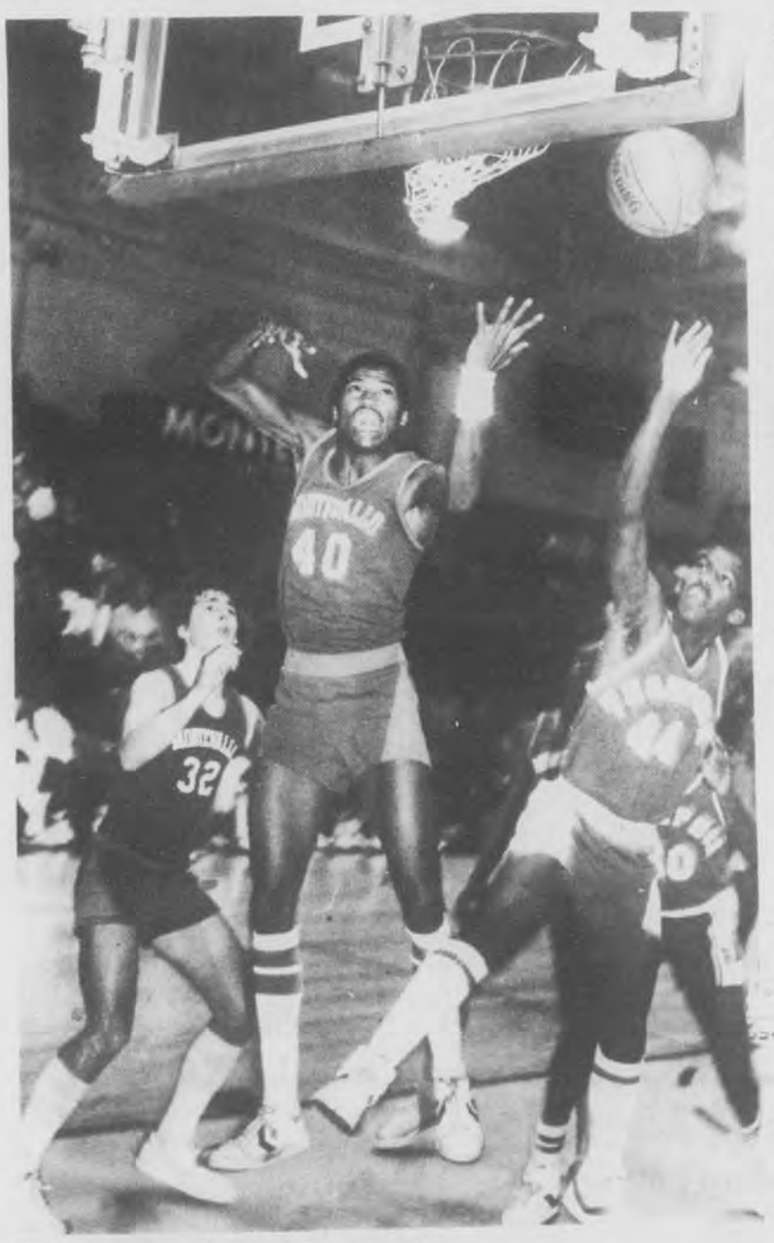
The University of Montevallo Lady Golden Falcons basketball team has continued to get outstanding play from its members. The ladies have swept the NAIA District 27 'Player of the Week' award for the past six weeks.

The latest Golden Falcon to get the award is 5'7" freshman guard Lynette French.

"The honors that the players are receiving are a testament to how far this program has come this year," said coach Bud Childers.

"When you consider the program was 7-38.... and that we are now 10-9..." he said, it "shows that the players are doing something right."

UM players of the week, for the past six weeks have been: Judy Perkins, once; Karen Scott, twice; Sharen Douglas, twice; and French, once.



Reaching for rebounds

Thompson makes it clear, Warriors are winners

A dense fog -- so thick that you couldn't see past the headlights of your car -- made getting to and from Montevallo almost impossible Friday night.

But for those who managed to arrive at the UM campus in time to see Montevallo High's Bulldogs take on the Thompson Warriors, the situation was crystal clear.

Thompson, coming off a county championship loss to Pelham, was anxious to return to winning ways. They did that easily with a 64-38 victory.

With only 29 ticks left on the third period clock, the Warriors led the Bulldogs by 20 points, 44-24.

Although coach Kurt Pnazek's charges played inspired defense in the fourth stanza, they couldn't stop the run-away Thompson.

Thompson poured it on -- with the help of Bulldog fouls -- to pull away to 54-30 at one point and finally to 64-38 when the clock mercifully ran out.

Making the win even more impressive for Thompson was the appearance of freshman sensation Elliott Bivins. Just up from B-team action, the youngster scored ten points.

Coach Thomas Johnson's squad was ably paced by Tony Hale with 15 points, and Todd Harris with 11.

For the Bulldogs, standouts Tommy Bivins and Taylor Blackwell were good enough for ten points each.

The loss left Montevallo at 9-9, while the Warriors upped their tally to 18-6.

Heart Run comes to Oak Mt

It may not be the biggest race in the world, but the Birmingham Heart Run to be held at Oak Mountain State Park, Saturday, February 18 certainly will be an important one.

According to race director Dr. Adam Robertson, the event will be held to raise $3,000 for the American Heart Association. The money will go to the Jefferson-Shelby County Heart Association to help fund heart research.

From there, "Some of the funds will go to the national organization and some to the local chapter," Dr. Robertson said. But, he quickly pointed out, the local area probably gets more out of the national association than it puts in, because of the heart research at UAB (University of Alabama in Birmingham).

But there's more... not only will the race be fun but it is ac-

Vincent wins third straight track title

Those Vincent girls are at it again!

At what?

At winning the varsity high school state indoor 1A-2A track championships and reaping a lion's share of glory.

Coached by Jim and Debbie Barnes, for the third straight year in a row and for the fourth time in six years, the Yellow Jackets took top honors in a recently held championship competition in Montgomery.

On top of that, Wanda McCrimon -- the 17-year old senior who has run track five years for Vincent -- was named the state meet's Outstanding Female Athlete.

That is no minor accomplishment. She had to beat out all female athletes in the event from 1A to 4A levels.

To claim the top female award and to place Vincent at the top of 1A-2A standings, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis McCrimon won the high jump event with a jump of 5' 4", the long jump with a leap of 16' 6.5", and the 60-yard low-hurdles with a time of 8.97.

She also finished fifth in the 60-yard dash.

Along with her teammates, McCrimon led the Yellow Jackets to a 78 point tally which was good enough to crush their closest competitor, St. Paul's, which scored 44.

Helping the Yellow Jackets on their way to victory was Teresa Peterson who won the 440 with a time of 1.05 minutes, who placed second in the 60-yard dash, who placed second in the long jump with a leap of 15' 6.6", and who placed sixth in the low hurdles.

If that wasn't enough, Ane Stone won the shot-put with a throw of 34' 7.5". Sheron Kelley finished second in that event with a throw of 33' 3.75".

The mile relay team placed sixth with the efforts of Tabitha Datcher, Shirley Russell, Marjorie Hall and Tonya Hardy.

Not to be overlooked, the Vincent varsity boys also had a good day in Montgomery. Their fifth place meet finish was their best ever in state indoor track competition.

Jerome Mann placed third in the 60-yard low-hurdles; Eric Posey placed fith in the 60-yard low-hurdles; Phillip Bruno finished fifth in the two-mile and sixth in the mile; and Earl Lawson finished sixth in the 880.

The big moment of the day for the boys was a third place finish in the mile relay. The team included Mann, Cecil Keller, Scotty Kelley and Craig Fair.

Baseball, softball gear up for action

Winter may not be gone yet, but spring-time sports are already gearing up for action.

For starts, on Saturday, February 11, the Alabaster Dixie Youth baseball and softball league will begin registration for boys ages 6-12 and girls ages 5-17.

Registration will take place at the Alabaster Depot from 3-9 p.m. and will go for second and third rounds February 18 and 25.

Birth certificates and registration fees will be required. Fees are $25 for the first child in a family and $15 for each additional child who participates in the league's activities.

Opening day ceremonies will be held Saturday, March 31.

The Columbiana adult softball league for men and women is looking for players.

To become involved in this organization, which plays ball at Columbiana's Graham Field, call league commissioner Hank Lucas at 669-9856.

Lucas requests that calls be made before 10 p.m. on weeknights.

The league is now in its second season.

Horse winners

Horsemen win big

Shelby County horsemen earned their just desserts recently, when trophies and ribbons were handed out by the Alabama Horseman's Association.

When point totals for the 1983 horse show season were added up, the names of Shelby County equestrians were at or near the top in most divisions.

Jessica Ann Eisenberg claimed four of the high point awards in hunter, juvenile Western, Western performance and 4-H.

The Eisenberg's Triple E Farm was the high point barn for the state.

Another high point award went to 4-H member Beth Bowman who won the Arabian division.

First place ribbions went to: Jennifer Page, hunt seat equitation on the flat; halter-mares, Stann Mahan; junior horse, four years and under, David Thomas; men's Western pleasure, Western pleasure open, Earl Compton.

High point road horse, roadster pony open, Fred Thompson; Antique and Novelty driving, Western pleasure pony 50" and under, Max Eisenberg; 58" Western pleasure pony-riders 17 and under, Jinger Pilkerton.

SA to play donkey r-ball

Donkey basketball is coming to Shelby Academy, Saturday, February 18.

The event to help raise funds for the school will begin at 7 p.m. in the school gym. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Sports readers' opinions

Writer disagrees about team

Letter to the Editor:

In response to Mr. Bobby L. Harris' editorial in the Feb. 2 edition, I would like to thank him for taking the time to write and congratulate Coach Taylor and the Pelham basketball team.

Coach Taylor is truly an outstanding coach, as well as being a great builder of character. Playing for him during my basketball career at PHS is one of the biggest highlights of my life.

However, I tend to disagree with Mr. Harris' opinion of Pelham having basketball players with less talent. One only has to look at the players who are currently playing college or jr. college ball. Jeff Adams (Class of '81) plays at Montevallo, Devin Tubert ('83) at Vol State (Tn.) JUCO and David Toner ('83) at Jeff State JUCO.

I don't believe any other school in the county can boast that three of their former players are currently playing college ball. In addition, this year's senior trio of Brian Hughes, Kyle Hutchison and Eddie Reeves have all been contacted by colleges or JUCO's. And when one speaks of talent, who can forget sophomore John North? (In my opinion, the MVP of the County tournament.) I believe college coaches will be flocking to the "hill' to see him play when he's a senior.

In closing, I would like to congratulate Coach Taylor and the team for winning the second of many.

He has built a program that is not only tops in basketball, but in doing it with class. Coach, I'll see you and the team in Tuscaloosa.

Sincerely,
John Tuttle

Listings back up Panther ability

Letter to the Editor:

This is in response to Mr. Harris' letter of last week commenting on Pelham Athletics. It was gracious of Mr. Harris to make such glowing comments about our basketball coach, Tony Taylor. All of the nice things he said were accurate and deserved.

It is unfortunate however, that the writer could not also find something nice to say about the 1984 Panther team. He made reference to players "with little natural ability." Could it be that Mr. Harris has not seen the Pelham Panthers in action this year? What are Mr. Harris' coaching credentials?

Some interesting facts about the Pelham basketball program include:

1. Panthers defeated Montevallo, Vincent and Thompson during the regular season.

2. Coach Taylor's players "lacking in ability" also defeated Berry, Mt. Brook, Shades Valley and Vestavia.

3. The team won second place in the Berry Invitational Tournament.

4. The Panther season record is now exactly the same as Thompson's.

5. Panther players have been chosen by the Birmingham News sportswriters as "Player of the Week."

6. College scouts are frequently seen at Pelham games to watch our players.

7. Former players in the PHS basketball program now play for colleges in Alabama.

Could it be that Mr. Harris is uncomfortable having some competition?

I want to congratulate each member of the 1984 Shelby County Championship Team at Pelham High School. The hard work and dedication have made a very successful season. The final measure of ability is performance.

Sincerely,
B.W. Bramblett

tually a health benefit.

This year's race will include a two mile fun run (with refreshments at the finish line), as well as a ten kilometer run and a ten mile run which will feature aid stations along the way.

In addition, race finishers will receive certificates of accomplishment in all age groups and the Birmingham Dietetic Center will put on a nutrition fair with fruits and fruit punch.

The 10K and 10 mile top finishers will receive special awards.

The races will be run in the park's picnic area and will take participants around the golf course and lake. The two-mile fun run will begin at 9 a.m. Both the 10K and 10 mile race will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Last year an estimated crowd of 500 ran the race and about $2,500 was raised.

But what about the health benefit?

Benefits from running include the prevention of health problems like cardiovascular artery disease, lung disease and high blood pressure.

One might imagine that Dr. Robertson is a running enthusiast and he is. The physician for Cooper Green Hospital's emergency room, Robertson is a past president of the Birmingham Track Club and he helped start the Birmingham Heart Run at Oak Mountain five years ago.

Entry fees this year are $6 in advance and $8 late. The deadline is Wednesdav. February 15.

Application forms may be picked up where running shoes are sold. More information: 870-5912.

'Big Buck' winners won't tell secrets

by Fred Guarino

If you ever want to know anything about the best hunting places in Shelby County...

If you ever want to know how to kill the big buck...

Don't bother asking Darrell Dawson, Junior McCluskey or Robert Brooks.

These guys may have beat out 61 other area hunters for the top three 'Big Buck' awards presented by Vandiver Trading Post, but they are most unwilling to give up any secrets.

As far as that goes, they won't even give straight answers to where they live. (All claim to be from Vandiver, but sources have it they truly live in Sterrett...)

Take Dawson for example. Please! He killed a 180-pound, seven point, first prize buck this year. Ask him where he shot it.

"In the body," he responds.

"Hey, I don't disclose my places...," he adds with a look that would freeze deer -- and most reporters -- in their tracks.

About the only thing the bearded, stone-faced Dawson will say is that he uses a 12 gauge shotgun pump, and that he usually goes after game with dogs or by stalking.

Ask how long he's been hunting: "Thirty something years."

Ask him how many deer he usually gets a year: "Usually about six."

Ask him how many he killed this time: "This year I didn't get but six."

Grrr...

What about the art of hunting? What does it take to be successful?

"It just takes patience, tracking and scouting the territory. A lot of hard work is what it amounts to," Dawson replies.

Only upon being pushed -- if you are brave enough -- will Dawson tell you that he begins scouting deer about a month prior to hunting season, although he adds that it's really best to start in the spring. "You start from there and in the fall, concentrate on where they are at."

Junior McCluskey is another one who refuses to give out information.

If you ever hope to learn anything about this man's hunting style, you've got to find him first. Then you have to listen to some pretty tall tales.

McCluskey has been hunting for 15 years, and claims a total kill of 140 deer. Last year he won the first Vandiver Trading Post Big Buck Award with a 178-pound, 11 pointer.

This year, when picture taking time came around and McCluskey learned his 158 lb. eight pointer had been beaten by Dawson, he left word at his house that he had "gone fishing."

Only a phone call from Dawson ever got McCluskey to come out of hiding.

McCluskey has a friendlier looking face than Dawson, and his kill was good enough for second place this year. But his friendly face belies openess.

Ask him where he shot his second prize winner: "I ain't telling, either."

About all he will say is that he normally hunts with dogs and a 7 mm magnum. "It has a longer range than a .306."

He will also tell you that he is known for using a 76-pound pull, Bear Alaskan Bow.

Ask him what he attributes his success to: "I've got the biggest light." (That's a joke... we hope).

Ask about scouting hunting spots, this guy will only say that he does it all year.

"For buck, look for rubs and scrapes a little early, but for doe you can turn loose just about anywhere in this part of the country," he says with a smile.

From that point, this is what you get:

"I got brothers that won't let me hunt with them. They accuse me of having the best stands, dogs and places," the champion hunter pouts .

"I have to hunt by myself because my four brothers are so jealous they won't let me go with them. One named Michael didn't even kill a deer this year," he laughs with evil delight.

From there he tells you about seeing bears in Shelby County and about mountain lions he's heard about.

Robert Brooks, who placed third with a 150-pound, eight pointer this season, is younger than his two counterparts, but he has already learned not to give away secrets.

Brooks has been hunting about four years and he killed 12 deer this season alone. His choice of weapon is the .306.

While Brooks won't say where he does his hunting, he will admit, "I scout about two weeks before deer season comes. Rainy days make the best time I like to hunt."

Dawson will only say that he likes to hunt all deer season long and McCluskey will only tell you that he hunts "whenever the sun is shining."

So much for getting good hunting advice...

The 'Big Buck' awards are presented annually by Leo Parker. First and second place carry cash awards and trophies, while third place receives only a trophy.

Friendly disrespect

Showing a friendly lack of respect for each other are Vandiver Trading Post "Big Buck" Award winners Junior McCluskey, Darrell Dawson and Robert Brooks. McCluskey clinches his fist because he won the hunting title last year only to lose to Dawson this time. Brooks draws a bead on Dawson's ear because he killed 12 deer this season and still finished third. It is all in fun of course... isn't it? (photo by Fred Guarino)

UM coach reaches milestone, wants more

Career win number 300 did not come easy for UM Falcon coach Bill Elder.

But the 61-58 victory over Auburn-Montgomery has not stopped the Falcon coach from celebrating or from looking for bigger and better things from his club.

"It was nice to get win 300 but it will be nicer to get number 301 next Saturday against Birmingham-Southern," Elder said of the recent milestone and upcoming shoot-out.

The celebration is not all ego. The win put Elder's career at 300-168 in 17 years of coaching and at 182-109 at Montevallo. But more importantly it put the Falcons in a tie for second place in the Southern State Conference with AUM and Athens State.

That's what makes this Saturday's Birmingham-Southern game so important.

The Panthers lead the conference in which UM now holds second place. They barely beat Montevallo 43-41 the last time the arch rivals met, on a shot with just four seconds left in the game.

A victory could give UM a chance at winning the regular season title.

"It's a big game for us in that we need to finish as high in the conference as possible and hopefully qualify for a first round bye in the SSC tournament," Elder said.

Against Auburn-Montgomery, the Falcons were led by All American candidate Anthony Clause with 25 points. With his help UM upped its over-all record to 17-7 and to 4-3 in the SSC.

The University of Montevallo Lady Golden Falcons basketball team has continued to get outstanding play from its members. The ladies have swept the NAIA District 27 'Player of the Week' award for the past six weeks.

The latest Golden Falcon to get the award is 5'7" freshman guard Lynette French.

"The honors that the players are receiving are a testament to how far this program has come this year," said coach Bud Childers.

"When you consider the program was 7-38.... and that we are now 10-9..." he said, it "shows that the players are doing something right."

UM players of the week, for the past six weeks have been: Judy Perkins, once; Karen Scott, twice; Sharen Douglas, twice; and French, once.

Vincent wins third straight track title

Those Vincent girls are at it again!

At what?

At winning the varsity high school state indoor 1A-2A track championships and reaping a lion's share of glory.

Coached by Jim and Debbie Barnes, for the third straight year in a row and for the fourth time in six years, the Yellow Jackets took top honors in a recently held championship competition in Montgomery.

On top of that, Wanda McCrimon -- the 17-year old senior who has run track five years for Vincent -- was named the state meet's Outstanding Female Athlete.

That is no minor accomplishment. She had to beat out all female athletes in the event from 1A to 4A levels.

To claim the top female award and to place Vincent at the top of 1A-2A standings, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis McCrimon won the high jump event with a jump of 5' 4", the long jump with a leap of 16' 6.5", and the 60-yard low-hurdles with a time of 8.97.

She also finished fifth in the 60-yard dash.

Along with her teammates, McCrimon led the Yellow Jackets to a 78 point tally which was good enough to crush their closest competitor, St. Paul's, which scored 44.

Helping the Yellow Jackets on their way to victory was Teresa Peterson who won the 440 with a time of 1.05 minutes, who placed second in the 60-yard dash, who placed second in the long jump with a leap of 15' 6.6", and who placed sixth in the low hurdles.

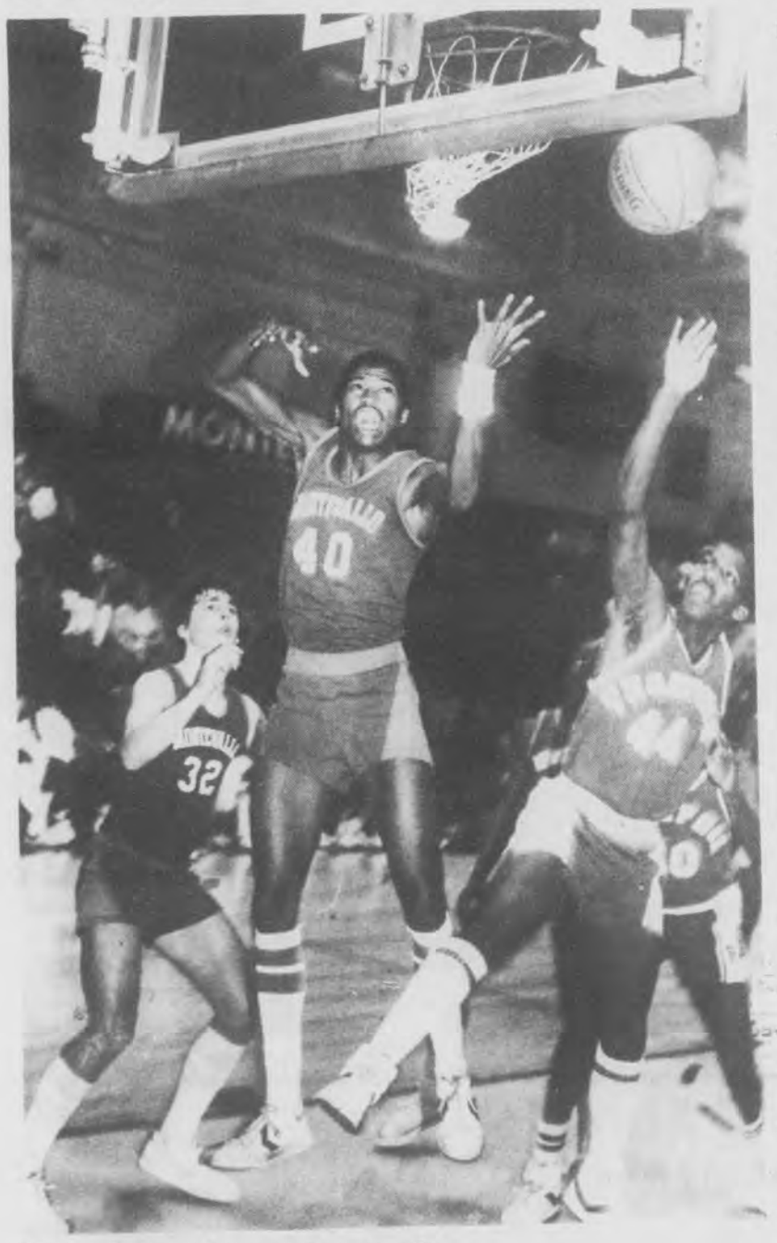
If that wasn't enough, Ane Stone won the shot-put with a throw of 34' 7.5". Sheron Kelley finished second in that event with a throw of 33' 3.75".

The mile relay team placed sixth with the efforts of Tabitha Datcher, Shirley Russell, Marjorie Hall and Tonya Hardy.

Not to be overlooked, the Vincent varsity boys also had a good day in Montgomery. Their fifth place meet finish was their best ever in state indoor track competition.

Jerome Mann placed third in the 60-yard low-hurdles; Eric Posey placed fith in the 60-yard low-hurdles; Phillip Bruno finished fifth in the two-mile and sixth in the mile; and Earl Lawson finished sixth in the 880.

The big moment of the day for the boys was a third place finish in the mile relay. The team included Mann, Cecil Keller, Scotty Kelley and Craig Fair.



Reaching for rebounds

Going for a rebound in a contest played at the University of Montevallo Friday night are Montevallo Bulldogs Taylor Blackwell (32), Terry Rutledge (40), and Thompson Warrior Richard Kidd. (photo by Fred Guarino)

Thompson makes it clear, Warriors are winners

A dense fog -- so thick that you couldn't see past the headlights of your car -- made getting to and from Montevallo almost impossible Friday night.

But for those who managed to arrive at the UM campus in time to see Montevallo High's Bulldogs take on the Thompson Warriors, the situation was crystal clear.

Thompson, coming off a county championship loss to Pelham, was anxious to return to winning ways. They did that easily with a 64-38 victory.

With only 29 ticks left on the third period clock, the Warriors led the Bulldogs by 20 points, 44-24.

Although coach Kurt Pnazek's charges played inspired defense in the fourth stanza, they couldn't stop the run-away Thompson.

Thompson poured it on -- with the help of Bulldog fouls -- to pull away to 54-30 at one point and finally to 64-38 when the clock mercifully ran out.

Making the win even more impressive for Thompson was the appearance of freshman sensation Elliott Bivins. Just up from B-team action, the youngster scored ten points.

Coach Thomas Johnson's squad was ably paced by Tony Hale with 15 points, and Todd Harris with 11.

For the Bulldogs, standouts Tommy Bivins and Taylor Blackwell were good enough for ten points each.

The loss left Montevallo at 9-9, while the Warriors upped their tally to 18-6.

Heart Run comes to Oak Mt

It may not be the biggest race in the world, but the Birmingham Heart Run to be held at Oak Mountain State Park, Saturday, February 18 certainly will be an important one.

According to race director Dr. Adam Robertson, the event will be held to raise $3,000 for the American Heart Association. The money will go to the Jefferson-Shelby County Heart Association to help fund heart research.

From there, "Some of the funds will go to the national organization and some to the local chapter," Dr. Robertson said. But, he quickly pointed out, the local area probabiy gets more out of the national association than it puts in, because of the heart research at UAB (University of Alabama in Birmingham).

But there's more... not only will the race be fun but it is ac-

Baseball, softball gear up for action

Winter may not be gone yet, but spring-time sports are already gearing up for action.

For starts, on Saturday, February 11, the Alabaster Dixie Youth baseball and softball league will begin registration for boys ages 6-12 and girls ages 5-17.

Registration will take place at the Alabaster Depot from 3-9 p.m. and will go for second and third rounds February 18 and 25.

Birth certificates and registration fees will be required. Fees are $25 for the first child in a family and $15 for each additional child who participates in the league's activities.

Opening day ceremonies will be held Saturday, March 31.

The Columbiana adult softball league for men and women is looking for players.

To become involved in this organization, which plays ball at Columbiana's Graham Field, call league commissioner Hank Lucas at 669-9856.

Lucas requests that calls be made before 10 p.m. on weeknights.

The league is now in its second season.

Horsemen win big

Shelby County horsemen earned their just desserts recently, when trophies and ribbons were handed out by the Alabama Horseman's Association.

When point totals for the 1983 horse show season were added up, the names of Shelby County equestrians were at or near the top in most divisions.

Jessica Ann Eisenberg claimed four of the high point awards in hunter, juvenile Western, Western performance and 4-H.

The Eisenberg's Triple E Farm was the high point barn for the state.

Another high point award went to 4-H member Beth Bowman who won the Arabian division.

First place ribbions went to: Jennifer Page, hunt seat equitation on the flat; halter-mares, Stann Mahan; junior horse, four years and under, David Thomas; men's Western pleasure, Western pleasure open, Earl Compton.

High point road horse, roadster pony open, Fred Thompson; Antique and Novelty driving, Western pleasure pony 50" and under, Max Eisenberg; 58" Western pleasure pony-riders 17 and under, Jinger Pilkerton.

Sports readers' opinions

Writer disagrees about team

Letter to the Editor:

In response to Mr. Bobby L. Harris' editorial in the Feb. 2 edition, I would like to thank him for taking the time to write and congratulate Coach Taylor and the Pelham basketball team.

Coach Taylor is truly an outstanding coach, as well as being a great builder of character. Playing for him during my basketball career at PHS is one of the biggest highlights of my life.

However, I tend to disagree with Mr. Harris' opinion of Pelham having basketball players with less talent. One only has to look at the players who are currently playing college or jr. college ball. Jeff Adams (Class of '81) plays at Montevallo, Devin Tubert ('83) at Vol State (Tn.) JUCO and David Toner ('83) at Jeff State JUCO.

I don't believe any other school in the county can boast that three of their former players are currently playing college ball. In addition, this year's senior trio of Brian Hughes, Kyle Hutchison and Eddie Reeves have all been contacted by colleges or JUCO's. And when one speaks of talent, who can forget sophomore John North? (In my opinion, the MVP of the County tournament.) I believe college coaches will be flocking to the "hill' to see him play when he's a senior.

In closing, I would like to congratulate Coach Taylor and the team for winning the second of many.

He has built a program that is not only tops in basketball, but in doing it with class. Coach, I'll see you and the team in Tuscaloosa.

Sincerely,
John Tuttle

Listings back up Panther ability

Letter to the Editor:

This is in response to Mr. Harris' letter of last week commenting on Pelham Athletics. It was gracious of Mr. Harris to make such glowing comments about our basketball coach, Tony Taylor. All of the nice things he said were accurate and deserved.

It is unfortunate however, that the writer could not also find something nice to say about the 1984 Panther team. He made reference to players "with little natural ability." Could it be that Mr. Harris has not seen the Pelham Panthers in action this year? What are Mr. Harris' coaching credentials?

Some interesting facts about the Pelham basketball program include:

1. Panthers defeated Montevallo, Vincent and Thompson during the regular season.

2. Coach Taylor's players "lacking in ability" also defeated Berry, Mt. Brook, Shades Valley and Vestavia.

3. The team won second place in the Berry Invitational Tournament.

4. The Panther season record is now exactly the same as Thompson's.

5. Panther players have been chosen by the Birmingham News sportswriters as "Player of the Week."

6. College scouts are frequently seen at Pelham games to watch our players.

7. Former players in the PHS basketball program now play for colleges in Alabama.

Could it be that Mr. Harris is uncomfortable having some competition?

I want to congratulate each member of the 1984 Shelby County Championship Team at Pelham High School. The hard work and dedication have made a very successful season. The final measure of ability is performance.

Sincerely,
B.W. Bramblett

tually a health benefit.

This year's race will include a two mile fun run (with refreshments at the finish line), as well as a ten kilometer run and a ten mile run which will feature aid stations along the way.

In addition, race finishers will receive certificates of accomplishment in all age groups and the Birmingham Dietetic Center will put on a nutrition fair with fruits and fruit punch.

The 10K and 10 mile top finishers will receive special awards.

The races will be run in the park's picnic area and will take participants around the golf course and lake. The two-mile fun run will begin at 9 a.m. Both the 10K and 10 mile race will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Last year an estimated crowd of 500 ran the race and about $2,500 was raised.

But what about the health benefit?

Benefits from running include the prevention of health problems like cardiovascular artery disease, lung disease and high blood pressure.

One might imagine that Dr. Robertson is a running enthusiast and he is. The physician for Cooper Green Hospital's emergency room, Robertson is a past president of the Birmingham Track Club and he helped start the Birmingham Heart Run at Oak Mountain five years ago.

Entry fees this year are $6 in advance and $8 late. The deadline is Wednesdav, February 15.

Application forms may be picked up where running shoes are sold. More information: 870-5912.

'Big Buck' winners won't tell secrets

Friendly disrespect

Showing a friendly lack of respect for each other are Vandiver Trading Post "Big Buck" Award winners Junior McCluskey, Darrell Dawson and Robert Brooks. McCluskey clinches his fist because he won the hunting title last year only to lose to Dawson this time. Brooks draws a bead on Dawson's ear because he killed 12 deer this season and still finished third. It is all in fun of course... isn't it? (photo by Fred Guarino)

UM coach reaches milestone, wants more

Career win number 300 did not come easy for UM Falcon coach Bill Elder.

But the 61-58 victory over Auburn-Montgomery has not stopped the Falcon coach from celebrating or from looking for bigger and better things from his club.

"It was nice to get win 300 but it will be nicer to get number 301 next Saturday against Birmingham-Southern," Elder said of the recent milestone and upcoming shoot-out.

The celebration is not all ego. The win put Elder's career at 300-168 in 17 years of coaching and at 182-109 at Montevallo. But more importantly it put the Falcons in a tie for second place in the Southern State Conference with AUM and Athens State.

That's what makes this Saturday's Birmingham-Southern game so important.

The Panthers lead the conference in which UM now holds second place. They barely beat Montevallo 43-41 the last time the arch rivals met, on a shot with just four seconds left in the game.

A victory could give UM a chance at winning the regular season title.

"It's a big game for us in that we need to finish as high in the conference as possible and hopefully qualify for a first round bye in the SSC tournament," Elder said.

Against Auburn-Montgomery, the Falcons were led by All American candidate Anthony Clause with 25 points. With his help UM upped its over-all record to 17-7 and to 4-3 in the SSC.

The University of Montevallo Lady Golden Falcons basketball team has continued to get outstanding play from its members. The ladies have swept the NAIA District 27 'Player of the Week' award for the past six weeks.

The latest Golden Falcon to get the award is 5'7" freshman guard Lynette French.

"The honors that the players are receiving are a testament to how far this program has come this year," said coach Bud Childers.

"When you consider the program was 7-38.... and that we are now 10-9..." he said, it "shows that the players are doing something right."

UM players of the week, for the past six weeks have been: Judy Perkins, once; Karen Scott, twice; Sharen Douglas, twice; and French, once.

Vincent wins third straight track title

Those Vincent girls are at it again!

At what?

At winning the varsity high school state indoor 1A-2A track championships and reaping a lion's share of glory.

Coached by Jim and Debbie Barnes, for the third straight year in a row and for the fourth time in six years, the Yellow Jackets took top honors in a recently held championship competition in Montgomery.

On top of that, Wanda McCrimon -- the 17-year old senior who has run track five years for Vincent -- was named the state meet's Outstanding Female Athlete.

That is no minor accomplishment. She had to beat out all female athletes in the event from 1A to 4A levels.

To claim the top female award and to place Vincent at the top of 1A-2A standings, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis McCrimon won the high jump event with a jump of 5' 4", the long jump with a leap of 16' 6.5", and the 60-yard low-hurdles with a time of 8.97.

She also finished fifth in the 60-yard dash.

Along with her teammates, McCrimon led the Yellow Jackets to a 78 point tally which was good enough to crush their closest competitor, St. Paul's, which scored 44.

Helping the Yellow Jackets on their way to victory was Teresa Peterson who won the 440 with a time of 1.05 minutes, who placed second in the 60-yard dash, who placed second in the long jump with a leap of 15' 6.6", and who placed sixth in the low hurdles.

If that wasn't enough, Ane Stone won the shot-put with a throw of 34' 7.5". Sheron Kelley finished second in that event with a throw of 33' 3.75".

The mile relay team placed sixth with the efforts of Tabitha Datcher, Shirley Russell, Marjorie Hall and Tonya Hardy.

Not to be overlooked, the Vincent varsity boys also had a good day in Montgomery. Their fifth place meet finish was their best ever in state indoor track competition.

Jerome Mann placed third in the 60-yard low-hurdles; Eric Posey placed fith in the 60-yard low-hurdles; Phillip Bruno finished fifth in the two-mile and sixth in the mile; and Earl Lawson finished sixth in the 880.

The big moment of the day for the boys was a third place finish in the mile relay. The team included Mann, Cecil Keller, Scotty Kelley and Craig Fair.

Thompson makes it clear, Warriors are winners

A dense fog -- so thick that you couldn't see past the headlights of your car -- made getting to and from Montevallo almost impossible Friday night.

But for those who managed to arrive at the UM campus in time to see Montevallo High's Bulldogs take on the Thompson Warriors, the situation was crystal clear.

Thompson, coming off a county championship loss to Pelham, was anxious to return to winning ways. They did that easily with a 64-38 victory.

With only 29 ticks left on the third period clock, the Warriors led the Bulldogs by 20 points, 44-24.

Although coach Kurt Pnazek's charges played inspired defense in the fourth stanza, they couldn't stop the run-away Thompson.

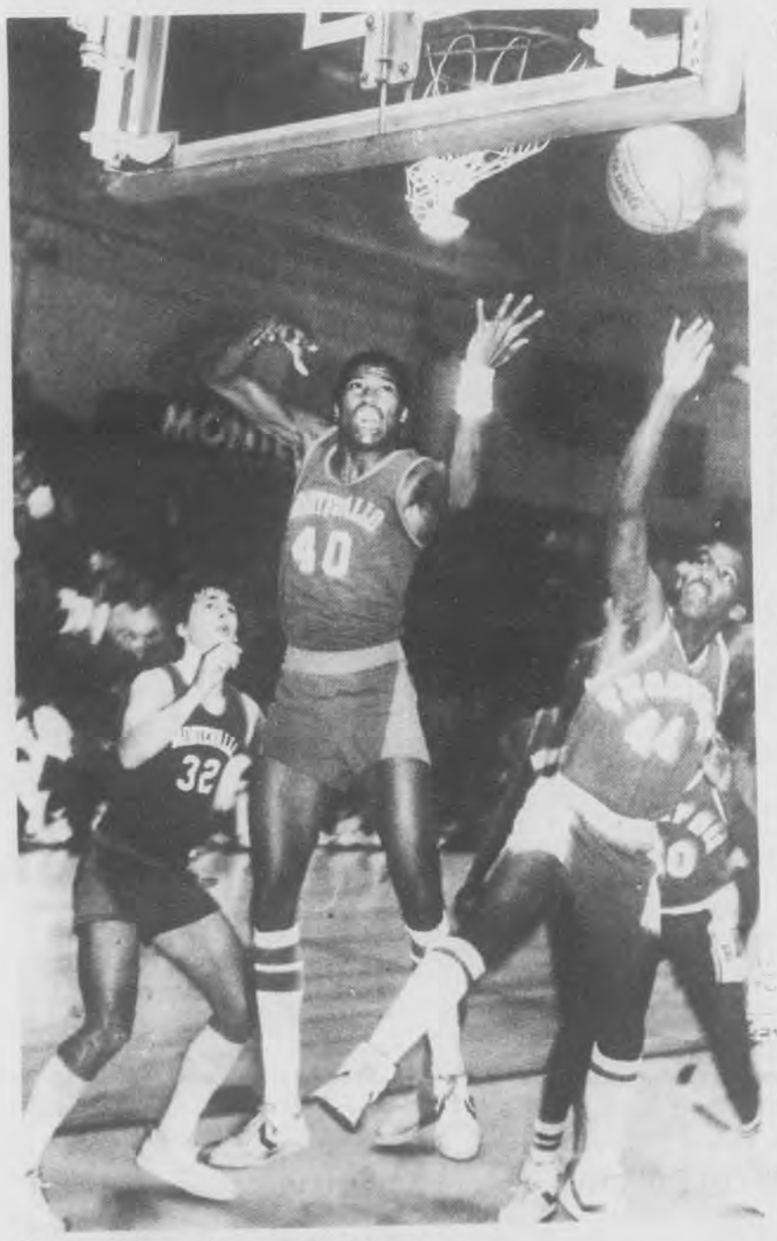
Thompson poured it on -- with the help of Bulldog fouls -- to pull away to 54-30 at one point and finally to 64-38 when the clock mercifully ran out.

Making the win even more impressive for Thompson was the appearance of freshman sensation Elliott Bivins. Just up from B-team action, the youngster scored ten points.

Coach Thomas Johnson's squad was ably paced by Tony Hale with 15 points, and Todd Harris with 11.

For the Bulldogs, standouts Tommy Bivins and Taylor Blackwell were good enough for ten points each.

The loss left Montevallo at 9-9, while the Warriors upped their tally to 18-6.



Reaching for rebounds

Heart Run comes to Oak Mt

It may not be the biggest race in the world, but the Birmingham Heart Run to be held at Oak Mountain State Park, Saturday, February 18 certainly will be an important one.

According to race director Dr. Adam Robertson, the event will be held to raise $3,000 for the American Heart Association. The money will go to the Jefferson-Shelby County Heart Association to help fund heart research.

From there, "Some of the funds will go to the national organization and some to the local chapter," Dr. Robertson said. But, he quickly pointed out, the local area probabiy gets more out of the national association than it puts in, because of the heart research at UAB (University of Alabama in Birmingham).

But there's more... not only will the race be fun but it is ac-

Baseball, softball gear up for action

Winter may not be gone yet, but spring-time sports are already gearing up for action.

For starts, on Saturday, February 11, the Alabaster Dixie Youth baseball and softball league will begin registration for boys ages 6-12 and girls ages 5-17.

Registration will take place at the Alabaster Depot from 3-9 p.m. and will go for second and third rounds February 18 and 25.

Birth certificates and registration fees will be required. Fees are $25 for the first child in a family and $15 for each additional child who participates in the league's activities.

Opening day ceremonies will be held Saturday, March 31.

The Columbiana adult softball league for men and women is looking for players.

To become involved in this organization, which plays ball at Columbiana's Graham Field, call league commissioner Hank Lucas at 669-9856.

Lucas requests that calls be made before 10 p.m. on weeknights.

The league is now in its second season.

Horsemen win big

Shelby County horsemen earned their just desserts recently, when trophies and ribbons were handed out by the Alabama Horseman's Association.

When point totals for the 1983 horse show season were added up, the names of Shelby County equestrians were at or near the top in most divisions.

Jessica Ann Eisenberg claimed four of the high point awards in hunter, juvenile Western, Western performance and 4-H.

The Eisenberg's Triple E Farm was the high point barn for the state.

Another high point award went to 4-H member Beth Bowman who won the Arabian division.

First place ribbions went to: Jennifer Page, hunt seat equitation on the flat; halter-mares, Stann Mahan; junior horse, four years and under, David Thomas; men's Western pleasure, Western pleasure open, Earl Compton.

High point road horse, roadster pony open, Fred Thompson; Antique and Novelty driving, Western pleasure pony 50'' and under, Max Eisenberg; 58'' Western pleasure pony-riders 17 and under, Jinger Pilkerton.

SA to play donkey r-ball

Donkey basketball is coming to Shelby Academy, Saturday, February 18.

The event to help raise funds for the school will begin at 7 p.m. in the school gym. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Sports readers' opinions

Writer disagrees about team

Letter to the Editor:

In response to Mr. Bobby L. Harris' editorial in the Feb. 2 edition, I would like to thank him for taking the time to write and congratulate Coach Taylor and the Pelham basketball team.

Coach Taylor is truly an outstanding coach, as well as being a great builder of character. Playing for him during my basketball career at PHS is one of the biggest highlights of my life.

However, I tend to disagree with Mr. Harris' opinion of Pelham having basketball players with less talent. One only has to look at the players who are currently playing college or jr. college ball. Jeff Adams (Class of '81) plays at Montevallo, Devin Tubert ('83) at Vol State (Tn.) JUCO and David Toner ('83) at Jeff State JUCO.

I don't believe any other school in the county can boast that three of their former players are currently playing college ball. In addition, this year's senior trio of Brian Hughes, Kyle Hutchison and Eddie Reeves have all been contacted by colleges or JUCO's. And when one speaks of talent, who can forget sophomore John North? (In my opinion, the MVP of the County tournament.) I believe college coaches will be flocking to the ''hill' to see him play when he's a senior.

In closing, I would like to congratulate Coach Taylor and the team for winning the second of many.

He has built a program that is not only tops in basketball, but in doing it with class. Coach, I'll see you and the team in Tuscaloosa.

Sincerely,
John Tuttle

Listings back up Panther ability

Letter to the Editor:

This is in response to Mr. Harris' letter of last week commenting on Pelham Athletics. It was gracious of Mr. Harris to make such glowing comments about our basketball coach, Tony Taylor. All of the nice things he said were accurate and deserved.

It is unfortunate however, that the writer could not also find something nice to say about the 1984 Panther team. He made reference to players ''with little natural ability.'' Could it be that Mr. Harris has not seen the Pelham Panthers in action this year? What are Mr. Harris' coaching credentials?

Some interesting facts about the Pelham basketball program include:

1. Panthers defeated Montevallo, Vincent and Thompson during the regular season.

2. Coach Taylor's players ''lacking in ability'' also defeated Berry, Mt. Brook, Shades Valley and Vestavia.

3. The team won second place in the Berry Invitational Tournament.

4. The Panther season record is now exactly the same as Thompson's.

5. Panther players have been chosen by the Birmingham News sportswriters as ''Player of the Week.''

6. College scouts are frequently seen at Pelham games to watch our players.

7. Former players in the PHS basketball program now play for colleges in Alabama.

Could it be that Mr. Harris is uncomfortable having some competition?

I want to congratulate each member of the 1984 Shelby County Championship Team at Pelham High School. The hard work and dedication have made a very successful season. The final measure of ability is performance.

Sincerely,
B.W. Bramblett

Run at Oak Mt. benefits health

tually a health benefit.

This year's race will include a two mile fun run (with refreshments at the finish line), as well as a ten kilometer run and a ten mile run which will feature aid stations along the way.

In addition, race finishers will receive certificates of accomplishment in all age groups and the Birmingham Dietetic Center will put on a nutrition fair with fruits and fruit punch.

The 10K and 10 mile top finishers will receive special awards.

The races will be run in the park's picnic area and will take participants around the golf course and lake. The two-mile fun run will begin at 9 a.m. Both the 10K and 10 mile race will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Last year an estimated crowd of 500 ran the race and about $2,500 was raised.

But what about the health benefit?

Benefits from running include the prevention of health problems like cardiovascular artery disease, lung disease and high blood pressure.

One might imagine that Dr. Robertson is a running enthusiast and he is. The physician for Cooper Green Hospital's emergency room, Robertson is a past president of the Birmingham Track Club and he helped start the Birmingham Heart Run at Oak Mountain five years ago.

Entry fees this year are $6 in advance and $8 late. The deadline is Wednesdav, February 15.

Application forms may be picked up where running shoes are sold. More information: 870-5912.

DAR names new officers slate

David Lindsay Chapter DAR elected new officers at its February meeting.

The new officers who will assume their offices in May are Mrs. Karl Harrison, regent; Mrs. Ruth Coffman, first vice regent; Dr. Lucille Griffith, second vice regent; Mrs. James T. Davis, secretary; Mrs. Herschiel Meadows, treasurer; Mrs. W.J. Mathis, registrar; Mrs. John P. Kelly, chaplain; Mrs. Frank Ellis, historian and Mrs. Harry Atchison, librarian.

One of the highlights of the February meeting was the showing of 'The Road to Yorktown', a film depicting the final days of the American Revolution and the surrender of Cornwallis. The film was made for the Bicentennial celebration, and wasn't shown outside Yorktown until recently.

Carl C. Brown, president of the Alabama Branch of the Sons of the Revolution, spoke on the work of his organization in educating American children on the matter of their heritage and thus quickening their patriotism. He was accompanied by his wife, who is a DAR member, and Tyler Taylor of Virginia, who is the past president of the National organization SOR.

Plans were announced for the state DAR meeting in Birmingham to be held March 13-15.

Walk on water

Mark Johnson as Jesus (left) urges Steve Davis to walk onto the water and join him as an exercise in faith. Looking on from 'the boat' are Stewart Moore as Pilot and John Draper as Matthew. It's all part of an unusual musical gospel that'll be playing at area churches in the near future. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Gospel musical plays locally

A teacher, a pharmacist and two students -- one in high school, the other in college -- have teamed up to bring a musical gospel to Shelby County and surrounding areas.

The four men comprise the cast of a production entitled, 'Cotton Patch Gospel'. It's the story of what might happen if Jesus came today, to Gainesville, Ga.

Cast members are Calera High School teacher John Draper, Shelby Medical Center pharmacist Steve Davis, UAB junior Mark Johnson, Thompson High School senior Stewart Moore.

They are all members of Helena United Methodist Church.

The production was staged at Montevallo's University Baptist Church last week and at Calera United Methodist Church Wednesday evening.

Other performances will be at Pelham United Methodist Church, Feb. 12; Leeds United Methodist Church, Feb. 15; Montevallo United Methodist Church, Feb. 19.

The performance at Pelham begins at 7 p.m. Others start at 6:30.

Bookings are available through Draper: 663-7507.

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Montevallo, has been highly commended for its stewardship.

The church recently received the following resolution from the Rt. Rev. Ruman C. Stough, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Alabama, and the Diocesan Council:

"Whereas, St.Andrew's Church, Montevallo, has just completed the most successful stewardship program in its history; and Whereas, there are many other signs of vitality in its ministry as evidenced by its expanded outreach to the University of Montevallo; the addition of new members; the strong, positive leadership of its rector and vestry, etc.; Therefore be it Resolved, that the Diocesan Council and Bishop wish to commend the people, vestry, and rector of St. Andrew's for their faithful witness to the Gospel, and for their good ministry being exercised in and through their parish church."

The church was founded in 1860, and serves the Southwest Shelby County and North Chilton County areas.

Officers of the Vestry are Dr. Ted Wilson, senior warden; Dr. Michael Ford, junior warden; Charles Moyer, clerk, and Dr. Charles Majure, treasurer. Rev. Joseph L. Knott, rector, is also Episcopal Chaplain to the University of Montevallo.

70 Bushels Of Wheat Production

HOPCAID Liquid Fertilizer Can Help Reach That Goal!

GOAL: 70 bushels of wheat per acre is a big yield to aim for . . . but when you follow these three steps, your goal could be accomplished.

1. A soil test on your fields
2. Custom application of Thermogas/Hopcaid Liquid Fertilizer
3. If wanted, a second application over the top of your growing wheat with a nitrogen solution

Thermogas/Hopcaid liquid fertilizer applies a uniform, even distribution on your fields. Each individual plant is fed a balanced nutritional program because every drop has precisely the same analysis.

Whichever application you choose, broadcast or dribble, high quality phosphates and nitrogens are supplying continuous plant food through the growing season. Thermogas/Hopcaid can help make 70 bushels an acre a reality, not just a goal.

Call Thermogas/Hopcaid — we'll be ready when you are.

LEGAL NOTICE

State of Alabama
County of Shelby

Notice is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made, to-wit:

A Bill to be Entitled An Act

Relating to the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation; and create a Pelham Municipal Racing Commission for the regulation, licensing, qualification for licensing, and supervision of Greyhound racing, and wagering thereon; to prescribe the composition, qualification, appointment, terms of office; powers and duties of the commission; to prescribe certain qualificaitons for applicants for licenses; to provide for and regulate the pari-mutuels or certificate method or wagering within the enclosure of licensed race tracks; to provide for the distribution of license fees, taxes, commissions and other moneys received under the provisions of the act; and to provide certain penalties for the violation of this act and for other purposes relative thereto, and to provide for a referendum of the voters of the City of Pelham on the question of whether the act will become effective in said municipality; to authorize the employment by said Racing Commission of special legal counsel in addition to representation by the Office of the City Attorney of said city; to prohibit members of said Racing Commission from making political contributions; to provide for the severability of the parts, sections and provisions of said Act.

Be it Enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. A municipal Racing Commission is hereby created and established for and in the City of Pelham, a municipal corporation, and said Racing Commission is vested with the powers and duties specified in this Act, and all other powers necessary and proper to enable it to execute fully and effectually the purposes of the Act. The official name of said Commission shall be The Pelham Municipal Racing Commission, the same being sometimes referred to herein as the Racing Commission or the Commission. Said Commission shall consist of three (3) members to be appointed as hereinafter provided. The member of the Alabama Legislature representing House District 40 shall appoint one (1) member of said Commission to serve for a period of one (1) year from said effective date the Mayor of Pelham, Alabama shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of two (2) years from said effective date, and the City Council of Pelham, Alabama by majority vote of the members present shall appoint one (1) member to serve for a period of three (3) years from said effective date. As the terms of each Commission member shall expire, such member's successor shall be appointed for a period of three (3) years by the appointing authority who made the original appointment. If a vacancy shall occur for any reason, then that vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as original appointments are made. In the event that any vacancy shall exist on the Commission for a period in excess of thirty (30) days, then the Governor of the State Of Alabama shall fill such vacancy in lieu of appointement by the appointing authority as herein designated. Initial appointment of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission shall be made within fifteen (15) days after this act is approved by the voters of the City of Pelham, Alabama as is herein provided.

Section 2. All books, records, maps, documents and papers held by the Commission shall constitute public records, and be available for copying, examination and inspection during all normal business hours by any agency, official or person.

Section 3. The members of the Commission shall be qualified electors not less than twenty-one (21) years of age, who shall be resided in the City of Pelham for a the period of three (3) years next preceding their appointment. Each Commissioner shall take the same construtional oath of office as other municipal officers, and shall give bond payable to the City of Pelham in the amount of $25,000, conditioned that such member will faithfully and properly perform the duties of his office. The premiums on such bonds shall be paid by the Commission from the funds out of which the members of the Commission are compensated. The Commission may employ such assistants and employees as may be necessary. The Com,mission may also employ accounting, investigative, publicity and public relations and architectural firms for assistance in implementing and enforcing its duties under this Act.

The Commission shall select one of its members to act as Chairman thereof. The Chairman so selected shall hold office for a period of one (1) year or until his successor shall be selected. The Commision shall meet on the call of its Chairman, but no less than once each three (3) months for the conduct of its business.

A member of the Racing Commission must not be, nor shall he be, a member of any board of directors or an officer, partner or associate in any organization financially interested in any race track, or race meeting licensed by the Commission, or any licensee hereunder; nor shall he race any dog or be financially interested in any dog in any race meeting licensed by the Commision.

Section 4. The compensation of each member of the Commission shall be One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) per month. One (1) member of said Commission shall be required to be in attendance at each racing event and said designated mamber shall receive an additional Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem while engaged in the performance of his duties. Each Racing Commissioner engaged in the performance of his duties when traveling within the State of Alabama but outside Shelby County shall receive Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per diem and when traveling outside the State of Alabama, One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) per diem plus transportation expenses.

Section 5. The Finance Director or other chief fiscal officer of the City of Pelham shall be Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission, and shall collect all the license fees, taxes and moneys provided in this Act, and shall supervise, check and audit the operation of the pari-mutuels wagering pools and the conduct and distribution thereof.

Section 6. The Racing Commission shall have the authority to employ legal counsel of its selection to advise the commission and represent it in all proceedings. The compensation of such counsel shall be paid out of the general fund of the City of Pelham.

Section 7. It shall be the duty of the Racing Commission to carry out the provisions of this Act; and it shall have the following specific duties:

(1) To fix and set dates upon which racing meetings may be held or operated.

(2) To make an annual report to the governing body of the City of Pelham of its operation, showing its own actions and rulings, and receipts derived under the provisions of this Act, and such suggestions as it may deem proper for the more effective accomplishment of the purpose of this Act.

(3) To require each applicant to:

(a) If an individual, group of individuals or partnership, each individual or partner shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(b) If a corporation, each incorporator, stockholder, director, and officer shall be a resident of the State of Alabama for at least five (5) years immediately preceding the date of the license issued.

(c) Set forth on such application for a license the following information:

(i) The full name of each individual or partner, their business and home address, their present business, occupation, or profession, and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such individuals for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such application.

(ii) The name and address of each of the incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers of any corporation making such application and the present business, occupation, or profession of each of such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers and each residence and business address and each business, occupation, and profession engaged in by such incorporators, stockholders, directors, and officers for a period of fifteen (15) years prior to the date of such appplication.

(iii) The exact location where it is desired to conduct or hold a racing meet and a complete set of architectural renderings and construction plans showing the site, topography, the type of construction, the track design, and the concession plans, together with sufficient proof of capitalization to construct and operate said facility. If such proof of capitalization contemplates that a loan or other indebtedness will be incurred by such applicant, then the name and address of each person, firm or corporation making such loan or underwriting such indebtedness shall be given together with the written commitment of such person, firm or corporation to make such loan or underwrite such indebtedness.

(iv) Whether such racing plant is to be owned by applicant or leased, and if leased, the owner thereof shall meet the same residence requirements as an applicant and the same information shall be furnished for such owner as is required to be furnished for an applicant.

(v) If the applicant is to enter into a management contract with any person or legal entity, then such person or other legal entity shall meet the same residence requirement and the same information shall be furnished concerning such person or legal entity as is required of an applicant.

(vi) The kind of racing to be conducted and the dates requested.

(vii) Such other information as the Racing Commission may require.

(viii) To disclose any indictment for or conviction of any felony and any conviction of a misdemeanor involving a crime of moral turpitude on the part of the applicant, its officers, directors, stockholders, partners, associates, or any person financially interested in said applicant.

(4) To require an oath of every applicant, or by the president or executive officer of the association or corporation, stating that the information contained in the application is true.

(5) To make uniform rules and regulations governing the holding, conducting, and operating of all race tracks, race meetings, and races held in the City.

(6) Receive all applications for the initial license within thirty (30) days following the appointment of the Commissioners and to grant, reject or otherwise act upon all such applications within ten (10) days after the last day for receiving such applications.

(7) All books, records, maps, documents, and papers of the Commission, including those filed with the Commission as well as those prepared by or for it, shall at all times be open for the personal inspection at the office of the Commission during its normal business hours by any officer of the State of Alabama, or of any county, municipality, or other subdivision of the State, or of any official investigative body or committee, provided that such officer, investigative body or committee shall be authorized to carry out such inspection and examination, and no person having charge or custody thereof shall refuse this right to any officer or investigative body or committee, and it shall be the express duty of such person to assist such officer or committee in locating records or information desired by them. Any member or employee of the Commission who violated the provisions of this section shall be removed from office and forfeit his bond.

Section 8. Any person, association, or corporation desiring to operate a race track in the City of Pelham shall have the right to apply to the Commission, subject to the provisions of this Act, to hold and conduct one or more race meeting at such track each year, provided that no such license shall be granted to any person, association, or corporation, or to any track, for a period longer than three hundred (300) racing days in any one (1) year.

The Commission may extend said limitations of time for greyhound racing not to exceed three (3) days at any one track beyound the period otherwise provided by law so that any such track shall conduct a charity day or days of racing for any one or more recognized charities in the City of Pelham which has a tax exempt status as provided for under the Internal Revenue Code. The total of all profits derived for the operation of such racing on such charity days, including all moneys which would otherwise be received by the Commission as taxes for such days' operations, shall be and become a part of a charity trust fund for which such racing on such days is conducted. The charity trust fund shall be administered as directed by the Racing Commission.

In determining profits derived from such racing on such charity days, said profits shall include all taxes payable to the City of Pelham or any agency therof for such days' operations. The licensee of said tracks shall only be entitled to deduct from the profits accruing from all receipts on such charity days of racing their actual operating costs, which costs shall be those expenses incurred by the race track solely by reason of holding said charity days of racing and shall not be deemed to include such expenses constant from day to day and which would have been incurred had the race on that day not been held, including, but not limited to, such items as capital expenditures, interest on debts, real estate taxes and annual license fee, donations, bad debts, and such other items of daily or prorated expenses as the Commission may by rule prescribe and provided, however, that such expenses shall be deemed to be a donation to the charity or charities benefiting from said racing days.

There shall be only one greyhound dog racing facility in Pelham.

Section 9. No race or racing shall be permitted on Sunday. No person under nineteen (19) years of age shall be employed in any manner about said race track except as exercise boys, jockeys, handlers, grooms, ushers and concessionaires; nor shall persons under nineteen (19) years of age be permitted to attend any race.

Section 10. The original license issued in accordance with the terms of this Act shall be for a period to allow ten (10) full calendar years of racing following the construction and equipping of the racing plant or facility or for the length of time required for the amortization of the capital investment, whichever is longer, and shall be granted so as to expire on the 31st day of December following such ten (10) full calendar years of racing or the amortization of the capital investment. On or before the 1st day of December of the last year of the original license, the Racing Commission shall accept application in the manner, form and requiring the requisite qualifications all as prescribed in this Act for additional periods of not more than three (3) calendar years. On or befor the 1st day of January thereafter, the Commission shall convene to consider and act upon such applications. Subsequent applications shall be accepted and license issued in the same manner. If a licensee shall apply for a renewal license, the same shall not be denied except for good cause provided, however, the Commission may require that such licensee furnish the requisite information and meet the requisite qualifications required by this Act.

The license granted under this Act shall set forth in addition to any other information prescribed by the Racing Commission the name of the licensee, the location of the race track, duration of the race meeting and the kind of racing desired to be conducted and shall show the receipt by the Commission of a license fee set by the Commission, provided, however, that such license fee shall not exceed One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) annually. No such license shall be transferable, nor shall it apply to any other place, track, or enclosure except the one specified in the license.

Section 11. (a) The Commission may suspend or revoke the license of any licensee conducting a race meeting, upon the willful violation of any of the provisions of the Act, or any rule or regulation promulgated by the Commission or may invoke a fine not to exceed $10,000 per offense in lieu thereof in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable.

(b) It is unlawful for any member of said Racing Commission, or any licensee under this chapter directly or indirectly, to make any contribution whatsoever to any political party or to any candidate for any State, County, or Municipal office, and upon proof being presented of any such prohibited contribution having been made by the licensee, the Commission shall immediately and permanently revoke the license of such licensee.

(c)If any member of said Racing Commission violates, consents to, or participates in, any violation of the provisions of this Act, in addition to such other civil and criminal penalties otherwise applicable, such member shall be subject to removal from office.

(d) No disciplinary action may be taken hereunder until the licensee has been presented with notice in writing specifying the time and place of a disciplinary hearing, said notice setting out in substance the nature of the accusation, and inviting the licensee to appear, with or without counsel, as the licensee may decide, the licensee being afforded an opportunity to face and examine his accusers, call witnesses and testify if he chooses.

Section 12. The Commission is empowered to compel the production of any and all books, memoranda, or documents showing the receipts and disbursements of any person, association or corporation licensed to conduct race meetings under the provisions of this Act. The Commission may at any time require the removal of any employee or official employed by any licensee hereunder whenever it has reason to believe that such employee or official is guilty of any improper practice in connection with racing, has failed to comply with any condition of the license, or has violated any rule adopted by the Commission. The Commission shall have the power to require that the books and financial or other statements of any licensee be kept in a manner and method provided by the Commission; and the Commission shall be authorized to visit, investigate, and place auditors and inspectors in the offices, tracks, or place of business of any person, association or corporation licensed under this Act.

The Commission shall have power to summon witnesses before its meetings; to administer oaths to such witnesses, and to require testimony on any issues before it.

Section 13. The Commission shall have the power to grant, refuse, suspend, or withdraw licenses to all persons connected with race tracks, including all salaried employees, gate keepers, announcers, ushers, starters, officials, drivers, dog owners, agents, trainers, handlers, grooms, stable foremen, exercise boys, veterinarians, valets, sellers of racing forms or bulletins, and attendants in connection with the wagering machines, pursuant to such rules and regulations as the Commission may from time to time adopt and upon the payment of license fee as shall, from time to time, be fixed and determined by the Commision in accordance with the position and compensation of such person. Any such license may be revoked by the Commisison, at is discretion, and any person whose license is revoked shall be ineligible to participate in such occupation connected with racing unless the license is returned by the Commission with permission to operate thereunder. The Commision may deny or revoke a license to any person who has been refused or denied a license by any other state racing commission or racing authoriy, or who has furnished the Commission with an application containing falsified information.

Section 14. The Commission shall make rules governing, permitting, and regulating the wagering on races. "Pari-Mutuels Wagering" shall be legal to the extent that, and so long as, the same is carried on and conducted strictly in conformity with this Act, and not otherwise. Only the persons, associations, or corporations receiving a license from the Commission shall have the right or privilege to conduct this type of wagering within the City of Pelham, and the licenses shall restrict and confine this form of wagering to a space within the race meeting grounds. All other forms of wagering on the result of the races shall be illegal, and any or all wagering outside of the enclosure of such races, where such races shall have been licensed by the Commission, shall be illegal.

No person or corporation shall directly or indirectly purchase parimutuels tickets for another for hire or for any gratuity and no person shall purchase any part of a pari-mutuels ticket through another, wherein he gives or pays directly or indirectly such other person anything of value.

Section 15. Every licensee conducting race meetings under the provisions of this Act, shall pay to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission for the use of the Commission, a tax in an amount equal to six per cent (6%) of the total moneys wagered in all pari-mutuels pools conducted on any race track licensed under this Act. The commission of a licensee on a pari-mutuels pool shall in no event exceed eighteen percent (18%) of the amount wagered in said pari-mutuels pool, which amount shall include the six percent (6%) tax heretofore provided. After the deduction of the six percent (6%) for the use of the commission and the percentage commission of the licensee, the remainder of the totals wagered in each pool shall be divided among the winners in each pool according to the Rules of Racing outlined by the Commission, which Rules shall generally conform to practices now in effect at other lawfully licensed dog race tracks in the United States. Each redistribution shall be made in a sum equal to the next lowest multiple of ten. The licensee is entitled to retain the odd cents of all redistribtuions to be known as "breakage to a dime", and all moneys represented by any unclaimed, uncashed or abandoned pari-mutuels tickets known as "outs" tickets. Under the pari-mutuels system of wagering herein provided, the licensee shall be permitted to provide separate pools for bets to win, place, show, a daily double, exactas, trifectas, a quinella and a double quinella, or such other pool as may from time to time be approved by the Commission. Each pool shall be redistributed separately as herein provided. Should there be no winning ticket sold on any pool that conforms to the intent of that pool, provisions will be made in the Rules of Racing adopted by the Commission to assure the distribution of the net amount of such pool.

The licensee shall be required to use a totalizator machine to record the wagering and compute the odds. Rules and regualtions governing the operation of each of the pools shall be set out in book form by the Racing Commission. The licensee shall collect from each person attending the race meetings under the provisions of this Act ten (10) cents admission tax. Licensees shall make payment of such taxes to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission once each quarter (three months) which payment shall be accompanied by a report on the races covered by such payment and such other information as the Commission may require.

Section 16. If any free passes or complimentary cards shall be issued to guests by any license, such licensee shall nevertheless be responsible for payment of the admission tax upon such complimentary admission cards or passes as though they had been sold at regular admission price. However, nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the issuance of tax free passes to officials and actual employees of the licensee, or other persons actually engaged in working at such track, including persons actually employed and accredited by the press or other news service; provided, that the issuance of all such tax free passes shall be governed by the regulations and orders of the Commission and a list of all such officers, employees, and news service representatives shall be filed with the Commission.

Section 17. The license fees, commissions, and excise texes imposed herein shall be in lieu of al license, excise, and occupational taxes to the State of Alabama, or any county, city, town or other political subdivision thereof, provided however that any person firm or corporation who operates a restaurant, bar or other concession on the premises shall be subject to the usual city, county and state taxes that are normally leview upon such businesses including sales taxes.

Section 18. Any corporation, association, or person who directly or indirectly holds any dog race without having procured a license as prescribed in this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person wagering upon the results of such a race, except in the pari-mutuel method of wagering when the same is conducted by a licensse and upon the grounds or enclosure of said licensee, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any corporation, organizaiton, assoiciation, or person who violates any provision of this Act, for which penalty is not expressly provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Upon conviction of any of the above misdemeanors in a court of competent jurisdiction, the penalty shall be a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), or by imprisonment of not less than five days nor more than six months, or both, such fine and imprisonment to be in the discretion of the court.

Section 19. All fees, commissions, taxes and other moneys, including fines and forfeitures, received under the provisions of this Act shall be paid to the Ex-Officio Treasurer of the Racing Commission within ten (10) days following the quarterly receipt therof and shall be forthwith deposited or caused to be deposited to the account of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission. Deposits shall, to the extent practicable, be deposited in interest bearing accounts or securities. All such moneys remaining after payment of the expenses incurred in the administration of this Act, including the payment of the salaries and expenses of the members and employees of the Commission, shall be distributed within forty-five (45) days of receipt of the Commission to the City of Pelham, the proceeds of which shall be used by said municipality in the following percentages and for the following purposes:

(a) Eighteen percent (18%) for the Shelby County Board of Education to be used for the operation of the public schools in Shelby County, Alabama, privided however in the event one or more municipalities in Shelby County shall create a separate school system then and in such event or events the distribution as herein provided shall be prorated between the Shelby County Board of Education and such separate municipal school system based on the student population.

(b) Two percent (2%) for higher education in Shelby County.

(c) Three percent (3%) for use by the Sheriff's Department of Shelby County as the Sheriff shall from time to time determine.

(d) Twenty-seven percent (27%) for use for the benefit of the citizens of Shelby County as the governing body of the county shall from time to time determine.

(e) Fifty percent (50%) shall remain unearmarkded and may be spent in any manner provided by law, for the benefit of the citizens of Pelham, Alabama as the governing body of that municipality shall from time to time determine.

Section 20. No person who engages in the practice of illegal bookmaking dog races, or who knowingly taken any part in such practices, shall be eligible as an applicant for any license or permit to operate a race track or a race meeting under the provisions of this Act, or to be connected therewith in any capacity; and any association or corporation which has as an officer, director, stockholder, executive or any other person financially interested therein or who knowingly employs any person who engages in such practices shall likewise be ineligible as a licensee, and the Commission is hereby empowered to inquire into such matters in entertaining any such applications and otherwise administering this Act.

Section 21. Any person who shall influence or have any understanding or connivance with any owner, groom or other person associates with or interested in any kennel or dog, or race in which any dog participates, to prearrange or predetermine the results of such race, or any person who shall stimulate or depress a dog for the purpose of affecting the results of a race, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year nor more than ten years, or shall be fined not less than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or both, in the discretion of the court.

Section 22. It is the intent of this Act to improve the economic well being of the citizens of the City of Pelham, by providing an increased tax base, jobs for the citizens herein, and the promotion of conventions, tourism, and recreation in the City of Pelham. It is the intent of this Act to provide for strict local control of the racing plant or plants and the operation of said plants by Shelby County citizens so as to minimize the possibility of undesirable gambling elements from ever controlling this industry.

Section 23. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.

Section 24. The provisions of this Act are severable. In the event any section or part therof is declared invalid, such declaration shall not affect the validity of the part and sections which remain.

Section 25. The governing body of the City of Pelham shall on the first Tuesday after thirty (30) days have elapsed from the effective date of this Act call and provide for holding a referendum for the purpose of determining if this Act shall become operative. The question to be voted on shall be stated on the ballots or voting machine tabs substantially as follows:

"Do you favor the creation of the Pelham Municipal Racing Commission to regulate licensing and supervision of dog racing and wagering theron as provided in Act No. — — — — — approved — — — — — — —, 198—?"

If the majority of the votes cast in the referendum are "Yes" racing shall be legal in the City of Peham as herein provided, and this Act shall become operative therein; if the majority of the votes cast in the election are "No", an additional referendum to be called by the municipal governing body at a time selected by them and set in accord with the provisions of this Section shall not be held within two years of such vote provided however, that additional referendums called by the municipal governing body shall not require further action or approval by the Legislature or by the Governor. The municipal election commission shall certify the results of the referendum to the Secretary of State of Alabama within thirty (30) days after the eleciton returns are canvassed.

Section 26. This Act shall become effective upon its passage and approval by the governor, or upon its otherwise becoming a law.

Card of Thanks

I want to take the opportunity to thank each and every one for the many acts of kindness shown me and Barney while I was in the hospital and since my return home. Your concern, love and many prayers helped me with my recovery.

May God's richest blessings be with each of you.

Mrs. Barney Isbell

Card of Thanks

Words cannot express the gratitude we feel for the love and kindness shown during the illness and loss of our Mother. To the friends, relatives, pastors, doctors, and staff of Shelby Medical Center, thank you all.

CVA recognizes top scholars

Larry Hill of Vincent is the 1984 valedictorian at Coosa Valley Academy and Jerry Spates of Harpersville is salutatorian.

In addition to his academic accomplishments, Hill is also a starter on the CVA basketball team. After graduation he plans to attend UAB.

The salutatorian is a member of the Senior Beta Club and plays on the CVA football team. He intends to enroll at Nunnelley State Technical College after graduation.

Other CVA seniors achieving top grades are: Randall Hethcox, Dawn Tate, Kyle Spates, Kathy Whitehead, Rhonda Clinkscales and Shirene Lee.

Successful with youngsters but...

DAY program hits money problems

by Shelba Nivens

Bob Brental (not his real name) had a problem accepting authority.

He was in the eleventh grade and had been bounced out of several Shelby and Jefferson County schools. Finally, he wound up in juvenile court for breaking the law.

Today, after participating in the DAY (Developing Alabama Youth) program, Brental is an honor student at the University of Montevallo where he serves in student government.

Brental's story is only one of several success stories to come out of the DAY program since it began in August 1982. Around 30 other young people are currently finding help from DAY with their personal and academic problems.

However, the program itself is having a little difficulty in finding help for some of its problems.

The school and counseling center, under direction of the DAY Foundation, Inc., is located in the old two-story brick building at the corner of 11th St. and Railroad Ave. in Siluria. According to Foundation president Ken Williams, the non-profit organization had to spend $10,000 to get the ground floor of the building usable, and it is still badly in need of repairs.

He told the Reporter that at least $20,000 is needed to make the upstairs usable, and another $20,000 is needed by October 1985 to exercise a lease/ purchase option on the building and grounds.

Government grants help pay day-to-day operating expenses, he said, and grants may be obtained to pay rental costs. However, state and federal grants do not allow the purchase of buildings or land with their funds.

Teachers and teacher aides are paid by the Shelby County Board of Education.

The education board also provides lunch at Thompson High School and gasoline and maintenance for a van bus which was donated by the Alabaster/ Pelham Rotary Club. However, there is presently no funding for a bus driver.

Of the 30 students enrolled in DAY, 18 to 22 of them ride the school van each day. It makes two runs, morning and evening, picking up students from all areas of the county.

"Most of the parents just can't afford to drive them back and forth every day," said project director J.K. Terrell.

Williams said DAY cannot operate without a school bus for transportation. He has appealed to municipalities in the county for contributions toward the school bus driver's salary for the current year -- $652.10 a month, counting benefits -- for the current year.

According to Terrell, the driver also monitors activities as a recreational therapist and helps in the classroom.

DAY paid the bus driver's salary for the last quarter of 1983 with operational funds which were exhausted before the year was out.

"In fact, the only way we paid the December salary was because I gave an extra donation of $250," Williams told city mayors.

In letters to the mayors, Williams is urging that city councils "meet their responsibilities" by making contributions to DAY based on the present enrollment of youth from their municipalities.

For example, if 10.4% of DAY's enrollment is from a particular city, that city's contribution should be $624.

Williams said he is having only partial success with the collection of these contributions. He has received money from Columbiana and has money coming in from Pelham and the Shelby County Commission.

Growing up is sometimes rough

by Shelba Nivens

Growing up is sometimes a rough process. Not everyone has the same opportunities, not everyone has the same success.

For some of those in Shelby County that are having trouble with the growing up process, DAY is (Developing Alabama Youth) providing an alternative to darkness of criminal record.

Students of DAY are from 13 to 18 years old. They are adjudicated through Judge Patti Smith's juvenile court.

Their offenses range from agency petitioned youth in need of supervision, to those arrested for drug offenses, disorderly conduct, burglary, and other non-violent crimes.

DAY supporters say that failing in academic work can become a major cause for delinquent behavior in a youth. They offer DAY as an alternative to placing a potentially 'sound' youth into juvenile detention facilities.

So DAY students receive individual counseling daily, if needed. They learn basic employment skills, social skills, and behavior problems are corrected.

According to DAY director J.K. Terrell, the counseling program is as important as the academic program. Students are involved in individual, group and family counseling sessions.

"If a teenage member of the family has a problem, then the entire family has a problem," Terrell said.

A special report

What were the effects of the recession/ depression on Shelby County in 1983? As we move into 1984, what's happening as far as development and jobs?

What sort of economic impact does a massive operation, such as Alabama Power's steam plant in Wilsonville, have on the area? What's going on development-wise in Riverchase?

LARRY HILL, JERRY SPATES
...top CVA students

CVA recognizes top scholars

Larry Hill of Vincent is the 1984 valedictorian at Coosa Valley Academy and Jerry Spates of Harpersville is salutatorian.

In addition to his academic accomplishments, Hill is also a starter on the CVA basketball team. After graduation he plans to attend UAB.

The salutatorian is a member of the Senior Beta Club and plays on the CVA football team. He intends to enroll at Nunnelley State Technical College after graduation.

Other CVA seniors achieving top grades are: Randall Hethcox, Dawn Tate, Kyle Spates, Kathy Whitehead, Rhonda Clinkscales and Shirene Lee.

Successful with youngsters but...

DAY program hits money problems

by Shelba Nivens

Bob Brental (not his real name) had a problem accepting authority.

He was in the eleventh grade and had been bounced out of several Shelby and Jefferson County schools. Finally, he wound up in juvenile court for breaking the law.

Today, after participating in the DAY (Developing Alabama Youth) program, Brental is an honor student at the University of Montevallo where he serves in student government.

Brental's story is only one of several success stories to come out of the DAY program since it began in August 1982. Around 30 other young people are currently finding help from DAY with their personal and academic problems.

However, the program itself is having a little difficulty in finding help for some of its problems.

The school and counseling center, under direction of the DAY Foundation, Inc., is located in the old two-story brick building at the corner of 11th St. and Railroad Ave. in Siluria. According to Foundation president Ken Williams, the non-profit organization had to spend $10,000 to get the ground floor of the building usable, and it is still badly in need of repairs.

He told the Reporter that at least $20,000 is needed to make the upstairs usable, and another $20,000 is needed by October 1985 to exercise a lease/ purchase option on the building and grounds.

Government grants help pay day-to-day operating expenses, he said, and grants may be obtained to pay rental costs. However, state and federal grants do not allow the purchase of buildings or land with their funds.

Teachers and teacher aides are paid by the Shelby County Board of Education.

The education board also provides lunch at Thompson High School and gasoline and maintenance for a van bus which was donated by the Alabaster/ Pelham Rotary Club. However, there is presently no funding for a bus driver.

Of the 30 students enrolled in DAY, 18 to 22 of them ride the school van each day. It makes two runs, morning and evening, picking up students from all areas of the county.

"Most of the parents just can't afford to drive them back and forth every day," said project director J.K. Terrell.

Williams said DAY cannot operate without a school bus for transportation. He has appealed to municipalities in the county for contributions toward the school bus driver's salary for the current year -- $652.10 a month, counting benefits -- for the current year.

According to Terrell, the driver also monitors activities as a recreational therapist and helps in the classroom.

DAY paid the bus driver's salary for the last quarter of 1983 with operational funds which were exhausted before the year was out.

"In fact, the only way we paid the December salary was because I gave an extra donation of $250," Williams told city mayors.

In letters to the mayors, Williams is urging that city councils "meet their responsibilities" by making contributions to DAY based on the present enrollment of youth from their municipalities.

For example, if 10.4% of DAY's enrollment is from a particular city, that city's contribution should be $624.

Williams said he is having only partial success with the collection of these contributions. He has received money from Columbiana and has money coming in from Pelham and the Shelby County Commission.

Growing up is sometimes rough

by Shelba Nivens

Growing up is sometimes a rough process. Not everyone has the same opportunities, not everyone has the same success.

For some of those in Shelby County that are having trouble with the growing up process, DAY is (Developing Alabama Youth) providing an alternative to darkness of criminal record.

Students of DAY are from 13 to 18 years old. They are adjudicated through Judge Patti Smith's juvenile court.

Their offenses range from agency petitioned youth in need of supervision, to those arrested for drug offenses, disorderly conduct, burglary, and other non-violent crimes.

DAY supporters say that failing in academic work can become a major cause for delinquent behavior in a youth. They offer DAY as an alternative to placing a potentially 'sound' youth into juvenile detention facilities.

So DAY students receive individual counseling daily, if needed. They learn basic employment skills, social skills, and behavior problems are corrected.

According to DAY director J.K. Terrell, the counseling program is as important as the academic program. Students are involved in individual, group and family counseling sessions.

"If a teenage member of the family has a problem, then the entire family has a problem," Terrell said.

CVA recognizes top scholars

Larry Hill of Vincent is the 1984 valedictorian at Coosa Valley Academy and Jerry Spates of Harpersville is salutatorian.

In addition to his academic accomplishments, Hill is also a starter on the CVA basketball team. After graduation he plans to attend UAB.

The salutatorian is a member of the Senior Beta Club and plays on the CVA football team. He intends to enroll at Nunnelley State Technical College after graduation.

Other CVA seniors achieving top grades are: Randall Hethcox, Dawn Tate, Kyle Spates, Kathy Whitehead, Rhonda Clinkscales and Shirene Lee.

Successful with youngsters but...

DAY program hits money problems

by Shelba Nivens

Bob Brental (not his real name) had a problem accepting authority.

He was in the eleventh grade and had been bounced out of several Shelby and Jefferson County schools. Finally, he wound up in juvenile court for breaking the law.

Today, after participating in the DAY (Developing Alabama Youth) program, Brental is an honor student at the University of Montevallo where he serves in student government.

Brental's story is only one of several success stories to come out of the DAY program since it began in August 1982. Around 30 other young people are currently finding help from DAY with their personal and academic problems.

However, the program itself is having a little difficulty in finding help for some of its problems.

The school and counseling center, under direction of the DAY Foundation, Inc., is located in the old two-story brick building at the corner of 11th St. and Railroad Ave. in Siluria. According to Foundation president Ken Williams, the non-profit organization had to spend $10,000 to get the ground floor of the building usable, and it is still badly in need of repairs.

He told the Reporter that at least $20,000 is needed to make the upstairs usable, and another $20,000 is needed by October 1985 to exercise a lease/ purchase option on the building and grounds.

Government grants help pay day-to-day operating expenses, he said, and grants may be obtained to pay rental costs. However, state and federal grants do not allow the purchase of buildings or land with their funds.

Teachers and teacher aides are paid by the Shelby County Board of Education.

The education board also provides lunch at Thompson High School and gasoline and maintenance for a van bus which was donated by the Alabaster/ Pelham Rotary Club. However, there is presently no funding for a bus driver.

Of the 30 students enrolled in DAY, 18 to 22 of them ride the school van each day. It makes two runs, morning and evening, picking up students from all areas of the county.

"Most of the parents just can't afford to drive them back and forth every day," said project director J.K. Terrell.

Williams said DAY cannot operate without a school bus for transportation. He has appealed to municipalities in the county for contributions toward the school bus driver's salary for the current year -- $652.10 a month, counting benefits -- for the current year.

According to Terrell, the driver also monitors activities as a recreational therapist and helps in the classroom.

DAY paid the bus driver's salary for the last quarter of 1983 with operational funds which were exhausted before the year was out.

"In fact, the only way we paid the December salary was because I gave an extra donation of $250," Williams told city mayors.

In letters to the mayors, Williams is urging that city councils "meet their responsibilities" by making contributions to DAY based on the present enrollment of youth from their municipalities.

For example, if 10.4% of DAY's enrollment is from a particular city, that city's contribution should be $624.

Williams said he is having only partial success with the collection of these contributions. He has received money from Columbiana and has money coming in from Pelham and the Shelby County Commission.

Growing up is sometimes rough

by Shelba Nivens

Growing up is sometimes a rough process. Not everyone has the same opportunities, not everyone has the same success.

For some of those in Shelby County that are having trouble with the growing up process, DAY is (Developing Alabama Youth) providing an alternative to darkness of criminal record.

Students of DAY are from 13 to 18 years old. They are adjudicated through Judge Patti Smith's juvenile court.

Their offenses range from agency petitioned youth in need of supervision, to those arrested for drug offenses, disorderly conduct, burglary, and other non-violent crimes.

DAY supporters say that failing in academic work can become a major cause for delinquent behavior in a youth. They offer DAY as an alternative to placing a potentially 'sound' youth into juvenile detention facilities.

So DAY students receive individual counseling daily, if needed. They learn basic employment skills, social skills, and behavior problems are corrected.

According to DAY director J.K. Terrell, the counseling program is as important as the academic program. Students are involved in individual, group and family counseling sessions.

"If a teenage member of the family has a problem, then the entire family has a problem," Terrell said.

A special report

What were the effects of the recession/ depression on Shelby County in 1983? As we move into 1984, what's happening as far as development and jobs?

What sort of economic impact does a massive operation, such as Alabama Power's steam plant in Wilsonville, have on the area? What's going on development-wise in Riverchase?

Coverage of these and other topics is what you'll find in the Reporter's annual 'Economic Review' -- a special section you don't want to miss in the main edition of this week's paper. Read it, and be informed.

AMY WILKINSON
...new attorney

After completing a three year tour of duty with the Army in Frankfurt, West Germany, Amy Meredith Wilkinson is now practicing law in Pelham.

A graduate of Auburn University and Cumberland School of Law, Wilkinson served in the Army's Judge Advocate General Corp. Her duties consisted of prosecution, legal assistance and claims officer.

The attorney is married to Michael A. Wilkinson, whose father is Shelby County Deputy Sheriff Buddy Wilkinson.

Her parents are former Oak Mt. State Park Director John Meredith and his wife Edith.

She is sharing office accomodations on US 31 with attorneys John F. Tanner and Joseph E. Walden.

The Kimberly-Clark Foundation has established a merit scholarship endowment with contributions that will total $1 million over five years.

The presence of K-C's operations at Coosa Pines near Childersburg, means students in the area are eligible for the awards.

The endowment is at Lawrence University of Appleton, Wis., and information on applications can be received from area K-C managers.

K-C also announced an increase in quarterly earnings from $1.05 to $1.10. It has recommended a two-for-one stock split that it will put before a vote of the board in April.

Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc. has reported 16-week sales through January 11 at $2.2 million. That's a 2.3% increase over last year's period of $2.154 million.

Cumulative current year earnings amount to $1.32, compared to $1.30 last year.

Winn-Dixie's Pelham store is among the firms 1,224 groceries in operation across the Sunbelt.

Are you among the many Shelby County phone users with questions about how -- and who -- you need to do business with since South Central Bell and other companies split from AT&T?

Then you'll be glad when Bell sends you its four-page phone book supplement by the end of this month.

The supplement will include information on local service, long distance service, equipment, installation and repairs, according to South Central Bell spokesman Cleve Earnest.

Tax season, to many people, means befuddlement over 1040's, deductions and the IRS. To help explain things, Mike Connors of 'Mannix' fame and former Miss America Lee Meriweather will host a Public Broadcasting Corporation special this Sunday entitled 'Your Tax Return: 1984.'

The two-hour special airs at 2 p.m. on Channel 10, and will include a toll-free tax information number (1-800-424-1040) for questions you may have.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation has filed a $5 million countersuit against the American Farm Bureau. It is claiming the American has violated federal anti-trust laws.

The action, filed last week in US District Court in Montgomery, comes after the American Farm Bureau sued Alabama Farm Bureau in December, seeking to stop the state organization from using the name, 'Farm Bureau.'

Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is the largest farm organization in the state with more than 258,000 members. American Farm Bureau Federation is headquartered in Park Ridge, Ill.

Alabama Farm Bureau resigned from the American Farm Bureau in January, 1981.

"American does not possess any rights whatsoever in or to the designation Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. Alabama Farm Bureau has used the names and marks in the State of Alabama for many years, in some instances for more than 60 years, as a means for identifying its organization, its members, its activities and its operations," the countersuit says.

Alabama Farm Bureau asks the court to dismiss the original complaint against Alabama and to stop the American from using the name "Farm Bureau" in Alabama and to prevent the American violating antitrust laws of the United States. Alabama Farm Bureau also asks for a jury trial in the case.

ANNOUNCING A NEW LIFE OF VIRGINIA MANAGER IN ALABAMA

The Life Insurance Company of Virginia is pleased to announce the appointment of George A. Webb, CLU as Manager of the Alabama-Webb Agency.

Mr. Webb, a native of Charleston, West Virginia, joined Life of Virginia in 1973. After distinguishing himself as a life underwriter, Mr. Webb was promoted to the position of sales manager. In 1982, he was named a regional director assigned to the home office in Richmond.

During his career, Mr. Webb has earned numerous awards and recognitions, including two National Sales Achievement Awards from the National Association of Life Underwriters and qualifying for Life of Virginia's President's Honor Council during his first year in the business.

Life of Virginia, the South's oldest life insurance company, was established in 1871 and has offices from coast to coast. All representatives of the Alabama-Webb Agency are fully familiar with the many individual and group life and health plans offered by Life of Virginia, including "The Challenger," a universal life insurance policy.

Valentine display

DECA students show knack for marketing

Two Shelby County students showed that they know what they're about when it comes to apparel and accessories.

Michelle Friedman from Thompson High School and Tamara Gray from Pelham High were winners in area competition for members of distributive education clubs.

The event which involved approximately 400 students from schools in northeast Alabama, was held Jan. 21 at Birmingham-Southern College.

Statewide competition will be held in Montgomery next month.

Both girls participate in the Shelby County Area Vocational Center's distributive education program which involves working a portion of the school day.

Other students in the DECA program who took part in the competition were: Terry Smith, general merchandising; Keith Pennington and Stephen Turner, food marketing; Shawn Casey, restaurant marketing. They are all from Pelham.

Distributive education teacher Betty Fulton is the DECA club's sponsor.

UW gives away emergency food

United Way Montevallo Area Service Center will distribute food on an emergency basis Wednesday, Feb. 22, from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.

The location is 16 Middle Street, Montevallo.

This food is available on a limited basis to residents of Shelby County, who are either unemployed or of low income. Applicants must furnish identification and income restrictions will apply. A separate distribution day has been reserved for the handicapped and the elderly. They make pick up food on Tuesday, Feb. 21 between 1-4 p.m.

For further information call 665-1942.

AMY WILKINSON
...new attorney

After completing a three year tour of duty with the Army in Frankfurt, West Germany, Amy Meredith Wilkinson is now practicing law in Pelham.

A graduate of Auburn University and Cumberland School of Law, Wilkinson served in the Army's Judge Advocate General Corp. Her duties consisted of prosecution, legal assistance and claims officer.

The attorney is married to Michael A. Wilkinson, whose father is Shelby County Deputy Sheriff Buddy Wilkinson.

Her parents are former Oak Mt. State Park Director John Meredith and his wife Edith.

She is sharing office accomodations on US 31 with attorneys John F. Tanner and Joseph E. Walden.

The Kimberly-Clark Foundation has established a merit scholarship endowment with contributions that will total $1 million over five years.

The presence of K-C's operations at Coosa Pines near Childersburg, means students in the area are eligible for the awards.

The endowment is at Lawrence University of Appleton, Wis., and information on applications can be received from area K-C managers.

K-C also announced an increase in quarterly earnings from $1.05 to $1.10. It has recommended a two-for-one stock split that it will put before a vote of the board in April.

Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc. has reported 16-week sales through January 11 at $2.2 million. That's a 2.3% increase over last year's period of $2.154 million.

Cumulative current year earnings amount to $1.32, compared to $1.30 last year.

Winn-Dixie's Pelham store is among the firms 1,224 groceries in operation across the Sunbelt.

Are you among the many Shelby County phone users with questions about how -- and who -- you need to do business with since South Central Bell and other companies split from AT&T?

Then you'll be glad when Bell sends you its four-page phone book supplement by the end of this month.

The supplement will include information on local service, long distance service, equipment, installation and repairs, according to South Central Bell spokesman Cleve Earnest.

Tax season, to many people, means befuddlement over 1040's, deductions and the IRS. To help explain things, Mike Connors of 'Mannix' fame and former Miss America Lee Meriweather will host a Public Broadcasting Corporation special this Sunday entitled 'Your Tax Return: 1984.'

The two-hour special airs at 2 p.m. on Channel 10, and will include a toll-free tax information number (1-800-424-1040) for questions you may have.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation has filed a $5 million countersuit against the American Farm Bureau. It is claiming the American has violated federal anti-trust laws.

The action, filed last week in US District Court in Montgomery, comes after the American Farm Bureau sued Alabama Farm Bureau in December, seeking to stop the state organization from using the name, 'Farm Bureau.'

Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is the largest farm organization in the state with more than 258,000 members. American Farm Bureau Federation is headquartered in Park Ridge, Ill.

Alabama Farm Bureau resigned from the American Farm Bureau in January, 1981.

"American does not possess any rights whatsoever in or to the designation Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. Alabama Farm Bureau has used the names and marks in the State of Alabama for many years, in some instances for more than 60 years, as a means for identifying its organization, its members, its activities and its operations," the countersuit says.

Alabama Farm Bureau asks the court to dismiss the original complaint against Alabama and to stop the American from using the name "Farm Bureau" in Alabama and to prevent the American violating antitrust laws of the United States. Alabama Farm Bureau also asks for a jury trial in the case.

ANNOUNCING A NEW LIFE OF VIRGINIA MANAGER IN ALABAMA

The Life Insurance Company of Virginia is pleased to announce the appointment of George A. Webb, CLU as Manager of the Alabama-Webb Agency.

Mr. Webb, a native of Charleston, West Virginia, joined Life of Virginia in 1973. After distinguishing himself as a life underwriter, Mr. Webb was promoted to the position of sales manager. In 1982, he was named a regional director assigned to the home office in Richmond.

During his career, Mr. Webb has earned numerous awards and recognitions, including two National Sales Achievement Awards from the National Association of Life Underwriters and qualifying for Life of Virginia's President's Honor Council during his first year in the business.

Life of Virginia, the South's oldest life insurance company, was established in 1871 and has offices from coast to coast. All representatives of the Alabama-Webb Agency are fully familiar with the many individual and group life and health plans offered by Life of Virginia, including "The Challenger," a universal life insurance policy.

DECA students show knack for marketing

Two Shelby County students showed that they know what they're about when it comes to apparel and accessories.

Michelle Friedman from Thompson High School and Tamara Gray from Pelham High were winners in area competition for members of distributive education clubs.

The event which involved approximately 400 students from schools in northeast Alabama, was held Jan. 21 at Birmingham-Southern College.

Statewide competition will be held in Montgomery next month.

Both girls participate in the Shelby County Area Vocational Center's distributive education program which involves working a portion of the school day.

Other students in the DECA program who took part in the competition were: Terry Smith, general merchandising; Keith Pennington and Stephen Turner, food marketing; Shawn Casey, restaurant marketing. They are all from Pelham.

Distributive education teacher Betty Fulton is the DECA club's sponsor.

UW gives away emergency food

United Way Montevallo Area Service Center will distribute food on an emergency basis Wednesday, Feb. 22, from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.

The location is 16 Middle Street, Montevallo.

This food is available on a limited basis to residents of Shelby County, who are either unemployed or of low income. Applicants must furnish identification and income restrictions will apply. A separate distribution day has been reserved for the handicapped and the elderly. They make pick up food on Tuesday, Feb. 21 between 1-4 p.m.

For further information call 665-1942.

Ask funeral questions now

By Charles A. Graddick
Attorney General

One of the most important consumer concerns is not easily dealt with - planning a funeral. However, since it is an emotional time for survivors and often costly, it is wise to make arrangements in advance.

Many people are hesitant to comparison shop, investigate, and plan for funerals. But preplanning can save hundreds of dollars.

Reluctance to preplan that final consumer transaction can force our loved ones to make hasty, emotional, and expensive funeral arrangements. The arrangements may not be in keeping with our wishes or our relatives' ability to pay.

Here is a list of ways to help make the correct decisions now:
--Write down the desired funeral plans and give a copy to the person you want to carry out your wishes. Your attorney should also have a copy, and your spouse should be informed of the whereabouts of all important documents.
--Visit several funeral homes and check prices on all arrangements. Prices on caskets usually include the cost of other basic services.
--Prepaying is not necessary since many consumers may move from the locale where arrangements were made. Make notations of types of products and services you wish and their cost now for comparison later.
--Decide on the type of funeral service you want, whether customary with the body present or a memorial service.
--Decide if you want to be interred or cremated. Although some people think embalming is required by law, that is the case only in certain situations. It may be necessary if the deceased had a contagious disease, if the body crosses state lines, or is transported by plane, train or other common carrier.
--A casket is not required by law for cremation in Alabama, but most crematoriums prefer it. Also, a vault is not required for burial.
--Check closely before purchasing family burial plots. Other family members may move or elect not to be buried in the remaining plots. Also check with the Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection for cemetery complaints before making a decision.
--Look into insurance policies that provide death benefits. Check thoroughly to see if the policy will provide what is necessary upon death and compare different types.
--If you decide to be an organ donor, this can be noted on your Alabama driver's license. However, it is important to discuss your plans with family members, friends, lawyers, and doctor.

Finally, if a problem arises concerning the funeral industry, a new consumer action panel has been established to resolve conflicts. ThanaCAP is sponsored by the National Funeral Director's Association to promote effective communication between consumers and funeral homes. For more information write ThanaCAP, 135 West Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53203 or phone 414-276-2500.

Cattlemen plan 41st meeting and trade show in Montgomery

The Cattlemen's Association is converging on Montgomery.

James Braden, president of the Shelby County Cattlemen's Association and a member of the board of directors of the state association, will lead a large delegation of county cattlemen to the 41st anniversary meeting and trade show on Wednesday, Feb. 15, in Montgomery.

E. Ham Wilson, association executive vice president, said this week that more than 1,000 cattlemen and CowBelles from every county are expected to attend this year's convention.

Highlight of the meeting will be the annual Governor's luncheon honoring Governor George Wallace and the state's agricultural and agribusiness leaders. Governor Wallace will address the group.

Other speakers include US Senator Jeremiah Denton and Lt. Governor Bill Baxley.

The Alabama CowBelles, ladies auxiliary of the ACA, will hold their 31st annual meeting in conjunction with the meeting.

The Alabama Cattlemen's Association is the largest state cattlemen's association in the nation with 15,860 members.

Monday is last day to seek disaster aid

Monday, February 13, is the last day for filing disaster loan applications for homeowners and businesses hit by severe storms and flooding last December.

Under the Small Business Administration Disaster Declaration, Shelby County homeowners and apartment dwellers who have repayment ability, are eligible for loans covering uninsured losses.

Home loan limits are $50,000 for real estate repairs and $10,000 for personal property losses, with a limit of $55,000 for any combination of losses. Businesses suffering losses are eligible for loans up to 85% of the uninsured loss to a maximum of $500,000.

For more information: 254-1433.

You want results from your advertising dollar, too...

Do you want to reach 21,000 Shelby County households with information about your goods and services? Want to run circulars? Inserts? Coupons? Need photographic work? Want a crisp black and white ad, or a big splash of color? When it comes to advertising, the Shelby County Reporter can do it all for you and your business -- and more. From designing a full advertising campaign, to writing a classified ad that will sell your car. You want results! You want service! And the Shelby County Reporter can give you both. It's one of the reasons we've been in business for 141 years.

NEW LOW FINANCING ON FORD INDUSTRIAL EQUIPMENT!

8 3/4%
ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE FIXED-RATE FINANCING FOR UP TO 48 MONTHS

Buy and take delivery of any new Ford industrial tractor, tractor-loader or backhoe-loader. We can help arrange low 8¾% FIXED ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE financing for qualified buyers for up to four years through Ford Motor Credit Company.

PLUS BIG CASH DISCOUNTS!
Factory incentive allowances to dealers now make it possible for us to offer big cash discounts on the purchase of these Ford units in lieu of the above special rate.

Or, qualified buyers can get a waiver of payments until April 1, 1984, followed by up to four years of financing at 10¾% FIXED ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE.

These limited-time offers require a qualifying down payment or trade-in. Certain restrictions apply. Physical damage and credit life insurance not included.

One family sets the most beautiful table in Alabama. Free.

The 1st Southern family. Because now you can get fine porcelain china free, or at a substantial discount, when you make a qualifying deposit to a new or existing 1st Southern account. You can take home a 53-piece place setting valued at over $150, or a 20-piece place setting, or any of three completer sets absolutely free. In fact, 1st Southern will pay you – because in addition to free china, we'll continue paying you yields on Certificates of Deposit that are higher than U.S. Treasury obligations of comparable term. For a look at the classic, gold-bordered Daphne collection and the sophisticated platinum-edged Newport collection – and for information about qualifying deposits – visit us and join our 1st Southern family. We may be Alabama's biggest savings and loan. But no matter how big we grow, we'll always treat you like family.

For beautiful china, free, join our 1st Southern Family

The program staff consists of a program director, secretary, bus driver, four teachers, and a teacher's aide. Among these are a master's degree level psychologist, a master level guidance counselor, and a master level social worker.

In counseling sessions, students have an opportunity to learn and utilize basic therapeutic techniques -- such as how to cope with peer pressure, how to ventilate their feelings, how to give and accept feedback, and how to think rationally.

In the classroom, students work to improve reading and math skills through an individually prescribed instructional system. Terrell explained that DAY does not have traditional classrooms but a self-paced system.

"We strive for mastery of a subject," he said, "and when students are mainstreamed back into the regular school at the appropriate grade level, they are A-B students, in most cases for the first time."

The DAY program works on a point system with points earned in physical education, academics, counseling and behavior. Each Friday awards are made to students with the most points in five areas: best behaved, best attitude, most respectful, hardest worker, and most improved.

A "Student of the Week" award is also made with this student receiving a free lunch donated by an Alabaster restaurant.

Students may also use points to earn a half-day off on Friday. Two weeks ago a record was set when 16 students earned half-day vacations from school.

After completing the DAY program, students have several options: return to regular school, obtain a GED, transfer to vocational school or the adult workshop for further job skill training, go to college, or go to full or part-time employment.

"We try to work very closely with area school principals, guidance counselors and job service counselors to make the transition as smooth and positive as possible," Terrell said.

In the case of Bob Brental (see related story), he and his counselor drew up a 'success plan' which included preparing and testing for the GED and the ACT, and applying to his choice of universities.

Terrell said that the average stay at DAY is five to seven months. Academic gains average four months per month. He said one DAY student went so far as to gain three years in two months.

One 11th grader who entered the program didn't even know the number of feet in a yard. Now, Terrell said, he is attending technical college, studying auto mechanics and auto body work.

A brochure, entitled 'An Academic Alternative to Juvenile Detention' is being prepared to help inform the public about DAY. Foundation president Ken Williams said he hopes to unveil it at the February 14 DAY board meeting.

The DAY Foundation -- composed of community and business leaders from across the county -- works to help provide funding for the program. Distribution of the brochure will launch the foundation's 'A Friend to DAY' campaign, which will solicit tax exempt cash gifts and/or personal or professional time and services for the program.

Williams said he hopes the campaign will recruit retired persons and others who have time and abilities to give to the program.

Terrell added that people are needed to help with maintenance and repairs including carpentry, plumbing and electrical. Durable furniture and other equipment is also needed, he said, as are part-time jobs for students in the Alabaster/ Pelham area.

Persons interested in donating to the program or learning more about it may contact director J.K. Terrell at P.O. Box 97, Siluria, AL 35144, or phone 664-1600.

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

A regular feature prepared by the American Cancer Society to help save your life from cancer.

Question: If vocal chords are removed by surgery, is it possible to learn to speak again?

ANSWERline: Yes. Esophageal speech can usually be taught in a matter of weeks. Swallowed air is released in a controlled manner to produce sound as it passes through the mouth. Mechanical devices can also be used. Contact your nearest American Cancer Society Unit for more information.

Question: I'm nearing the retirement age of 65. Am I more likely to get cancer now than I was 20 years ago?

ANSWERline: It is true that cancer is predominantly a disease of middle and advanced age. In the U.S. 66 percent of all cancers in males and 63 percent in females occur at 55 years and over. If you are a woman past the age of 40, the American Cancer Society suggests that you see your doctor every year for a breast examination. You should also have a yearly pelvic examination, and consult your doctor about further tests if you have been infertile, are obese, or have uterine bleeding. Males and females in your age group should have a yearly digital rectal examination and, after 50, a guaiac slide test for blood in the stool. After two initial negative procto examinations a year apart, the procto should be repeated at three to five year intervals for persons past the age of 49.

Question: Does one's attitude toward cancer have anything to do with the success of treatment?

ANSWERline: It certainly does. If you are "afraid to know" whether you have cancer, you may delay a trip to your doctor until it is too late for proper treatment. Worry also can have negative effects. The wise thing to do is free yourself from worry by consulting your doctor about a cancer examination which includes such diagnostic aids as the Pap test, a "procto," or a mammogram when applicable.

Question: I have lived in a rural environment all my life. Will I be more likely to get cancer if I move to a large city?

ANSWERline: While overall cancer deaths are higher in densely populated and industrialized areas of the United States, there is no way to definitely assess the reasons why. They may be related to life styles, occupational hazards, the environment or other unknown factors.

Question: I had a small lump removed from under my arm about two years ago and it was benign. Now I think I have another developing in the same area. What should I do?

ANSWERline: By all means you should consult your doctor again. Odds are that this lump also is benign. The fact that it has appeared in the same area may or may not be significant. You should have it checked.

Black walnut trees available this month

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving three free black walnut trees to members joining this month.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

Black walnuts were chosen for the campaign because of their value and versatility, according to the Foundation. The walnuts bear sweet, edible nuts, and are also used for shade trees, growing to 80-100 feet. Walnut hardwood is very valuable for making furniture and cabinets.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The foundation will give three black walnut trees to new members contributing $10 during February.

The trees will be two to three feet tall and will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring.

To join the Foundation, send a $10 membership contribution to Free Walnut Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410 before Feb. 29.

Olympics food comes to UM

A 'taste' of the Olympics is coming to the University of Montevallo.

ARA Services' Campus Dining Division, which manages the food service at the school, is sponsoring 'Olympic Menu Day' during the height of the winter games in February.

Students will be served meals taken directly from ARA's official Olympic menu. (ARA is the official food service company of the Summer Olympics in Los Angeles, and food service consultant in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, for the winter games).

Theatre announces auditions

The Birmingham Children's Theatre announces auditions for "Aladdin," adapted and directed by Dr. Aubrey Berg of Birmingham-Southern College.

Roles are available for four men and four women. Interested individuals are requested to prepare a monologue of one to two minutes in length.

Auditions will be held on Feb. 22 at 1:30 p.m. in the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center Theatre. For more information: 324-0470.

'The Wild Bunch'

One can almost hear the thunder of hooves coming from the bronze sculpture of charging longhorns now on display in the quiet of Alabaster's Albert L. Scott Library. The piece is one of two lent by Donald Rubin for display through February. Rubin believes the longhorn represents a hardiness and freedom of spirit innate in the development of the country. The nationally recognized artist is the son of Mayor and Mrs. H.A. "Doc" Rubin. (photo by Jerome Bannister)

Shoal Creek seeks county support

by Fred Guarino

The 1984 PGA Golf Championship to be played at Shoal Creek Country Club in Shelby County has been touted as "the biggest thing ever to come to Birmingham."

But Hall Thompson, developer and owner of Shoal Creek Country Club, knows where his golf course is. He came before county commissioners Monday for support and to seek help in getting residents to clean up their act for the big show.

What Thompson wants is a clean-up campaign on the roads leading to Shoal Creek from Jefferson County: US 280 to Hugh Daniel Drive, Daniel Drive itself, County 41 and State 25 from Leeds to county 41.

Thompson estimated that 150,000 people will travel to Shelby County during the tournament week of August 13 to 19. He also estimated that 90 million people will see the PGA championship on televison.

"Of course they won't be seeing the roads," Thompson said, "but there may be some dummy trying to paint a bad picture who might do that".

Thompson said Shoal Creek cannot pull off an event like the PGA tournament by itself. "You are involved," he told commissioners.

He acknowleged county work already underway to widen the road leading to the now famous golf course. He said county engineer Gary Ray is "doing a nice neat job."

But Thompson said county residents might be encouraged to clean up their property, pick up trash along the roads, and move junky cars out of their yards with the county's support.

"Of course we are not without resources to help the county," Thompson said of his country club.

The course owner added, as an incentive for support, that he has deep roots in Shelby County and he feels the tournament will be a big help to the county.

He went off the record to talk about some of the benefits Shoal Creek might share.

Thompson High School Band Boosters, the Montevallo Falcon Club and the North Shelby Lions Club will be among the concession stand operators sharing in the proceeds of the event, he added.

Thompson further requested commission chairman Tommy Snowden to come up with a two or three person committee to help organize county residents for action.

"We want to turn people on to take a little pride in ourselves," he said.

Snowden offered his cooperation and he said with a smile, "Maybe we can get Keith Jackson to say,'we are in Shelby County.'"

Tax voters turn out for school issue

Voting on the new property tax for schools was moving "Better than expected" at the Alabaster depot, according to poll worker Roger Wheeler. By 10 a.m., Tuesday, 87 persons had voted there.

At New Hope Church on Cahaba Valley Road, Martha Young said 83 had voted at 10, many of them young couples with children in schools.

In Wilsonville, Perrine Young reported a steady flow of voters, calling a turnout of 39 by 10 a.m. as "medium." About half were persons with school connections, and half were retired persons, she estimated.

Results of the vote will be published in next week's Reporter.

Esdale resigns as Pelham city judge

by David F. Moore

Robert Esdale resigned Tuesday morning as Pelham municipal judge. The action came in the wake of an opinion issued Friday by the attorney general's office.

According to that opinion, neither a legislator nor the Clerk of the Alabama Supreme Court can serve as municipal judges for pay.

The two-part opinion was sought by Representative John Tanner, a Pelham attorney.

Esdale had been Pelham city judge some eight years. Since November 21, 1983, he has also been the Clerk of the Alabama Supreme Court.

When contacted Monday in Montgomery by the Reporter, Esdale was unaware of the attorney general's opinion.

To the contrary, he said he received a legal opinion last October "from one of the leading law firms in the state " that he could hold both offices.

Tuesday morning Esdale said he disagreed with the attorney general, but decided to resign anyway.

"I have enjoyed being the judge," he said. "I wouldn't do anything to embarrass the city or the supreme court."

He said he was surprised that the attorney general's office and Tanner had not favored him with knowledge of the opinion.

Esdale's letter of resignation was dated Tuesday and effective immediately.

Mayor Burk Dunaway indicated that there had been no problems with Esdale's work.

Tanner said he had made the request "on the part of several individuals," including state Morgan County Senator Gary Aldridge, a former Hartselle city judge who had been asked by citizens there to take the position again.

Tanner said that while he was seeking the opinion on the supreme court clerk, he also asked about legislators to cover Aldridge's situation.

"I don't want to be city judge," Tanner said.

Free cheese to be given

A free cheese and butter distribution will be held next week in Columbiana.

The giveaway is set for 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Wednesday and Friday, February 22 and 24.

Persons 60 years and older, and low income families are eligible. Social security and food stamp numbers are required.

The giveaway will be held at the Community Services Building.

Montevallo adds cent to pump tax revenue

by Bert Seaman

Members of the Montevallo City Council think they may break even this year after passing an additional one cent sales tax. But it will be close.

The tax -- which is expected to generate an additional $156,000 annually for the city's $630,000 budget -- will go into effect April 1.

However, the city will not receive any revenues until June.

The one percent increase means that anyone trading in Montevallo will pay a total tax of seven cents, with two cents going to the city.

In recommending the tax to the council Monday, finance chairman J.A. Brown reported that the city is now borrowing out of reserve funds.

Although only four months into this fiscal year, the city is already in the hole, Brown said.

Seconding the motion for the tax increase, Councilwoman Catherine Legg said she did so with hesitance.

"It needs to be understood," she stressed, "that this will not pay for any extras."

That would include the $50,000 request from the water board to expand and upgrade the sewerage treatment plant.

Mayor Ralph Sears also underscored the point on expenditures by saying in his opinion, the city should maintain emergency spending concepts for the remainder of the year.

The only council member opposed to the tax was Councilman Grady Parker. He said he would favor other ways of raising revenue such as charging for leaf and limb pickup.

In formulating the budget, Brown explained that $32,000 had been expected to come from that source, but the council never voted to charge for the service.

The finance chairman also noted that a small increase in the charge businesses pay for dumpsters was anticipated, but it was never voted on either.

Then too, he said, revenues such as fines and court costs were behind what was anticipated because of new laws passed by the state.

Another reason for a decrease in finances in recent years is the withdrawal of the University of Montevallo from the city's gas system.

The city had been trying to work out a compromise with UM in maintaining the gas system -- which is its third back-up fuel source.

It was announced Monday that an agreement has been reached whereby the university will pay $17,000 for the system on campus. That includes a new meter on King Street which will be maintained by the university and read on a monthly basis.

The university is charged the industrial rate for gas.

Chelsea man leaves everything to Uncle Sam

by Fred Guarino

Who was Herman Earl Huppert?

For starts, he was born December 1, 1900. On February 3, 1983, at age 82, the Shelby County man died at Briarcliff Nursing Home.

Not much else is known about him -- except that he left to the United States of America $267,280.50, a house and five acres of land at Route 1, Box 97 Chelsea.

"He was the type man who stayed a lot to himself," said Marvin T. Brasher, a nextdoor neighbor of Huppert's for 20 years.

Even the executor of Huppert's will, Baker Crow of AmSouth Bank, never met the deceased man.

"The only thing I can figure out... I think he always banked with our bank and didn't have any other relatives or anyone he was close to," the estate administrator said of his selection to handle Huppert's property.

"You never could be a neighbor as you might have liked to," Brasher remembered of his neighbor. "But he was like a perfect gentleman when he was around ladies. He didn't get out and associate with people."

But if anyone knew anything about Huppert, it probably was Brasher.

Huppert contacted Brasher when he became ill with cancer of the bladder. That began a friendship between the two which ultimately led Brasher to place the elderly man in Briarcliff Nursing Home.

Later, Brasher handled the burial arrangements. He picked out the coffin, got a veteran's administration marker and buried Huppert in the Columbiana City Cemetery.

According to Brasher:

"He was the type of man who was stuck on health food. He liked to grow vegetables a lot and work on his place.

"He lived up on a pile of rocks and all he did was move rocks around. I believe he had one brother who lived in Rochester, New York, and two sisters.

"I was closest associated with him in his sickness... I didn't get to know him until he got sick..."

Brasher said Huppert called on him to buy groceries. "He didn't like very much meat except fowl... chicken."

"He called me one Saturday afternoon to take him to the hospital," Brasher recalled. Huppert had to have a cancerous bladder removed and was never able to go home again.

"I told them (the hospital) to put him in a nursing home and I'd look after him. I saw he had everything he needed."

Brasher remembered being called the day Huppert passed away.

"I picked out his clothes and casket and got him a lot in Columbiana. He wanted to be buried in a military cemetery but the one in Mississippi was full."

Brasher said his neighbor spoke very little about his relatives, but indicated that his childhood had not been particularly pleasant. According to Brasher, Huppert said he broke with his family over 20 years ago.

Shelby County Tax Assessor Bobbie Reynolds said the land Huppert left to the USA is appraised at $14,110 and the house is valued at $32,230. That makes a total appraisal of $46,340.

The property is located off County 11 between US 280 and US 31.

Assistant US Attorney Buddy Kelly was told that Huppert had been grateful to the government because it gave him a job with the railroad during the depression.

US Attorney Frank Donaldson said he is sending Huppert's money to the Treasury Department to go into the nation's general fund.

He said the property will probably be conveyed to the General Services Administration to be sold and the proceeds also deposited in the treasury.

So, in cash and property, Huppert, an elderly bachelor who once worked as a railroad postal clerk, left $313,620.50 to one of his 'relatives' -- Uncle Sam.

Vincent raises pay for its city judge

Vincent municipal judge Joel Watson will receive an increase in salary of $50 per court session.

The Vincent City Council approved Watson's raise at its February 7 meeting. The raise brings the judge's salary to $225 for one court session per month.

In the only other action taken, the town council agreed to participate in the ninth annual Vincent Settler's Day arts and crafts show slated for April 29.

The council will assist the sponsoring Vincent Study Club by marking off booth spaces.

R.T. McGraw of the Study Club suggested that a new Christmas tree be planted behind the one which is now 40 years old.

The town council has received no information concerning legislation that would allow a former mayor living within the police jurisdiction to run for office. (See legal advertisement on page 10)

Two men face charges for Montevallo murder

Two Jefferson County men have been charged with the murder of Kenneth Ray Lawley of Montevallo.

Lawley was gunned down January 28 in a room at the Fifth Wheel Truck Stop (formerly the Blue Bird) in Brighton, where he had stayed the night before.

Last Wednesday lawmen from the Jefferson County sheriff's department arrested Willis James Gray, 26, and Joseph Earl Turner, 24, both of Roosevelt City, and charged them with Lawley's death.

According to investigating detective Sgt. Steve Morgan, robbery was the apparent motive for the shooting.

Shooting report clarified

The Reporter would like to clarify a portion of the report on the death of Shirley Wyonia Anderson that appeared in the February 2 issue.

The three children of Shirley and Ronald James Anderson (not two, as reported by police), were with them at the home of Albert E. Hamm when an argument apparently began.

When Ronald Anderson left, allegedly to get a shotgun, he took two of the children with him, family members say.

A statement in the article left an implication that the children had been drinking. This is not true. The Reporter regrets the unclear wording of the sentence and is glad to make the clarification.

County support sought

Snowden added to Thompson's list of benefits by saying that some big industrial leaders will come into Shelby County as a result of the tournament. He called that an opportunity for the county to promote itself.

Thompson mixed his personal observations on the upcoming tournament with a 12 minute film entitled "A Major for Alabama."

The film stressed that while the PGA championship is one of the top four golf tournaments in the world it will also mark the first time a national championship in any professional sport has been decided in Alabama.

A voice-over from golf pro Jack Nicklaus related that Shoal Creek is certainly the best he's ever designed.

In addition, the film pointed out that the 7,000 yard-plus course is only seven years old and the youngest ever to host a major golf tournament.

Thompson said that only 17 golf courses in the United States rate higher than Shoal Creek, and that Shoal Creek is listed among the top 50 courses in the world.

But Thompson said that he did not conceive Shoal Creek as the site of a professional tournament in the beginning. In fact, he said he was only hoping to attract the amateur championship.

"I wasn't excited about annual events," he recalled telling the United States Golf Association and the Profressional Golf Association.

"Then they said not an annual event but the national championship."

Thompson said he finally accepted the offer because he saw it as an opportunity to showcase Alabama.

According to the course owner, his people have now been working three years to get ready for this August.

He added that 850 of the 1,500 area volunteers needed to help put it all togeter have already been recruited.

But the PGA Championship won't be the last word from Shoal Creek. Thompson told the Reporter that the 1986 U.S. Amateur championship will be played there and "There is speculation that the U.S. Open might be played there in 1989-90."

Counselors help children grow

by Bert Seaman

When something goes wrong, the easiest thing to do is blame somebody else.

But blaming others isn't usually the right thing to do, so school counselors such as Sylvia Davis take steps to help students grow along more acceptable lines of development.

To do this, Davis recently showed her students at Columbiana Middle School a film that helps them learn to accept responsibility for their actions.

The film demonstrated a five-step approach to problem solving. Following the film, she held a discussion period with the students.

Films are just one of the tools guidance counselors use to help students cope with a variety of situations.

Davis is one of 16 guidance counselors in the Shelby County School System who work to promote the educational, social and personal growth of students.

In order to emphasize the importance of school guidance counselors and the part they play in the educational program, last week was designated 'National School Guidance and Counseling Week.' The theme of the fifth annual observance was: 'Counseling: A Good Way to Grow.'

Helpful advice

Davis, in order to help the sixth grade class at her school gain a better understanding of themselves, has asked personnel from Brookwood Hospital to come to the school. The topics they discuss include mood changes, bodily changes during adolesence, and self concept.

In the academic realm, Davis is responsible for the 30-minute daily remediation class at CMS, as well as the enrichment program.

Coordinating the testing program at the school is another responsibility of the guidance counselor.

She also interprets the results of the CAT tests for students, and answers any questions parents may have.

When students reach the eighth grade, Davis works with the high school guidance counselor in registering them and explaining the units they need for graduation.

While most of her work is done in the classroom, Davis also sees students individually.

If anyone has a problem they need help with, the counselor has them sign up, then calls them in for a talk as quickly as possible.

Davis and other school counselors may also refer children to appropriate agencies, such as the Department of Pensions and Security and the DAY (Developing Alabama Youth) Foundation.

One of the satisfactions Davis said she's had since coming to CMS, was seeing that an abused child was removed from its home and placed in foster care.

High school counselors are more involved with career guidance than middle school counselors, Davis reported.

Montevallo High School counselor Colleen Colley explained that she assists students in selecting a course of study and helps them plan what they will do after graduation.

Group sessions are often held for special guidance activities to encourage personal growth and development, Colley said. Topics touch on such subjects such as decision making and study habits.

Counseling is also done on an individual basis for tenth graders and seniors Colley related, and for any student who needs help with a problem.

The high school counselor is the testing coordinator for the school and responsible for the administration of all state and local testing programs.

Maintaining and safeguarding student records is also the duty of middle and high school counselors.

Although elementary schools in the state do not have guidance counselors at the present time, the possibility of adding them is being studied by state and local school officials.

Guidance counselors in Shelby County high schools are:
- Shelby County -- Frances Thompson
- Calera -- Charlotte Patrick
- Chelsea -- Judi Arnold
- Montevallo -- Colleen Colley
- Thompson -- Harriett Davis, Gail Daniel
- Vincent -- Lowell Martin
- Pelham -- Jim Butler, Judy Childress.

Middle School counselors are:
- Thompson -- Edwin Aaron
- Montevallo -- Ruth Robertson
- Columbiana -- Davis
- Riverchase -- Edwina Cameron
- Vincent -- Sheila Henderson.

Willie Akridge is counselor at the Area Vocational Center.

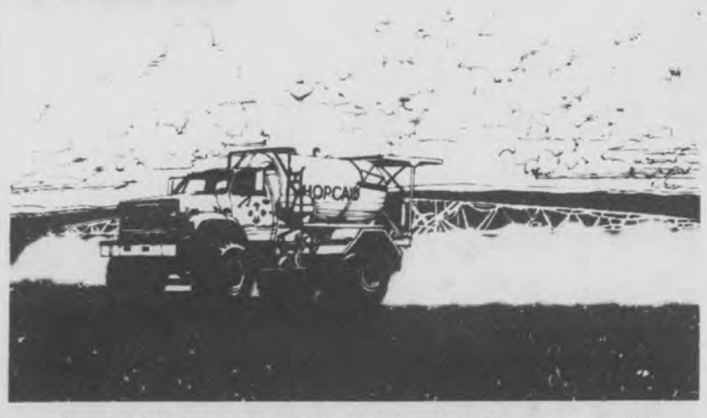
Hopcaid Liquid Fertilizer Boosts Yields



Save $20 per acre with "weed and feed"
Get 4 to 8 extra bushels yield per acre

You get a big double bonus when you let our liquid fertilizer team apply your fertilizer, herbicide and or insecticide in one trip over your fields. The first big bonus is a savings of $20 per acre or more on tractor fuel, labor and equipment wear and tear. But that's only half the story, according to research. You get significant yield increases, too ... amounting to $15 to $28 extra income per acre.

University research teams compared the application of a herbicide in a 32% nitrogen solution to (1) the herbicide applied separately and the nitrogen applied as a sidedress, and (2) the herbicide applied separately and the nitrogen applied preplant. The weed and feed application produced 4.3 more bushels of grain per acre than the sidedress method, and 8.0 more bushels per acre than the preplant application. Why? In addition to less soil compaction, the nitrogen stimulates the weeds and improves herbicide take-up. Less weeds. Bigger yields. More profit.

Call us. We can cut your costs and boost your yields with Hopcaid Liquid Fertilizer custom applied with the herbicide of your choice. And, we'll be ready when you are.

The Shelby County Comission will meet Monday morning to approve its tax levies for 1984.

The commission continued the action from last Monday's meeting to that date, so that it could take into account the results of the February 14 school tax vote.

In other action:

Commissioners approved a promotion for Richard Fox to move into pay step eight for the Shelby County Sheriff's Department, effective from January 27 of this year.

A request for this pay increase from Sheriff Buddy Glasgow had been turned down earlier. But because the sheriff's department has had an unfilled vacancy since December, the request received quick approval Monday.

Commissioners also approved a promotion for Wayne Watts to lieutenant in anticipation of the retirement of another sheriff's department employee.

* * * *

Commissioners approved a $50 ad in the Coosa Valley Academy dog show brochure. Consideration of bids for a hydroscopic excavator was postponed to the next commission meeting so that county engineer Gary Ray could have a chance to comment on them and give his opinion as to which of the complex bids was lowest and best.

* * * *

No action was taken on a request for the county to participate in a $100,000 project to provide water on County 17 north of US 280.

The 12-inch line would be installed by the Birmingham Water Works Board and would serve only 50 customers.

Because of the expense involved, commissioners felt that project study time was necessary.

* * * *

A resolution was approved to officially change the name of the Shelby County Civil Defense program to the Shelby County Emergency Management Program.

Director Bill Tucker said that Shelby County was one of only two counties left in Alabama which still used the name 'civil defense.'

"Civil defense is totally related to wartime and nuclear war," Tucker said. "People picture a man with a tin hat and a sand bucket. Most of the disasters we deal with are not man made."

* * * *

Jimmy Gordon was approved to represent Shelby County on the Roupes Valley Water Authority and M.B. Oliver was approved to serve on the Little Waxie Water Authority.

* * * *

Commissioners agreed to study proposed legislation that would allow the state to charge gas and diesel inspection fees.

The commissioners are considering endorsing the measure.

If approved, the money from the fees would be used by the state to match federal funds, which could be lost without them. Shelby County would receive $185,000 from the state fees to be used on upgrading projects.

In addition, the legislation would give each county the option of charging a 2-cent gasoline tax of its own. Such a tax would generate up to $.5 million for Shelby County, according to the county engineer.

Shelby County now imposes no gasoline tax.

Earl Nichols has taken over duties as county supervisor of the Shelby County Farmers Home Administration office.

He replaces Eddie Elliott, FmHA supervisor for many years, who has transferred to Wilcox County.

Nichols comes to Shelby County from the Montgomery County office of FmHA.

Shelby County Tax Assessor Bobbie Reynolds believes the real estate business in Shelby County must have been good recently. As evidence, she notes she has four "tremendous" books filled with property name changes, or assessments of new property.

She said the records are showing that many large parcels of land in the county are being divided, which means separate land transactions, and new property assessments to be made.

Dog track question at point of no return?

by David F. Moore

The years old question of dog racing in Shelby County is expected to be answered -- one way or the other -- this week.

Governor George Wallace has made it known to the state legislature that any racing proposals that ever hope to make it out of the starting gate, have to be introduced this week.

Besides the lingering question of the bill to allow Pelham voters their say on a track there, other major contenders vying for position include a dog track in Huntsville, and the horse track in Birmingham.

It is generally conceded that the metro-Birmingham betting population cannot support both a horse and dog track.

As this week began, horses were leading by several lengths into the final stretch.

According to local Representative John Tanner, the Jefferson County delegation has "spelled out in no uncertain terms" that they will kill any movement to pass the Pelham track bill -- if any movement is even made.

"I've told people I wouldn't sponsor a dog track and I have to live up to that," Tanner told the Reporter.

He said he was approached about introducing the bill two weeks ago by Jasper businessman John Bankhead. However, Tanner said all the many calls he'd received from area citizens were against the track.

Senator Frank 'Butch' Ellis had previously indicated that he would not support the Pelham track, but he was unavailable for comment Monday.

As a general bill, Tanner said the Pelham proposal could be introduced by other legislators.

Senator Charles Bishop of Jasper has been mentioned as one who might introduce the measure, but he was unavailable for comment.

Montevallo's Holland Floyd dies

L. Holland Floyd, executive director of buildings and grounds at the University of Montevallo, died of an apparent heart attack Friday afternoon in Birmingham.

Floyd, 42, had been at Montevallo for about 10 years.

He was largely responsible for securing federal funding for UM's wood chip burner, a measure that is saving the school some quarter-million dollars annually in energy costs.

Floyd was also instrumental in procuring federal funds which will be used to renovate and air condition the dormitories on campus.

A native of Scottsboro, he played basketball on three teams that participated in state tournaments, and in 1960 he and teammate John Blackwell were both named to the all-tournament team.

Floyd went to the University of Alabama, Blackwell to Auburn, and they played against each other for the next four years. Blackwell, coincidentally, is now the business manager at Montevallo.

Floyd, who was primarily a reserve forward and center, was described in Alabama's 1963-64 press guide as a player who "made a terrific impression with his rebounding ability. He believes that when the ball is loose, it belongs to him and goes after it with plenty of enthusiasm."

University of Montevallo President Jim Vickrey said Floyd, 6-7, was "the biggest man on my staff and had, perhaps, the biggest job at the University. In fact, he was the best at what he did of all the professionals with whom I've worked at half a dozen state universities."

Vickrey called Floyd "the closest thing to an indispensable man" he'd ever known.

"But he was more than a big, dedicated doer of a man. He was a gentle giant, whose caring for his own staff, his co-workers, he friends and his family -- indeed, the entire University community -- inspired all of us privileged to have been associated with him."

Floyd was a coach and physical education instructor at Miami Military Academy for a year after his graduation from Alabama. He then went to Livingston University where he was an industrial arts instructor and director of maintenance.

He also served as director of maintenance for the Huntsville City Board of Education and worked with two private industries in north Alabama before joining the staff at Montevallo.

He is survived by his wife, Vera E. Floyd; a daughter, Deana; a son, Drew; and other relatives.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in Scottsboro. A memorial service was planned for 11 a.m. Wednesday, February 15 at Myrick Hall on the UM campus.

Transplant saves Eric

by Bert Seaman

Eric Boyd doesn't look as though anything out of the ordinary has ever happened to him.

The Thompson Middle School student jogs, plays basketball, and lifts weights. He's interested in music and plays trumpet in the school band.

Like most boys his age, Eric is interested in cars, so he saves money from odd jobs to buy a Trans Am.

What sets Eric apart from his contemporaries is his heart -- it was transplanted into his body a little over two years ago.

Without the surgery that was performed at the University of Alabama Medical Center in Birmingham, Eric wouldn't have reached his 13th birthday, let alone his 14th and almost his 15th.

The heart that replaced his diseased one has given the 8th grade student a new lease on life.

That life, his mother, Dorothy Wann told the Reporter, is like that of any other 14-year old boy -- with a few minor exceptions.

He takes daily medication and goes for monthly checkups. He also has to watch his diet and avoid contact sports.

"We don't make a martyr of him though," Mrs. Wann explained. She said Eric knows what he has to do to stay healthy, and he does it.

In fact, he's now the healthiest member of the family, she observed.

The family consists of his mother, an adoptive father, Richard Wann, and a 16-year old sister, Monique Boyd.

Before surgery was performed on her son in November 1981, Mrs. Wann said Eric's weight had dropped to 79 pounds. He was too weak to sit up.

Several months after the heart transplant, his condition had improved to the point where he could get out and run, and ride a bike, she said.

"My philosophy has always been to go for it," Mrs. Wann said -- and that's what we did!"

Describing the heart her son received as one that "couldn't have been better if we had ordered it," the grateful mother said it had been donated by the parents of a 13-year old Georgia boy who died from a brain injury.

Dorothy and her husband Richard are also from Georgia. A transfer by Wann's company was responsible for their move to the Birmingham area three years ago.

After Eric's condition became critical, the family had no time for house hunting, so they lived in an apartment until this past July when they bought a home in Alabaster.

Although his heart condition kept him out of school for three years, Mrs. Wann said the instruction Eric received from teachers who visited their home, kept him from missing any grades.

"But he did have to get used to being around people his own age, again," she said, "since he had been mostly with adults for so long."

Even though he's unique in having a donor heart, Eric seems to be accepted as one of the gang by his peers.

About the only hangup is that when they go out for ice cream, Eric orders diet soda because he has to watch his weight.

Eric seems to take it as a small price to pay a new heart.

Going strong

Thompson eighth grader Eric Boyd is going strong with the heart that was transplanted from a child in child in Georgia, and help from mother Dorothy Wann and family. As the recipient of a heart, he was a fitting co-chairman for the successful Jump Rope for Heart fund raiser (see related story on Page 5). (photo by Bert Seaman)

Wallace creates Politburo?

Letter to the Editor:

It is time the people in our great state recognize the true form of government our Governor has created since his election. Buying votes through special interest groups, use of political propaganda and a small army of cronies does not a fair democracy make.

Wallace has created his own Politburo within our government and uses it much the same way Soviet President Yuri Andropov controlled the people and way of life in the U.S.S.R. In fact, I have noticed some interesting correlations that exist between the late Andropov and Wallace, and herewith submit them to your readers as food for thought as follows:

A. Because of poor physical and mental health, neither man did nor does appear often in public. On occasions when they have, the appearances were staged by their public relations staff and what they had to say lacked rational substances and sometimes made no sense at all (Remember Wallace's Inaugural address?).

B. Both stage or staged dramatic gatherings to boost a showing of public support. Andropov did his in Red Square on Lenin's birthday and denounced the U.S free enterprise system. Wallace had a 'Democratic Solidarity Day' (does that sound American to you?) and blamed our free enterprise system on the suffering of the poor and unemployed by screaming "jobs, jobs, jobs."

C. Both use or used incentive programs in their administrations. Wallace gives members of his Politburo State jobs and lucrative contracts for their political support while Andropov gave his supporters the knowledge that without their support, they would get a free trip to Siberia. While I certainly deplore Andropov's method, I must add that at least he didn't cost the fortune in salaries and expenses which we Alabamians bear under the Wallace Administration.

D. Both had or have beliefs they practice religiously -- Andropov advocated Atheism while Wallace is a firm believer in Nepotism.

E. Both used or use government organizations to stamp out opposition to their policies and friends. Andropov used the K.G.B. while Wallace's people form "Investigative Committees" in the legislature such as the one which looked into the State Aeronautics Board. Its methods resulted in the resignation of one who bucked the Administration, Mr. Rowe. When one looks at the whole picture and sifts through Wallace's rhetoric, demogoguery, and sees his methods for what they really are, you have to come to the conclusion that there are places in this world where Wallace fits right in -- like Russia, maybe?

PHS fuss is questioned

Letter to the Editor:

Trustee elections were held last October for all the schools in Shelby County. The trustee election at Pelham High School has caused much controversy. One must wonder, why all the fuss?

Maybe the trustee election is merely a subterfuge for the real problems at Pelham High.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

The soot built up in our chimney, and just like that... the thing caught on fire. Flames shooting out a fellow's chimney two feet high attracts attention. Within minutes our hill was covered with men. And a few minutes later the fire department was there. Boy! What a difference it makes living in a town where there is a volunteer fire department. They got everything under control and went on their way. But for Amy and me, who benefited from their dedication, it was something pretty special to go to bed knowing everything was alright.

Once a week, on Friday, they counted their money and gave it to me. The McGraws and Floreys and Gormans and Sharbutts, all of them running stores up and down the main street in Vincent. I would bring it to the bank in Columbiana, not even supposing that anybody would hold me up on the way. Today, with things as they are, if they gave me a dollar each I'd hesitate to take it. In some ways, they really were the good ol' days.

They stood in a long line, all the way from home plate to third base. They talked big talk and laughed and had a heck of a big time. They were having a ball game and I was pitching for the other team. They said I wasn't big enough and maybe too old and probably needed a nurse to look after me. When the game was over we had beat them 4 to 2, they said that maybe I was big enough and not too old. And somebody added: "Let the nurse go. You don't need her."

Shag Stone had a good basketball team on Four Mile. The Blackerbys and Moores and McEwens and Stones, all of 'em young and all of 'em strong. On an outdoor court with the wind blowing icicles, they were something. But I had a good team, too, down Newala way. The Allens and the Edwards and the Galloways and the Roaches and the Alexanders, all of 'em good. I had brought my team up to play Shag's team. Folks had come from everywhere. Before the game was over, the boys got in a racket and Shag and I called the game. That was the way it was with Shag Stone and Skillet Bird. The way it remained for over fifty years.

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

Around and around and around you go, and where you stop -- that's what nobody knows.

The scene I'm describing may be familiar if you've ever visited a shopping mall when an arts and crafts show is in progress.

Motorists turn into vultures as they circle the lot, eyes darting in all directions, looking for a parking space to pounce on.

When a shopper is spotted moving toward their car, the lead driver moves in for the kill.

Then the other cars move on -- waiting for their turn to dive into a space as soon as it opens up.

As I made my way up and down between the rows of cars on a recent weekend, going from the front to the side to the back lot, I began to wonder if my errand there was really worth it.

I was on my way to have a roll of color film developed at a place where you're supposed to have prints in hand within an hour.

Some people can leave film in their cameras for months on end -- in fact, there's one of those kind of people in my family. As for me, I want to see those pictures as soon as possible.

So, resigned to my fate, I followed the example of the other vultures -- circling and then swooping into an empty space.

When I finally found a niche for my car, I thought my troubles were over. As it turned out, they were just beginning.

I was at the opposite end of the mall from the film developing place. So now, instead of battling cars -- I had to try and get through the crowds of people.

Most of them were looking at the myriad items lining the aisles of the mall, so of course, I was forced to look, too.

Just when I saw a chicken I liked -- a ceramic one -- the crowd started moving.

Did I like it well enough to step out of the line and buy it, or should I go with the flow and come back later, I wondered?

My decision was to keep going.

When I finally reached my destination, I handed over my film, checked the time I was to return, and took off to buy the chicken. Then I couldn't remember where I had seen it.

So, instead of traveling up and down the endless rows of cars in search of a parking space, I found myself stalking a hen up and down the aisles of the mall.

Then I saw it. But it was a different hen. Did I like this one better? I couldn't decide.

After staring at the bird for what seemed like ages -- as the milling crowd kept jostling me -- I still couldn't make up my mind.

The heck with it, I thought, I'm going to get my pictures and go.

Not ready yet, they told me. Come back in 30 minutes.

I looked at the hens some more. I looked at paintings. I looked at wood carvings and jewelry. I examined everything -- carefully -- about two dozen times.

By now I knew my film had to be ready. It wasn't though. So what to do?

Should I go buy a hen or just be totally rotten and indulge myself with two gigantic chocolate chip cookies with a cream filling.

Let me give you a hint. I was brushing a crumb off my coat when I made my last trip to pick up my pictures. And yes -- they were ready!

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

It was, by any standards, one of Gov. George Wallace's most remarkable speeches. We refer to his 'State of the State Address' to the Alabama Legislature.

There have been times in the past when Wallace has been accused of playing to the grandstand, of avoiding issues which might upset the electorate. No such charge can be made of his speech to the lawmakers.

Citing the need for huge expenditures in education, prisons, highways and mental hospitals, Wallace called for the imposition of a crunching $293 million in new taxes; he called for a war against mediocrity in schools; he told state employees the best he could do for them is an eight percent pay raise and immediately indicated some of that would be taken away by proposing an increase in their contributions to the retirement fund.

At one point in his long, rambling speech Wallace sounded like the Wallace of old as he took to task -- without calling his name -- U.S. District Judge Robert Varner. It has been Varner who has presided over the prison litigation.

Wallace called the requirement by the court that each inmate have 60 square feet of living space ridiculous.

"They are not in the penitentiary for misbehaving in church," Wallace said. "Many of our college students bunk two and three to a dormitory room. Many of us victims do not have sixty square feet. I have the space in which I can reach whether in this chair or lying in bed. The fellow who shot me has more square feet in which to live than I do even though he is in the penitentiary."

Wallace then threw down the gauntlet to Judge Varner as to his threatened mass release of prisoners. Wallace, who stood in a school house door, promised to stand in the prison door.

"Well, Judge, there will not be any mass release of prisoners in Alabama again," Wallace declared. "If you are going to turn any loose - Scot free - it is only fair to warn you that you will have to come and get them. You will have to take them from this governor and I believe this legislature as well."

All in all, it was one of Wallace's most remarkable performances.

Odds and Ends... Death has claimed two men who were powerful figures in Legislatures past -- Ira D. Pruitt of Livingston and J.J. (Junie) Pierce of Montgomery. Pruitt served a near-record 31 consecutive years in the House, Pierce served 16 years in the Legislature...

A trivia question for sports fans: Who's the best athlete on the political scene today? Very probably Jim White, Commissioner of the Revenue Department. White attended college on a basketball scholarship, he is a scratch (par-shooter) golfer, and is one of the top-ranked tennis players in Alabama...

Jack Wallace Jr., son of the judge and nephew of the governor, is just back from California where his wife and her family appeared on the network TV game show, "Family Feud." The show will broadcast in March. Alas, the Wallace in-laws didn't win a dime on the show.

CHARLES J. NAIVAR
...All-State Band

Troubadour named to state band

Montevallo High School senior Charles J. Naivar has been named to the Alabama All-State Band.

Naivar was the only musician from a Shelby County high school to qualify for the honor.

He auditioned in January and was awarded first chair in the White Band. The All-State Bands are ranked Red (top), White (second), and Blue (third).

Musicians from throughout the state compete regionally with a certain number selected from each region for the three bands.

The 18-year-old Naivar will be going to All-State in Tuscaloosa in March. This is the second year he has been selected.

"I went up there with the goal of making the Red Band this year," he said. "If I hadn't got so nervous, I probably would have. The girl who made first chair in the Red Band scored 117 on her audition, and I got 115.2"

Naivar, who is the son of William J. Plott and Nancy K. Wilstach of Wilton, is first chair clarinet in the Marching Troubadours and the Montevallo High School Symphonic Band directed by Jim Weese.

Can you plan money?

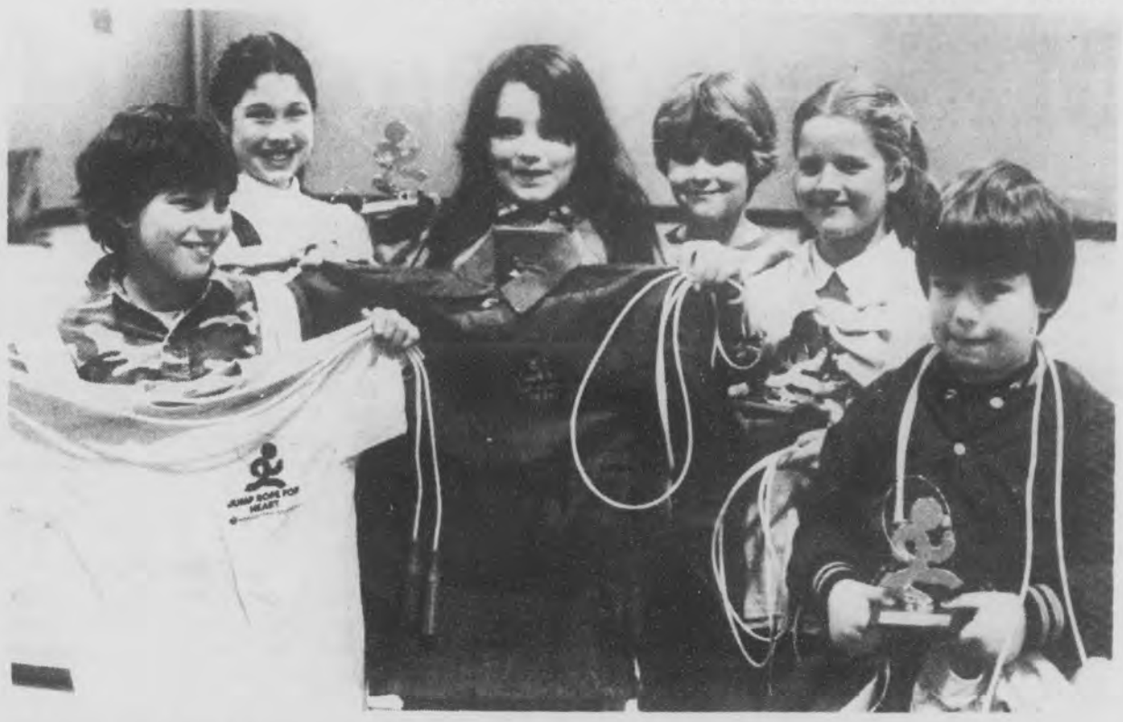
The Shelby County Extension Service is offering in-depth training on money management. According to Gail Reagan, associate county agent, families are needing more skills in money management to be more self-sufficient.

The series of four lessons will focus on techniques of counseling, goals, record-keeping, budgeting, taxes, credit, savings, insurance, family transitions and dealing with people.

After finishing the lessons, participants will be asked to assist the extension home economists by sharing their money management knowledge with others. This in-depth training is available free.

Classes will be held on Mondays, March 5, 12, 19 & 26 at the extension auditorium in the Shelby County Courthouse from 6:30-9 p.m.

For more information: Gail Reagan, 669-6763.



Montevallo jumpers

Montevallo Elementary School students jumped rope to the tune of $1,165 in the Jump Rope for Heart event. Leading money raisers were: Rachel McKinney, Braum Fuller, Pam Smitherman, Denise Carter, Lacey Thomas, and Morgan Lawley. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Jumpers land $9200 for hearts

Every time the rope slapped the floor in schools across the county, it added to the funds students were raising for the American Heart Association.

Five county schools held the Jump Rope for Heart event which brought in a total of $9,208.45.

The money will be used in research to find a cure for heart disease.

Students at Thompson Middle School had an added incentive in their money raising effort this year. Eric Boyd -- who received a heart transplant two years ago at UAB -- is an eighth grade student there. (See related story)

Eric was honorary co-chairman of the area campaign along with former Alabama football star, Major Ogilve.

The Jump Rope for Heart program is sponsored by the Alabama Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, and the American Heart Association.

Its purpose is to educate the public about heart disease and the role physical activity plays in prevention.

Riverchase Middle School was the leading money raiser in the jump rope event. Students turned in $2,871.72.

Other schools which participated and their totals are: Valley, $2,438.58; TMS, $2,077.05; Montevallo Elementary, $1,165.30; Chelsea, $655.30.

Arts council seeks program input

The Shelby County Arts and Humanities Council will meet Monday in Riverchase to discuss plans for next year.

The main thrust of the council's work next year will be bringing arts to the schools in 1984-85, said president Rachael Fowler.

Anyone with suggestions for projects and programs is urged to attend the meeting.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m., Monday, February 20, at the home of J. Richard Walker, 1919 Mt Laurel Lane. For more information: 988-9234, or 669-6887.

Transplant saves Eric

by Bert Seaman

Eric Boyd doesn't look as though anything out of the ordinary has ever happened to him.

The Thompson Middle School student jogs, plays basketball, and lifts weights. He's interested in music and plays trumpet in the school band.

Like most boys his age, Eric is interested in cars, so he saves money from odd jobs to buy a Trans Am.

What sets Eric apart from his contemporaries is his heart -- it was transplanted into his body a little over two years ago.

Without the surgery that was performed at the University of Alabama Medical Center in Birmingham, Eric wouldn't have reached his 13th birthday, let alone his 14th and almost his 15th.

The heart that replaced his diseased one has given the 8th grade student a new lease on life.

That life, his mother, Dorothy Wann told the Reporter, is like that of any other 14-year old boy -- with a few minor exceptions.

He takes daily medication and goes for monthly checkups. He also has to watch his diet and avoid contact sports.

"We don't make a martyr of him though," Mrs. Wann explained. She said Eric knows what he has to do to stay healthy, and he does it.

In fact, he's now the healthiest member of the family, she observed.

The family consists of his mother, an adoptive father, Richard Wann, and a 16-year old sister, Monique Boyd.

Before surgery was performed on her son in November 1981, Mrs. Wann said Eric's weight had dropped to 79 pounds. He was too weak to sit up.

Several months after the heart transplant, his condition had improved to the point where he could get out and run, and ride a bike, she said.

"My philosophy has always been to go for it," Mrs. Wann said -- and that's what we did!"

Describing the heart her son received as one that "couldn't have been better if we had ordered it," the grateful mother said it had been donated by the parents of a 13-year old Georgia boy who died from a brain injury.

Dorothy and her husband Richard are also from Georgia. A transfer by Wann's company was responsible for their move to the Birmingham area three years ago.

After Eric's condition became critical, the family had no time for house hunting, so they lived in an apartment until this past July when they bought a home in Alabaster.

Although his heart condition kept him out of school for three years, Mrs. Wann said the instruction Eric received from teachers who visited their home, kept him from missing any grades.

"But he did have to get used to being around people his own age, again," she said, "since he had been mostly with adults for so long."

Even though he's unique in having a donor heart, Eric seems to be accepted as one of the gang by his peers.

About the only hangup is that when they go out for ice cream, Eric orders diet soda because he has to watch his weight.

Eric seems to take it as a small price to pay a new heart.

Going strong

Thompson eighth grader Eric Boyd is going strong with the heart that was transplanted from a child in child in Georgia, and help from mother Dorothy Wann and family. As the recipient of a heart, he was a fitting co-chairman for the successful Jump Rope for Heart fund raiser (see related story on Page 5). (photo by Bert Seaman)

Wallace creates Politburo?

Letter to the Editor:

It is time the people in our great state recognize the true form of government our Governor has created since his election. Buying votes through special interest groups, use of political propaganda and a small army of cronies does not a fair democracy make.

Wallace has created his own Politburo within our government and uses it much the same way Soviet President Yuri Andropov controlled the people and way of life in the U.S.S.R. In fact, I have noticed some interesting correlations that exist between the late Andropov and Wallace, and herewith submit them to your readers as food for thought as follows:

A. Because of poor physical and mental health, neither man did nor does appear often in public. On occasions when they have, the appearances were staged by their public relations staff and what they had to say lacked rational substances and sometimes made no sense at all (Remember Wallace's Inaugural address?).

B. Both stage or staged dramatic gatherings to boost a showing of public support. Andropov did his in Red Square on Lenin's birthday and denounced the U.S free enterprise system. Wallace had a 'Democratic Solidarity Day' (does that sound American to you?) and blamed our free enterprise system on the suffering of the poor and unemployed by screaming "jobs, jobs, jobs."

C. Both use or used incentive programs in their administrations. Wallace gives members of his Politburo State jobs and lucrative contracts for their political support while Andropov gave his supporters the knowledge that without their support, they would get a free trip to Siberia. While I certainly deplore Andropov's method, I must add that at least he didn't cost the fortune in salaries and expenses which we Alabamians bear under the Wallace Administration.

D. Both had or have beliefs they practice religiously -- Andropov advocated Atheism while Wallace is a firm believer in Nepotism.

E. Both used or use government organizations to stamp out opposition to their policies and friends. Andropov used the K.G.B. while Wallace's people form "Investigative Committees" in the legislature such as the one which looked into the State Aeronautics Board. Its methods resulted in the resignation of one who bucked the Administration, Mr. Rowe. When one looks at the whole picture and sifts through Wallace's rhetoric, demogoguery, and sees his methods for what they really are, you have to come to the conclusion that there are places in this world where Wallace fits right in -- like Russia, maybe?

PHS fuss is questioned

Letter to the Editor:

Trustee elections were held last October for all the schools in Shelby County. The trustee election at Pelham High School has caused much controversy. One must wonder, why all the fuss?

Maybe the trustee election is merely a subterfuge for the real problems at Pelham High.

CHARLES J. NAIVAR
...All-State Band

Troubadour named to state band

Montevallo High School senior Charles J. Naivar has been named to the Alabama All-State Band.

Naivar was the only musician from a Shelby County high school to qualify for the honor.

He auditioned in January and was awarded first chair in the White Band. The All-State Bands are ranked Red (top), White (second), and Blue (third).

Musicians from throughout the state compete regionally with a certain number selected from each region for the three bands.

The 18-year-old Naivar will be going to All-State in Tuscaloosa in March. This is the second year he has been selected.

"I went up there with the goal of making the Red Band this year," he said. "If I hadn't got so nervous, I probably would have. The girl who made first chair in the Red Band scored 117 on her audition, and I got 115.2"

Naivar, who is the son of William J. Plott and Nancy K. Wilstach of Wilton, is first chair clarinet in the Marching Troubadours and the Montevallo High School Symphonic Band directed by Jim Weese.

Can you plan money?

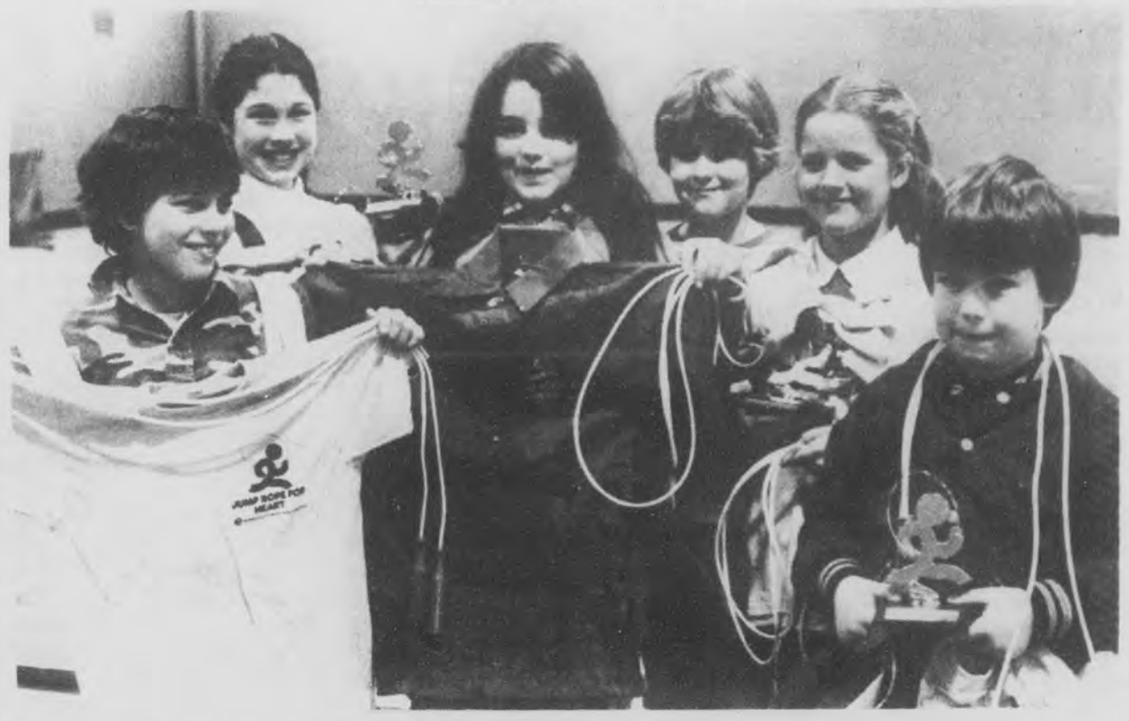
The Shelby County Extension Service is offering in-depth training on money management. According to Gail Reagan, associate county agent, families are needing more skills in money management to be more self-sufficient.

The series of four lessons will focus on techniques of counseling, goals, record-keeping, budgeting, taxes, credit, savings, insurance, family transitions and dealing with people.

After finishing the lessons, participants will be asked to assist the extension home economists by sharing their money management knowledge with others. This in-depth training is available free.

Classes will be held on Mondays, March 5, 12, 19 & 26 at the extension auditorium in the Shelby County Courthouse from 6:30-9 p.m.

For more information: Gail Reagan, 669-6763.



Montevallo jumpers

Montevallo Elementary School students jumped rope to the tune of $1,165 in the Jump Rope for Heart event. Leading money raisers were: Rachel McKinney, Braum Fuller, Pam Smitherman, Denise Carter, Lacey Thomas, and Morgan Lawley. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Jumpers land $9200 for hearts

Every time the rope slapped the floor in schools across the county, it added to the funds students were raising for the American Heart Association.

Five county schools held the Jump Rope for Heart event which brought in a total of $9,208.45.

The money will be used in research to find a cure for heart disease.

Students at Thompson Middle School had an added incentive in their money raising effort this year. Eric Boyd -- who received a heart transplant two years ago at UAB -- is an eighth grade student there. (See related story)

Eric was honorary co-chairman of the area campaign along with former Alabama football star, Major Ogilve.

The Jump Rope for Heart program is sponsored by the Alabama Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, and the American Heart Association.

Its purpose is to educate the public about heart disease and the role physical activity plays in prevention.

Riverchase Middle School was the leading money raiser in the jump rope event. Students turned in $2,871.72.

Other schools which participated and their totals are: Valley, $2,438.58; TMS, $2,077.05; Montevallo Elementary, $1,165.30; Chelsea, $655.30.

Arts council seeks program input

The Shelby County Arts and Humanities Council will meet Monday in Riverchase to discuss plans for next year.

The main thrust of the council's work next year will be bringing arts to the schools in 1984-85, said president Rachael Fowler.

Anyone with suggestions for projects and programs is urged to attend the meeting.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m., Monday, February 20, at the home of J. Richard Walker, 1919 Mt Laurel Lane. For more information: 988-9234, or 669-6887.

Major colleges go for Bivins, Dobson

Auburn University

At 5' 7" and 158 pounds, Luvell Bivins -- Thompson High School's outstanding senior tailback for 1983 -- has been described as being no bigger than a 'small stack of footballs.'

But with 4.5 speed in the 40-yard dash, 2,117 rushing yards, and 132 points in his last year as a Warrior... it's little wonder that Bivins has become the fourth Thompson player in two years to sign a football scholarship with Auburn University.

Bivins made it official Wednesday afternoon. Auburn recruiter Bobby Wallace looked on as 'the little big man' put his name on the dotted line.

Thompson coach Doug Wheeler, Thompson principal Allen Fulton, Bivins parents, and county school superintendent Ellie Glasscox led the cheers.

Bivins now joins former Thompson greats Arthur Johnson, Demetrius Threatt and Greg Snell as part of a growing Thompson contingency at the 'Loveliest Village on the Plains.'

"We feel great... so proud," said Bivins' mother Hattie. "I know he is going to a terrific school."

"It's the best thing that ever happened," added proud papa Andrew.

While coaches and former Thompson players may have been an inspiration for Bivins, this Warrior earned his scholarship on his own.

At age 18, Bivins rushed for 1,374 yards on 142 attempts for an average of 9.3 yards per carry. That was good enough to lead the Warriors to an outstanding 10-1 record during a season in which many folks expected the Warriors to be down.

In addition, Bivins returned 19 kick offs for 521 yards -- 27.4 yards per trip. Too, he returned 13 punts for 222 yards, or 17 yards per trip.

But what does Bivins think of the Auburn scholarship? His only other scholarship offers came from North Alabama and Jacksonville State.

"I feel great. It's an honor for me," he said with a big smile.

Was the scholarship from Auburn expected?

"You know with my small size and all, I really didn't think about major college. I thought about small schools or no school at all."

Then what inspired him to his 1983 performance?

"...I had people ahead of me that encouraged me to show my ability. Arthur and Demetrius were a big influence on me,"

What does he think about joining those other Warriors in Auburn?

"It's going to be a lot of fun but a whole lot of hard work for someone my size. They'll say, 'He won't be that much,'" Bivins admitted.

"But Auburn wouldn't have given me a scholarship if they didn't think I could do it, so I'm going to give it my all," he said.

What does coach Wheeler think about the youngster he is losing to major college football?

"I have said it before... he is probably one of the best all around players I have ever coached. It shows up in his books -- and his athletics."

Southern Miss

Dobson commits

Montevallo High School's Rick Dobson signs a football scholarship for Southern Mississippi as his proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Dobson and Montevallo Bulldog coach Richard Gilliam give support. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Rick Dobson of the Montevallo High School Bulldogs has become the first football player from that school in 22 years to sign with a major college.

Last Wednesday afternoon, the 225-pound, 6'6" senior defensive tackle officially signed a scholarship with Southern Mississippi.

The last major college signee from Montevallo was Jerry Smitherman who went to play ball for the University of Alabama in 1962.

Dobson only played football for Montevallo during his junior and senior years. But last season, his presence was a key factor to the Bulldogs 10-2 over-all record and quarter-final trip to the state playoffs.

A man who can run the 40-yard dash in 4.9 seconds, Dobson made 97 individual tackles in 1983, had 76 assists and threw opponents for losses 21 times.

To be sure this youngster did not get away, he was recruited by Dyer Carlisle of Southern Miss, but was actually signed by the school's defensive coordinator Thamus Coleman.

He will go to Mississippi as a defensive lineman.

What does Dobson think about his scholarship and what influenced him to sign?

"I got a couple of offers from some small schools but I just wanted to play ball in major college," Dobson said.

"I was really impressed with their campus and the staff of the college. When I went for my official visit, we didn't go to see just about pure football," he said. "Academic advisors met with me and I met the dean of business."

"It's also kind of close to home... only four and a half hours away," he added.

What does he think about his chances at Southern Miss?

"They recruited me as a defensive lineman but (even at 6'6" 225 pounds) I'm a little small. More than likely, I'll be red shirted my first year. That's when you eat, sleep and build up to play.

"It's according to how things work out in August."

Excited about it all?

"Very much so.. It's a highlight of my life!" Dobson said with pride.

While the big man from Montevallo signed his name to the dotted line, his coach, Richard Gilliam, his parents, William G. and Christine Dobson,. and fellow football player Taylor Blackwell were all at his side.

What does Mom think of her son's going to Southern Miss?

"We just loved it there. The campus is really nice and the people were warm and cordial."

What about the scholarship? How do his parents feel about that?

"I don't think we've come down yet," Mrs. Dobson said with emotion.

And Gilliam? What does he think about Dobson's future at Southern Miss?

"I feel like because he only played two years of football, he's green. But his potential is fantastic. If he will dedicate himself, there is no limit to what he can become. That's what they are looking at."

Calera wins in close one

The Calera Eagles upped their season basketball record to 8-9 last Thursday night with a 59-57 squeaker over Thorsby.

The game, played before a tiny crowd on the Eagles' home court, was not a pretty one.

Almost as if Calera played two different games in one, the contest changed from a certain rout in the first period, to near disaster.

Thorsby hit the game's opening basket but the Eagles roared ahead to take what seemed an easy 17-6 first period lead.

Most of that 11-point margin came on two long strings of unanswered buckets. One of those strings accounted for as much as eight points.

But a rout was not to be. Thorsby fought back in the second period with some stunning, unanswered points of its own. With one second in the half, the game was tied at 27-all.

Then -- much to Calera coach Mark Lovett's chagrin -- the floundering Eagles committed a foul that gave Thorsby a shocking, 29-27 halftime edge.

The visitors took advantage of the weakening Eagles from there to lead by eight points through the third period.

Fourtunately for Calera, foul trouble struck Thorsby in the final stanza. Thorsby's blunders allowed the Eagles to cut the lead to two points. And, with under five minutes left to play, Calera's Greg Haynes hit a clutch bucket to tie things at 50-all.

With just over three minutes left to play, the Eagles suddenly shifted their game strategy. An aggressive half court press and hot inside shooting pushed Calera to a 55-50 lead.

Thorsby refused to say die, however, and chopped the lead to 55-53 with about two minutes left in the game. With only nine seconds to go, Calera was holding to a shaky 59-56 lead when a foul helped Thorsby cut the margin by one more point.

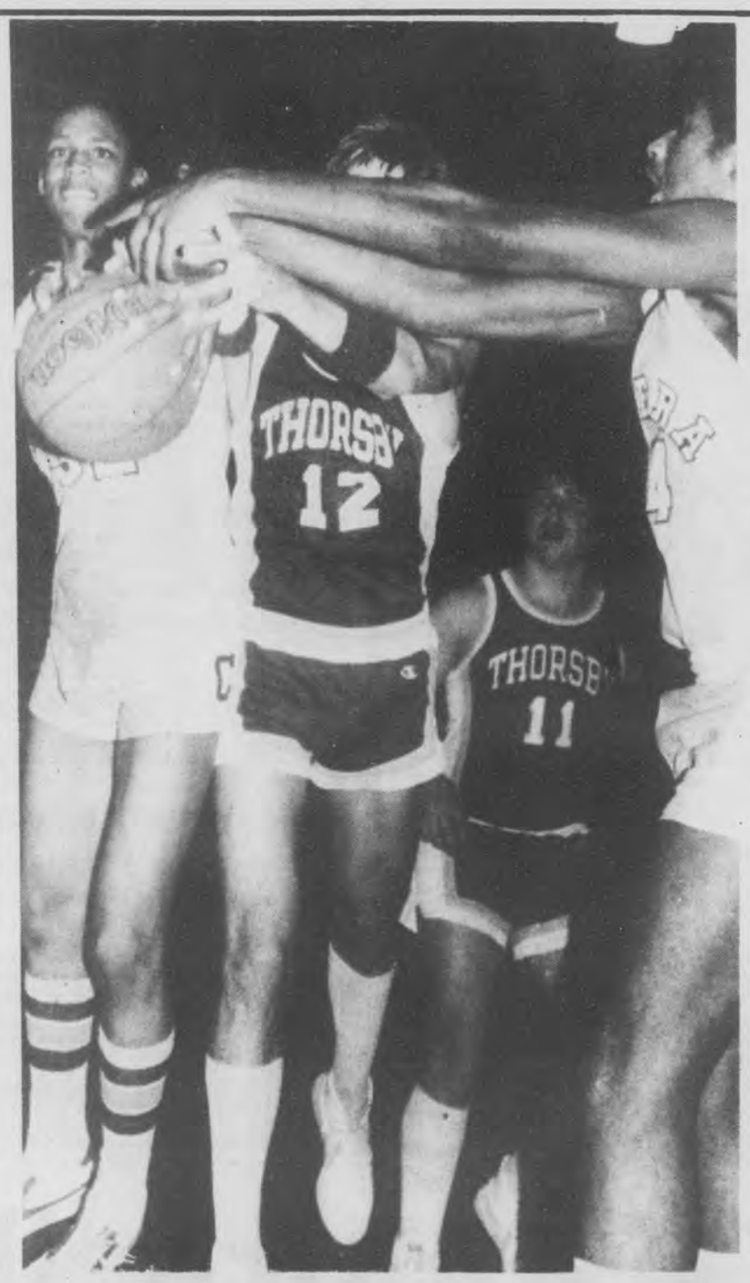
But time was on the side of the Eagles and Calera held on from there to notch the win.

"We had to play man-to-man, bring the ball inside to make a play and had to half-court press," Haynes explained his team's late strategy change for the victory.

Coach Lovett agreed.

"We had to play a good man-to-man and force a lot of turnovers. We didn't start to play well until the fourth period," Lovett said.

Haynes was not only good at explaining his team's fourth period success, but his 21 points were a leading reason for the win.



Mine!

Two Calera Eagles' basketball players find themselves in the thick of a fight for ball control against a tough bunch of visitors from Thorsby.

ISS goes 1-16

"Throwing the ball away and passing around... not working quick enough and missing open shots..."

Those were the major causes of the loss last Friday that plummeted Indian Springs High School down one more notch in a painful 1-16 basketball season.

The assessment of the situation was made by dejected ISS player Chris Thompson. It came just moments before Indian Springs lost its best chance of taking a second win this season -- a chance that developed into a nightmare 81-56 defeat at the hands of the Briarwood Christian Lions.

If you're wondering why previously 1-15 ISS even thought it could stay on the same court with 8-10 Briarwood... don't be too hard on them.

Indian Springs went into the 1983-84 season with few expectations. Two of their six senior players had never played a game of basketball before.

In addition, two of their starters had been sidelined as the result of disasterous injuries. Pat Parks broke his arm and Stewart Hall broke his foot.

But by last Friday night, both of those athletes were back and ready for action, and Indian Springs players were inspired to think there might be some light at the end of the losing tunnel.

Adding to the inspiration was the fact that ISS had played much better basketball in its last three games -- losing by margins of four and eight points to squads who beat them by as many as 40 points earlier in the season.

"If we play well, we can win," an excited Greg van Horn told the Reporter prior to the Briarwood tip-off.

Too, ISS started out pretty much in contention for a win. Van Horn's players fought Briarwood's Lions to a respectable 15-21 first period.

Down by only five points, Indian Springs continued the fight into the second period cutting their deficit to three points 21-24 in the second period of play before the Lions regrouped to take a strong 33-21 half-time lead.

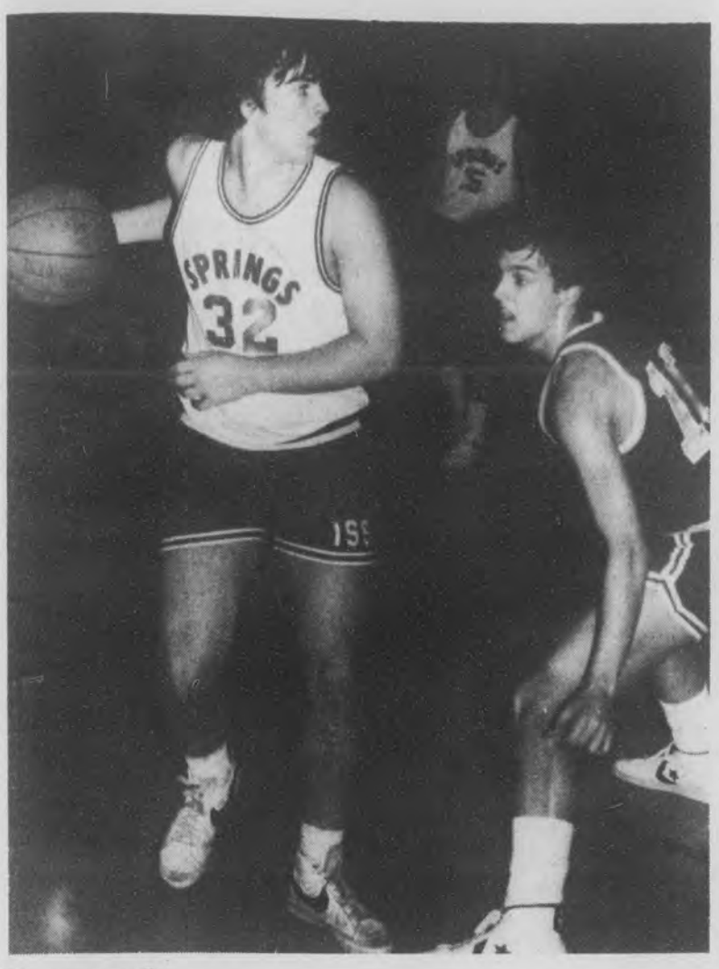
All hope faded in the third period of play as the Lions broke on top 53-29. Contributing to the sudden breakdown of the ISS squad were the two matters Chris Thompson pointed out -- his team threw the ball away on too many occasions, and it missed the wide open shots.

The Lions poured it on in the final period. They hit buckets from both the free-throw line and from the floor to blast ISS off the court 81-56.

A major cog in the Lions wipeout win was Bobby Welch, who hit for 23 points and who sank five of ten free-throws.

Keeping ISS at least in the contest for two periods of play were Evan Goldberg and Pat Parks, hitting for 14 points each.

The Briarwood win puts the Lions at 9-10 on the year.



Trapped

Alone and looking for help, Indian Springs' David Hunt (32) finds himself cornered by Briarwood's Victor Nichols (10). Situations like this were not uncommon in the Lions' rout of ISS last Friday night. (photo by Fred Guarino)

UM signs Scoggins

Wilton's Janeice Scoggins considered taking her volleyball skills to Birmingham, but she decideed that a small-town was more her style.

Scoggins, a 17-year-old senior at Thompson High School, has signed with coach Beverly Warren to play for the University of Montevallo next year. She was recruited heavily by the UAB Lady Blazers.

"Whenever I can, I always go to the games at both UAB and Montevallo," Scoggins said. "Then when UAB was recruiting me, I went up there and visited the apartments where the players lived and talked to the players, kind of getting an idea of how well they get along together. It was really nice, and they called me and everything."

Of course, volleyball players are rarely wooed with the fervor that high school football stars are. But that's all right with Scoggins because this was her first major decision, and she had to make it alone.

"My parents were pleased when I finally chose Montevallo, but they wouldn't say a word while I was making up my mind. They just considered it my decision, and they wanted me to make it by myself. Of course, now they are happy they'll have their baby girl home for another four years," she said.

Scoggins would have been quite a coup for any volleyball coach. She played for the Lady Warriors' 1982 and 1983 3A state champion volleyball teams, serving as captain this year. She also was named captain for the All-County and All-Area volleyball teams.

The 5-foot-6, 120-pound setter-hitter started her high school sports career at Jemison High School before moving to Thompson as a sophomore. She was already headed in the direction of UM, but she didn't know it. Jemison coach and physical education teacher Debbie Spann is one of the most active alumnae of the UM program and a determined booster of the Lady Falcons' sports program.

But, still, wasn't it hard to resist the glamour of an NCAA Division I school?

Not for Scoggins.

"When I went up there and saw the apartments and all...well, they were nice, nice places to live and all, but they were so far away from everything. You had to walk a long way to the classroom buildings, and everything was spread out. It's like city life, not like a small campus. You can't walk around without wondering if someone will attack you or something." Coach Warren was a critical factor in the decision, too, Scoggins said. She had attended Warren's summer volleyball camps at UM, and she had a lot of contact on an informal basis with UM players. And Thompson Coach Lynn Rushing is a UM alumna.

"I've always been around Montevallo all my life. I know all the people and enjoy being around them. I know the campus, and I know what kind of athletic program Ms. Warren has. Besides, I can live at home this year, and my folks and I get along real great."

Scoggins also played basketball at Thompson, and was named All-County, and All-State in 1981-82. In the 1982-83 season she played Amateur Athletic Union-USA Junior Olympics basketball.

Scoggins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs William Smith of Wilton.

Style

Wilton's Janeice Scoggins shows the style that made her a top notch candidate for scholarships to play volleyball.

Shelby Academy Raiders make fourth straight playoff trip

The Shelby Academy Raiders have exceeded all expectations for the 1983-84 basketball season.

With a record of 19-6, the Raiders have won their fourth straight berth in the state private school championship tournament and their first outright District 7 championship.

All of this has come as the result of an impressive 56-46 win over district tournament second seed Coosa Valley Academy and a 54-52 gut-check win over number one seed Bessemer Faith.

The annual District 7 Tournament was played at Berney Points this past weekend.

Shelby Academy Raiders' coach Dewayne Kervin told the Reporter that he only thought his squad could hope for six wins this season with a maximum of ten.

"I've had some good teams in the past," the estatic coach said, "but I've never had one quite like this."

Against arch rival CVA, the Raiders were paced by Dennis Attaway with 15 points and Jim Lee with ten rebounds.

Against Bessemer Faith, the Raiders were led again by Atwho became the district tournament MVP, with 18 points.

Adding to the tournament win and Attaway's MVP award, the Raiders also boasted the selection of Vince Pickett to the second team all district tournament team.

* * * *

Coosa Valley Academy now sports a 17-5 record and will be the third District 7 team to make the state playoffs as a wild card entrant.

The Rebels will go into action Bessemer Faith as a reward for their outstanding season record.

But what happened to CVA which had been a private school power this season and which was not exepected to lose to Shelby Academy?

"It's just one of those things," said CVA coach Bruce Breland of this team's sad tournament performance. "It just picked a bad time to happen."

"Against the Raiders, "We got a little rattled and tried to force it. Then it was all over." he said.

Breland added that his team only hit 15 percent from the floor for the tournament.

* * * *

Chelsea is now 5-16 on the year following a 48-33 win over Moody. The Hornets were paced by Steve Shelton with 18 points and by Jason Wiggins and Keith Welch with eight rebounds each.

* * * *

Montevallo is 10-9 on the season after a 68-45 win over Chelsea.

The top Bulldog in that game was Terry Rutledge, who hit 19 points and who pulled down 12 rebounds.

* * * *

See related stories for Calera, Briarwood and Indian Springs updates.

* * * *

Shelby County High has passed the .500 mark on its season with its eleventh win of the year coming against Jemison 50-49.

Now 11-10 on the season, the Wildcats were paced by David Wood with 19 points and Oneal Williams with nine rebounds.

* * * *

Thompson Warriors remain hot with a record of 19-6. Their latest win came against Childersburg in a 70-57 outing.

Chris Thomas led the Warriors with 19 points and 15 rebounds.

* * * *

The Vincent Yellow Jackets also continue to play exciting basketball and now sport a record of 16-6.

The Yellow Jackets recently defeated Moody 85-30. Bennie Joe Keller was the pace leading 'Jacket with 18 points and 15 rebounds.

* * * *

The Pelham Panthers are still very much alive and well with a record of 18-6 and a recent win over Briarwood 62-45.

Pacing the Panthers was Eddie Reeves with 16 points and Brian Hughes with 12 rebounds.

THS Band boosters to hold meet

The Thompson Band Boosters will hold their February meeting next Monday in the school band room.

All parents of Thomspon band students are urged to attend the 7 p.m. meeting.

Triple J sees 20th

It has served as host to governors, senators, presidential candidates and aspirants for lesser offices.

It has been unofficial "Troopers' Headquarters."

It is a regular meeting place for a variety of civic organizations.

On Sunday it celebrates its 20th anniversary.

It is the Triple J Restaurant in Alabaster.

Bob Powers, a Pelham businessman, built and equipped the original building.

In December of 1963, Powers asked his friend Joe Joseph for advice on how to run a restaurant. Joseph was a successful restaurateur, operating the Pig Trail Inn in Homewood. When he heard Joseph describe the problems one can have, Powers decided to forget operating the restaurant and offered to sell the building to Joseph. A few weeks later, on February 19, 1964, Joseph and his wife Yvonne opened for business as the Triple J Ranch House.

The venture was successful from the day it opened. The Triple J soon became a popular rendezvous for politicians, law enforcement personnel and civic leaders. Families from throughout central Alabama found it a good place to dine.

Six years ago Joe and Yvonne Joseph sold the restaurant to their son Dennis Joseph and to Yvonne's brother George Dennis.

Over the years the restaurant has experienced two major expansions and has seen numerous items added to the menu.

"We know this is a presidential election year," commented George Dennis. Senator Walter Mondale's son Ted, was here a few days ago."

Montevallo boosters hold fund raiser

Each couple paid $50 to attend the Montevallo Band Booster's affair last Saturday, and everyone seemed to feel they got their money's worth.

The evening began with a champagne reception at King House and moved to the University dining room for an elaborate buffet dinner.

Joan and Norman McMillan, co-presidents of the band boosters, spearheaded a drive for door prizes. They came up with prizes for everyone.

But the big prize of the evening was $500 in cash, and the lucky winners were Bennie and Bill Fancher.

Dr. Mike Mahan served as master of ceremonies.

Others who were on the committee for the occasion were Jean and Elmer Klemenc and Barbara and Sid Vance.

Proceeds will go toward the purchase of new drums for the high school's Marching Troubadours Band.

MRS. STEVEN DONALDSON

Miss Dietz becomes bride

Miss Elizabeth Carol Dietz and Mr. Steven Frank Donaldson (formerly of Helena) were united in marriage in a 4 o'clock evening ceremony on February 11 at Dawson Memorial Baptist Church. Dr. Edgar M. Arendall and Rev. Neil Glausier officiated. A reception followed in the church fellowship hall.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Carl F. Dietz of Birmingham, and Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Donaldson of Birmingham.

The groom's grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Mullins of Helena and the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Donaldson.

Grandparents of the bride are Mrs. Robert S. Blair, and the late Mr. Blair, and the late Mr and Mrs. Robert O. Dietz, all of Wylam.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight silk with a chapel length train and a fitted bodice trimmed with alencon lace. The sleeves featured lace motifs and sheer puffs from the elbow with fitted cuffs.

The bride's honor attendants were Cindy Fayet, sister of the bride, and Brenda Oakley, both of Birmingham. Other attendants were Susan Donaldson, Sharon Donaldson, Melissa Dietz, Patti Overall, Marilyn Henry and Durinda Bray, all of Birmingham. Megan Sims, also of Birmingham was the flower girl.

Vicki Portis was the soloist and was accompanied by Diane Norton on the organ.

The groom's father served as best man. Other groomsmen were Danny Barry, Claude Harrison, Jim Henry, Dale Wilson, and David Donaldson, all of Birmingham, Mike Forehand of Little Rock, Ark., Si Brantley of Atlanta, and Alan Herbst of Debary, Fla.

After a wedding trip to Jackson, Wyoming, the couple will reside in Homewood.

BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Third Special Session of 1983 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama on a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, set out here as Act No. 83-791, and further ordered in Act No. 83-791 that said election on said amendment to be held at the first statewide primary, general or special election after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournament of the Third Special Session of the Legislature in 1983; and

WHEREAS, the date of the first statewide primary, general or special election held after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Third Special Session of the Legislature in 1983 will be and occur on March 13, 1984; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with this proposed amendment, is required by law and by the provisions of tne Act submitting the amendment to be given by a Proclamation of the Governor, to be published in every county in the State of Alabama for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election, in a newspaper published in each such county;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 13th day of March, 1984, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

Proposed Amendment

"(A) As used in this Amendment, the following terms shall be given the following respective meanings:

"Costs of County Facilities" means the costs of acquiring, providing, constructing and equipping new County Facilities, renovating, reconstructing, improving, enlarging or equipping any existing County Facilities or any combination thereof.

"County" means Randolph County, Alabama.

"County Facilities" means (a) any land, building, equipment and any other facility or facilities necessary or useful in the housing, confinement, detention, feeding, treatment, rehabilitation or training of persons held in lawful custody; and (b) any land, building, equipment or other facility useful as a county courthouse building.

"County Facilities Building Fund" means the County Facilities Building Fund to be established by the County pursuant to the provisions hereof for the purpose of receiving certain tax receipts required by the provisions hereof to be paid therein.

"Existing Ad Valorem Tax" means the two and one-half mill road, bridge and public building ad valorem tax authorized to be levied by the County pursuant to Section 215 of the Constitution.

"Related Securities" means any bonds or warrants, including refunding bonds or warrants, issued for purposes for which Securities may be issued hereunder after the effective date of this Amendment under the provisions of any other amendment to the Constitution or statute, provdied that the governing body of the County in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds or warrants hes pledged for the payment of such bonds or warrants those moneys required by the provisions hereof to be paid into the County Facilities Building Fund.

"Securities" means any bonds or warrants, including refunding bonds or warrants, issued by the County under the provisions of this Amendment.

"Special Ad Valorem Tax" means the special county hospital ad valorem tax authorized to be levied by the County pursuant to Amendment No. 72 to the Constitution.

"Special Taxes" means the Special Ad Valorem Tax and the Existing Ad Valorem Tax.

(B) The County is hereby authorized and directed (subject to prior pledges and agreements, if any) to pay, out of taxes collected each year, beginning with taxes collected with respect to the tax year that began October 1, 1982, one-half of the tax receipts derived from the levy of the Special Ad Valorem Tax into the County Facilities Building Fund. The County shall discontinue paying such tax receipts into the County Facilities Building Fund when all of the Securities issued hereunder and any Related Securities issued by the County have been paid in full, or when the County shall have expended the sum of $1,500,000 out of the County Facilities Building Fund to pay Costs of County Facilities, whichever shall last occur.

(C) The County is hereby authorized and directed (subject to prior pledges and agreements, if any) to pay, out of taxes collected each year, beginning with taxes collected with respect to the tax year that began October 1, 1982, four-tenths of the tax receipts derived by the County from the levy of the Existing Ad Valorem Tax into the County Facilities Building Fund. The County shall discontinue paying such tax receipts into the County Facilities Building Fund when all of the Securities issued hereunder and any Related Securities issued by the County have been paid in full, or when the County shall have expended the sum of $1,500,000 out of the County Facilities Building Fund to pay Costs of County Facilities, whichever shall last occur.

(D) The County is hereby authorized and directed to establish the County Facilities Building Fund for the purpose of receiving the moneys required to be paid therein by the provisions hereof and any other tax receipts or other moneys of the County that the County may determine to pay therein. Funds on deposit in the County Facilities Building Fund shall be used to pay Costs of County Facilities up to an amount not exceeding $1,500,000 and to pay principal of and interest and premium, if any, on (1) Securities issued hereunder to finance Costs of County Facilities and (2) Related Securities issued to finance Costs of County Facilities.

(E) The County is hereby authorized to sell and issue from time to time its Securities, not exceeding $1,500,000 in aggregate principal amount, for the purpose of financing Costs of County Facilities and to pledge for payment of the Securities the portions of the Special Taxes required to be paid into the County Facilities Building Fund.

For the purpose of refunding any Securities, including refunding Securities issued under the provisions of this Amendment, whether the refunding shall occur before, at or after the maturity of the Securities refunded and for the purpose of paying all premiums and expenses of the refunding (including, without limitation, attorneys' fees, costs of printing the refunding Securities, fiscal agents' fees, and accountants' fees), the County is hereby authorized to sell and issue from time to time refunding Securities in an aggregate principal amount not exceeding the sum of (a) the outstanding principal amount of the Securities to be refunded, (b) the interest (accrued or to accrue) to the respective maturities of the Securities to be refunded, or if the Securities to be refunded are to be called for redemption, either on the earliest date on which under their terms they may be redeemed or some later date or dates, the interest (accrued or to accrue) on the Securities to be refunded to the date or dates on which they are to be called for redemption, (c) the amount of any redemption premium required, by the terms of the Securities, to be paid as a condition to their redemption prior to their respective maturities, and (d) the amount of any expenses (actual or estimated) of such refunding.

The Securities issued hereunder may but need not be general obligations of the County, but shall be secured by the portions of the Special Taxes pledged for their payment in the proceedings of the County whereunder the Securities are authorized to be issued and required to be paid into the County Facilities Building Fund.

All Securities issued under this Amendment may be in such form and denominations and of such tenor and maturities, may bear interest at such rate or rates, payable at such time or times, not exceeding thirty (30) years from their date, may be sold at public or private sale and may contain such provisions not inconsistent with this Amendment as shall be provided in the proceedings of the governing body of the County whereunder such Securities are authorized to be issued. The power to pay, as required herein, the portions of the Special Ad Valorem Tax and the Existing Ad Valorem Tax into the County Facilities Building Fund and the power to issue the Securities shal be in addition to all other powers which the County may have under this Constitution and the laws of Alabama. The indebtedness evidenced by the Securities issued under this Amendment shall be in addition to all other indebtedness authorized to be incurred by the County and shall not be charged against the limitation on the indebtedness of the County provided for in Section 224 of the Constitution.

(F) The County is hereby authorized to pledge for payment of principal of and interest (and premium, if any) on Related Securities the portions of the Special Taxes required to be paid into the County Facilities Building Fund.

(G) It is the intention hereof that the governing body of the County shall pay one-half of the revenues from the Special Ad Valorem Tax and four-tenths of the revenues from the Existing Ad Valorem Tax (subject only to prior pledges of and agreements pertaining to either thereof) as shall, together with any other moneys paid into the County Facilities Building Fund, be sufficient to provide funds to make available County Facilities for the County, either directly through payment of Costs of County Facilities or through payment of the principal of and interest (and premium, if any) on the Securities authorized to be issued hereunder and on any Related Securities that may be issued by the County for the purpose of paying Costs of COunty Facilities, all to the end that adequate County Facilities will be available in the County. Proceeds of the Special Taxes paid into the County Facilities Building Fund that are not needed within 12 months of the date of such payment to pay principal of and interest on Securities issued hereunder or on Related Securities or to refund Securities shall be used to pay costs of constructing and maintaining the County Facilities herein provided for, or to purchase and retire Securities or Related Securities or to call Securities or Related Securities for redemption prior to the maturity thereof.

(H) The provisions of this Amendment shall be self-executing, and authorization from or any other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of the Securities hereunder or to the use of the proceeds of the Special Taxes as provided herein; provided, however, that the provisions of this Amendment shall not become operative unless approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the County who vote thereon at a referendum election held for such purpose upon the call of the County Commission, and provided further, that if this amendment is approved by the qualified electors of the County who vote thereon upon its submission, such election shall constitute a referendum held for such purpose and no further election need to be called.

(I) It is hereby specifically declared that this Amendment is not being proposed pursuant to the provisions of that certain amendment to the Constitution (known as Amendment No. 425) that was proposed by Act No. 82-330 adopted at the 1982 Regular Session of the Legislature of Alabama, and provisions of the said Amendment 425 are hereby declared to be inapplicable to this Amendment.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election to be held on Tuesday the 13th day of March, 1984, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 13th day of March, 1984, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county, and in a county where no newspaper is published, a copy of the notice shall be posted at each courthouse and in three other places in the county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, this the 10th day of February, 1984.

THANKS

Card of Thanks

An open thank you to my many friends in Shelby County and the surrounding area who petitioned God with prayer on my behalf, along with many many more, memorable gifts during my recent illness. I truly say thanks a million.

L.P. Bradberry

We have many friends whom we may not know, but in time of need they step forward with their light aglow,
So thanks for that shining light,
That makes day of that darkest night.

L.P. Bradberry

In emergency, right information could save a life

by Fred Guarion

A young housewife works in her kitchen preparing supper while her husband goes outside to fix the roof on the tool shed.

She peers out of the kitchen window for a moment to see him working busily. Suddenly, to her horror, she sees him fall to the ground.

She thinks he's injured himself because he isn't moving.

The young housewife fumbles for the telephone, calls an emergency number and hastily asks for emergency help. But in a state of panic, she only thinks to say, "I live at Route 2, Helena." Then hangs up.

What many Shelby Countians apparently don't realize is that such a call, with such unclear directions, could result in tragic results.

While friends, relatives, and the postman might know where a certain route is, the sheriff's department, police department, ambulance service or rescue squad may not.

That could cause a critical delay in getting help on the scene. Rescuers may lose valuable time trying to figure out where the victim is located.

Columbiana's Rescue 88 and the Shelby County Sheriff's Department have recently worked together to solve this kind of problem. They have put together a number of tips to help insure rescue workers can find you when the need arises.

"About 95 percent of the time, people do not give good clear directions... not only for us but for the sheriff's department," said Rescue 88 chief Larry Ray.

He pointed out one case in which a Shelby County resident died. Because of insufficient address information, Ray said, rescue workers never made it to the scene.

Ray doubted that anything could have been done to save the man in the particular case, but he said one never knows when better directions could help save a life.

Not only do emergency service groups need clear directions to a home to be effective, they also need to know what has happened -- something Ray said many people don't bother to tell in times of panic.

"That is a very important part of our planning... letting us know what happened. If its an auto accident, you pretty well know what you need," Ray said.

If it's a medical call, "and you know it is a heart attack, you can plan your strategy...," he explained.

Ray also pointed out that accurate information can serve to protect rescue workers from injury as well.

He pointed out that in the case of a shooting, his group would like to know the situation in advance so that law enforcement back-up can be planned.

To help prepare for an emergency situation, Ray and the Shelby County Sheriff's Depart-

Close encounter

A 'close encounter' of the Twilight Zone type visits upon the University of Montevallo's Fuller Annex parking lot as three strange globes of light appear to hover above parked cars. But there's no need for fear. The objects are actually street lights shining though a dense fog that recently descended upon Shelby County. The photo was shot at f-1.4 for a 15th of second, using a car hood to stablize the camera. (photo by Fred Guarino)

Four county EMT's receive special recognition

Four Shelby County emergency medical technicians were among 28 EMT's to receive awards and a heartfelt word of thanks for their service.

At a recent BREMSS (Birmingham Regional Emergency Medical Services System) banquet, keynote speaker Patricia Seymour expressed thanks for the thousands 'who've needed you."

Seymour, who is senior writer-editor at the University of Alabama, called the EMT's a "unique breed."

Shelby Countians given awards were: Kevin Shanahan, Montevallo Emergency Medical Services; Walter O'Dozier, Helena Fire Department; Tommy Moon, Calera Rescue 90; Jay Wilson, Shelco Fire and EMS Service, Inc.

Computers invade classroom

by Shelba Nivens

Computers have been bringing about big changes in the American life-style for some time. Now, they are bringing about big changes in teaching-style at county elementary schools.

In January all Chapter I teachers in the county received computers to help them teach basic skills to pupils who need extra help.

Chapter I is a federally funded program that emphasizes the basic skills of reading, language and math.

According to Rebecca Nail of the Shelby County Board of Education, Shelby County has previously used its Chapter I funds to concentrate on reading. However, next school year, the schools expect to be working on both math and reading skills.

"We're looking for additional ways to help children," she said, adding that a good set of math programs had already been bought for each teacher.

Presently teachers and students are using these in a computer awareness program to learn what the computer can do.

At Chelsea, Chapter I teacher Earlene Isbell has second and third grade students doing math on the computer. "Students are already benefitting from it," she said.

Sixty-five second and third graders are in the Chapter I program at Chelsea. Each class of eight to 11 students spends 35 to 45 minutes a day in the special classroom. Along with activities designed to help them learn to read, each child has a turn at the computer.

Nail said the computer is a good learning device for several reasons. As a multi-sensory device it helps to sharpen the senses.

Students must push the correct buttons, read the screen, think and analyze. They are able to put their hands on something other than paper and pencil. They do something on the machine and it responds.

The Chapter I program looks at individual needs of students. Each child receives individual help in the classroom and is allowed to progress at his own pace.

Isbell uses the reward method to help motivate her students. "Then they get where they want to learn," she said.

Students must repeat reading lessons until they know them, and when they make 100 percent they get to do hands-on activities which are also learning devices.

Included in the 'fun learning' activities are games, film strip viewers, cassettes with read-along books and toys. Some of her learning activities are commercial materials; others she developed herself.

The Chelsea teacher said she gets a lot of in-put from a parent advisory council.

Nova Dorough, president of the parent council, said her son had reached the point where he did not want to read, but now enjoys sharing books with classmates.

Indian Springs students to direct five one-act plays on campus

Four Indian Springs students in Charles Ellis' play production class, will try their hand at being a director this month.

The students are Randy Redmon, John Roy, Holly Ellis and Jennifer Bain.

Five one-act plays will be staged at the Hut on the ISS campus, Feb. 17, 22, 25, beginning at 8 p.m.

Redmon will direct 'Dirty Linen' and 'New-Found-Land,' Friday. Cast members are: Alan Quinton, Jay Winks, Ginger Patrick, Eric Clary, Mony Tavakoli, Bill Stewart, Marc Morrison, Michael Payne, Bain, Scott Salter.

Roy will direct 'The Bald Soprano,' the following Wednesday with a six member cast composed of: Andrew Edge, Kathy Gould, Greg Ippolito, Laura Schiele, Ellis, Ray Riddell.

'Chinamen,' will also be produced that night with Ellis directing. Student actors will be: Roy and Anna Meade.

On Saturday, Bain will direct Virginia Bledsoe, David Woods, Laura Payne and Redmon in the play, 'Visitor from Forest Hills.'

4-H'ers plan steer show for county

The Shelby County 4-H Steer Show is on tap for Saturday, March 3 at the Lonnie Russell Farm in Montevallo.

The 12 noon event could be good news for anyone interested in purchasing a calf or part of one because, thirty-two animals will be shown this year.

According to county extension agent John Jones, this year's show features seven more calves than the last show and if you are interested in purchasing one you can call Montevallo High agribusiness teacher Tony Berry at 665-2970, or or Vincent agribusiness teacher Wiltha Kelley at 672-2391.

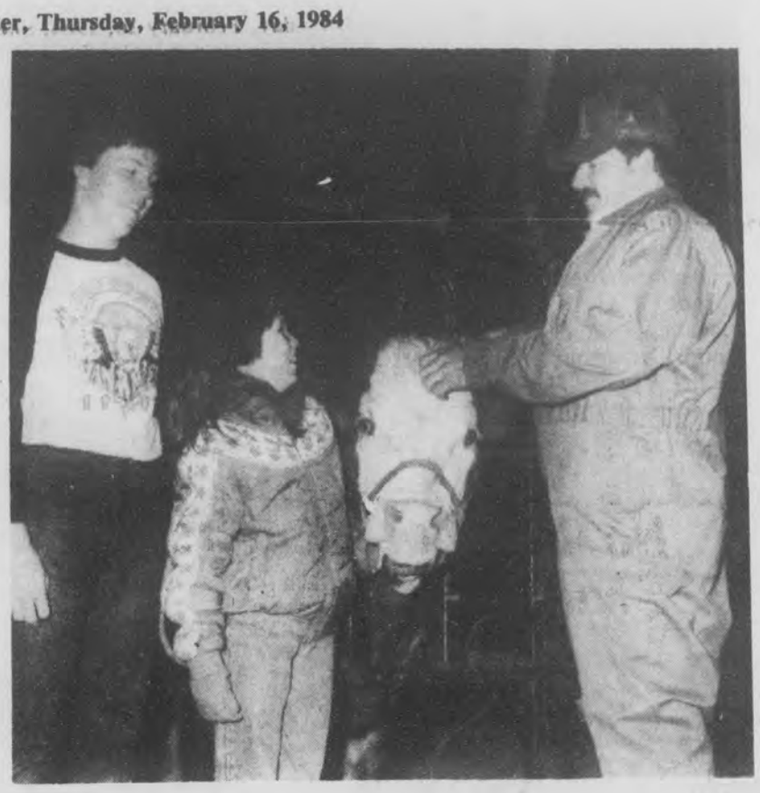
Participants in this year's show include 4-H'ers and FFA members:

Jessica Ann Eisenberg, Scott Salter, Wayne Jones, Lance Byrd, Dawn Tate, Jamie Tate, Doug Jennings, Scott Atchison, Todd Atchison;

Rhonda Coker, Jonathan Bates, Norman Payne, Bob Peete, Bert Peete, Lonnie Layton, Timmy Nash, Robby Johnson, Stann Mahan, Karla Hawks;

Tracy Hughes, Preston Bell, Kevin Staffney, Brian Hogland, Mike Courington and James Cason.

Winners of this event will compete in the district show slated for Birmingham, Wednesday and Thurday, March 7-8.



Grooming tips

Todd Atchison of Chelsea and Rhonda Coker of Pelham get some grooming instructions from Maylene Adult 4-H Leader Roland Starnes during a fitting and showmanship demonstration held at the Triple E Farms in Calkera. The free advice comes at a good time with the Shelby County 4-H Show on tap for Saturday, March 3.

Emergency information

ment recommend that all county residents put the following list of information by their telephones -- before something happens:

•Your name and phone numbers by which you can be reached.

•Directions to your home or business from a starting point, such as an intersection of numbered roads, churches or major buildings, or other well known land-marks. Also list approximate distances which must be traveled on each road from the starting point.

•Highway number you live on or near. If you live off a main road with a number, list the number of the main road.

Also list where to turn off the main road and what to took for at the turn off point. List how far off the main road you live or work, and on which side of the road, right, left, north, south, east or west.

•List what your home, mobile home or business looks like, such as color, type of construction, and what type of vehicle might be parked in the yard.

•Describe something to look for just before getting to your home or business so rescuers will know when they are getting close.

•Tell what the situation is.

In addition to this, Shelby County Deputy Tom Barnes also suggests that houses or businesses be identified at the time of an emergency with something like a bright shiny can on a stick.
